AIN'T IT A GRAND AND GLORIOUS PEELING?
Two black sheep trying to turn white

"Square Crooks"

CAN a bad man live down his past—or does the underworld inevitably "get" its own when a crook tries to turn straight?

"SQUARE CROOKS" plays the spotlight on the seamy side of crookdom from an entirely new angle—and shows you a few episodes in the private life of a reformed gangster who is trying to "come back" that will make your skin creep!

Thrills, mystery, humor, romance and tragedy move side by side from start to finish of this super-study of the shady side of human nature! There are enough situations in it to make a dozen good stories! And a master story teller makes every one of them count in a feat of skilled directing that will stand as a model for a long time to come!

Watch for the announcement of "SQUARE CROOKS" at your favorite playhouse. You'll be missing one of the year's best pictures if you fail to see it!

ANOTHER GREAT FOX PRODUCTION
"Unaccustomed as I am-

John Harkness was a man in a daze. Failure... when a good impression before these men meant so much. Over the coffee next morning, his wife noticed his gloomy, preoccupied air.

"What's the trouble, dear?"

"Oh... nothing. I just fumbled my big chance last night, that's all!"

"John! You don't mean that your big idea didn't go over!"

"I don't think so. But, Great Scott, I didn't know they were going to let me do the explaining. I outlined it to Bell—he's the public speaker of our company! I thought he was going to do the talking!"

"But, dear, that was so foolish. It was your idea—why let Bell take all the credit? They'll never recognize your ability if you sit back all the time. You really ought to learn how to speak in public!"

"Well, I'm too old to go to school now. And, besides, I haven't got the time!"

"Say, I've got the answer to that. Where's that magazine? . . . Here—read this. Here's an internationally known institute that offers a home study course in effective speaking. They offer a free book entitled How to Work Wonders With Words, which tells how any man can develop his natural speaking ability. Why not send for it?"

He did. And a few minutes' reading of this amazing book changed the entire course of John Harkness' business career. It showed him how a simple and easy method, in 20 minutes a day, would train him to dominate one man or thousands—convince one man or many—how to talk at business meetings, lodges, banquets and social affairs. It banished all the mystery and magic of effective speaking and revealed the natural laws of conversation that distinguish the powerful speaker from the man who never knows what to say.

Four weeks sped by quickly. His associates were mystified by the change in his attitude. He began for the first time to voice his opinions at business conferences. Fortunately, the opportunity to resubmit his plan occurred a few weeks later. But this time he was ready. "Go ahead with the plan," said the president, when Harkness had finished his talk. "I got your idea much more clearly now. And I'm creating a new place for you—there's room at the top in our organization for men who know how to talk!"

And his newly developed talent has created other advantages for him. He is a sought after speaker for civic, banquet and lodge affairs. Social leaders compete for his attendance at dinners because he is such an interesting talker. And he lays all the credit for his success to his wife's suggestion—and to the facts contained in this free book—How to Work Wonders With Words.

For fifteen years the North American Institute has been proving to men that ability to express one's self is the result of training, rather than a natural gift of a chosen few. Any man with a grammar school education can absorb and apply quickly the natural laws of conversation. With these laws in mind, the faults of timidity, self-consciousness, stage-fright and lack of poise disappear; repressed ideas and thoughts come forth in words of fire.

I Must Reach the Goal

I LONG to be perfect.

I crave to reach a state of immaculately unblemished super-excellence, transcending in its superb matchlessness, the consummate impeccability of the reformer.

With all my strength, I am bending my efforts in that direction.

At the cost of much mental anguish, I have forsworn tobacco.

I have severed diplomatic relations with my knight of the bottle—a prince of bootleggers, if there ever was one.

A desire to be out with the boys is far apart from my mind, as is the thought of evading my income tax.

 Violence of speech or gesture I have subdued by a rigorous repression.

I am cultivating a kindness of manner, a gentleness of spirit, that is the wonder of my friends.

I have progressed so far in the subjugation of the baser man within me as to blush confusedly at the sight of a dimpled knee.

I seek this seraphic faultlessness of being for but one reason.

I am anxious to know, when I have become an undefiled paragon of virtue, just what in thunder my wife will find to razz me about.

A Gentlemen of the Old School

A school of courtesy will be opened for New York City prohibition agents. Those entrusted with the enforcement of the Volstead Law will be taught to be courteous and polite at all times to the public.

—News Item

A GRADUATE of the courtesy school walks briskly to the front door of a home from which a heavy odor of sour-mash, home-brew and synthetic gin has been emanating for some months past, much to the annoyance of the proprietor of a glue factory not far distant. The agent gives a genteel rap at the door, which, after a ten-minute interlude of heavy rumbling and creaking of machinery inside, is opened.

AGENT: Good afternoon. It's a lovely day, isn't it?

MAN: What do you want?

AGENT: You will understand, of course, that this embarrasses me as much as it does you, but the truth of the matter is that there has been a variety of complaints coming to headquarters about you for quite some time past. It has been bruited about—and, mind you, I know how often people are falsely accused—that you may, perhaps, have been manufacturing some unlawful beverages on the premises. And so I thought, just to enable us to refute these insinuations, that perhaps it would not incur your disapproval if I were to suggest that it might be well if I were to take a little look through your home, so that I could ascertain for myself just what basis there is for this gossip.

MAN: You can't come in now. The baby's asleep.

AGENT: Oh, I'm sorry, but it's nice the little kiddie is asleep. They do have a little trouble sometimes, don't they? And when do you think he'll be awake, so that I can come back?

MAN: The doctor says its sleeping sickness. I guess you'd better come back about next December.

AGENT: Oh, I'm sorry. Well, good day, then. It's a lovely afternoon, isn't it?

—Roy H. Fricken

Most of the landed gentry in this country have been landed by movie actresses.
Karroll Karroll’s Kiddie Korner

KOUSIN KARROLL wants you to feel that you are quite at liberty at all times to come to him with your little troubles. You will generally find him standing on the corner, just in front of the drug store. This is the place he has designated as The Kiddies’ Korner. Don’t be afraid. Just come right up to him and say, “This is your little Kousin Ruth, age 18, and very lonesome. Are you doing anything tonight?” Kousin Karroll will be glad to do what he can for you. You will recognize him because he will be wearing a pleasant smile.

Now to start a Knight Klub. Any girl who has a couple of knights to spare can do this in her spare time and have a lot of fun. Hundreds of girls are having fun out of knight clubs—and making money, too. (The money can be used to buy teddy-bears, for the zoo of course, knight dresses or can be sent direct to the Kiddie Klub, where it will promptly be put to good use in finding out if that Bacardi Kousin Karroll heard about at $1.50 a bottle is really any good.)

To start a Knight Klub all a girl has to do is know a man with $50,000 and a carefree attitude. Then, if she raids an old tool chest (it is always best to start with a raid) and fills it full of tables and chairs, potted palms and a dance floor, she is all ready to start except for the orchestra and calling up that guy, whose name Kousin Karroll will gladly supply, who has it for $1.50 a quart. About the orchestra, just get a number of dummies who play the saxophone. As no one but a dummy would ever learn to play a saxophone, this should be easy. Place a radio behind the dummies and tune in on Ben Bernie. If any static comes through, it may either be Ben speaking or else be explained to the guests as part of the fun and carnival spirit.

Now Kousin Karroll must turn to his mail, for here are hundreds of lovely letters from lots of Kousins all over the Kountry. Kousin Josephine MacDougell writes from Ontario, Canada to ask me when I’m coming for a long, long visit. Just as soon as ever I can, Joe; and I can see make a sentence with the word Ontario, which you bet I couldn’t do. “In dividing 2 into 3 I always put down one Ontariover the balance.” Luckily this doesn’t happen often.

DEAR GUSSIE:

In reply to your sweet letter of our last date, I can only say that if you expect an answer to those questions you’ll have to enclose a stamped, self-addressed, asbestos envelope. What would people think of Kousin Karroll (and you, for that matter) if they knew the truth? However, in answer to your question, “What should a nice girl wear when asked on an airplane ride?” I will say, because I think all girls should know this, that she had better wear her best jumper.

Kousin Karroll is sorry to announce that he cannot publish the letter written by Little Tootsie Bliss (age 2½ in her stocking feet), of Des Moines, Iowa, which won the prize for this month, due to the fact that the government would not allow us to mail the magazine if we did. However, Little Tootsie, what you say is true and from your letter it is evident that you have a great past ahead of you. You will find a check for the prize ($0.00317) in the pocket of Mortimer Gonzales, the street cleaner in front of the Post Office. Tell Mr. Gonzales Kousin Karroll sent you and he will understand.

Now, Kiddies, be good for a while and Kousin Karroll will tell you next month all about how to throw an obstreperous party—fun and exercise for all.

Circumstances Alter Cases

A BEAUTIFUL young damsel worked in a cleaning establishment. Came a gay blade, pretty sharp, and made some pointed remarks. But she refused the villain's suit—a brave thing to do in a cleaning shop.

That night the villain gained entrance to her room. Observing she was still a good-looking kid while taking a nap, he kidnapped her. Came dawn as he bore her to a shack on the mountain.

The shack belonged to a handsome young fur trapper. He entered right behind them.

"Save me!" cried the girl.
"I am not his wife!" exclaimed the girl. "Save me!"

Another look at her pure beauty and the trapper felt thrifty. "I'll save you," he declared.

The villain slunk away.

"Please take me home now," said our heroine then.
"It's too cold a trip dressed as you are in pajamas and a blanket," answered our hero. "I must get you some furs first."

The heroine's eyes sparkled.

"Will it take long?" she inquired.
"Only about three months," he replied, "to secure, cure, and sew them together."

The heroine looked admiringly at him. The villain also had offered her furs in that cleaning establishment. But this case was different.

"All right, I'll wait," she said sweetly.

The Trail of '98

A Gold Rush Hour

A BATTERING, blasting Behemoth of a movie mellerdrammer burst loose on the New York screen the other night. Its name is "The Trail of '98." Get out your calendar pad now, you namby pamby galoots and galootesses, and make arrangements to see this M-G-M epic of the Klondike.

You will see the steel sinews of mighty men breaking under the lash of polar cold and gruelling toil; you will see the soul of a beautiful woman tried with firewater and gold dust. Brothers, you will see life in the raw (as distinguished from the present rah-rah variety) among the huts of Dawson City, the capitol of the bonanza district.

Dolores del Rio is the girl. Ralph Forbes is the boy. Their struggle for the perishable powder that is called gold dust runs along amid stupendous settings. And in the end they conquer.

There are shots strung through the film that chill and thrill one's heart: The snow slide which buries countless weary prospectors; the torn and tumbling waters of White Horse Rapids; the back-breaking, bone-grinding Chilkoot pass. If everything else in the film were terrible, these three views of unbridled, berserk nature would be worth the price of admission.

There are things in "The Trail of '98" about which anyone might quibble, but they pale into insignificance beside the vitality of its achievements.

See this one, folks, if you have to sell the heifer.

The Count of Ten

Down and Out

OUR good old Ray of sunshine, Charlie, is on the job again as the chief boob-of-the-month—a dumb benny who's gotten into the scrap game and finds to his dismay that ignorance is blisters!

When his manager, the sprightly James Gleason, returns from a business trip, he finds his charge dressed up like a dude from sleek hair to puppy-blankets (sometimes known as spats).

Cherchez la familiar femme. A marriage ensues and the girl (Jobyna Ralston) and family proceed to spend Charlie's every penny. After his disastrous Big Fight which he enters with a broken mitt to get money for the little wife, he discovers that the mazuma was needed to pay a gambling debt of the girl's brother. But she's exonerated in the end and everything turns out O. K. for the last long smile.

A fight picture which is notable for the fact that despite his winning ways the hero loses his big battle ... Fair enough, if any guy could be as dumb as Charlie's supposed to be.

America's Spad Boy

WAKE up and meet a pair of automobile heaters now being introduced to our palpitating multitudes by Paramount. Fay Wray and Gary Cooper are the hot stuff concerned. You'll get your optics soothed and sweetened when you observe the close up neck work of this team of pash peddlers.

The story that carries them along is of the war. It is supposed to be a companion piece to "Wings," and while the flying is not quite so scorching the lip-lapping is more so. Gary, in love with a girl (Fay Wray) in Paree, finds her in the arms of another man. Desperate youth, love sick and sore, joins the French Flying Corps, anxious to be on the final end of a business-like bullet.

He is assigned to take a spy far into enemy territory and set him down. The spy arrives at the field preparatory to the flight. And who do you guess it is? None other than the great white Wray. Drammer, suspenders, love interest! Hot Dawg!

They fly into Germany and the trouble starts. Fay is left all alone to learn important secrets. Someone evidently told her: Sneak and ye shall find. But she speaks out of turn and is arrested, sentenced to death, tied to a post with the firing squad in front of her. And then? Out of the eastern sky pour allied planes and allied bombs. What ho! The Fay is saved in the nick of time.

Don't miss it! It's a real "love and learn" picture.

Be a Writer and Make Millions

Have you, dear reader, ever tried to write pieces for magazines? You must get busy right now. It's a perfectly marvelous way to make a living. Of course, you don't make much money. But you get lots of mail every day. And it helps you reduce household expenses.

Take my case: Last week the apartment needed repapering. An ordinary job would have cost a lot of money. So I saved money by doing it myself, for I had plenty of material. Now every room is delightfully papered with thousands of little squares of brown paper, about two inches by five inches. It's really a very unique effect. If you look closely at the little square, you will see printed on each one:

"Film Fun thanks you for submitting the enclosed material and regrets that it is not available for use in this publication."

This morning the cat sharpened his claws on the wall and ruined one of the little squares. But repairs will cost nothing. I'll simply send this in and get another little square, for only one round-trip stamp.

—Chet Johnson.

Note to Editor: The part about the cat ruining the wall, of course, is pure fiction, so you can buy this instead of bothering to send back one of those little slips.

Editor's Note: Better guys than you have been shot for less than this.

We Had a Lovely Time

"My dear, you simply must see the souvenirs we brought back with us from the Holy Land. Henry, bring us that bottle of River Jordan water and be sure and shake it up well—the mud settles to the bottom so. Yes, I think it's a beautiful thing to have, although I do think Henry should have put it in another kind of bottle. When I think of what's been in that flask! Henry, you simply must change it. There's a nice vinegar bottle in the basement. And that reminds me. Henry bought a small bottle of the miracle wine at Cana, but when he opened it up it had changed back to water again. Henry was terribly angry but he said he guessed the custom officers would have gotten it, anyway.

"Yes, we did have some nails from the cross but we decided they weren't genuine and one day Henry used them to fix the basement steps. You know, there were so many of those nails offered for sale that I think the Jews must have used the cross as the Germans did that frightful wooden statue of Von Hindenburg. Oh, dear, I had so many things that I can't find now. I picked up a stone on the Mount of Olives, but Henry threw it at the cat one night and I was never able to find it. I picked some olives there, too, but I served them one evening when the minister was here for dinner. Oh, I have one lovely thing—a leaf from the tree Judas hanged himself on. Let's see. I used that for a bookmark somewhere. Henry, go to the bookcase and see if it's in 'Three Weeks.'

"Oh, yes. Here's the jawbone of the donkey Samson used to kill the thousand Philistines. Henry swears up and down it's genuine but I don't know what to think. There's a hole in it that does look something like a drinking fountain. Anyway, it came from the Holy Land and you never can tell.

"Well, at times I believe the trip did Henry a lot of good. If it hadn't been for that stopover in Paris on the way back..."

Unalphabetically Arranged
Glossary of Farm Terms.

STY—A growth on the eye. A “pig” sty is German, meaning a large one. A pig sty on your eye is not only unpleasant but a nuisance as it makes it hard to keep your face clean.

SILO—A murmur. When he kissed her in the barnyard the silo was full of ensilage.

ENSILAGE—Fodder, meaning a greater distance. Fodder is a greater distance from steak than from cornflakes. Example of sentence: Don't you dare go no fodder, mister.

STALL—Put off. A horse's stall is where the rider is put off, hence the popular catch line: The Prince of Wales' horse stalls often.

SICKLE—A pear sometimes despair. Examples (a) They certainly would make a lovely sickle if he wasn't three inches shorter than her. (b) I'm sickle life. A sickle will cut the grass if it is a sickle of little boys. They will also cut their fingers.

BARNYARD—Three feet of mud. Three feet of anything else is just a yard. For example: Three feet of tramps is a freight yard; three feet of hose is a chicken yard and three feet apart when dancing is a waste of time.

HARROW—To frighten. The farmer harrows the ground in the spring and frightens the seeds into growing. The farmer's son frightens them even more because he always makes an awful face when his father tells him to harrow.

HARVEST—A college near Boston. Harvest boys will not play with Princeton boys. Their favorite color is crimson and their best dressed man is too cute for words. It is rumored they are going to have a football team in a year now.

CORN CRIB—A place to pillow the ears. Also a little round pad with a hole in it that when pasted on the toe saves the corn and keeps it from getting angry. Few babies are ever put to sleep in a corn crib with the exception of Cornish babies; hence their name.

HARNESS—The female of harn; which is a kind of very coarse linen; hence a young lady feels very uncomfortable in harness.

SOW—A gluttonous animal, as for example, the man who says, “Here's sow” more than anyone else at the party.

Reap—To gather in; hence, when a young lady reaps her blouse she gathers it in. Reappling water is something else again.

FURROW—The unpaid bills on a fur coat. Sentence example: The farmer's furrows of Spring are many.

PASTURE—The head of the church. Sentence example: When the pasture drops in for tea we open the front parlor.

MILK—Life-giving fluid taken daily from a can.

COW—The animal that lays the cans. Also when a cow is run over by a passing motorist it continues to lay still.

CHAFF—See preceding definitions. Hay Mow—Censored.

Writes a Love Lyric

FOR you my heart goes loop-the-loop,
I love you as I can;
And thoughts of you go in the soup
That means so much to man.

To-mate-oh fairest one to me
Means health and happiness;
Our souls would then united be,
Condensed to blessedness.

No vegetable love for you
Is mine; it can't be hid.
So let us wed as others do
And live on Campbell's, kid.

LUCILLE—Yes, her face is his fortune.

POSED BY TINY EARLES, FAMOUS EIGHTEEN-YEAR OLD CIRCUS MIDGET, AND MARSHALL NEILAN, DIRECTOR OF "THREE RING MARRIAGE," A FIRST NATIONAL PRODUCTION.

TINY—I understand that the fellows at the club don't seem to care for that fellow Park.
MARSHALL—No, somehow he fails to clique.

Doris—Your son says he doesn't want to get married.
MILTON (cynically)—Does he? Just wait until the wrong girl comes along.
Prohibitionists, insists Charles sadly, are trying to halt human nature.

She—Why do the Norwegians always go to the highlands for their drinking bouts?
He—Thar's "Skoal!" in them mountains.

He—I'm always being hauled into jail for drinking applejack. What'll I do about it?
She—Jug not, lest ye be juggled.
RUTH—What’s the difference between a night club and a saloon?

MACK—Well, in the saloon a wistful little girl would pull at your sleeve and whisper: “Oh daddy, oh daddy, come home with me now.” And in the night club a wistful little girl pulls at your sleeve and whispers: “Oh daddy, oh daddy, come home with me now.”

Cover Up!

Hold everything! Here comes a swift one!

This week's mail brings this letter from Francis Bensmiller, of Hollywood:

"I have admired the covers of FILM FUN and often wondered who the artist was doing such splendid work, but the girl in green on the palette is the most beautiful of all. The artist has put a lot of feeling into his work on this particular one, and I know that he must have a beautiful model."

Which reminds us that there's something in the cupboard which we're going to put on the table for you folks pretty soon. It's another contest, a brand-new one that has never been tried before, and it will give the monthly winners the thrill of their lives and enough cool cash for a month's stay at the local Mills Hotel.

That's all we can tell you. But here's a tiny tip. Keep your eyes peeled for FILM FUN's covers.

Poetess Laureate

Remember reading some stuff in FILM FUN not long ago by a girl named Norma E. Kennedy. She's putting 'em across the plate again. This time she sends us a batch of modern Mother Goose Rhymes (brought up to date). Fred Thompson is one of the principal objects of her rhymes. Here is the verse:

"Ride a cock horse to Banbury Cross,
To see a fine actor upon a white horse.
No rings on his fingers, no bells on his toes,
But he's the big noise wherever he goes."

California Woman — My poor man, what brought you to this deplorable state?

New Arrival — The new model Ford, Madame.

Alphabet Zoop!

Louis J. Cassam, of Cleveland, is another poet who crashes through with more verse than you can shake a stick at. Louis runs up and down the alphabet naming his favorites and the pictures they're in.

We're sorry, Louis, that we haven't room to print your contrib.
Movie Fan's Love Lyric

If I were a haughty and brave caballero
And you, señorita, the sweet-a my heart;
We'd ride o'er the pampas in duo to dare oh
Do tricks like Tom Mix and we never would part.

I'd give you a patio y hacienda
And you'd be the lass oh to hold me in check;
We'd have a ranchero and other addenda,
Tamules and peons to answer our beck.

I'd fight and I'd spar oh like Ramon Novarro,
You'd wear Greta Garbo (and look most delish).
Sans worry or sorrow we'd look toward tomorrow
I'd gush and we'd mush and you'd Lillian Gish.

The world as our filbert, I'd love as John Gilbert
Dolores del Rio you'd be oh to me;
We'd dig in the hill dirt, the gold nugget filled dirt,
And romance, a Goldwyn, life ever would be.

With Paramount virtue, why nothing could hurt you,
You'd have what is termed Universal appeal,
And Fox, the expert jew, if someone'd convert you
And me and our dreams and make everything reel.

We are glad to present Harry Carey's characterization of a professional gambler who knows his bettors.

SCENE FROM "THE GALLOPING GOSBS" WITH BUFFALO BILL, JR., A PATHE PICTURE.

Gob—That fellow Kiddings is quite a practical joker.
Other—Aw, I don’t know about that . . . he often pulls his stuff on a guy that’s bigger than him.

DUNNINGER, LEGERDEMAIN EXPERT, AND FELIX, THE CAT.

Dunninger—Did you hear any shady anecdotes at that bridge party the other night? Felix—No, I’m sick of bid-time stories.

This little lady yclept Fay Webb has played with dominos so much that her doctor is now treating her for spots in front of her eyes.

We are glad to present Harry Carey's characterization of a professional gambler who knows his bettors.
Just another picture of Card-Hearted Harry, the first all-night sucker.

Dunninger—Tell me, Felix, why did your wife's bridge club break up?

Felix—All the members were there every time, so there was never anything to talk about.

Dick—This sure is a pyorrhea hand.
Gertrude—What do you mean, honey?
Dick—Four out of five, babe, four out of five.
SCOOTER — Hey, hey, Johnny, who was the pretty woman you took to the show—your sister or your wife?

JOHNNY — Aw, she hasn't decided.

Edna—Do you know, I never went out on a petting party in my life before I met George.

Monte—You certainly love that man, don't you?

Edna—Yes, I've known him since we went to kindergarten together.

Gold-Digger's Daughter—Say, Pa, I've got the baby stare down to perfection and I'm coming along fine with the injured innocence expression. Ask Ma if I can go out and play now.
What's the Shootin’ For?

You must have read about “One-Eyed Connolly,” the famed gate-crasher of fights and other big sporting events. Now he’s boozing at the outer gate of the Fox Studios in Los Angeles. There aren’t any tricks the crashers can play on Connolly; he knows ‘em all. That boy scares ’em off by his looks alone. He’s got a leather awning over his missing optic and believe us, it makes him look pretty durned fearsome.

For thirty years that bozo has been thinking up and executing all manner of gags for free attendance and even now he spends his off time by crashing fight clubs in Los Angeles.

“One-Eyed” is also playing the role of a convict in “Honor Bound,” a Fox Picture, and just who “No’s!” the gate crashers at such times as Connolly is yessing the director, report sayeth not. “One-Eyed” Connolly sticks to his knitting whenever he can, strengthening his rep as a crasher. His motto, you know, is: “Take the credit and let the credit go.”

Johnny Hines’ new picture for First National, “Chinatown Charlie,” has gotten off to a flying start—via a sightseeing bus, where the comedy began. Louise Lorraine has the feminine lead. We are told that the make-up man had some job fixing Johnny up as a velly fine Chinaman, but that he finally did a great job even to the sloping eyes of the typical Oriental.

Well, that shows that the make-up man had the right slant on Johnny.

When a guy or a gal finds a gold mine you can’t blame him or her for wanting to work it. Well, that’s what Anne Nichols is doing with her famous Abie idea. For some months, Robert Benchley’s best friend has been spending her working hours supervising the film production of A— I—— R——. But by the time you read this you will already have heard about the sequel—“Abie’s Children”—appearing in a New York theater and making more shekels for its authoress.

Our advice to fortune-hunting gentlemen would be something like this: “Take care of the Nichols and the dollars will take care of themselves.”

Billie Dove is gonna treat us to a whole sequence in her next picture for First National, “The Yellow Lily,” in which she wears an exquisite night robe. Our imagination tells us that the Yellow Lily in a night gown will leave no bloom for improvement.

No Fat

In Love Scenes

Here’s the right way to avoid it

In the Movies slender figures are required, because almost everybody dislikes excess fat. So in every circle, Fat mars beauty, health and vitality. Every modern style calls for slenderness. That is why the men and women by the millions have banished overweight.

Some do this by abnormal exercise and diet. Others do it in the easy, pleasant way, in the modern scientific way—with Marmola prescription tablets.

Marmola is based on wide scientific research, on thousands of experiments, it supplies a substance which in the body turns food into fuel and energy rather than into fat. The formula comes in every package also the reasons for results. This to banish every fear of harm, and to let you know just why fat disappears. Marmola has been used for 20 years—millions of boxes of it. You can see the results on every hand. Doubtless some of your friends can tell you what it did for them. Now excess fat is nowhere near as common as it was.

Try Marmola, in justice to yourself. Watch the results for a little time, in reduction, in health, in vitality. Stop when you attain the weight desired. Then tell your friends about it. You can do no greater kindness to them if they overweigh.

Order now before you forget it. Few things are more important. Let this test show you the easy, the scientific way to reduce.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

Mooning at the Mummers

Now we've to have a picture dealing with the radical views of marriage entertained by many persons in this country and abroad. Fitting in with the universal appeal of such a story is the fact that it's to be produced by Universal Pictures Corporation.

Although the story was originally called "Fifty Fifty Marriage" and "Partnership Marriage" we understand that the final title is "Sex Appeal."

Of course, the most elementary form of sex appeal is "Will you marry me?"

Three cheers and a few whoopies! One of our favorite actors in the part of one of our favorite fiction characters, William Powell has been promoted to stardom by Paramount and will play the part of Philo Vance in "The Canary Murder Case."

It's a bird!

These changing times! Sel-dom does a picture reach the screen under its original title. Two First National films are having their names altered without fear or fervor. There's Montague Love's picture "Nightbirds" which is to bear the title of "The Hawk's Nest" and Colleen Moore's "Heart to Heart" was first named "Tomorrow."

Well, of course, these are just shifts that pass in the night, but we'd like to state a suitable motto for these title changers—"We name to please."

Florence Turner, featured in Harry Langdon's current production, has appeared in more films than any other player in the industry and has contributed more years to screen work. Why, we remember (believe it or not) when Florence first appeared in Vitagraph pictures when a five hundred foot reel constituted a feature. Those were the days when films were made on the roof of an office building in little gold New York. Not that we want to give our age away (we were three at the time) but it was twenty years ago that Florence began her film career. Twenty years! Tsch, tsch. Score one for Florence!
Gay and Giddy Gloom Chasers

TOMMY MEIGHAN is going to be starred in a screen version of the Broadway stage hit “The Racket.” This is Tom’s first picture for Caddo.

“The Racket” is a fast-moving melodrama of the underworld and the chief rôle is that of a colorful captain of police.

In the opinion of its sponsors, “The Racket” will make a big noise when it appears.

COLLEEN MOORE will be supported by Lilyan Tashman and Edmund Lowe in her next picture “Heart to Heart.”

Beat, drink and be merry!

Tiffany-Stahl steps forward with a picture called “Nameless Men.”

Won’t somebody give these little men a handle?

HERE’S a new departure in film methods. In making the picture of “Tenth Avenue” Pathe-De Mille has followed the same lines as the stage version of the story by having all action take place in one set. This plan of producing a feature picture in one setting without auxiliary scenes hasn’t been done for several years.

With only one set to pay for, “Tenth Avenue” will certainly be an avenue of escape from expenses.

YOU wouldn’t believe us if we told you that Jobyna Ralston was “all wet.” But she was. It happened in a Tiffany-Stahl production in which Jobyna was playing opposite Doug Fairbanks, Jr. The locale of the film was a mining camp, the setting a raging storm, and poor little Jobyna was supposed to be in the midst of it. The taking of those particular scenes consumed three days, no less. That, however, is the only way in which that little gal could be called “all wet.” They did their best to keep the constant exposures from having any harmful effect on her, making her change her costume several times a day.

Our humble advice in a case like that would be: any port in a storm—or even sherry, gin or scotch!

POSED BROWN AND MADGE BELLAMY IN “SOFT LIVING.” A WILLIAM FOX PICTURE.

IT'S TO LEFF

DAVID ROLLINS, Fox Films player, was in the South recently just after the colored portion of a certain city had undergone a sudden urge toward higher and better things. The urge came as the result of a visit from a traveling salesman for a correspondence school. This gentleman impressed on his dusky audience that education was the light which led toward greatness. Good English, he insisted, had to be used before one became a success in any of the major walks of life.

During Mr. Rollins' visit some urchin seemed to be in trouble, question him, and at once the urge came. The little old lady stooped down through force of habit and took his hand in hers. "There, there, sonny," she said. "You mustn't cry. Tell mammy what the trouble is."

"Boo-hoo-hoo," cried the little boy. "I'm so unhappy. My father is in jail."

"There now, kiddie, don't you cry. We can fix that up all right. I'll use my influence with the governor and everything will be fine."

The little boy looked up at her pathetically. "It's no use, lady," he said. "My father is the governor."

Viola Richards tells us a very charming story of a little old lady in lavender who dispensed sweetness and goodness on her missions of mercy in the sovereign state of Indiana.

This old sister had a habit of walking through the slums finding families whom she could help. She would stop at a street corner where some urchin seemed to be in trouble, question him, and attempt to straighten out his difficulties.

One day, while in a slightly more peaceful section of town, she happened upon a little boy who sat on a curbstone crying as though his boyish heart would burst.

The little old lady stooped down through force of habit and took his hand in hers. "There, there, sonny," she said. "You mustn't cry. Tell mammy what the trouble is."

"Boo-hoo-hoo," cried the little boy. "I'm so unhappy. My father is in jail."

"There now, kiddie, don't you cry. We can fix that up all right. I'll use my influence with the governor and everything will be fine."

The little boy looked up at her pathetically. "It's no use, lady," he said. "My father is the governor."
about to leave the office for a couple of weeks for a brief sojourn in Tia Juana. In order to show his confidence in his employee the boss called the salesman into his office the day before he was to depart and undertook to explain the need of increased business.

"While I'm on my vacation," said the boss, "see if you can't do a little extra work and get some order out of chaos."

"You must have mixed me up with one of the other salesmen," said the drummer. "There's no guy by that name on my list."

ACCORDING to John Gilbert, one of his friends remembers with some amusement the old days when money did not come easily. At that time this fellow, Wilbur, was occasionally forced, much against his will, to borrow a few shekels from some acquaintance.

One of Wilbur's friends, John tells us, had a very particular manner of treating anyone who happened to ask him for a loan.

Wilbur had asked him for a considerable sum of money with the stipulation that it would be returned in three days.

After some conversation, the friend said finally, "Well, you know my rule to lend only one tenth of what a man wants to borrow."

"Yes," Wilbur answered, "I certainly do. That's why I asked for $100. I want ten dollars."

"Ah," said his friend. "Here's your dollar, old man."

OLGA BACLONOVA, who is a little Southern girl from Georgia, Russia, dotes on negro stories. She recently heard one, she told us the other day, which kept her laughing for a heck of a time.

The story has to do with a Negro couple who had been on very bad terms with each other. Rastus began to grow repentant of his unfaithfulness. Besides, his wife was his mainstay and he did not think he could afford to incur any more of her wrath and still maintain his sinecure. Therefore he began to save up his pennies for a peace offering.

Rastus finally managed to scrape enough money together to buy her a gorgeous imitation skunk wrap.

Mandy was overjoyed, but the gift so surprised her that she was unable to put her enthusiasm into words.

"Well, Mandy," he said. "Whadda yo' all think of that there wrap?"

"It suah is wonderful, Rastus. But der's one thing I caint figger out. I doan' see how it's possible for sech a beautiful fur to come from sech a low, stinking ani-mule."

"Well," said Rastus, on his dignity, "I didn't expect any thanks for de fur but dar's no reason, is dey, why yo' all should go callin' me names?"

SALLY BLANE
PARAMOUNT PLAYER

SALLY BLANE, one of Paramount's chief eye soothers, is responsible, more or less, for this little yarn. Sally, you see, is something of a child lover; she has a naturally motherly heart—stop us if you've heard that one—she gets a lot of inside info about the heart aches and heart breaks of our very much younger set.

One day she went to visit a friend who had a little girl. This youngster was sobbing as if her tender heart would break.

"What's the trouble, sweetheart?" Sally inquired. "You mustn't cry that way. It'll make your eyes ugly."

"But the doctor said I had to be among the best and bring success much sooner than if you stumble along alone."

These courses will not only teach you how to draw, but will also develop your originality. They are acknowledged to be among the best and most modern courses in Cartooning and Illustrating offered today.

The Hollywoodman
Flashbacks

CHALK up one for Tiffany, Stahl’s long but enticing title for a recent picture. It’s “Ladies of the Night Club” and sounds sufficiently alluring to make you step right up to the box office and plunk down your florins. Ricardo Cortez has been signed to play the male lead and Barbara Leonard, an unknown, will do the feminine honors.

While we’re on the subject, we hope you won’t mind our mentioning that “Merry, merry, quite contrary” no longer applies to ladies of the night club—for they are the lassies, we understand, who drink to you only with their eyes.

T-HIS is getting tiresome. Here’s another one of those changes, changes in different keys do-de-o-de-o: “The Patriot” was the name and “High Treason” is the name. It’s a film on which Emil Jan­nings has been working for Para­mount and has to do with Russian imperial history about a centu­ry ago. We saw the play when it appeared here in New York for a few hours—and despite the fact that it didn’t go over with any kind of a bang—it’s our firm opinion that it’s got the stuff, and we don’t mean stuff and nonsense. It’s all about Czar Paul I. of Russia, an old meanie who just doesn’t give a naughty word if his loyal subjects straighten out their tangles or knot. Well, there’s a guy around the court who’s sorry for the poor, down­trodden pedestrians and he de­cides this thing has got to stop. But you see—it’s treason to plot against a Czar—and that’s why Joe Cook won’t give an imitation of four Hawaiians playing the uke —no, that’s a different story; what we meant to say is that’s why the picture is called “High Treason” if you know what we mean.

Well, there certainly are some knockout sets in the film version—the largest that have ever been built for the movies—and there’s an absolute devastatingly devast­ating cast consisting of Florence Vidor, Lewis Stone, Vera Voron­ina, and Tullia Carminati. Add to this the fact that Ernst Lubitsch is doing the directing and you won’t wonder why we insist upon your seeing “High Treason.” Everyone will want to see it. “There’s a treason!”

If You Were Dying To-night?

And I offered you something that would give you ten years more to live, would you take it? You’d grab it. Well, fellows, I’ve got it, but don’t wait till you’re dy­ing or it won’t do you a bit of good. It will then be too late. Right now is the time. Tomorrow or any day, some disease will get you and if you have not equipped yourself to fight or, you’re gone. I don’t mean cancer, I’m not a doctor, but I’ll put you in such condition that the doctor will have a swell time trying to you. If you want to imagine a mosquito tries to bite a brick wall! A bit changed.

A RE-BUILT MAN

I like to get the weak ones. I delight in getting hold of a man who has been turned down as hopeless by others. It’s easy enough to mesh a thing that’s more than half done. But give me the weak, sickly, lily liver, the guy who won’t get any, and I’ll pull him apart. It’s just like playing with baby. It’s fun to me because I know I can do it, and I like to give the other fellow the laugh. I don’t just give you a venerate of muscle that looks good to others. I work on you both inside and out. I not only put big, massive arms and legs on you, but I build up those inner muscles that surround your vital organs. The kind that give you real pep and energy, the kind that fire you with ambition and the courage to tackle anything set before you.

ALL I ASK IS 90 DAYS

Who says it takes years to get in shape? Show me the man who makes any such claim and I’ll make him eat his words. I’ll put one full inch on your arm in 90 days. You see, I don’t spend my chest in the same length of time. Meanwhile, I’m putting life and pep into your old, sick body. I’ll put one inch on you from then on, just watch ‘em grow. At the end of thirty days you won’t know yourself. Your whole body will take on an entirely different appearance. But you’re only started. Now comes the real work. Guaranteed 90 days or your money back (90 in all) and you’ll make those friends of yours who think they’re strong look like something a cat dragged in.

A REAL MAN

When I’m through with you, you’re a real man.
The kind that can prove it. You will be able to do things that you had thought impossible. And the next time you have to put on your coat you’ll notice that your shoulders are broader and sturdier so that you can carry your hat and all your other things. But you’re only started. Now comes the real work. Guaranteed 90 days or your money back (90 in all) and you’ll make those friends of yours who think they’re strong look like something a cat dragged in.

came along, got aloft, and bucked his way into star Western roles.

Now he is making a couple of horse operas for Columbia and Paramount. He's happy with his work and he likes being an actor. Laff that off!

Pierre—Didja ever hang to a chandelier, Pierre? No? Then rush right out and clamber up. It's a sure way to get in the movies. Nancy Carroll, the red-headed heart throb we're sputtering about, did that little stunt one night in "The Passing Show," a New York stage success, and her fame was made.

Another way to success is to be one of twelve children. That's this lassie's record. She was born on Tenth Avenue in Manhattan in 1906. As soon as she could walk, she started dancing, and a couple of weeks later she was taking away first prizes at local "home talent" orgies. After that the stage got in its sex appeal and Nancy answered. Several seasons in musical comedies and revues taught her the business of appearing in public in a chemise. And then the movies gobbled her up. Her next part is that of Rosemary in the screen version of "Able's Irish Rose."

Toots—Here's a good example, Toots, of an American rah-rah boy gone to the bad, bad movies. Charles Rogers is the Adonis-faced lad we mention and you mention and everybody mentions, on account of his performance in "Wings" and other lesser pictures.

Charlie is a Kansan. You should hear him apologize. He went to college out there and learned what every man should blow. Then he came to New York and entered Paramount's training school for young and handsome actors. To date he is the sole and solitary glittering star turned out by that theatrical kindergarten.

He's on his way to fame and plenty of muchee fortune. The lad's features panic the backwoods lassies and they storm the box office whenever and wherever he appears. He's a nice guy, Toots, to boot, and you can write him by addressing your wrapper to the Paramount Studios, 5451 Marathon Boulevard, Hollywood.

Clyde—You've picked a winner, Clyde, in this month's blue ribbon. Little Betty Boyd, Hal Roach's contribution to the silversheet, is nobody's hand-me-down when it comes to entertaining the boys with comical antics.

Betty, we hear, has been featured for a brace of years by the aforementioned Mr. Roach. She has led his gang of low comics through enough pie-slinging frolics to get herself an honorary card in the Bakers' Union.

There are those who will tell you whisperingly that she is around twenty years old. Be that as it may, we haven't seen the records and can only slide along the info.

We are certain that she has a lovely figure, brown eyes, and (at this writing) cute brown hair.

G. G.—Charles Farrell, or the Boy Wonder of Walpole, is now plying his trade under the banner of William Fox. And, listen to us, Nancy, when we say he's one of the big bets in the m. p. business.

Brother Farrell, Chas.' dad, saw sonny-boy off to school at Boston University. Four years of a five-year course exhausted the lad's collegiate yearning and he left school high and dry while he took a flyer on the stage. When he reached Hollywood, folks started having their doorways heightened for him to get through. Then he went to work. It wasn't much of a struggle for this boy Charles. He had the stuff and, G. G., it is living proof of the fact that the business is wide open to anyone who can really deliver the goods.

Mr. Farrell got ready for acting by getting his bag ready to harmonize with your ensemble!

P. V.—Percy Marmont is the laddie buck who was almost a good lawyer. It all happened when he was a growing boy, growing up in Hensland. His family, which had been noted for its professional activities, determined that he too should be one of the boys to stand up at the bar. But Percy chucked it one day and went to work being a member of his college swimming team, captaining the boxing team and playing on the football eleven. His next pictures are "Paul" and "The Red Dancer of Moscow."

O. K.—O. K., if you are as good as your name, you'll sit right down and write that fan letter to your latest eye-lotion. The story goes that Sam Wood, the director, opened his door one morning a few weeks back and found a little girl there wrapped in newspapers in an otherwise empty bread basket. He took her in and she told him her name was Anita Page. Before the day was over, Sam had signed her up to a movie contract, and now she's acting for M-G-M in a film called "Three Dancing Daughters." Her sisters of the film are Joan Crawford and Dorothy Sebastian. Anita is a blonde girl who admits seventeen summers. Her mother stays with her because Anita wants her there. And now that you know what kind of a nice girl she is, go on and write that letter. She's at the Metropolitan, Wood-Mayer studios in Hollywood.

R. S.—Another Kansan who is blowing her way through the movies is the black-haired panic named Louise Brooks. But as soon as she was old enough to pull the cockleburs out of her hair, she gave the air to her native state and joined the dancing school of Ruth St. Denis. It's a long way from Topeka to Broadway, R. S., but piles of Topeka took a train East when their little home-town gal knocked out the eyes of down-fronters when she appeared in Ziegfeld's Folies and "Louis the 14th." Someone else took a train East about that time, too. It was a Paramount executive from Hollywood, and he signed Louise to a contract that has had her dragging her nifty torso through some nice scenery shots. Her next cinematic adventure, we hear, will be with Ruth Taylor, the blonde in "The Back Yard Serenade," in a series of gold-digging comedies.

Vital statistics: Five feet two; 120 pounds; jet black hair; dark brown eyes. Amen.

GEORGE K. ARTHUR has been taking lessons in acting from friend wifey despite the fact that she has had no previous theatrical experience. You see, in George's co-starring vehicle, "Detectives," with Karl Dane, he has to play several sequences in women's clothes. So King Arthur's queen gave him lessons in how to wear the clothes and how to act while wearing them. Maybe she even taught him how to make'em. Can't you just picture King Arthur and his Nights at the Round Sewing Table?

NORMA TALMADGE is to wear some nifty gowns in "The Woman Disputed" for United Artists. This is quite necessary, for though some of the story is set at the battle front of the Russian and Austrian armies, a good part of it takes place in the pleasure-loving city of Vienna.

"Have Vienna good pictures?"—the name of a book—sketching costumes, designing you know what we mean—we decided to make one.

FOR that Universal picture "Give and Take" with George Sidney and Jean Hersholt, we understand that the first scenes were filmed in one of the large canning plants located on the banks of the Sacramento River.

A canning plant, Dumb Dora tells us, is where they rent out bouncers to do the firing for timid employers. Now, ain't that a wild idea, we ask you.

ARE You Decent?" You don't have to answer if you don't want to, because it's not really a question—it's the name of a book written by Wallace Smith, the well-known artist and author of Hollywood.

It has nothing to do with morality nor psycho-analysis, if you know what we mean—we don't! It's a snappy, sappy, slap-sticky series of stories about theatrical boarding-house life of the "two-a-day," meaning vaudeville, not liquor.

Well, this same fellow, Wally Smith, is under contract to United Artists for whom he has been doing work on "The Dove"—sketching costumes, designing settings, and adapting the story.

But take a hint, boys. Never ask a girl "Are you decent?" because it just isn't a nice question and very few girls who know the real meaning could answer "yes." Y' see, in vaudeville parlance it means "Got enough clothes on?" or words to that effect.

Reduce

Where You Want to Reduce

Discovery of an infiltrating oxygen reducing cream quickly and safely banishes double chins, and slenderizes big hips, fat waists, legs and arms

A NY woman or man who wants to take off fat on any part of the body can now do so quickly and safely. There is no question about this. It is a proved fact, the discovery of oxygen reducing cream was purely accidental. A great New York doctor asked three of the ablest Colloidal Chemists in New York to try a remedy for chronic skin troubles. (Colloidal chemistry is one of the latest developments in chemical science.) These Colloidal Chemists prepared an infiltrating cream which would liberate oxygen when absorbed through the skin. They discovered that whenever the part to be treated was fat, this excess weight quickly disappeared: Reducing tests were then made on fat people with amazing results. One woman reduced her neck one inch in a few treatments; another two inches. Still another took off twenty-nine pounds in six weeks. Equally successful results were had in reducing fat waists, arms, legs, and big hips. So safe is Viaderma, as it is called, that it has the approval of chemists and physicians who oppose all other methods of quick fat reduction.

Viaderma is a golden brown cream, which is rubbed rapidly on the skin. You see the cream disappear at once, leaving a clean white foam on the skin surface.

"Except for your hips you could wear a size smaller!"

ing our eye on the Belle ever since she made us cry, cry again in Stella Dallas. As the self-sacrificing Irish mother who turns her darlin' son over to the principal of an exclusive school and becomes a governess in a wealthy home, Belle strengthens her reputation as the mother of her country. The son, well played by Neil Hamilton, grows up not knowing that his mother is alive, and falls in love with the girl whom she has raised. Victor McLaglen as the giant admirer of Mother Machree has a way of putting his hand to his mouth and inflating his cheeks to register embarrassment which alone will compensate you for your expenditure. Next to Belle, to Victor belong the spoils of this film.

Sailor's Wives

Empty Goblettes

Here's a moom picture that features Mary Astor and Lloyd Hughes. Here's a moom picture that is nothing to write Rome about. Here's a moom picture about a girl who is going blind, who shoots herself so her lover will not be saddled with a helpless person, who is wounded by the pistol shot in such a way that her eyesight is restored and who lives to enjoy a fairly ripe old age.

And now, all you little tots, if you'll come back tomorrow night we'll tell you the story of Hansel and Gretchen and how they went into the woods and played patty-cake with fairies. Gretchen and how they went into the woods and played patty-cake with fairies.

Finders Keepers

Soldier Old Man

When the snappy, facetious daughter of the colonel gets into the midst of her romantic adventure amid her papa's training underlings, she wishes that there wasn't any such word as "camp." Having arrived there to marry her darling boy-to-be, the girl (Laura La Plante) has to put on disguise—disguising herself so her lover will not be saddled with a helpless person, who is wounded by the pistol shot in such a way that her eyesight is restored and who lives to enjoy a fairly ripe old age.

As a humorous effort Finders Keepers works out well, even though it works pretty hard. Edmund Breese does the sappy colonel-father nicely. For Breese, a jolly good fellow, we have only praise. Laura is cute, and we don't mean bow-legged.

Leopard Lady

Aha! Spotted!

The Leopard Lady starts with a skinful of warts up by being very, very dry. Jacqueline Logan is the spotted spouse in the case and derives her monicker from her association with circus leopards.

For your information, there's an ape, one of those big he-bull fellows who might have been one of Tarzan's boy friends a few weeks ago. This hirsute gent plays the villain of the piece, and what a hairy rascal he is. Not that anyone cares.

He reaches the climax after many weary gestures, and starts to kill sweet little Jacqueline. But she's a resourceful sister. She persuades him to take an automatic pistol and shoot himself. Nice girl, eh. Good ape, too, now that's he's dead.

You might see this one, if the old folks insist on staying at home. Or you might not. You never can tell. Whadda we care? It's all the Simian to us.

The Smart Set

Bon Ton Truck

Bill Haines becomes, day by day in every dogged way, more and more like the sort of a guy we'd crave to take a sock at if we thought we could get away with it. And then, just when we're on the verge of picking up the nearest usher and hurling him at the silversheet Bill ups and gets hep to himself. He recognizes the terror of his ways, turns over a half dozen new leaves, and becomes a regular he-feller. Likely as not he dashes into some sort of scrimmage, wins the game for dear old Vassar, and then comes out tousled but triumphant to be necked publicly by his favorite park bench partner.

"The Smart Set," lest we forget, reveals the aimless wanderings of a young society snob adrift in the Polo Pack. He is the cocky young blade who plays the game single-handed. But it doesn't work. Our Sweet William is kicked off the team.

Comes the day, as days will come, when his yen for grandstand shenanigans has faded. The gentle words of a gal have put the kibosh on Bill's balloon-like brow. He forgets how good he is—he determines that the Stars and Stripes must ride high over the royal cross of Britain. His chance comes and he makes good with a bang-up job of hard-hitting, hard-riding acting.

It's a show worth plenty of cash, fans. Investigate!

The Heart of a Follies Girl
Glorified American Girls

WHEN a producer exhausts all his new ideas for pictures, he says, "Now it can be old." There may be a method in the madness of the boys who turned this out, but they certainly have gotten themselves into a terrible method.

Story: Larry Kent is secretary to Lowell Sherman, wealthy stage-door Johnny who's fond of the high-kicking Follies baby, Billie Dove. After seeing Lowell do his stuff we realized that as usual Sherman was right. Well, on Billie's birthday, Larry is sent by the boss to show the girl a good time. Billie enjoys Kensing-ton tonight. They fall in love. Larry pretends to be a friend of the boss, and signs that lad's name to a check so that he can forge right ahead in his suit for Billie. Isn't that swe-e-et? Hero buys ring, crime is disclosed, hero is sent to jail marrying girl first, makes bad break by escaping from jail on New Year's Eve; and is sent back by Billie for the sake of the wife and the kiddies-to-be. Hollo! Hokum!

Take it or leave it, patsies, and we don't mean take it.

The Noose

All That's Fit to Print

NICKIE is a young rum runner who wants to run from the rum so that he can mix with the best people. But before he can reform, he kills his bootlegging boss (who happens to be his father) so as to save the governor's wife (who happens to be his mother) from a disgrace which may be a method in the madness of the boys who turned this out, but they certainly have gotten themselves into a terrible method.

training camp. There is a card game in which the sharp edge of a razor plays no inconsequential part. Then the troop moves to France. There, amidst the frogs and fighters, they are taken into camp by a female German spy who plays black-face puppy love with the two Afriamericans.

It's a good show, suckers, with enough shady situations to pull it into the colored movie class. See it!

Feel My Pulse

Do You Know Your Beets?

HERE'S Bebe Daniels as a germ-fighting hypochondriac with simply marvelous ill-power. That girl would have herself innoculated against laughing, for she's been working on the "ail" road ever since her antiseptic uncle started her health bent for heaven.

Bebe arrives at her own secluded sanitarium where, unbeknownst to her, William Powell, head of a bootleg gang, has been making applejack to keep the doctors away. However, the girlie's looks and bankroll encourage him to force his hard-boiled gazabos into wheel chairs and to dress himself as the head doctor.

An attack by hi-jackers upsets the works and first thing we know the poor little sick girl is keeping 'em bare back feams . . . " Laugh, crowd, editors that now it can be told and people get a severe case of Bellamy grief by encouraging the three-alarm racket for all that's in it, and then get out with a roll that will keep her in black silk undies and sunken bath tubs for the rest of her unnatural life.

Brother John Mack Brown is the lad who lets himself in for a peck of the doubtfulness of the events, so we'll sign off with the reminder that there are some of us critics left, who, when we look for the most important element in a film, don't go immediately to plot.

Soft Living

Ease a Jolly Good Fellow

THE merry Moll in "Soft Living" who decides to marry mazama and then divorce it is none other than Miss Madge Bellamy. She makes up her mind to hit the alimony racket for all that's in it, and then see plenty. In fact, she does more than that. She takes two baths; and brothers, when Missy Madge of the shapely gambs splashes water on two separate occasions in one picture it's time to take the opery glasses out of camp hear! That, or sell the farm and start west.

While theubbings do not contribute much to the progress of art they do help while away the evening. Some people adore Madge in a tub; others get a severe case of Bellamy ache. As for your dutiful and observant servant, we join you in looking forward to our favorite's next picture when she will take three baths.

The Secret Hour

But Time Will Tell

PUT censors in the movies and you take out sense. They Know What They Wanted put the Pulitzer prize as a play. As a movie—The Secret Hour—it doesn't run any such danger.

But it's not as bad as the professional critics may tell you it is. In fact, it's fairly heart twisting and, what's more, it made us quite enthusiastic about Pola Negri as the waitress who waits day in, day out for the tinkle of a wedding bell. When the proposal comes by mail she decides that now it can be tolled and proceeds to give up her job for the Great Adventure.

Complications set in when she secretly marries the hired man instead of the old Italian fruit-grower who had sent her the love letter. Which makes it impossible for Pola to cast the "emote" out of her eye!

Well, the picture is engrossing despite the doubtfulness of the events—so we'll sign off with the reminder that there are some of us critics left, who, when we look for the most important element in a film, don't go immediately to plot.

The Garden of Eden

The Serpent Question

THIS is a matter of import—a play which was a big success on the continent but which, in the little burg of N. Y., flopped terribly—somewhat as we do for Corinne Griffith each time we see her. We should like to divide an apple with her any day, but unfortunately, in our Garden of Eden, there ain't gonna be no Corinne.

It deals with a little cabaret singer's début, her falsetto voice and friends, a bit of café love that doesn't appeal to her, and an unexpected tour to Monte Carlo with the...

You will know why when you see both you and wife will benefit—for many years while we make a little mental whoppee.

If I Were Single

A COUPLE of producers named Warner have turned loose a tale of uncompanionate marriage on the world. It is dedicated to the proposition that a husband's jealousy may be drowned by having his wife flirt with poor hubby's best friend. As far as this correspondent is concerned, the worthy and estimable efforts of the two gentlemen named Warner is no more or less than just another one of those thingamajigs.

Conrad Nagel is the moronic meal ticket who goes about town presenting his wife to his acquaintances. No one wants her, however, even if her name is May McAvoy. Beamer, who plays a toilet water piano teacher, contributes much to the evening's somewhat sketchy entertainment. His impersonation of the nance musician is worth the buggy ride to the theatre.

The Showdown

THE IRONY of Hate

HERE'S a virile, hard-boiled story of two big-fisted oil men who, in the course of their rabid rivalry, fight for the wife of a tenderfoot, not because they love her but because they hate each other. Have you had your irony today?

Cardan (George Bancroft) and Winter are the oily birds who go after any worm in sight that is of interest to either. And if Winter comes Cardan won't be far behind. A tropical oil well or a woman—it's all the same to them. They've got to gyp each other, and no matter what the rock-of-the-month happens to be, they smile politely at each other in public and proceed to sharpen their knives and wits in the wardrobe mistress—a lady of royalty in disguise.

She is about to marry a sweet and simple—very simple—fellow on false pretenses, but she repents in time and indulges in a little comic strip whereby we are treated to the vision of Corinne rushing through the fashionable hotel minus her bridal gown. Something nude in the line of weddings!

Charlie Ray as the groom and Lowell Sherman as the "bored" are as able to keep you amused as ever. And for Corinne—pardon us a few years while we make a little mental whoppee.

private. Shooting scraps are their specialty and when Winter tries to force himself upon the wife of the newcomer to the tropical oil fields Cardon rolls his sleeves and proceeds to do away with his rival with all the customary punch of such striking scenes. The husband is still around and we won't give away the exciting conclusion in which the roughneck gambles on the green-horn. See it yourself! You'll find that they can put George into the toughest and most difficult roles in sight—but they can't break the Bancroft!

W. GRIFFITH is still looking for a quiet, home-type girl to round out his cast in “The Battle of the Sexes,” his latest production for United Artists. Jean Hersholt, Phyllis Haver, and Belle Bennett have been selected for the leading roles, but after a three weeks’ search the “quiet, home-type girl” has not been found.

And all we’ve got to say is that D. W. is a confirmed optimist if he ever hopes to find her at all—in this day and age.

But, after all, we’re pretty cynical about that sort of thing, and if one doesn’t understand the character of the modern girl one just simply has to try to get the knack of it. I mean you actually do.

THINGS never turn out the way we expect them to. Here we’ve been all set up about this picture “The Man Disturber” which Fred Newmeyer is directing for Universal Pictures. We looked that title over and said to ourselves, “There isn’t much doubt about what that film’s going to be about, said we. And now the news has reached us that the title role in “The Man Disturber” is going to be played by Laura La Plante—and all along we thought it was going to be an alarm clock.

GOTHAM PRODUCTIONS are certainly on the job. They’ve signed up our old friend George Jessel, who played the part of “The Jazz Singer” when it appeared on the legit, in New York. “Abie of the U. S. A.” is to be the name of the first production and big things are expected of the new star.

And we’d like to say, just for fun, that it’s Jessel little triumph for Gotham all right.

SPRING is cub. It's in the air.
And so are hubbies whose wives have new hats on the brain. Terrible to think what a poor meal ticket has to produce now-adays!

But here's a laugh on the other side of somebody's face. None other than Harry Langdon, who is no more a husband than my Aunt Emma, has discovered, much to his sorrow, that it's pretty hard for a man of his demands to save on the overhead.

Harry ordered three hats for himself. Count 'em. One. Two. Three. Now guess what the amount of the invoice was. You can't. Well, you can't be blamed, for blimey if it wasn't $120.

Yes, sir. One hundred and twenty dollars for three hats—forty iron men apiece—made to order (the hats, not the money)—and if you don't believe us, ask Harry's press agent, he'll make you believe anything.

Well, well, if money talks, Harry's certainly talking through his hat!

AND speaking of golfing, here's a rich item we ran across. It reads: "Farrell MacDonald, the star clown in 'The Four Devils', is a creation humorist off the screen, except when fishing and golfing."

And we suppose when Farrell plays golf and fishes he just humors himself along.

"The proudest moment of our lives had come!"

"It wasn't our home! There were two glistening tears in Mary's eyes, yet a smile was on her lips. I knew what she was thinking."

"Five years before, we had started bravely out together. The first month had taught us that two cannot live as cheaply as one."

"Then one night Mary came to me. 'Jim,' she said, 'why don't you go to school again?—right here at home? You can put in an hour or two after supper each night while I sew. Learn to do some one thing. You'll make good—I know you will.'"

"Well, we talked it over and I took up a course with the International Correspondence Schools. It was surprising how rapidly the mysteries of our business became clear to me. In a little while, an opening came, I was ready for it and was promoted with an increase. Then I was advanced again. There was money enough to lay even a little aside. It certainly was a lucky day for us when I sent in that I. C. S. coupon."

"Didn't you study and get ready for promotion too? Will be glad to help you if you will only make the start. And the way to do that is easy."

Choose the work you like best in the coupon below: select one course and you'll find the International Correspondence Schools today. This doesn't obligate you to the least, but it will bring you information that will help to start you on a successful career.

How My Wife Learned to Play the Piano in 90 Days

A husband's story of the fulfillment of a life-long wish—by a new, easy, spare-time method which has brought the joy of music into thousands of silent homes.

FROM boyhood, I vowed that if ever I had a home of my own there would be less she could play some instrument, and play it well. My new home must have no dull, bored evenings, no monotonous Sundays. I wanted the gaiety, the mental and physical stimulus, the whole-hearted, genuine joy of music. No girl could capture me without the lure of musical skill.

But one day Beth came along, knowing not one note from another, yet with a merry, humming tune forever on her lips, and a song in her heart for me. And Beth is Mrs. Taylor today. A piano graced our new home, but somehow the old vow was forgotten, and stayed forgotten until Jimmy, Jr., and Beth No. 2.

Then along about the time the novelty of parenthood began to wear off a bit, the old vow came back. And one evening I heard the old dead plantation melody. "Company to supper," I thought; and I stopped, "Oh," she cried, "I'm so tired; I wonder who?" I thought; and I crept into the parlor door to see. There were quite some youngsters.

But instead, a sound musical pleasure exactly the same as the slower reader. The book "Music Lessons in Your Own Home," also Demonstration Lessons explaining their easy method. The book is free, asking for it obligates you not at all—but you should send for it right away before all copies may be gone.

JAMES W. TAYLOR.

Mr. Taylor is enthusiastic. He has a right to be. Yet when you read the facts in our book you will appreciate that his opinion is conservative. You, too, can learn to play your favorite instrument, or to sing.

"They Snickered When I Got Up To Speak"

—but from the First Word, I Held Them Spellbound

The banquet hall was crowded. Suddenly I could hear the chairman’s voice—"We will now have a few words from Mr. Byron Munn." It came like a flash of lightning! He was unexpectedly calling on me for a speech! No time to beg off—no chance to wriggle out of it!

As I started to get up, I heard a titter run around the table.

"Watch him make a fool of himself," I overheard someone whisper. "He’s so bashful he’s afraid of his own voice."

"If I’d die on my feet," came another whisper. "This is going to be funnier than ‘Abie’s Irish Rose!’"

I knew they were laughing at me and expecting me to make myself ridiculous, but I only grinned my way through the speech. The smiles of doubt started in!

"But When I Commenced To Speak—"

Almost from the first word, the smiles of doubt and derision faded from their faces. They were incredulous—amazed! Instantly the atmosphere became so tense that you could have heard a pin drop! No snickers nor sneers now—nothing but breathless astonishment—amazement—amazed! Incredulous—amazed!

"This is going to be fun—heartrending, but I only grinned my way through the speech. The smiles of doubt started in!"

When I finished, there was an instant of dead silence! And then it came—a furious, deafening wave of applause rolling up from one hundred pairs of hands—euphoric, elected, thrilling! Somebody pushed forward and grabbed my hand. Others followed—and everyone started talking all at once.

"Great speech, Byron old man! I didn’t know you had it in you!"

You’re a wonder!"

Work Wonders With Words. And I want to say right here that that little book actually helped me change the course of my whole life.

Between its covers I discovered certain facts and secrets I had never dreamed of. Difficulties were swept away as I found a simple way to overcome timidity, stage-fright and self-consciousness—and how to win advancement, popularity and success. I don’t mean to say that there was any "magic" or "mystery" about it, because I went about the thing systematically in the privacy of my own home, simply applying 20 minutes each day. And the results were certainly worth it!

A Lucky Accident

At last I began to despair of getting anywhere—when I accidentally ran across a little book entitled, How to Work Wonders With Words. And I want to say right here that that little book actually helped me change the course of my whole life.

When I finished, there was an instant of dead silence! And then it came—a furious, deafening wave of applause rolling up from one hundred pairs of hands—euphoric, elected, thrilling! Somebody pushed forward and grabbed my hand. Others followed—and everyone started talking all at once.

"Great speech, Byron old man! I didn’t know you had it in you!"

You’re a wonder!"

The experience of Byron Munn is typical. Not only men who have made millions, but thousands of others have found success after learning the secrets of powerful, effective speech. Being able to say the right thing at the right time has perhaps been responsible for more brilliant success than any other one thing under the sun! And the secret behind it all is so simple that it is astonishing!

LET'S get acquainted, gang. We want to know you. We can't call on all of you in person, so we're making this offer of $50 prize money for letters.

JUST sit down and in your most natural way write a letter in which you tell us all about yourself and what you think of Film Fun. Be sure to consider the following questions in your letter: What is your age? Occupation? Married? Do you own an auto? Your own home? Or do you plan to build? Have you a piano? A radio? A phonograph? Play any musical instruments? Do you travel for business or pleasure? Where?

AND then, be sure to let us know whether you consider Film Fun your favorite movie magazine and if so, why? Who in your family besides yourself reads it? The men? The women? Or everybody? Do you buy Film Fun occasionally or regularly? Be sure to give us your frank, honest opinion!

1. Anyone is eligible to enter the contest except the staff or employees of FILM FUN or members of their families. Contest closes April 15, 1929.

2. The most straightforward, comprehensive, and entertaining letter on the subject "Film Fun and I" which answers the questions stated above will receive the first prize. The two second best will receive the second prizes, and so forth. If the entries of two or more contestants are judged equally good, the designated prize will be duplicated.

3. First Prize—$20.
   Two Second Prizes—$5 each.
   Twenty-five Third Prizes—$1 each.

ADDRESS your entry to "Get Acquainted Editor," FILM FUN, 100 Fifth Avenue, New York City, N. Y.
If there is not a theatre in your town equipped as yet to show "The Redeeming Sin" as a Talking Picture, see it as a Silent Picture. Either gives you matchless entertainment.

Vitaphone does it again! Brings to you adorable Dolores Costello—in the crowning achievement of her career—"The Redeeming Sin."

A swift unforgettable drama that wells up out of the haunts of the Parisian underworld—with Love at last emerging—redeemed—triumphant—in the flowery fields of France.

Through Vitaphone, you see and hear with the thrilled senses of a spectator in the Montmartre. Here is science with voice—action—heart-throb!

See and hear Warner Bros. Vitaphone Talking Picture—"The Redeeming Sin." And remember—you can hear the real Vitaphone ONLY in Warner Bros. and First National Pictures.
The Klieg of Nations

NOW look here, folks, you'll have to be more quiet. Folks, look here! I SAY YOU'VE GOT TO BE MORE QUIET! Yes, quiet. If you don't, how do you suppose the boys in the back row will be able to judge how I'm saying? What I want to explain is simply this. When all the various generations of this generation hurried to their house tops and shouted loud the praises of Joan Crawford for her work in “Our Dancing Daughters,” M.-G.-M. immediately had Josephine Lovett write another sensation like it and labeled it “Our Modern Maidens.” Which makes a pair of sexes, doesn’t it, Mr. Hoyle. (Wait, I’ll go ask daddy.) Oh, don’t bother. Some other time.

Can’t you see I must continue? Joan of Heart, which is straight-eight enough, will have Rod La Rocque as her leading man in this tail-spin of the modern whirl. Does the public like Josephine’s startling exposé of youth? Listen, folks, they Lovett!

YEPEP, they shipped him all the way from Europe to California and said see here, sir, you’ve gotta direct a copula pictures. You wanna know name? Max Reinhardt. Oh, you know a Max, too, do you? Well, who can that Max be? It’s only Max Belief, you say? Stop it, I hear my mother coming! When he arrived in Hollywood every Thomas, Richard and Henry pushed and shoved around the railroad station to get a glimpse of this noted European theatrical impresario. (Would you mind handing me the dictionary, please?) What actress do you suppose will be the first this movie monarch will direct for United Artists? To give you a hint—she’s A Gish Fit for a King. Ah! You’ve guessed it. Apun my word. He will guide Lilian in a super, super, super, etc., adventure called “The Miracle Girl.”

The title smacks of being the adventures of a girl who never wanted the last word, always paid the check and never wanted her own way.

WHEN we heard that Norma Talmadge’s next effort would be “The Sign On the Door,” we were reminded of a story told about Dorothy Parker when the little New Yorker was in Hollywood. She went out there to write for the movies. They put her in a little office which was far down at the very end of a long hall. It was lonesome in so secluded a place. Her friends had difficulty finding her and it was seldom she had a visitor. Dorothy decided to put a stop to being left alone with no one calling on her. She had a sign printed. A familiar sign. She tacked it on her door. It read: GENTLEMEN.

WHEN Norma Shearer begins work on her next offering she will take her orders from Director Willard Mack. He’s one of the recruits from Broadway where every one will tell you he made a name for himself. His friends will tell you it was a good name. His enemies a bad one. A man usually can tell when he’s a success because it’s then he makes enemies. Willard Mack had plenty. They’d go to see a new play of his. When it was over and they passed out of the theatre they could hear them muttering far up the street and into a taxicab—“Mack truck! Mack truck!”

THE next jazzy for big-blue-eyed Alice White is christened “Hot Stuff!” She should extinguish herself in it. College life in general will be considered, but in particular there’ll be much ado about what goes on and comes off at fraternity house parties. We’re to see whether or not the shaking confines itself to hands and cocktails. This won’t be the first time we’ve been shown the inside about collegiates. It’s all been done before and will be done many times again. Nothing is more certain than that some movie producers are living off the frats of the land!
And now She's on the Vitaphone-

Who Are the Flying Stars?

Marion Bryon has joined the air-mad gang and is all dressed up to illustrate that youth must have its flying. Her heart’s so much with Lucky Lindy and such that her poor jealous boy friend is training to be an aviator, but so far he’s only gone up in his own estimation.

WHAT YOU DO
You decide who the six flying stars are on this page. You list them in your letter according to number and send them in to the FILM FUN-Curtiss Flying Contest, 100 Fifth Avenue, N. Y. C., along with a letter not over 200 words, on the subject, “Why I Want to Fly,” to arrive on or before May 2, 1929.

HEY, you human flies, stuck on fly paper, gather around while we tell you how to make your castles in the air come true! There’s not a mother’s child amongst you who isn’t rarin’ to go zooming through the ether, piloting your own plane. And here’s your chance. See the pretty pitchures of movie stars on this page? Do you know them? Can you put their monickers next to their numbers? Or are you a trillium, whatever that may be?

One boy and one girl will be transported free of expense from their homes to New York. While taking that marvel- our course with the Curtiss Flying Service they’ll receive free room and board, fascinating entertainment and fun in the Flying Course!

Be One of the Plucky Winners!

Here we see Wallace Beery, the Paramount player who's now a licensed transport pilot, which is the highest rating given by the U. S. Department of Commerce. Wallace says that in these days of enthusiasm for flying, everybody's business is looking up.

WHAT YOU WIN
Free air-and-rail round-trip to New York during your vacation from wherever you live in the U. S. A., a $300 flying course with the Curtiss Flying Service at Curtiss Field, living expenses paid, and entertainment on Broadway including shows, dinners, and meetings with screen and aviation celebrities.

city of white lights and at the conclusion of the course will be brought back home, part of the way by air. Dates will be arranged so as to coincide with their vacations. Why shouldn't one of the lucky pair be YOU?

After you've listed the names of the flying stars, boys and girls, write us a letter, not over 200 words, on why you want to fly, and who doesn't? Get that entry in right away. It must reach us before midnight the 2nd of May. But don't put it off. Don't let anything rob you of this swell chance to be one of the lucky few who are masters of the air, pioneers in the greatest industry and amusement of the future! Go to it. Get in on the contest event of the year!
These attractive posters broadcasting the mysterious flying stars on the previous page have been distributed all over America by the Hollywood Picture News Service. If you haven't seen them in your neighbor-

FLY TO FAME

As we told you last month, the Curtiss Flying Service and FILM FUN are giving you an opportunity to be one of the flyers that bloom in the spring. Come one, come all, and may the best man wing!

The Curtiss Flying Service, which offers a boy and a girl that marvelous course in aviation, is the oldest flying organization in the world. In its 1929 program it's planning to establish twenty-five or more units all over the U. S. A., thereby taking the lead in inaugurating the first nationwide system of taxi services, student training schools, cross-country transportation, aerial photography, etc., etc. During the eighteen years of its existence, the Curtiss Flying Service has transported more than 50,000 passengers, its planes flying approximately five million miles, or the equivalent of 200 times around the earth!

That's the company with which you'll be associated if you're one of the lucky (and clever) winners. You'll get your training at the famous Curtiss Field, near Garden City, Long Island. Curtiss Field is known as the "crossroads of the air" and is famous everywhere as the center for aeronautical activity in the East. You couldn't pick a finer place to learn the thrills and pleasures of flying—the field which saw the take-off on their gallant flights of men like Kelly, Macready, Chamberlain, Brock and Schlee, and last, but by no means least, Lucky Lindy. Incidentally, judges in this contest are none other than Clarence Chamberlain, William Brock, and George Haldeman! For rules and conditions see page 64.
ONE DAY Willy came into his father's den (for his father had a den, even though he was an Elk).

"Is something wrong with you?" asked his father, that being the natural thing to ask when you looked at Willy's face.

"Yes," answered Willy. "I have adolescence!"

His father blanched. Then he blanched, turning deathly pale, while his face became white as a ghost's.

"How did you get it?" he managed to whisper.

"You mean," corrected Willy, "how did I get IT?"

"That's what I said," was the testy rejoinder.

"Oh, no you," ejaculated Willy, "didn't."

"Oh, yes I," answered his father, "did."

William—Ah, ha, muh proud beauty. You do not deign to kiss muh, huh?

Polly—I dare not, sir. You're oiled enough to be my daddy.

Tell some girls you want to marry them and they'll believe you; but you can't fool the rest about how much you've had to drink. Ask Polly, she noes!
So just on general principles Willy’s father got up from his chair and gave William a swift kick in the slats.

“You kicked me,” cried Willy, pained and grieved.

“Indeed I did,” answered his father, for he had broken two of his perfectly good toes.

“And after I came in to ask you about Life, too.”

“What was it you wanted to know?” said papa, holding onto his foot.

“Well, ever since I got out of college I’ve wondered what those things are people keep talking about.”

“What things?”

“Kisses,” answered Willy blushingly.

His father stood up. Then he sat right down again, saying, “Ouch.” He added, “You mean to say nobody has ever told you about Life? You come with me, young man.” So saying, he led his son into the next room.

William Powell

AS NICE a boy as you ever hope to meet is our own dapper Bill Powell who sped eastward recently and settled down for a few days at that modest little family hotel in New York, the Ambassador. We dropped in to see this idol of the queens and came away with a warm glow caused not entirely by the swell tall spheroid (high ball, Oscar) such as New Yorkers swallow in their fathers’ footsteps. Bill is clever, quick on the comeback, as suave as you imagine him, confident without being conceited, and all in all a darned good egg, not in any way as hardboiled as some of his pictures have led you to believe. In fact, we brought him the caricature which appeared within these pages several months ago and which seemed to indicate that he’s a wicked old meanie. He wrote on the picture “Cordially—and not this bad, honest!”

Bill Powell, it appears, is to be seen hereafter in sympathetic roles without any emphasis on the symp. We’re all sitting around waiting for the first showing of “The Canary Murder Case” in which Bill plays the part of the high-hat detective, Philo Vance. It seems very possible that Paramount will continue this series with Bill playing the 1929 Sherlock. And by the way, guys, our hero was clad in a blue dressing gown which, he was told by a lassie who’s in the know, is the type worn by a married woman in Japan. Tsk. Tsk. Incidentally, nobody can blow smoke through his nose the way Bill Powell does. We bet he sings it, “Exhale, exhale, the gang’s all here.” Whoops!

Lily Damita

YOU OUGHT to have saw Lily Damita prancing about the stage during personal appearances in connection with her first important rôle in “The Rescue,” in which she’s the leading-on woman for Ronald Colman. Lily has plenty dash, pep, and poisonality. You never saw a girl move faster and we’ll bet she’s always the laugh of the party. However, considering that she sang “Madelon” and talked with a French accent, we’re more convinced than ever that she’s a lil’ German gal trying to be international. A certain well-known N. Y. columnist notes that she’s to be seen around these parts with a guy who’s working on one of the ritzy monthly mags. Our only complaint about Missy Damita’s personal appearances is that some tricky press agent was making the mistake of gilding the Lily. Didja like that one?

Hey, you gossip-mad hobos, get your minds working on this one. It seems, according to the personal report of a visitor from Hollywood, that the very newest couple that’s fit to be tied, is Bebe Daniels and Ben Lyon. Do you remember our big drawing some months ago titled “Hollywood According to Some One Who’s Never Been There” (or something like that) in which we showed Bebe Daniels in the Lyon’s den? Well, if we ain’t the prophets. Anyway, the low down is this. Bebe and Ben are gonna be wed. Well, it seems they allege that when Jack Pickford was married to Marilyn Miller he was all agog about Bebe and planning to marry her when the divorce became final. What’s more, it is said that Ben was that-a-way about Marilyn and was also plotting to choose his parson. Now all that remains is that Jack and Marilyn take the step again—and everything will be completely mixed up. Anyway, our informant suggested that they’ll all have lots to tell each other. And that ain’t no libel.

ONE OF the biggest scares of the last month or so was the rumor which sped around that the kid, Davie Lee, who won a place in the heart of everyone who saw Al Jolson’s “The Singing Fool” was dead! A woman who syndicates a column around these states declared that the boy had died of the flu out in Hollywood. When the rumor was denied, the wise boys insisted that the producers were keeping it quiet so as not to put the kibosh on any film in which Davie appears.

Now it appears definitely that Davie Lee is plenty alive and kicking and assuring the universe that if he is dead, it’s the first he’s heard about it. Inside reports have it that Al Jolson is directing a new film and that Davie is expected to be one of the biggest hits of the year. “Here’s how” to Davie, to David’s mother, and David’s father, and please don’t any wise-cracker suggest that we’re draining the cup to the Lees!
WELL, WELL, n'hearties, it sure did look for a while as though we were gonna lose one of our pet filmsters, Dick Bartholmew himself.

Richard Bartholmew Yes, sir, when that big offer from the Clarifier of the American Boy, Flo Ziegfeld, was broadcasted and it seemed as though Dick's contract with First National might be bought by the revue king, there was plenty of weeping and "well"-ing in these parts. It seems that ziggy heard Dick warble his songs in his latest single, "Weary River," and decided that he'd found just the man to star in the musical version of "East is West." But Dick knew how we fans feel about him, and the big offer was turned down with thanks and appreciation. Which ought to lead everyone to add at least a nickle to the Sigh of Relief Fund.

Perhaps the cutest romance of 'em all is the one which is being brewed 'twixt Sue Carol and Nick Stuart who are to be seen together in shows as screen buddies. It appears that nobody waited more anxiously than Sue for the old Nick's return from Yurp where he visited his native Roumania after making his film, "Chasing Through Europe." Sue was one of the few to meet his train. It appears, too, that there's been a divorce from her hubbie, Allen H. Keefer, a livestock commission man whom she married in Chicago in 1925 when she was still Evelyn Carol buddies. It appears that Phyllis Haver, unknown to film fans, was one of the few to meet his train. It appears that Phyllis expressed her views on the domesticity. She breezed into the pleasure of a swell little lunch in her apartment at the Savoy Plaza. Phyllis expressed her views on the talkies, stating that she thought they would kill once and for all the myth of weeping and "well"-ing in these parts. She complained that some people were trying to make talking films and sequences as though it was an easy job, mentioning that she'd been called in once at six and expected to go through a final speakie scene at eight. She thinks that such scenes should be rehearsed and practiced just as they are on the legit stage.

One thing we were all het up about was to get the low down on the rumor that Phyllis and Bert Lytell were planning to live as cheaply as one. Bert has been playing on the N. Y. stage in "Brothers." It appears that the two scarcely know each other and that some guy just went ahead and made it up for a splicy item. Phyllis, by the way, is to be seen in "The Office Scandal" and "The Shady Lady" and has been recently signed up onna long contract with M.-G.-M. Phyllis has the loveliest complexion imaginable and is in the pink of condition which is reason enough to think that she's got a rosey future ahead of her.

Adolphe Rhinebeck, New York; Menjou these boys are farmers and they say that at one time none other than Adolphe Menjou was employed by them as a farm hand. They say further that Adolphe got the air from both farms but that they're certain when he pitched hey-hey he was never seen wearing a high silk hat!

Don't tell me, let me gossip . . . Joan Crawford and Doug Fairbank's welding, they say, didn't meet with any great parental enthusiasm. . . . Paramount won't renew Wallace Beery's contract. . . . Mary Duncan was in the hospital with appendicitis; getting along nicely. . . . Hugh Allen, Pathé serial star, engaged to Kay Hoffman, former stage lassie, now feature writer. . . . Dotty Parker, back in New York because she no likee "Dynamite, I Love You" as theme song for "Dynamite." . . . Will Charlie Chaplin take Georgia Hale, his leading lady in "The Gold Rush," for his third wife? . . . Recent divorces: Lillian Peachim and Reed Howes, Helen Gibson and Hoot Gibson, Renee Adoree, and William Gill. . . . Raymond Griffith can't talk above a whisper but the amplifiers make his first from nice for Christie possible. . . . Small town theatres have a system called Dramaphone, running silent films with hired actors to speak lines through a mike that is set in a sound-proof booth.

Hallam—I saw a kiss like this at the movie last night.

Audrey—Who were the actors?

Hallam—I don't know. They were sitting in the back row.

Hoops, My Dear!

First Mid-Victorian—Let's make whoopee!

Second Mid-Victorian—Allright, wait until I put on my whoop skirt.

The Bellamy Trial

What Is Home Without a Murder?

In a lonely garden cottage on a huge estate, Mimi Bellamy was discovered one morning—murdered! It appeared that she had been stabbed with a knife which was later found in the home of Pat Ives, reputed to have been Gilbert-Garboing with the murdered lady. Pat, however, had a wife, and Mimi, the naughty, naughty wench, had a husband! Who did this dastardly crime? Why, the enraged husband of the woman and the wife of her lover, of course. What could be simpler, says District Attorney Zilch, dis very strict attorney. So Sue Ives and Stephen Bellamy are brought to trial for the murder of Stephen's wife—Mimi Bellamy.

If you don't think this happened in real life, try and kid yourself out of it when you see "The Bellamy Trial" unfold in talking movie form. The start is somebody's brilliant inspiration. You see a regular edition of the M-G-M News resolving naturally into intimate scenes of the famous Bellamy trial. You see pictures of the defendants leaving their cars, you see the district attorney going into the court house, you see the courtroom beginning to fill up—and then, instead of watching what appears to be a news reel, you are suddenly in the midst of the fascinating movie of a murder trial.

Only part of the film is in talking form, but there are plenty of audible scenes to satisfy you sound-mad bozos. Me, I get pretty fed up on the lithping and thound effects. A few scenes of it are enough for Joe. But Leatrice Joy plays a handsome (Continued on page 58)

Liquor Traffic Jams

When the producers of this show had exhausted every other possible locale for films, somebody suggested, "Remember the Maine Coast." So, out of the K. O. play of the same name they constructed as thrilling and melodramatic a story as you've seen since the days when little Eva crossed the ice with the bow-wow's on her trail.

Here's how it goes: Carrie keeps a store and restaurant up in Maine. She's sealed to a no-account guy named George Callahan who's got a jail record behind him and the prospect of another before him as the result of snitching nickels from the ferry company for whom he collects fares. It's found out and it looks as though Georgie goes jaily-jaily unless Carrie can raise two thousand berries out of thin air. In the meantime, George's long lost brother has appeared and offers the cash. Babe Callahan's action isn't as philanthropic as it might seem, for he's spotted Carrie's house as a swell headquarters for his rum running. At first, she thinks of the kiddies and the honor of the McCobb's, but finally she agrees to help keep up Babe's spirits and becomes his pardner. George, having failed in his attempt to elope with one of Carrie's waitresses and the two grand, further falls down and goes bum by getting into a fracas with a prohibition agent whom he inadvertently bumps off. The first big moment of the play occurs after George has hidden the corpse in the apple bin and the agents appear in the cellar to search the house for booze. Unhand her, villain, and hold on to your seat! (Continued on page 59)
The trouble with so many people, confides this bathing beauty, is that they're always wanting to sponge off an old friend.

Mrs. Whosis—You get out of here quick! I'm expecting my husband home any minute.

Mr. McCullough—Ah, one of those modern any minute men, eh?
The most popular shades this season, confides Lily, are the ones that stay up while the girls are undressing.

Karl Dane says that the proper remark for a man who's just taken a cold shower is: "I'll be through in three shakes."

Hubby—So you want to take my wife away from me without any warning?
Bobby—Oh, no—what warning did you want to give me about her?

Bessie—So Janet cheated in the poker game last night?
Anita—Yes, she wore two step-ins.
OLD MAID—I've always had such good fortune at these auctions, but I suppose I'll get stuck in the end.

WIFE—I read that the average person speaks three thousand words a day.

HUSBAND—My dear, you are far above the average.

Two of the younger set of screen lovers are caught here in a moment of hopeful and sincere affection; they are Edna Murphy and Guinn Williams to be seen in Warner Brothers' "My Man," in which they appear supporting Fannie Brice.
Reserve is the keynote in the love-making of Clive Brook, Paramount featured player, shown here with Evelyn Brent whose contrasting jealous fury in "Interference" is absent in this study of becalmed ardor.
Audrey—Oooh, what a cavity! Don't you brush your teeth every morning?
Hallam—Yes, it's the first thing I do before going to bed.

Conductor — You certainly quieted down your little daughter and son with that spanking. How did you become so good at it?
Max—I started at the bottom of the latter.
DOROTHY—Here's where, I break my husband's neck!

POSED BY DONALD GALLAGHER, EDWARD EARLE AND ROBERT EDESON IN "FRIENDSHIP," A FOX FILM.

ROBERT—Young man, what do you mean by calling my daughter a spiteful little cat?
DONALD—Well, when she mailed back my engagement ring she marked on the package: "Handle With Care—Glass."
THE GRANDCHILDREN gather around the hearth fire in my little forty-room bungalow! A merry shout goes up! “Oh, tell us a story, grampa,” says Ivan, jumping upon my doddering old knees.

“What’s the difference between a stoic and a cynic?” I asked one night.

“We bite,” said the kiddies, biting their gin glasses into little bits. “What is the difference between a stoic and a cynic?”

“Well,” I said, meaning well, “a stoic is what brings a baby and a cynic is where you wash it.”

That’s just to explain how I got this large cut on the side of my face. I’ve come to the conclusion that the only kind of joke that can meet with success amongst the kiddies of today has to be obscene to be appreciated.

The facts of the case, were they only known, would reveal that I’m really not an old grandfather living in a forty-room bungalow with a lot of grandkiddies. Why I was never even in a forty-room bungalow. And if I have any grandchildren, I’m going to have to do an awful lot of explaining when it’s found out.

Actually, I’m Ed Ox, a Hungarian nobleman in disguise, who calls himself the Hollywoodman for short and goes about at night holding up innocent movie stars for their latest funny stories.

In this very manner did I hold up Charley Morton the other eve. Charles, who’s just finished playing the male lead opposite Janet Gaynor in “Christina” for Fox, hadn’t heard that one about the stoic and the cynic before. So, after his laughter had died down (oh, yes, there was!), he said, “Speaking of stoics, have you heard the story about the stoical Hebrew?” He told it, and if you ask me, I’d say it’s a wow.

It seems there was once a story that didn’t start “it seems there was once.” This isn’t it.

It seems there was once a young Jewish lad who worked in a factory. He was hired to stand before a great revolving whoosis and every time the whatsis reached his hand he was supposed to put in a gadget. Day after day he stood before the machine, putting gadgets into the whatsis. One day, however, something happened. There was a terrific commotion in the factory, for there had been an accident on our hero’s machine. The engines were stopped, women fainted, men ran this way and that, a doctor was called, pandemonium reigned. Before long a large crowd had gathered around the hebe.

At last the boy was carried home to his mother and father. The rumor of his great bravery went with him. So much praise was given to the young man that when his father leaned proudly over his son’s bed, he turned to the anxious friends and members of the family in the room and said: “Abie was a Spartan, a real Stoic. It’s a proud day for me that our Abie was such a brave boy. Vy, do you know that he didn’t even holler for help ven he got caught in that machine!”

Everybody in the room added his word of praise for their Abie. Suddenly, a groan from the bed indicated that the injured man had something to say.

“Holler, hell!” Abie’s thin, weak voice floated up from

LOOKING INTO
And A Few Vain Reflections

Lane Chandler's reflection is as follows:
The successful man is the one who knows what he wants and leaves it alone.

Audrey — He gave me a nice engagement ring, but the diamond has a flaw.
Maid — You shouldn't notice that—love is blind.
Audrey — Well, but not stone blind.

As Renée sits at her dressing table fixing her make-up, she confides that all's well that blends well.

When asked whom the powder on her table belongs to she answered, "Oh, that's dust between us girls."
Why I Retired From the Prize Ring

I RETIRED because of an unfair decision by a prejudiced referee.
I'll give you the fight round by round and let you judge for yourself. That's fair enough, isn't it?

Round One—The bell rang. I rushed from my corner like a tiger, but they dragged me back in the ring again. "One-Blow" Hogan shot a right to my Adam's apple and I coun¬ tered neatly by dropping to the can¬ vas. "One-Blow" got across a left uppercut to my elbow, but I came right back with the one about two old maids who owned a drug store.

We exchanged a series of sharp jabs to my mid-section. The crowd was on its feet, yelling for a knockout, but I took pity on "One-Blow" and permitted the gong to save him.
"Big-Hearted Dilley" some call me.

Round Two—"One-Blow" landed a solid right to my Stacomb, but I evened the count by kicking him in the ear. We went into a clinch, but the referee parted us just as we had the Varsity Drag going to a fare¬ you-well. "One-Blow" showered rights and lefts to my kidney and I let him have one on the bean. I chased him all around the ring, but finally he caught me. Again the bell saved him, because I was getting good and mad.

Round Three—I danced around
"One-Blow" at arm's length, meas¬ uring him off. Waist 26, Sleeves 37,
Cuffs 18½, Lapels if possible . . .
I droned to an assistant. Just then "One-Blow" warded off a terrific left hook to the bezer (the best blow of the fight, started from the floor, and, say, it would have knocked him stiff) by planting a lucky wallop on my chin.

Now, then, in view of the forego¬ ing facts, you can readily imagine my embarrassment when they re¬ vived me two weeks later. The ref¬ eree had actually awarded the fight to "One-Blow" Hogan. It just goes to prove that these big battles are never fought in the ring, anyhow.

—James L. Dilley.

My Most Embarrassing
Moment

IT HAPPENED when I was in a taxicab. I got in and told him
"67 Drake Avenue." He nodded, and off we drove. Then doubts be¬ gan to assail me. Was it 67 or was it 76? Suppose I went to the wrong place, some place where I might be unwelcome, where it would be hard to explain my presence. And the more I worried the more uncertain I became. I didn't know this town very well. The cab driver might think I was crazy. Suppose there wasn't any 67.

And so we drove on and on. I could bear it no longer. "I'm not sure of my number," I blurted out.
"Maybe it's 57 or 76 or maybe even 167. I'm all mixed up and I've lost the address. I don't know what in the dickens to do."

"Boy," he retorted, "don't worry.
Sixty-seven is right."

"Right!" I exclaimed. "How do you know?"

"I haven't been around this neigh¬ borhood three years for nothing.
Sixty-seven is right, and so is 57, and 76 and 167, and 176, and 28 and 34 and 91—only I wouldn't recommend 28 so much; too much fusel-oil in the Scotch. Well, boss, here you are—67."

I gave him a half-dollar tip and left him.

—Ray West.
Thoughts of a Man With a Hangover

OUGHTA get up and go to the office. ‘Why doesn’t Smith get to the office on time?’ ‘He’s office nut.’ Naw, that’s terrible. I feel awful. Never again. It’s foolish to drink so much, unaccustomed as I am to public speakeasies. That’s pretty good: ‘unaccustomed as I am to public speakeasies.’ I gotta pull that some time. Gosh, I’ve gotta terrible headache: I’m going to sleep. Wonder if I’d feel better if I took a bromo-seltzer. I couldn’t feel any worse. I couldn’t feel any worse. You mean you couldn’t feel any worse. I can’t feel at all. That’s foolish. I feel it’s foolish. There must have been whiskey in that fusel oil. I mean there must have been fusel oil in that whiskey. No, you were right the first time. I’d rather be right than be press agent. Pressagent. President. That might get by. That’s a good song: ‘I’ll get by as long as I have eustachian tubes.’ ‘I got eustachian tubes. You got eustachian tubes. All God’s chillun got eustachian tubes.’ You gotta be fast to sing that. Lying here and making up lousy jokes. They’re all lousy. It’s stupid to get boiled like that. Stupid. It’s dumb. It’s unnatural. I wonder how Joe feels. I wonder—zzzzzzzz.”

—Parke Cummings.

And So She Walked Home

AND after we had been riding about an hour, Gertie, and we was away out in the hills...

“Go on, Mamie!”

“Well, you know it was the first time I’d ever went out with him, an’ of course I didn’t know much about him...”

“Sure you didn’t, kid. But what happened?”

“Well, there we was away out away from anybody, and all of a sudden he says: ‘Girlie, I think there’s something wrong with the engine!’”

“He DID!”

“Yeah, that’s just what he says. And I says, ‘Listen,’ I says, ‘you got just about three seconds to get that engine fixed,’ I says.”

“You tell ’em, Gertie!”

“And he says, ‘Sister,’ he says, ‘don’t be afraid. I’ll just stop a minute or two and get the thing working better.”

“Migawd! And what did you do then, Mamie?”

“Well, kid, I knew if I stuck there until he stopped. . . . Gee, Gert, it was the wildest country you ever saw! ‘Mamie,’ I says to myself, ‘this boy may know his stuff, but you better play safe.’”

“Yeah, and then...”

—Chet Johnson.

Gene—You know, Ralph, long hair makes a man look intelligent.

Ralph—I don’t think so. My wife found a long hair on my coat and I looked foolish.

CLYDE—Then lend me a five spot.
Lawrence—So I says, “Have you anything for a dollar a pint?”
Harvey—Uh huh?
Lawrence—And he says, “Yeah—ginger ale!”

Bashful Johnny—But won’t you be seated in this chair?
Louise—After you, Mr. Arthur.
Fred—Does your wife have trouble with the servants?

Wallace—Yeah, with all except me.

Louise—Do you mean to say you hold your sweetie's hand when you go to the movies?

Alice—Yes, but I'm not strong enough to stop him.

Nick—Has Vivian got her hair dyed very black?

Sue—No, not yet.
You couldn't expect more interest from a bank than this, couldja? It doesn't take a bank teller to tell you that!

Hallam—Yvette looks hopeless since she had that quarrel with Herb.

May—Yes, she doesn't know where her next male is coming from.

The modern young man, observes petite May McAvoy, doesn't mind working his way from bottoms up.

When a young girl gets through buying all her expensive golf togs, sticks, and whatnot, May tells us, there's no doubt about her being able to break pa.
Some henpecked husbands are so neat and domesticated that they can absolutely lay their hands on anything—including mousetraps. (And cooks?)
Before the roast, darling, how would a little soup go?

Milton — Audibly.

Doris —

He — Cheer up, wife, I'll have it down in a minute.
She — Well, I hope so. It'll certainly be a load off of my mind.

She — I told you not to do the plastering yourself. I knew you'd fall and hurt yourself.
He — Don't you worry about me. I'm all white.
Nancy is smiling at the story of the suspected husband who said to his wife as he left her for the evening, "Don't sash-weight up for me, darling."

Audrey—My hubby and I are ready but how soon will your wife be ready? Hallam—Well, it'll take her a little longer than usual—she's hurryng so.

Oh, no, Lionel is not frowning at Nancy's loveliness, but the fact that there's nothing that dampens your spirits like a flooded cellar.
Where do YOU want to Grow New Hair?

Decide NOW! Let me cover that spot with new hair in 30 days, or I’ll mail you a check—I’ll be the LOSER, not you!

When approaching baldness threatens—when hair gets thinner and thinner on the temples, the forehead, the top of your head—that’s the time to accept this no risk offer. I positively grow new hair—or you pay NOTHING!

New Hair in 30 Days—Or No Cost!

Thinning hair, falling hair, dandruff, dry scaly scalp—DANGER SIGNALS ALL! Stop delaying. Stop wasting time and money on ordinary tonics, massages, tonics and oils, which you know from experience cannot possibly bring worth-while results! Save yourself from baldness this quick, easy way—through my iron-clad contract—without risk! For I GUARANTEE to end dandruff—stop falling hair—grow new healthy hair in 30 days—or I don’t want a penny of your money!

Why does baldness begin to appear? Why do ordinary tonics fail to help? In most cases of baldness the hair roots are dormant—sleeping through lack of nourishment. And tonics fail to help simply because they treat only the surface skin. To make a tree grow you don’t rub “growing fluid” on the bark. You get to the roots. That’s the simple secret of my scientific treatment. It goes beneath the surface—nourishes dormant roots directly—stimulates them to new activity—encourages quick and healthy growth of new, vigorous hair.

At the Merke Institute, 5th Avenue, New York, many people have paid as high as $100 for results secured. Now you can secure equally beneficial results at home for only a few cents a day—AT MY RISK. You grow new hair where you need new hair—or I pay, not you!

Coupon Brings FREE BOOK Explaining Treatment Fully!

Some cases of baldness are hopeless. I admit it. But so many thousands have benefited through my remarkable treatment that the facts are certainly worth knowing. Mail coupon for vitally interesting FREE booklet, giving the complete story—and, in addition, telling all about my ironclad contract, which enables you to take the treatment without a penny’s risk. PARAMOUNT emptied its safe and signed up Moran and Mack, the "Two Black Crows." The famous pair will make two feature length talking pictures. They've headlined, as you know, in vaudeville for many a year, made Lord knows how many records for Victor, and appeared in more editions than you'll guess of the Earl Carroll Vanities. No matter where they've appeared, or how often, they've always been applauded and acclaimed as if Lindbergh just stepped out of his plane. And now they're in the movies. Run home and tell your Aunt Martha, if she's not up taking a bath, that the Two Black Crows have no caws for complaint.

MARY PICKFORD, Joan Crawford's mother-in-law, will have Johnny Mack Brown as "Michael" in "Coquette," her new talkie. That's the principal male part for the former football star. Being a Southerner Johnny has been spared the trouble of acquiring an accent for "Coquette." You probably wonder where in the world they ever got that "Coquette." You probably wonder—well, the word came all right, but it didn't have the meaning which Lucien expected. First National decided Chester Conklin should take his place for there were other things for him to do. No hard feelings reported. No sir. This thriller is supposed to give you that heavy woolen underwear feeling. Ghosts, spirits, haunted rooms, in a ward—a spookeasy!

INTO the valley of Park Avenue rode the Four Hundred...no, that's not what we wanted to say. It had something to do with horses. Now what was it? Oh, yes. Yes indeed. Ken Maynard, the Western star, has finished "The Royal Rider." He does some daring horseback riding in scenes showing a contest to decide whether American cowboys or Russian Cossacks are the supreme horsemen. Ken once overheard one man trying to sell another a horse. "But he didn't sell it. The prospect had too many doubts. He said, 'The horse may be all right, but it's so small I suspect there's something wrong about it.' Giddap!

What a Difference a Few Months Make

HERE are two pictures of one of my pupils, showing his condition before and after he took my personally planned course. Three months ago, Louis Cassano was a physical wreck—veneer, emaciated, had red blood in his veins—never felt the flow of healthy, red blood in his veins. His nerves were unstrung; his complexion was sallow; he lacked the ambition to carry on. He saw my announcement in this magazine and sent me the coupon for my free book. After he enrolled, I personally planned his course, just to suit his condition, and watched his improvement as I do with every pupil. Now compare his chest, shoulders, hips, forearm and neck with those in the picture of him taken before I began my work. What I have done for Mr. Cassano, and thousands of others, I GUARANTEED to do for you.

I'll Add Five Inches to Your Chest

I'll broaden your shoulders, strengthen your back tremendously and give you an all-round development that will amaze you. I'll add several inches of muscles to your arms and legs—you'll have a grip of steel. I'll shoot new life up your spine, so that in a very short time, you'll be a 100% example of physical perfection. All this will fortify you against sickness.

Everybody's got a swell Stepping Stone to contribute and it's our job to weed out the five best. Well, there they are, friends, up there at the top of the page.

W. H. Noll shows us just how many steps it takes to change a pig into ham, M. Distefano gives us the low-down on the number of moves there are twixt a wink and a date, Georgie Vashon demonstrates the moral lesson that dice will get you to... jail very simply, Arthur O'Hara turns beef into a stew, and Marion Ellingwood broadcasts the number of steps from the farm to the city. For these little demonstrations, the ladies and gents will be the proud recipients of five berries each.

How about making up a few yourself, huh? Try solving these first and then check up your answers with those on page 62.

It's hard, but it's lots of fun once you get the hang of it. Change only one letter at a time and don't change the order of the letters. In the Air

ALL that noise and excitement you hear on the Pathé lot is not because a foreign flyer just landed from a hop over the Atlantic. No, the company has finally completed what they consider the sound and dialogue picture of the year and years to come. Cecil B. DeMille's "The Godless Girl," is the cause of all the rumpus. Not only are they sure this picture will click, but they're positive the click will be heard round the world. Which leads us to believe that the red Pathé rooster will have something to crow about.

COLLEEN MOORE, who hasn't stopped for the past ten years to get her breath or a new husband, is reeling out "Early To Bed." It's all about the wild and wilder fraternity and sorority doings. You know, where they sit on the back porch, or front porch, or for that matter any place they can find room to neck and all get snozzled, play ukes, tell naughty stories and a few girls get up, lift their skirts and do hot dances. All that sort of thing. William A. Seiter, the director, believes they'd better change the title to "Oily To Bed!"

ARTISTS EARN MORE

WHILE you are dreaming of making money ... enjoying life ... why not train your talent for drawing? A fortune may be at your finger tips if you train them now. Many people do not realize they have artistic ability. Through art, you may find the way to a famous name and a large income.

Artists are paid more today than ever before. Since the war, rates for art work have increased tremendously. Advertisers and publishers are paying millions of dollars annually to those who are trained in Modern Art.

Think of the money paid to artists for the illustrations in this magazine alone. Hundreds of successful students of the Federal School of Illustrating are now making from $2500 to $6000 a year and some are making even larger incomes.

More than fifty famous artists ... earning big money themselves ... have contributed their drawing secrets to the Federal Course. Clare Briggs, Neysa McMein, Sid Smith, Norman Rockwell and many others know the way to make money through art. The Federal Course teaches you their methods of Illustrating, Cartooning, Lettering, Poster Designing, Window Card Illustrating, etc. Through this course you can learn at home during your spare time.

TEST YOUR TALENT—FREE

Why be content with a small income at routine work when art training offers such possibilities? Write your name, age and address on the coupon and get the Free Book, "A Road to Bigger Things" illustrated below. It gives details about how famous artists of today started their careers and shows examples of our students drawings. With it, you will receive our Free Vocational Art Test. ON A STREET corner near the ocean in Long Beach there's a huge telescope, according to a tale relayed to you from Tony Moreno, through which, for ten cents, one-tenth of a dollah, you can peer either into the high heavens or far out into the blue Pacific.

Ben, the owner, was a kindly old gent with a mania for exaggeration. His mother used to say to him, "I've told you a million times not to exaggerate," but it did no good.

One evening, Antonio Moreno, accompanied by a group of friends, collected about the telescope and waited their turns. An inquisitive old lady was present and she, with her endless string of questions, amused what otherwise might have been an impatient crowd. Among other queries she persisted in knowing why it was that Ben charged ten cents whether there was a full or a half moon. When less was to be seen, why wasn't a reduction made? And why didn't they make telescopes smaller so that they wouldn't take up so much space? Ben informed her earnestly that he had purposely built it large and heavy in order to give him exercise when he carried it back and forth from his house. And so forth.

"But," she queried finally, "is it really a powerful telescope?"

"Lady," he said, "gimme your dime and have a look. Why, when you look through that telescope, anything less than seven miles away looks like it's behind you!"

Olive Borden doesn't think much of the system, either. She tells me that it's getting so now that you don't know whether it's a piece of paper or a sandwich on the plate.

Olive used to go into a drug store not far from the studio to get a bite between scenes. That's what she used to get, too—a bite. One day she walked into the store and said, "Hamb sandwich, please."

Fifteen minutes later the jerker put a sandwich, what there was of it, on a plate before her. Angered at the size and having been made to wait so long, she cried:

"Say, this is positively the smallest sandwich I've ever seen!"

The soda fountain clerk leaned over the counter and whispered anxiously, "Oh, please, lady, say that a little louder and the boss will give me a raise!"

So eventually Peggy wised up and decided that she'd introduce Betty to the lad with the idea that the little friend might say a few words and fix things up again. Instead, Billy went nose dive for Betty.

One night Betty came home, and Peggy, thinking of the good old days of yore, was still awake.

"I've been to Coney Island with 'Billy," said Betty, doing a handspring, "and I got the cutest little souvenir."

Peggy eyed her roommate carefully.

"Yeah," she remarked, "I won-
Fat Comes at Forty

Science has found the reason why people grow fat. That reason lies largely in a defective gland. To some that trouble comes in early years, but to most people after 40.

A certain gland, which largely controls nutrition, becomes weak. Then food, which should go into fuel and energy, deposits itself in fat.

No starvation, no over-work, can rectify that condition. Both are harmful. The right remedy is to activate an under-active gland. Physicians the world over now employ it.

That is the method employed in Marmola prescription tablets. They are based on scientific research on the causes of excess fat. A famous medical laboratory perfected them. People have used them for more than 20 years—millions of boxes of them. You can see the results in every city—in new youth and beauty, new health and vitality.

Do what your friends are doing. Correct the cause of excess fat. Don't starve, don't over-work. Take four Marmola tablets daily and watch the delightful results. You must correct the cause.

Do this, because this is the scientific way. Results you get without it cannot last. Do it because multitudes of people, all about you, have proved its efficiency. Do it now. Every day of delay means that your life is not being lived at its full.

- Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at 8¢ per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

CHIC SALE

CHIC SALE told us a nifty the other evening when we were fortunate enough to meet him coming out of the Egyptian Theatre. It was about a strictly old-fashioned acquaintance of his who honestly believes the devil doesn't reside in hell, as most people believe, but right here in Hollywood. Whatever modern youth endorses, the old boy disapproves.

When there's lecturing to be done, Chic likes to do it himself in his own humorous way. Mortimer Hicks' favorite discourse when Chic does visit him is on this subject—"The Movies: A One-Way Ticket to Perdition."

Uncle Mortimer has a grown-up daughter. Mildred's her name. Chic says she's the twelve prettiest girls in the old home town. However, she's got a few of the old gent's characteristics. All the boys rave about her looks. They're wearing out the bell on her phone asking for dates. Once or twice a month Uncle Mortimer goes liberal. He permits Mildred to step out.

The last b. f. she went out with didn't know Mildred or her dad very well. He got her home shortly after eleven o'clock. A light was in the living room. Her dad was waiting up.

As they walked up the gravel path Uncle Mortimer raised his long ears. By the time they reached the front door he had it open and was standing on the threshold waiting for them.

"What do you mean by bringing my daughter home at this hour?"

THE MOVIE TONE

"Yeah."
"Yeah."
"Yeah."
"Well, it gets me sore. I don't see why these guys around here don't take me to my mother!"
"Oh, oh! I'll tell you why. You look red and funny you'd scare her to death," jested the other infant.

"Say, don't try to kid me, see?" squawked the first kid. "I wasn't born yesterday!"

"Aw, you're all wet."
"You don't say so!"
"Yeah."
"Yeah."
"Yeah.

"Young man," he said sternly, "what do you mean by bringing my daughter home at this hour?"

The young man smiled apologetically.

"I know it's all foolishness, sir," he replied. "But it's her fault. She insisted on coming home early."
Flicker Quicker, Little Stars

WHEREVER she goes she's one of the biggest successes ever seen. Sophie Tucker. We're talking about her. My, how that big blonde mama does put across a song. Mammy! Warners thought that way about her, too. They signed her up to star in a full-length Vitaphone production. She's preparing a picture called "Honky Tonk." Everything is going along nicely. You never can tell, but it looks to have smash hit making. Sophie, so good!

WE'VE no word about her return from Stockholm, but we do hope Greta doesn't stay out there too long. We and several other million fans. Before she went over she made a Java love story called "Wild Orchids." Nils Asther, from the same neighborhood as Greta, takes up the duty which was once the privilege of John Gilbert. And the envy of how many? "Wild Orchids" is not a talkie. No, Greta is too Swede for words.

PATHE'S initial all-dialogue picture has the title of "Strange Cargo." This started out as "The Missing Man," but that title wasn't so box-office. Ben Glazer, who co-authored the original script, is directing the talkie version. It's a mystery play. The action takes place at sea, having something to do with sailors. And, kiddies, you know what they say about sailors, don't you? Didn't grandma ever tell you? No, well what do you think of that. We'll wise you up. Sailors have a whirl in every port!

William Fox knows a good actress when he sees one. And he knows that to get her one must beg, borrow or steal. He decided the gentlemanly and Foxy thing to do was borrow. And so United Artists loaned Camilla Horn, their biscuit, zesty blonde, to play the lead in his production, "Woman From Hell." This bewitching Horn of Twenty, since she bane cum dis countree, has been rushed to popularity with jobs. Just what she's supposed to be in "Woman From Hell" is not among our slightest ideas. From the title we would imagine she might be a Red Hot Mama, Flaming Mamie or one of those cute little devils you've heard about. You know the kind, don't you? Hell's Belles!

John Barrymore has up and finished "Eternal Love." That's why all those theatre managers are up in the attics of their theatres dusting off the S. R. O. signs. Ernest Lubitsch prepared the picture and that alone gives you an idea of how good it's going to be. But wait'll you see Dolores' hubby in it. He's in a new kind of role. Something he's never done before. But he does it as if he'd been at it for years. He's a wild mountaineer. About the wildest they ever had in the Swiss Alps. Tough, tougher and toughest, that's John. You can imagine a guy like that making love to you, girles! Ummm! Camilla Horn is the miss that falls all over the place in love with him and his cave-man caresses. He bumped into her one day and socko!—it was a case of love at first bite!

Stenographer—The girls are giving Molly Gold-digger a wedding cake. What kind would you suggest? Arthur—A sponge cake.

Does She Love You Enough?

Give a Thought to Your Physical Self

If your wife or sweetheart acts cool and disinterested with you, give a thought to your physical self. A woman looks at more than a man's face. She's thinking of his ability to protect her, provide for her, of his pride in his appearance in a fitting suit, on the athletic field, on the dance floor. When you hear a woman exclaim, "Oh, what a handsome guy!" she's not looking at his face alone. She's stared him up from top to toe. Those broad shoulders, that graceful athletic stride, the well-shaped neck and head, those strong, muscular arms and legs. They thrill any woman. Every wife and every sweetheart wants her man to be like that. Are You?

Well, you can be!

I Build Strong, Handsome, Healthy Bodies

People call me the Muscle-Builder. I make men's bodies strong and healthy. My list of over 100,000 wonderful successes includes doctors and lawyers, bookkeepers and clerks, grandfathers and granddaughters, fat men and skinny men, weaklings and nervous wrecks. By a method of scientific body-building I can do away with your body, strengthening your shoulders, cutting off fat, and generally turning you into a healthy, handsome fighting man any woman will be proud of.

In 30 Days I Prove It

In just 30 days I add one whole inch of live, flexible, sturdy muscle to each of your arms and two full inches of rippling, muscular strength across your chest. Your legs will become straight and strong, your head snap back erect, and little lumps of red-blooded muscle will begin to stand out on your broadening shoulders. What a body gives you—pep, vitality, health, strength, love, affection in her eyes that in itself will more than repay you.

I Do More Than Promise! I Guarantee It

With a body like that the thrill of living is as great as the thrill you see on every eye as you walk in, as every neck turns as attention is given to you on the athletic field, on the dance floor. With a body like that you can go anywhere and do anything and stand out in any crowd. Women will be drawn to you. With a body like that the thrill of living is as great as the thrill you see in every eye as you walk in, as every neck turns as attention is given to you on the athletic field, on the dance floor. With a body like that you can go anywhere and do anything and stand out in any crowd. Women will be drawn to you.

Yes, there's the story in a nutshell. If you're man enough to work a little for the sake of your strength, success and happiness, just sit right down and fill out the order blank. I don't ask one cent. And it's the peppiest piece of reading you ever read. Write me now.

The Bellamy Trial

defendant and one expected at any moment to hear the defense attorney conclude his impassioned plea to the jury with, "Let joy be unconfined!"

Kenneth Thomson plays the murdered lady's husband with a great deal of pathos and sincerity. Probably the most poignant moment in the show (as well as in many another show) was put over by this convincing player. The nasty old meanie of a district attorney grills him in a cross-examination (in fact, very cross) and demands to know why he stayed all night with his murdered wife in the lonely cottage instead of notifying the police. The reply comes haltingly. "Because," he says, almost breaking down, "because she was always afraid of the dark."

The love interest is worked into the story by means of a charming little girl reporter played by that sweet trick, Betty Bronson. She is attending her first trial and has met with some initial disappointment after question at her neighbor, a young news chaser pleasantly enacted by Edward Nugent.

And as for who killed Mimi Bellamy—I guarantee you'll be surprised, even though the final disclosure comes as an anti-climax to the dramatic finish of the trial itself. Nevertheless, attendance at the film is strictly obligatory. No excuses, kiddies.

Naughty Baby

All White for You

That dainty and snappy missy known as Alice White trips around for you in a frothy and fast-moving show that keeps a warm feeling around the ventricles for an hour or so. She's supported by a sweet bundle of femininity called Doris Dowson and that swellietest comedian of 'em all, Jack Mulhall.

They're a swell pair—Fay Bilson, a young news chaser pleasantly enacts the role of the wife in the lonely cottage instead of notifying the police. The reply comes haltingly. "Because," he says, almost breaking down, "because she was always afraid of the dark."

The Awakening

Oh, Hum!

UNITED ARTISTS might have selected a more interesting story for Vilma Banky's first starrer. It's a cinch that lots of lucre was lavished on the production. But money, as the old sobbing goes, isn't everything. The tale mopes slowly along. It's familiar and you'll know just what's going to happen. Vilma's performance as Marie okays her elevation as a show girl, Paul Lukas as her sugar daddy and Gary Cooper as an unsuspicious, if not a bit more gullible than his introduction at any rate, certainly a swell time for everybody with not a wasted minute to bemoan. I'm telling you.

The Shopworn Angel

Wings in a Walk

DON'T mind standing in line for this poorly titled Paramour. It's worth the wait. The bull's eye is plunked proper. Nancy Carroll as a show girl, Paul Lukas as her sugar daddy and Gary Cooper as an unsuspicious doughboy are the triangle characters in this surprisingly different romance. Richard Wallace, the megaphone man, directed it masterly. It smacks, not of Hollywood, but of life as we season it.

You Congo Now

ON CHANEY, bless his art, portrays Flint, a dead-legged ivory trader of the Congo. He'd been a stage magician until he was crippled fighting to keep his wife from home-wrecker Crane, played by Lionel Barrymore. Later he finds his dead wife with a baby, whom he believes the offspring of her lover. Flint's revenge is on the poor kid. He raises her to be Miss Hesperus herself. Well, folks, you can just imagine Flint when he learns he's poor ole pappy. It's all thrilling and chilling, so drag along the sweetie.

The Spieler

Hale, Hale, the Gang's All Here!

DASHING along in the footsteps of "The Barker" comes this entertaining production of carnival life. Here we have Renée Adoree as the mistress of a big carnival. She has made up her mind that there's to be no more grift in the lute. The grifters are headed by a big bobunk not much can be said for the story; is used for the sound and song effects, warble and that's enough to make you follow the tale of the son of a Jewish jeweler with much interest. Incidentally, the R. C. A. Photophone is used for the sound and song effects, and in my estimation it can't be beaten by any of the other contrivances.

Synthetic Sin Moore Fun!

BANG-BOBBED Colleen Moore, ring leader of the flappers, is cast as Betty, a stage girlie who wants to be sophisticated. She's sure the picture will have you sitting on the proverbial veranda. You know that the government men are waiting at the bridge with guns and orders to shoot quick. You see Babe start out on another truck with Carrie riding with him. You see the brake rod on George's truck snap on a terrific hill that leads to the bridge. And then, you blasé thrill-seekers, a boat comes up the river and you see the drawbridge swing open! Whoops!

Irene Rich does well in the title rôle. George Barraud plays the weak baddie of a husband with convincing naturalness, and Robert Armstrong is his usual smiling self as Babe. Incidentally, the late Theodore Roberts agrees that he's on his last bootlegs and is sending out his last load from the Underworld. Ned McCobb.

Romance of the Underworld

A Heart Guy!

This picture would have added to the glory of Mary Astor but for a fellow named Robert Elliott. As a smooth-working dick he walks off with all the glory, honors and everything else. And not even Mary gets close enough to stop him. Not even Mary, as a nite club hostess who reforms and marries love and wealth. Mons. Elliott sees to it that she's not bothered by old acquaintances. Particularly Derby Dan, with Ben Bard wearing the hat. Underworld pictures may tire you, but Romance of the Underworld hasn't a yawn in it.
The Strange Case of Lena Smith
Esther Best She's Done!

GANG, would you care to see a well-done character study of an unfortunate little girl? And you promise not to moan if it doesn't leave you with a smile? Then step right up to the box office. Esther Ralston is an innocent Austrian peasant lass who really thought a wealthy student-officer loved her. James Hall, gripe it or not, is the playboy who goes wooden. He has little emoting to do. But Esther's got plenty. Bring your hanky.

Nothing to Wear
So Farce So Good!

BOYS, if you've never seen Jacqueline Logan before you'll see enough of her in this whirlwind to make it up for. You just know she wears 'em. Silky Jacqueline naturally takes your eyes and mind off what else is going on. But it seems a husband sends his wife an expensive fur coat with a lavey-dovey note. She thought it came from a boy friend. That's the starting gun for a grand movie mix-up with the finish line in a police station. We suggest Nothing to Wear for cold, wintry nights.

A Lady of Chance

Let's Rise and Shearer!

YOU'LL whoop it up for Norma in this soundie, girls. So'll your ticket-buyin' boy friends. It's a twirling tale of blackmail with a lotta laughs and just enough throat jumpin'. Not only that, but it shows just how smart you missies can be when you want. Before it's over, though, you're convinced that, after all, there's nothing like being in love with the man in love with you. Have your sweeties watch carefully when Norma and Johnny Mack Brown put their sweeties watch carefully when Norma and Johnny Mack Brown put your sweeties watch carefully when Norma and Johnny Mack Brown put their sweeties watch carefully when Norma and Johnny Mack Brown put their sweeties watch carefully when Norma and Johnny Mack Brown put their sweeties watch carefully when Norma and Johnny Mack Brown put.

Hot Off the Lot

WHEN we heard the good news that Ben Lyon, recently signed to star in Columbia Pictures, would first appear in "The Quitter," one of those Man-Who-Came-Back affairs, we were reminded of a story. There was an innocent little extra girl, or she might have been just plain dumb, who approached a camera man and asked: "Did that guy (and she pointed very unladylike to an assistant director or something) tell me the truth when he said that guy over there (yes, she pointed again) was Thomas Meighan?" The cameraman looked at her. "Nope, he's Ben Lyon."

SIR PHILIP GIBBS, who loved his cup of tea and cricket, found time to write a story which he titled "Darkened Rooms." It wasn't bad at all. "Darn good!" yelled the critics as if they were the chorus of sixty male voices in "The Student Prince." Paramount heard the delayed echo over here and purchased the Gibberish for an all-dialogue picture. Came the casting about for a cast. William Powell and Evelyn Brent. There's the couple. Playing in "Darkened Rooms" together! Tsk, Tsk.

DON'T tell us you haven't heard the latest, girly! Why, yes, John Gilbert, the love maker, having completed "Desert Nights," his woozy African adventure piece, already is on deck for "Way For a Sailor." It's a tale of the sea and ships as you should have guessed. Beatrice! I heard what you said about Jack's boat. A ship A'joy. The theme song ought to be "Nothing's Too Good—This is a Darn Good Ship!" There's the couple. Playing in "Way For a Sailor" together! Tsk, Tsk.

There seated on the couch was a little girl with blond curls, aged six.
"This is my granddaughter," said Willy's father.
"Why — why — then that makes her my—daughter!"

"And so she is. We've kept it from you all these years."

"What a world it is, after all," said Willy, surprised and pleased.
"I'm very glad to know you, Miss—er—er—"

"Call me Hepsibiah, damn your soul," said the little girl, smiling.
"And now, I suppose you want me to tell you about Life?"

"That's why I brought him here, granddaughter," hinted Willy's father, as he left the room.

So Willy's daughter told her father about Life, gently, sweetly; told him the real meaning of sex, love and marriage, as only a little daughter, aged six, can. It was all certainly a big surprise to Willy. He went out into the great out-of-doors exulting in the realization that to err is human, to forgive divine, but that you learn about women from err.

Win a Curtiss Flying Course

Rules and Conditions

1. Anyone over the age of fifteen residing in the U. S. A. is eligible to enter the contest, except members of the Curtiss Flying Service, the staff or employees of FILM FUN, or members of the families of either organization.

2. The list of the six stars, accompanied by a letter not over 200 words on the subject “Why I Want to Fly,” must be written on one side of the sheet and must be mailed to arrive in the offices of FILM FUN, 100 Fifth Avenue, New York City, not later than midnight of May 2nd, 1929. The pictures of the stars are not to be cut out of the magazine. List each name by the number under the picture.

3. The contestants (one boy and one girl) who send in the most correct list of the six movie stars and whose accompanying letter, in the opinion of the judges, is the most interesting, the clearest, and most convincing, will be transported from their home to New York by airplane and railroad, will be given a ten-hour course in flying, and then will be returned to their homes free of charge. During the time of instruction they will receive free room and board, said time not to exceed one month.

4. The judges will be the editor of FILM FUN and three famous flyers chosen by the Curtiss Flying Service. These three are Clarence Chamberlain, William Boeing, and George Haldeman. Their decision will be final.

5. If the entries of two or more contestants are considered equally good by the judges, each will receive the designated prize in full.

PAUL LENI, who directed “The Cat and the Canary,” “The Man Who Laughs,” and “The Last Warning,” is trying like nobody’s business to get Joseph Schildkraut to play the important lead in his next big production. It’s called, should the kiddies care to know when you sit them on your knees after supper tonight, “The Bargain in the Kremlin.” The principal character in the tale is a violinist and that, my dear people, explains why Paul Leni is so anxious to get this boy Schildkraut. Joe’s a swell violin player along with being a good actor. The part is right down his alley and shouldn’t be any trouble for him. Besides he’ll get an enormous salary. And it’s all for just fiddling his time away!

ROYAL DIAMOND AND WATCH CO.
ADDRESS DEPT. 9-R 170 BROADWAY, NEW YORK, N.Y.
"WELL, folks, I guess we'll have to lock up the piano and make faces at ourselves."

Helen Parker's party was starting out more like a funeral than a good time.

"Isn't Betty Knowles coming?" an anxious voice sang out.

"Unfortunately Betty is quite ill tonight and Chet Nichols is late as usual," replied Helen gloomily. "I wish Sis wasn't away at school and she'd make the keys talk for us."

"I know some brand new card tricks," volunteered Harry Walsh.

"Great!" said Helen. "I'll go and find some cards."

While she was gone I quietly stepped up to the piano bench, sat down, and started to fumble with the pedals underneath. Someone spotted me. Then the wisecracks began.

They Poke Fun at Me

"Ha! Ha! Ted thinks that's a player-piano," chuckled one of the boys.

"This is going to be a real musical comedy," added one of the fair sex.

I was glad I gave them that impression. Their surprise would be all the greater. I kept fiddling around the pedals—making believe that I was hunting for the foot pumps.

"Come over to my house some night," said Harry, "I've got an electric player and you can play it to your heart's content. And I just bought a couple of new rolls. One is a medley of Victor Herbert's compositions—the other . . ."

Before he had a chance to finish I swung into the strain of the sentimental "Gypsy Love Song." The laughter and joking suddenly ceased.

It was evident that I had taken them by surprise. What a treat it was to have people listening to me perform. I continued with "Kiss Me Again" and other popular selections of Victor Herbert. Soon I had the crowd singing and dancing to the tune of the latest syncopation.

Finally they started to bombard me with questions . . . "How? . . . When? . . . Where? . . . did you ever learn to play?" came from all sides.

I Taught Myself

Naturally, they didn't believe me when I told them I had learned to play at home and without a teacher. But I laughed myself when I first read about the U. S. School of Music, and their unique method for learning music.

"Weren't you taking a big risk, Ted?" asked Helen.

"None at all," I replied. "For the very first thing I did was to send for a Free Demonstration Lesson. When it came and I saw how easy it was to learn without a teacher I sent for the complete Course. What pleased me so was the fact that I was playing simple tunes by note from the very start. For I found it easy as ABC to follow the clear print and picture instructions that came with each lesson."

"Then I had the crowd singing and dancing to the music of the latest syncopation."

"Great!" said Helen. "I'll go and find some cards."

"You can't go wrong. First you are told how a thing is done, then a picture shows you how, then you do it yourself and hear it."

Thus you actually teach yourself right in your own home, without any long hours of tedious practice. Without any dull or uninteresting scales you learn how to play real music from real notes.

Free Book and Demonstration Lesson

Tom Keene, RKO-Radio's western star, shows the proper grip to use in tossing a long-horned steer. Or are you more interested in knowing how to grapple with a bum steer?

Alene Carroll, of Universal Pictures and no relation to the far-famed Earl, certainly has what it took to give his "Vanities" a strong footing on Broadway.

It's a fact

DOROTHY WILSON has the distinction of being the only leading lady who ever typed the script for her own picture. Dot was a stenographer at the RKO studio when good old Fate reached out and picked her for the lead in Age of Consent. Now she'll take all her dictation from directors.

Just to show you what a furor Garbo has created, a New York newspaper assigned a gal reporter to follow the seductive Swede to Europe. Aboard ship, Garbo didn't emerge from her cabin for two days, after which she shocked the passengers by stepping out on the deck attired in shirt and shorts.

Ralph Forbes recently made a stage appearance in a production sponsored by Ruth Chatterton. Its title was Let Us Divorce, which is what you would call irony.

Cecil B. DeMille is still searching for a girl to portray the part of Ancaria in The Sign of The Cross. She must have: eyes with the flash and fire of Lenore Ulric's; hands with the delicate grace of Pavlova's; legs with the symmetry of Marlene Dietrich's; a seductive bluesinging voice like Josephine Baker's; torso-tossing ability equalling that of Gilda Gray and the mysterious allure of Garbo. In other words, Cecil is looking for the girl we've all been searching for.

There are four types of lovers, according to Wynne Gibson, and these are: the tender, the noble, the masterful and the romantic. She is personally in favor of all of them.

It is the opinion of Director Gregory LaCava that boys are twice as vain as girls. Between scenes, he states, a young man spends most of his time in front of a mirror. So there, or something! (Continued on page 52)

A RE you like the man in this picture... ruled out, discriminated against, barred from parties and popularity which others enjoy?

Man or woman, you are probably just as attractive, just as interesting, just as clever as any one else. Yet others seem always to capture all the good times while you alone are left out in the cold.

Why? Find out why... answer that question... and the bars that shut you out will fade away and disappear.

Most people who miss the good times that come with popularity are themselves to blame. Friends and acquaintances would gladly invite you out, ask you to parties, if only you had something to offer that would add to the general gaiety. For that, after all, is why we have parties to get together and entertain each other.

And yet, so many girls and men think the ability to entertain is a special talent. If you mention music (the greatest single factor in popularity) they say, "I can never learn to play the piano or any other instrument. I am too old. I'll need a special private teacher. It will cost so much and take so long. No, not for me."

And so they remain, barred outsiders because they don't realize that today no one needs to be a musical genius to learn to play... that thousands like them have acquired a priceless musical education, right in their own homes, without teachers, without tremendous expense, without tedious practicing and boring scales.

Forget Theories—Do What 600,000 Others Have Done

Already, six hundred thousand men and women have chosen this new method of learning music. Every one of them felt that something was missing from their lives. Ever so many must have just as discouraged as you may now be. And every single one of them chose this method of learning to play their favorite instrument.

Most of them started towards real popularity by coming across just such an advertisement as this. At first they may have doubted that it could be true... that a way had been found to make learning to play easy, delightful and inexpensive instead of boring and prohibitive because of the cost of private teachers.

But every one of them read the offer we are now going to make to you. And every one of them proved to their own satisfaction that they could actually learn to play in their own homes, without a teacher, in half the usual time and at a cost of only a few cents a day!

Make up your mind right now to read this offer through. Take advantage of the opportunity it brings you, yet place yourself under no obligation. Here it is... the offer that convinced six hundred thousand men and women that the U. S. School of Music Method was the ideal way for them to learn to play.

ANYONE may enter the contest except employees, and their families, of Universal Pictures Corporation and FILM FUN. Contestants must submit a complete review of "Once In A Lifetime," as specified. In case of ties, each contestant will be awarded the prize tied for. Decisions of the board of judges will be final. Contest closes at midnight, December 1st, 1932. All entries must be postmarked no later than that time. Send them to the Contest Editor, FILM FUN, 100 Fifth Avenue, New York City, N. Y.

AFTER you read the details, you'll have to agree that this FILM FUN-Universal "Once In A Lifetime" contest is unusually interesting and entertaining and surprisingly simple to do. Besides, you'll have to admit that $500.00 in cash prizes is particularly attractive and certainly an incentive to send in an entry. In other words, you'll find it's one of those contests which pops up Once In A Lifetime.

All you have to do is complete the accompanying review, filling in the spaces with words you believe best suited. By so doing you create an original review of "Once In A Lifetime."

It's not necessary to clip the review when you've completed it. If you wish, simply write or type it on a sheet of paper, underlining all words which you have supplied. In no way will this impair your eligibility for a prize.

And just think of those prizes! Five hundred dollars in cash prizes! First prize is $150.00. Surely that's worthwhile trying to win, isn't it? And if you don't win it, perhaps, you'll be awarded second prize of $75.00 or maybe the third prize of $50.00.

Aside from these prizes, there are ten fourth prizes of $10.00 each; fifteen fifth prizes of $5.00 each and then, just to help swell the quota of prize winners, fifty $1.00 sixth prizes will be awarded. With all those prizes to shoot at, you stand a fairly good chance of hitting the mark.

It is not required that you see "Once In A Lifetime" to compete. The incomplete review is so constructed that it is possible to fill in all the spaces without having seen the picture on the screen.

IN all there are 53 words left out of the review. It is up to you to put them in. Drag out the dictionary, if you must, and collect a choice assortment of adjectives and adverbs. Insert them where you think they're best fitted. Don't use more words than are required. If there's space for only one word and you use two instead, it's not going to help any when the judges start deciding who wrote the best reviews.

You'll notice that aside from supplying several adjectives and adverbs, you're expected to fill in a few nouns and verbs. Otherwise, the contest would be far too easy and not half as much fun.

Prizes will be awarded to contestants who submit the most complete and best worded review of "Once In A Lifetime," as specified. In case of ties, each contestant will be awarded the prize tied for.

The judges of the "Once In A Lifetime" contest will be Carl Laemmle, Jr., General Manager of Production of Universal Pictures; Paul Gulick, Director of Publicity of Universal Pictures, and Ye Ed of FILM FUN.

The contest closes at midnight, December 1st, 1932. All entries must be postmarked no later than that time and sent to the Contest Editor, FILM FUN, 100 Fifth Avenue, New York City, N. Y.

"That last highball I mixed seemed to make a great hit with Freddie."
"Why, did you see him smack his lips?"
"No, but I saw him smack yours!"

"What's the idea of saying I'm trying to arouse discord in the cabinet, your excellency?"
"Because I have incite information."
POSED BY SIDNEY TOLER AND LOUISE FAZENDA IN "UNION WAGES," A UNIVERSAL COMEDY.

"What's to be done with a husband who goes out and drinks all the time?"
"Drinking."

POSED BY NANCY CARROLL.
APPEARING IN PARAMOUNT PICTURES.

Judging from the large number of fur coats, announces Nancy, it seems that some girls have a gift for petting.

POSED BY BOBBY CLARK AND PLAYERS IN "THE ICEMAN'S BALL," AN RKO-RADIO COMEDY.

"So this is the guy that said he ran things in his home, eh?"
"Yeah, he must have meant the errands."
Detective—If you marry the man’s daughter you’ll certainly take a load off his shoulders.

City Slicker—The load in his shotgun, eh?

“Will the pre-war Scotch you ordered for our party be good stuff?”

“Absolutely. I know the guy that’s going to make it.”

“Stop stalling and tell me why you’re here! I hate people who answer a question with another question!”

“Who doesn’t?”
"I quit England and my sweetie because of a few angry words."
"Well, can't you persuade her to take them back?"
"Not very well; it was her husband who said them."

"If I park along the back road with Jerry is there any likelihood of being disturbed?"
"Oh, yes, you'll be disturbed by his bashfulness."
"Stop! My lips are for another."
"Very well. I'll kiss you on the neck."

"Doris gets her good looks from her mother."
"Oh, is her mother a natural beauty?"
"No, she's a cosmetic saleslady."

"There's an India rubber man across the apartment house court."
"Really?"
"Yes, he's a Hindu Peeping Tom."
"What's happened?"

"I locked my wife in a closet until she would promise to let me smoke in the house."

"Did she finally kick through?"

"Yes, right through the door and pushed me into this pool."

---

Husband—The last time I caught my wife with a boy friend, he didn’t think my gun was loaded.

Lover—Did he think right?

Husband—No, he was dead wrong!
Billie heard of a nudist colony which is so strict that even the lettuce is served without dressing.

Hubby—There you go again! Woman, when I married you I got expressions of sympathy from one-third the people in town!

Wifie—Yes, and I got them from the remaining two-thirds.

"I've come to the conclusion that horse racing is practically at a standstill."

"You must have bet on the same horse I did."
Stenog.—Are you going to the Rotary Club meeting this week, Mr. Smith?

Boss.—No, my back's still sore from last week's meeting.

The girl who complained that, as a petter, her boyfriend couldn't get up any steam, reveals Faith, didn't realize that he worked as a janitor.
"I went to the movies with Jane here last night."
"Did the show have a happy ending?"
"Yes, she let me kiss her good night."

"I'll turn on the radio, if you're a music lover."
"Never mind, tootsie. I can love with or without it."
“But why don’t you care for a corn-fed girl like me?”
“Because when you’re used to it, it always takes twice as much to get you snozzled.”

“How can you girls tell when a man is going to propose to you?”
“By counting the cocktails he’s had.”
POSED BY SUSAN FLEMING, APPEARING IN PARAMOUNT PICTURES.

After observing the way the modern girl dresses, says Susan, one comes to the conclusion that there's seldom a slip between the skirt and the hip.

POSED BY ROBERT YOUNG, ROBERT WARWICK AND HELEN TWELVETREES IN "UNASHAMED," A METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER PICTURE.

"We're convinced you don't carry your liquor like a gentleman."
"Oh, but I do. I've got a monogrammed hip flask!"

POSED BY ROBERT YOUNG, ROBERT WARWICK AND HELEN TWELVETREES IN "UNASHAMED," A METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER PICTURE.

"My word is as good as yours!"
"No, it isn't, you cat! My word is usually No!"

POSED BY JOYCE COMPTON AND WYNNE GIBSON IN "LADY AND GENT," A PARAMOUNT PICTURE.
POSED BY THELMA TODD AND BUSTER KEATON IN "SPEAK EASILY," A METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER PICTURE.

Scotch Bride — Jock, we'll never forget this trip to Niagara Falls, will we?
Scotch Groom — No, beloved, it's cost me only half as much as I expected it would!"

POSED BY DOROTHY LAYTON, APPEARING IN HAL ROACH-METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER COMEDIES.

Have you heard of the Scotchman, asks Dorothy, who was terribly upset at being late for church? He wasn't late enough to miss the collection.
It's always best to see things in the right light, Joan has heard it observed, especially if it's a girl in negligée.

“I certainly regret putting a beautiful diamond on that girl's finger a couple of months ago.”

“Are you a rejected lover?”

“No, I'm an installment jeweler.”

—Maid—I'm sorry, sir, but I'll have you know I'm far and away a good girl.

—Master—Yes, but how are you when you're snuggled up close?
YOU marry a man's virtues, but you have to live with his vices.
—Loretta Young.

I want to do some really fine things to be remembered by, and then I shall say goodbye, thanks a lot, it was lovely.
—Joan Crawford.

If I'm not a star within five years, I will leave pictures.
—Adrienne Ames.

When I first bid myself to the stage "skidoo" was a real smart crack and girls blushed at "Oh you chicken." Only swell houses had more than one bathroom and bad breath had no other name.
—Groucho Marx.

I want to ripen.
—Tom Brown.

A woman is a sentimental sap to believe that a man's love—any man's love—will last forever.
—Claudette Colbert.

Unless I'm in love, I can't act.
—James Dunn.

I can't endure sympathy. A kindly pat on my bailed shoulder would drive me nuts.
—Tallulah Bankhead.

Any girl ought to live alone for awhile.
—Maureen O'Sullivan.

Every morning when I wake up I say to myself, "America, I love you!"
—George Raft.

No matter what I do, I'm supposed to be funny.
—Bert Wheeler.

I'm always dithering.
—Judith Wood.

I shall go native one of these days.
—Dolores Del Rio.

I want to do something.
—Joel McCrea.

My wife is charming. After dinner we get down on the floor and roll about and play.
—Nils Asther.

Gee, it's fun to work in the movies!
—Marian Nixon.

If I only had myself—God, I could get along on water and birdseed!
—Eric Linden.
"Is Ronald’s dental practice such as to require a nurse as assistant?"

"Yes, he can’t get enough petting from the few patients he has!"

"Take off your hat. You can’t lose anything by always being courteous."

"You can’t, eh? That’s the way I lost my job as top sergeant in the Marines."

"He isn’t sleeping well at all. Last night he had to count 50,000 sheep before he could get to sleep."

"Gosh, I’ll bet his fingers are tired this morning."
"Why don't they ever serve spinach with a Welsh Rabbit at this country club?"
"It's against the rules of the greens committee."

"The sergeant's in trouble again. I bet you'd sweat if you were in his shoes."
"Yeah, dragging such heavy things around would make anybody sweat!"

"Jack—Do you ever say things you shouldn't after you've had a few slugs of whiskey?"
"Driver—Yes, indeed, I keep saying I'd like to have a few more."

WITH A GOODLY SPRINKLING OF HUMOROUS BITS
"Believe me, of all the girls here, the instructor certainly keeps me jumping!"

"Yes, you siren, jumping off his lap every time anyone enters his private office!"

"My dear, your playing was marvelous! Your husband must certainly forget his troubles when you play on that grand piano."

"No, on the contrary, it reminds him of the payments due on the blamed thing!"
POSED BY BETH SELWYN AND MARGARET PERRY IN "NEW MORALS FOR OLD," A METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER PICTURE.

"Are your husband's kisses still as fiery as ever?"
"I couldn't say. I haven't caught him and his secretary together lately."

"I'm not going to marry George because of the way he drinks."
"Why, I thought he drank moderately!"
"He does. He drinks so moderately I can't get him to propose."

POSED BY JULIE HAYDON AND PHYLLIS FRASER, APPEARING IN RKO-RADIO PICTURES.

"There's nothing wrong with a kiss, in your eyes, is there?"
"Well, I suppose not, but personally I prefer the boys to kiss me on my lips."

Diane and Virginia hit the mark when they claim that the trouble with a girl saving her kisses for a rainy day is that the fellow who calls to get them probably will be all wet.
Aw, when did you decide your marriage to me couldn't last?

"Thash right, cutie. The other ninety-five per shent wash alcohol!"

That fellow over there thinks he's a scenario writer, but everything he writes is no good.

"I know it. I tried to cash a check he wrote."

"Aw, when did you decide your marriage to me couldn't last?"

"About a week before I married you!"
"Was Victor’s proposal the result of a sudden impulse?"
"Yes, I sent out and got some gin on the spur of the moment."

"I feel wretched for having appeared at the nudist colony today in just a leaf."
"It wasn’t the first time you’d appeared with just a leaf, was it?"
"No, but it was the first time the leaf was poison ivy!"

"Unfaithful Wife—I’m just about exhausted and certainly you don’t intend to ask me any questions because my husband shot that man in my bedroom?"
"Coroner—Yes, I do. How about taking dinner with me some evening?"
POSED BY HAROLD LLOYD AND KENNETH THOMSON IN "MOVIE CRAZY." A PARAMOUNT PICTURE.

First Drunk—Do you think my money goes to my head?
Second Drunk—Yes, just as fast as you can lift the highball glasses to your lips!

POSED BY MARLENE DIETRICH IN "BLONDE VENUS," A PARAMOUNT PICTURE.

The reason girls waste so much time getting dressed, muses Marlene, is simply because the female of the species is more diddly than the male.

POSED BY LOUISE FAZENDA AND VINCE BARNETT IN "HESITATING LOVE." A UNIVERSAL COMEDY.

"Sweetheart (hic), the whole world revolves about you."
"I told you not to take that last drink."
"Is it true you're going to break with me because of a single harsh word?"
"Yes, you say it every time I ask you to marry me."

"Could I help pulling the drawer out, when I'm still peeved at my boy friend for leaving me last night without a word."
"So he took French leave?"
"No, he kissed me goodbye in the usual way."

"I don't believe your owner gave your engine a thought when he bought you," said one auto to another. And then, according to Paulette, the other auto replied: "No, I'm afraid he wanted me just for my body!"
POSED BY TOM MIX AND MICKEY ROONEY IN "MY PAL, THE KING," A UNIVERSAL PICTURE.

"I decided I wanted a diamond-studded tooth, Mr. King, and I got it."

"My! My! Whoever put such a thing into your head?"

POSED BY PHYLLIS CRANE AND TOM O'BRIEN IN "IT'S A CINCH," AN EDUCATIONAL-MERMAID COMEDY.

Crack Pot—I have a plan to go to Cuba, get a lot of sugar and turn it into alcohol.

Gal—I'll bet when your wife hears that she'll start raising cane!

POSED BY A PLAYER AND THELMA TODD IN "SEAL SKINS," A HAL ROACH-METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER PICTURE.

"So the boys use you for a football, eh?"

"Yes, they're always making passes."

POSED BY CHARLEY CHASE AND PLAYERS IN "IN WALKED CHARLEY," A HAL ROACH-METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER COMEDY.

"My cellmate and I have quite a scene every night before we retire."

"You mean you quarrel?"

"No, I mean a stunning little blonde across the street always undresses with her shades up!"
Inmate—Did the doctor say he could cure my eczema?
Guard—He wouldn’t say, your excellency.
Inmate—I see; afraid to make any rash promises, eh?

"So you've been getting threatening letters through the mail?"
"Yes, a company is threatening to take out my radio."

Nut Inventor—Well, folks, I finally got an order at my invention factory today.
Folks—Is that so? Who's it from?
Nut Inventor—From the landlord—to pay my rent or get out!
POSED BY RICHARD CARLE AND SALLY BLANE IN "BOYS WILL BE BOYS," A UNIVERSAL COMEDY.

“Well, did daddykins hear some good addresses at the businessmen's banquet tonight?”

“I'll say! The gentleman on my right whispered the addresses of three chorus girls I'm just dying to meet!”

POSED BY DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS, JR., AND NANCY CARROLL IN "SON OF RUSSIA," A FIRST NATIONAL PICTURE.

POSED BY BILLY BEVAN, CLYDE COOK AND A PLAYER IN "THUNDERING TAXIS," A HAL-ROACH-METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER COMEDY.

“I hear his wife drives him to work every morning.”

“Yes, he's so lazy she always has to chase him out of the house with a broom.”
"Aren't the football games less expensive this year?"
"Yes, last year they cost me a dollar a gallon more for gin."

"The village I come from held a bathing beauty contest last week and the promoter offered to let the Ladies Aid Society name the winner."
"And did they?"
"I'll say! They named her hussy!"
Not forgetting the fellow, recalls Polly, who tried to scrape up an acquaintance with the toast of the town.

Page 32
"Did you hear the women in the courtroom laugh when the dance director's wife testified at the divorce trial that he didn't know how to make love?"

"Yes, it was three of the chorus girls and his wife's maid."

June has been informed of a bloke who thought that Emily Post was a branch of the American Legion.
"Horsefeathers!"

INEXPERIENCED

BLONDE STENOGR—Don't you hate to take dictation from the boss when he's had one too many?

Brunette Stenog—I couldn't say. I've never had that experience.

Blonde—Say, don't try to kid me. He was plenty tight yesterday and I saw him call you into his private office.

Brunette—I know, my dear, but I didn't take dictation.

Bootlegger's Wife—The officers are battering down the door, darling! Is the evidence destroyed?

Bootlegger—He! Almost!

Hotel Guest—You told me I'd get a good view from this room and all I can see from here is the court.

Clerk—Yes, but wait till the girls across the way get home, sir.

THE ACID TEST

Keeper—You think you're sane, eh? Well, if we give you your liberty will you keep away from liquor and women?

Asylum Inmate—I certainly will!

Keeper—Then you stay in. You're still crazy!
TWO MUCH FOR THEM!

Maid—Madam, a bunch of reformers saw your veil dance at this evening’s performance and the stage manager says they’re coming after you.

Burlesque Queen—Well, tell them I’m much too tired to go out on any party tonight.

First Drunk—This beer seems to be half foam. What causes that?
Second Drunk—The bartender!

Uncle—Young man, do you realize what those wrinkles in your mother’s brow mean?
Willie—Yes, that she hasn’t been to the beauty shop the last few days.

NOT MISTAKEN

Gent (entering attorney’s office)—I want something to quiet my nerves.
Attorney—But I’m not a doctor, my good man. I’m a lawyer.
Gent—I know it. I want a divorce.

Customer—Yes, that’s all I can think of just now.

"Okay, boys. Now we’ll re-take that explosion scene."
“I don’t know what to give my father for his birthday. Sometimes the idea to give him a silk shirt wins out, then the thought of a cigarette case seems to be the choice.”

“How will it end?”

“Oh, I suppose it will be a tie.”

“Fellows have to be careful of the rocks when they take a girl canoeing, don’t they?”

“Yes, in the moonlight they’re apt to promise them and then have no money to buy them.”

“How would you like a big diamond for an engagement ring?”

“Surrounded with sapphires, thanks.”
"I can’t trust you around the corner."
"Well, why don’t you go around the corner with me?"
"Oh, it’s when I’m around the corner with you that I can’t trust you."

"Your father has objected to me because of my youth."
"Why, you’re close to forty and your youth is spent!"
"I know, but he found out how I spent it!"

"The Grand Duke ruined my good name last night."
"Why, the dirty dog!"
"Yes, I had it embroidered on my hankie and he dropped cigar ashes on it."

"I understand you’re an Irishman. I’ll bet it doesn’t take much to make you fighting mad."
"No, only about half a pint."
“Can your movie actor friend get a date for me tonight who’s handsome and refined?”

“Why, of course! He’ll call up his double for you.”

Tailor—By the way, boys, did you hear of the four old maids playing bridge in a Turkish bath?

Boys—No, tell us about them.

Tailor—They were playing to see who’d win the rubber.
He—I drove across the continent in five days.
She—Quite a trip! Which leg of the journey did you like best?
He—The one I saw in a Chicago night club.

"The stage manager told me he was going to fire me right after the show."
"Did you kick?"
"You bet. Higher than I ever did in my life."
The football enthusiasts who didn’t enjoy the Princeton game as much as the Yale game, reports Phyllis, didn’t have the same knockout brand of liquor.

“As soon as my mother-in-law left, I began missing things.”

“Missing valuables?”

“No, I missed the way she ordered me around and the way she’d clean out the ice-box.”

“Don’t call your mother. I’m a good husband, and I run true to form.”

“Yes, true to any form that’s a 36 or under!”
POSED BY SALLY BLANE, GUINN WILLIAMS AND FRANK ALBERTSON IN "BOYS WILL BE BOYS," A UNIVERSAL COMEDY.

"So you think you could make the football team, if you could only learn to pass?"

"Yes, if I could learn to pass in Greek, sociology and economics."

POSED BY CLAIRE DODD, APPEARING IN PARAMOUNT PICTURES.

The first year of married life, revises Claire, is the hottest!

POSED BY NANCY CARROLL AND DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS, JR., IN "SON OF RUSSIA," A FIRST NATIONAL PICTURE.

"If you kiss me like this again, I'll yell loud enough to wake up the man who lives next door."

"Why, who lives next door, anyhow?"

"A minister!"

Love Me Tonight

If you're longing for a good musical picture—the kind that seems to be scarce these days—you'll be more than satisfied with Love Me Tonight. For one thing, it combines excellent photography with catchy tunes; and for another thing, it has Maurice Chevalier, whose screen appearances are always occasions for fun and excitement. Fifty million fans can't be wrong.

In Love Me Tonight, Maurice is a poor, but practically honest, tailor whose leading client is a Viscount (Charlie Ruggles), whose taste for clothing is much better than his income. The Viscount, in fact, has no dough at all, and Maurice, in desperation, finally journeys to the chateau of the gentleman's uncle to try and collect a few of his hard-earned shekels. The uncle (C. Aubrey Smith) is a tough old skinflint who thinks so much of his wayward nephew that he's secretly planning to write "Welcome" on his back and use him for a doormat.

Arriving at the chateau, Maurice surprises the Viscount at an inopportune moment, and the poor guy is forced to introduce him as a baron from a distant land. Maurice is about to reveal his identity to the uncle when who should breeze in but the princess (Jeanette MacDonald). She is a blue-blooded daughter of aristocracy who is simply pining away for love, and since there is practically no one of her rank in the neighborhood, outside of Charlie Butterworth, she gets very little necking. And that's why her blue blood is so blue.

This, of course, is very sad, and Maurice immediately decides to give the princess a royal good time. Jeanette, who isn't so dumb, goes for Maurice, as does Myrna Loy, who hasn't had a man within reaching distance for years. Maurice, of course, is in love with Jeanette, but (Continued on page 63)

Back Street

CART along the hankies when you take in Back Street, the Fannie Hurst tale which features Irene Dunne and John Boles. It isn't one of those over-sentimentalized tear-jerkers about the poor house and such, but a flicker so genuinely and humanly done that your heart strings come in for a thorough tugging.

Irene Dunne gives a performance which rivals her exceptional work in the unforgettable Cimmaron. It's her picture all the way, although John Boles, actually doing more acting than posing, repeatedly threatens to steal a bit of her thunder.

Universal has been unsparking with the bankroll and Director John M. Stahl, as usual, has injected a master's stroke into proceedings. There's nothing Hollywood about the story whatever and that's always worthy of several rounds of applause.

The tale begins some twenty-five years ago in Cincinnati when most folks thought the appearance of the automobile was simply a novelty which wouldn't last. Irene is a step-daughter who, because of the fact, is gay and carefree and always dating traveling salesmen. But she's smart, knows when fun ceases to be fun and, consequently, no matter what others think, preserves her ideals, one and all. She's waiting for the right man to come along.

He does. John Boles. But he's already engaged. Nevertheless, he wants her to meet his mother, hoping it might change everything, including his engagement. But Irene, helping her half-sister out of a vital situation with a man about to leave town, is late for the appointment and never meets John's mother.

It's years later when John and Irene meet again. He's married and the father of two children. She's still single and as much in love with him as ever. From there on (Continued on page 63)

Judge—And you say this young lady belongs to the local garment workers' union?
Guy—Yes, your honor, she's worked me for every garment she owns.

"One more question, Mrs. Flapdaddle—did you hide that flask where that flapper daughter of yours couldn't find it?"
"I sure did! I hid it in the dishpan under the dishwater!"
"Would you recognize the man who was found under your bed if you saw him again?"

"Oh, no. My husband hit him too many times with the floor lamp."

"The defendant claims she killed this crooner because she loved him. Do you think she ought to be acquitted?"

"Surely; if she loved a crooner that proves her insanity."

"Attorney—Have you any distinct recollection of that week of July 23, 1932?"

"Movie Actress—I certainly have! That was the week I didn't marry anybody."
Jack Raine, popular British film star, gives his impression of the young girlie blushing for shame (or is the sun in her eyes?). Jack, incidentally, is saving his money for a Raine day.

If you wonder where Monte Blue has been keeping himself, here's the answer—he's been making personal appearances with a Fanchon and Marco revue. The orchestra will now play Am I Blue?

A breathing spell during the filming of the beach sequence in “Three on a Match” finds Bette Davis chatting with Director Mervyn Le Roy and Warren William. The boys are probably telling her that things are looking up again.
Dorothy Layton, M-G-M, has a new idea in carrying around her golf "tees." It's all very well for Dorothy, but can you imagine keeping your eye on the ball when Dorothy reaches for a "tee"?

Stuart Erwin has found a way to cut expenses and that's to do his own suit pressing. Stuart has loads of fun "rolling his own" and refers to it as the Freedom of the Press!

George M. Cohan, soon to be seen in "The Phantom President," does a few steps to Jimmy Durante's tunes as Claudette Colbert looks on. And what a looker she is, eh, boys?
Jeanette—When you told the censor what you thought of him, did he threaten to clip you on the chin?

Maurice—No, he threatened to clip me in the cutting room.

Director—I understand you eluded all admirers on your trip to Europe by hiding behind glasses?

Actress—Yes, I hid behind the glasses in the ship’s bar.

"Beat it! My mother told me to watch out for you sailors!"

"Is that so?"

"Yes, she says you’re a pack of wolves in ship’s clothing."
"If Fay lets Charley kiss her, she'll get a pain in the neck."

"Why, that isn't where she'd let him kiss her."

"No, but that's where his wife would choke her."

"You thankless cuss! Here I go and fix up a couple of dates for us and now you're squawking. What do I get for my pains, anyhow?"

"I'd suggest you get 'em a taxi and send 'em home."

POSED BY BING CROSBY AND PLAYERS IN “THE BIG BROADCAST,” A PARAMOUNT PICTURE.

“What’s happened to him, girls?”

“His car turned over and he and the girl he was with escaped with just a few scratches.”

“He was lucky!”

“The heck he was! His wife found out about it!”

It’s a Fact

picture. The day the scenes were ready to be filmed the player was absent. He was in the Los Angeles city hoosegow.

When Douglas Fairbanks finished his last picture on the island of Tahiti he established a fund to support a leper colony there.

A perfume concern wants to sponsor a radio program featuring Clark Gable. The firm believes a gent with Clark’s sex appeal could even talk the girls into dousing themselves with Jockey Club or Sloan’s Liniment.

In order to keep relatives out of their hair, many screen stars support them or set them up in business in locations as far away from Hollywood as possible. Relatives, the stars believe, are nice to have—but not around.

The three most popular American picture stars in France, according to a native, are Charlie Chaplin and the Douglas Fairbankses, Junior and Senior.

TALLULAH BANKHEAD won’t talk during a meal...bathes three times a day...hates parties and crowds... Paints her fingernails red... if she acts mad at you she likes you... won’t wear anything fluffy... called Talloo by her friends...

and doesn’t mind being talked about.

For a necking scene in a recent college picture, the director tossed the script aside and instructed the young extras to go ahead on their own. Imagine being paid for that kind of work, gang?

A theatre in Philadelphia features a balcony sitter as a business boosting stunt. Like his cousins of the flagpole, the sitter remains in one spot in the balcony, where he eats and sleeps, until he is unable to continue. We could name a couple of pictures that would send any endurance sitter screaming to the street, but we won’t.

When Eddie Cantor’s The Kid from Spain is finished, sixteen of the prettiest will be selected from the seventy-six chorus girls to tour with the picture. The favored young ladies should be pretty nice, since the seventy-six were picked from almost nine thousand applicants.

It’s Lewis Milestone’s opinion that Joan Crawford gives the best performance of her career in Rain. This is due, he believes, to the fact that the picture was made on Catalina Island, far from the eyes of executives, friends and visitors. Joan is the nervous type and hates to have anyone around—except a couple of good cameramen.

Each day for eighteen months, Bing Crosby has received a letter from an unknown admirer in Brooklyn. Looks like mutiny in the Rudy Vallee ranks.

If George M. Cohan were president, people would have more food and more time in which to eat it. People eat too fast, and just to prove it he tells the story of the circus worker who heard the dinner bugle and started running for the mess tent. He took two steps and fell down. Getting up slowly, he brushed himself and went back to work. “Aren’t you going to the mess tent?” a bystander asked. “Nope,” the guy replied, “Too late now.”

Harpo Marx never took a music lesson in his life. Neither has Groucho, for that matter, but he can’t play anything.

Eddie Cantor is now incorporated. The comedian has so many theatrical, radio and picture deals that he... has placed an Inc. after his name and hired a corporation manager.

Bette Davis would like to live in Hawaii . . . was nicknamed Spuds when she was very young . . . hates highbrows . . . Richard Bennett thinks she looks like a composite of his daughters, Connie and Joan . . . real name is Ruth Elizabeth Davis, but she changed it to Bette while in boarding school.

Neil Hamilton was employed at one of Mr. Ford’s well-known plants before he became associated with bigger and better vehicles.

Kay Francis never wears jewelry, because she has always had a strange dislike for burglars.

Microphone jitters, the disease we spoke of a few months back, is cropping up again. It’s a nervous tension which causes a player to tangle up his lines. Some of the recent examples are: “It’s forty miles as the fly crows,” “Never put a thrush across this foothold again,” and “He never earned a cent of life in his money.”

William Powell was born in Pittsburgh . . . saves rubber bands and old hats . . . has a swimming pool filled with cold water so he can go to it every day and give it a dirty look . . . has more suits than any man in Hollywood . . . likes to play opposite Kay Francis, although his favorite actress is Carole Lombard . . . hates prohibition, and thinks there ought to be a law against it.

ZERO-JEL is not a suppository, powder, liquid or tablet. It is a delicate, greaseless jelly discovered by a famous German chemist and recommended by the best physicians for positive feminine hygiene.

For many years doctors have prescribed ZERO-JEL under a medical name to privileged patients . . . at high prices. And now it is available to women everywhere at a price every woman can afford!

ZERO-JEL embodies one of the most effective antiseptics known to science, yet it is used full strength and will not irritate or injure the most delicate tissues. Easy to apply, (no mixing, no bulky apparatus), effective instantly and for hours after use, so dainty that even those closest to you need never know you use it. ZERO-JEL is the truly feminine antiseptic, doing away with every unpleasant feature of marriage hygiene.

ZERO-JEL when applied, forms a delicate film which germs cannot penetrate. It gives double assurance of the healthful antiseptic cleanliness women seek in marriage hygiene.

NO SERVICE

Blonde Nurse—Sir, the patient in room 17 is complaining about the lack of attention he’s getting.

Head Surgeon—Well, give him what he wants.

Blonde Nurse—I’ll resign first!

CHARLIE CHAPLIN is determined that his two sons are not to appear on the screen, notwithstanding the fact that Fox has signed both of them, as well as Lita Grey Chaplin, their mother. The ace comic has advised his attorney, Lord Wright, to contest the Fox contract on the grounds that as father of the children he does not wish them to become actors and that the entire scheme in hiring them is merely to exploit his name. On the other hand, Fox is expected to go the limit in getting the court’s approval of the contract. Should Fox proceed to get court approval of the contract, Chaplin will probably attempt to bring further legal action to enjoin the use of his children in a picture without his permission.

FATHERLY LOVE

First Father—Doctor Hottman has been looking after my daughter but he got fresh.

Second Father—Well, did you call in another physician?

First Father—Yes, to bandage up Dr. Hottman!

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS unknowingly changed the run of things in Tahiti when he took his film outfit there to make “Mr. Robinson Crusoe.” When the natives saw the company’s American manner of dress, they, too, wanted to dress that way. Especially was it true in regard to the women. They noticed that Maria Alba wore a beret and silk pajamas and soon were clamoring at the general store for just such articles of clothing. None were to be had, unfortunately. They insisted the storekeeper order them from San Francisco. He did and since then has had to replenish the supply. So, if the gals have tossed aside their alluring native costumes and clothed themselves in silk pajamas and berets, you can blame Doug Fairbanks, the old meanie!

NOT MUCH OF A SUGGESTION

Dancer—I’m planning to have on nothing but a feather in my new dance. What kind of a feather would you like to see me wear?

Boy Friend—A humming-bird feather!

DID you know that Will Hays, for the third time, has refused to okay the “Lulu Belle” script which M-G-M has prepared for Jean Harlow? Or that Eddie Dowling is composer of the presidential campaign song for Franklin D. Roosevelt and it’s entitled “Row, Row with Roosevelt!” And are you aware that of 25,000 people in Hollywood interested in movie production only 650, according to Variety, are under contract and assured of employment for any period of time? That Samuel Colt, son of Ethel Barrymore, appears in Columbia’s “That’s My Boy”? And that Paramount may star Susan Fleming? Or that Chaplin, the world-famous basso, will make “Don Quixote” as a talkie in French and English versions for Nelson Films, Ltd.?

STILL More Chatter: Leo Carrillo has gone to London for stage work . . . Buddy Rogers is mentioned as Mary Pickford's next leading man. Colleen Moore is to be co-starred with William Haines in "Press Agent." Will Rogers may do a Broadway play under the management of Jed Harris. Universal has decided that, henceforth, Boris Karloff must appear only in weird characterizations. Incidentally, he's as hard to see in Hollywood as Garbo. M-G-M will re-make "The Arab," as a talkie, Ramon Novarro again playing the title role.

Production on "Tin Foil" was held up for three weeks because Robert Montgomery had to have his appendix clipped... Edmund Lowe was sought as a substitute when Bob was taken ill, but couldn't be had and hence the decision to hold up production. Harold Lloyd intends to start production on a new comedy in December. James Murray, well on his way to stardom a few years back, has returned to the screen and will play the lead in Universal's "Lost Special," a serial... Howard Jones, head football coach at University of Southern California, is not only technical director of "Rackety Rax" for Fox, but also appears in the production... Eric von Stroheim, believe it or not, recently established a speed record in shooting at the Fox lot when he shot 14 scenes in four hours for "Walking Down Broadway"... All "Silly Symphonies" from now on will be in Technicolor... Bridge fans will be delighted to know that William Powell is to appear in "Grand Slam," the story of which is built around contract bridge... Joan Marsh, let out by M-G-M, is free-lancing... Vera Reynolds is attempting a screen comeback... Ann Harding will appear in "The Animal Kingdom," despite contrary reports, playing opposite Leslie Howard... Garbo has made application in the courts of Sweden to legally have her name changed from Gustafsson to Garbo... 75% of "Prosperity," the Marie Dressler-Polly Moran flicker, is being re-made with the story changed almost entirely... Billie Dove is now appearing in vaudeville in an especially prepared sketch.

SOUTH SEA STUFF

"You told me you'd give me something so that the mosquitoes wouldn't annoy me down here. This stuff is gin. The mosquitoes will still bite me!"

"Yes, but after you've drunk it you won't know they're biting you!"

CONCLUDING the Chatter:

Paramount, in hope of making another Marie Dressler out of Alison Skipworth, has three yarns for her in preparation by star writers... Claudia Dell, posed for that trade mark you see on all World-Wide pictures... Baby Rose Marie, the kiddie radio star, has been signed by M-G-M for one picture and it's thought she will be used opposite Jackie Cooper... Nancy Carroll was taken out of the cast of "Night After Night" in order to appear in "Hot Saturday," with Constance Cummings, borrowed from Columbia, taking Nancy's initial assignment... Amelia Earhart, although tempted with several attractive movie offers, has yet to succumb... Arthur Lake is re-reading a "Harold Teen" series for a broadcasting series, having received Carl Ed's okay... Fox is trying its hardest to sign Helene Madison, the Olympic swimming champ, to a contract... Al Jolson's missus, Ruby Keeler, has been given a choice assignment in Warners' "42nd Street." Radio, M-G-M and Universal were all bidding for the services of Lee Tracy when Warners let him go, with M-G-M finally bagging him at a reported $1,500 weekly salary... Fox has given Will Rogers a new contract which calls for three pictures in two years at $100,000 a picture... It's buzzed about that Warner Brothers will use Eleanor Holm, the Olympic swim champ, recently signed to a seven-year contract, in a feminine sequel to Tarzan and have her as a wild jungle maiden... Film 'extras,' unable to find movie work have turned to posing for advertising and illustrations for magazine stories... Harpo Marx, through arrangement of Max Reinhardt, will appear in pantomime with the Moscow Art Players as a guest artist... Ben Lyon has been snapping unposed photos of Hollywood celebrities and sending them to fan mags.

POSED BY FRANK ALBERTSON AND A PLAYER COMEDY: "BOYS WILL BE BOYS." A UNIVERSAL COMEDY.

Doorman—Oh, I remember you. Isn't your wife a little woman who comes up to your shoulder?

Patron—Yes, and starts looking for complexion and blonde hairs.
CONGORILLA. Fox. Another trip to the jungles with the Martin Johnsons, who were going that way anyway. Supposedly the first picture of its kind with sound effects recorded on the spot. Lots of good action stuff and not more than the usual quota of hokum.

CROONER. Warner Brothers. A woz comedy, depicting what happens when a crooner’s nasal throatings go to his head. David Manners is first-rate as the moronic megaphoner; Ann Dvorak does a neat job as his girl, and Ken Murray walks away with the picture in the rôle of a wisecracking press agent who thinks a crooner is a fellow who was born with a silver spoon in his mouth—and forgot to take it out!

DOWNSTAIRS. M-G-M. In a story written by himself, John Gilbert does much to regain his one-time regal position in the cinema world. As a mischievous chauffeur, John’s pranks are extremely amusing until a rather tragic climax blurs things a bit. Virginia (the missus) Bruce, Olga Belandova and Paul Lukas.

DOWN TO EARTH. Fox. More homely philosophy from Will Rogers, who can only wonder how the scenarists are going to steal the honors. Worth seeing.

DOCTOR X. M-G-M. Probably one of the most expensive hostleries ever assembled, complete with snappy dialogue and hot and cold running stars. Garbo, John and Lionel Barrymore, Wallace Beery and Joan Crawford, as if you didn’t know.

DOWNTOWN. Paramount. The picture is not nearly so virile as its title. In fact, it’s hardly something you’d go through heck to see. Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen attempt to do a What Price Glory? in milady’s boudoir, which is no place for it. What should have been light comedy is transformed by these boys into another Quiet and Flag day.

EDDY'S HOP. Warners. Another trip to the jungles with the Martin Johnsons, who (if the boys will pardon us) is a mischievous chauffeur, John’s pranks are extremely amusing until a rather tragic climax blurs things a bit. Virginia (the missus) Bruce, Olga Belandova and Paul Lukas.

EDDY’S HOP. Warners. Another trip to the jungles with the Martin Johnsons, who (if the boys will pardon us) is a mischievous chauffeur, John’s pranks are extremely amusing until a rather tragic climax blurs things a bit. Virginia (the missus) Bruce, Olga Belandova and Paul Lukas.

EDDY’S HOP. Warners. Another trip to the jungles with the Martin Johnsons, who (if the boys will pardon us) is a mischievous chauffeur, John’s pranks are extremely amusing until a rather tragic climax blurs things a bit. Virginia (the missus) Bruce, Olga Belandova and Paul Lukas.

EDDY’S HOP. Warners. Another trip to the jungles with the Martin Johnsons, who (if the boys will pardon us) is a mischievous chauffeur, John’s pranks are extremely amusing until a rather tragic climax blurs things a bit. Virginia (the missus) Bruce, Olga Belandova and Paul Lukas.
LOVE ME TONIGHT. Paramount. The inimitable Chevalier in a charming and slightly naughtily flicker, with music, Jeanette MacDonald, Myrna Loy, Charles Ruggles and Charlie Buttersworth. Reviewed in this issue.

MOVIE CRAZY. Paramount. Harold Lloyd's latest, and the swellest thing he has done since the talkies descended upon us.

MY PAL, THE KING. Universal. What happens when Tom Mix moves in on the mythical kingdom of Olvania is plenty. Tom wins the favor of the boy king (Mickey Rooney), saves him from conspirators, and gallows off. It's all very swell entertainment.

MYSTERY RANCH. Fox. George O'Brien once more proves that clean living pays, for if Georgie had spent his evenings drinking gin like me and youse he'd never have been able to rescue Cecelia Parker from a college.

Another OKAY, AMERICA! Universal. Columbia. Lee Tracy of knifing each other as Barbara Weeks looks "White Eagle," and we hope Buck wins the on in evident horror. It's a scene from "Devil and the Deep," which also features the scenario writers are on Gary's side. It's tough with Gary Cooper, especially when you see he'd never have been able to rescue Cecelia Parker from a collections.

ONE IN A LIFETIME. Universal. A grand satire on the movies, without a bit of the original play's bite removed. Jack Oakie, Aline MacMahon and Gregory Ratoff deserve medals.

ONE WAY PASSAGE. Warner Brothers. William Powell as a suave crook who is picked up in China and placed on a boat to return to the gallows. Aboard ship he falls in love with Kay Francis, who doesn't know of his difficulties. A genuinely unusual ending climaxes a picture that's entertaining and high-grade all the way. Aline MacMahon, Warren Hymer and Frank McHugh are in supporting roles.

REBECCA OF SUNNYBROOK FARM. Fox. When Janet Gaynor turned this down she did herself a good turn, for it's mushy stuff that's just a bit too oozy for consumption. Marian Nixon is stuck with the role of Rebecca, the sunshine girl, and our heart goes out to her.

RED-HEADED WOMAN. M-G-M. Entertainment plus, with Jean Harlow splendid as the torrid-topped temptress who pulls herself up the social ladder literally by her own shoulder straps. Chester Morris, Una Merkel and Lewis Stone help things considerably, but it's Jean's picture and you'll go for her in a large way.

SKYSCRAPER SOULS. M-G-M. Drama in a big city skyscraper, with Warren William as a gent who ruins others in order to further his own ends. Warren builds the skyscraper, has a few affairs with lovely ladies, and goes about causing more trouble than a nice movie hero ever should. Maureen O'Sullivan, Verree Teasdale, Norman Foster and Jean Hersolt.

STRANGE INTERLUDE. M-G-M. Eugene O'Neill's masterpiece transferred to the screen, with Norma Shearer, Clark Gable, Alexander Kirkland and Ralph Morgan headed the cast. In case you don't know about "Strange Interlude," it's the one in which the players' thoughts are revealed with sound effects.

This will teach Charles Laughton to get tough with Gary Cooper, especially when the scenario writers are on Gary's side. It's "Devil and the Deep," which also features Tallulah Bankhead.

THE BIG BROADCAST. Paramount. Everybody's radio favorites join hands with Stuart Erwin, Leila Hyams and Sharon Lynn in an amusing and highly entertaining comedy drama of the wild air waves. Radio celebrities include Bing Crosby, Burns and Allen, Kate Smith, Vincent Lopez, Stoopnagle and Bud, The Street Singer, Cab Calloway, and the Mills Brothers. Are you lis'enin'? THE BIRD OF PARADISE. RKO-Radio. Dolores Del Rio in a Hawaiian setting—and who could ask for anything more? A beautiful production which must have set the producer back considerable mazuma, but it's art. Joel McCrea has the male lead, and your girl can keep her eye on him while you're enjoying Dolores. Very much worth seeing.

THE CRASH. First National. Ruth Chatterton goes very British in this one, and with results that are somewhat dire. It's a dull and inane unreeling, with Ruthie doing all she can to tear down her reputation as First Lady of the Screen. Go, but at your own risk.

THE CROOKED CIRCLE. World Wide. A rather swell mystery story that surrounds itself with enough comedy to relieve you of the jitters every time they are about to overcome. Cast includes Ben Lyon, Irene Purcell, ZaSu Pitts, James Gleason and C. Henry Gordon.

THE DARK HORSE. First National. Warren William as a go-getting campaign manager who railroads Guy Kibbee, an innocent bystander, into the governor's chair. Guy is just a poor but honest burglar who suddenly finds himself the people's choice, and many amusing situations arise. Bette Davis and Vivienne Osborne.

THE FIRST YEAR. Fox. Charles Farrell and Janet Gaynor together again. Before you rush off to the nearest movie palace, you can at least stop while you tell us what it has to do with a young married couple and their problems. Everything turns out lovely, though, and no one is gladder than the actors.

THE JEWEL ROBBERY. Warner Brothers. William Powell, one of the movies' better crooks, devotes his spare time in this one to relieving precious ladies of their priceless jewels. The ladies love it, for William has a way of taking a jewel, but he finally meets his fate in Kay Francis. Good stuff.

THE LAST MILE. World Wide. Adapted from the stage success of two years ago which brought Spencer Tracy into the limelight. Practically the entire action takes place in a prison death house, and there are no women in the picture. Highly dramatic, and worth a visit. Preston Foster, George Stone, Noel Madison and Alice Franco.

THE MAN CALLED BACK. Tiffany. Another ample title would have been The Plot Called Back, for it's the old favorite theme built around the broken-down gent in the South Seas who fights his way back to civilization and dear old London. Conrad Nagel, Mae Busch, Myrna Loy, and John Halliday are effective, but the plot gets in their hair.

THE OLD DARK HOUSE. Universal. A great big gumshoe old meanie, Boris Koff, finds himself a brand new set of makeup and roams around the house scaring nice people like Lilian Bond, Melvyn Douglas and Gloria Stuart, not to mention Raymond Massey and Charles Laughton. Well done and full of chills.

TOM BROWN OF CULVER. Universal. Well done story of life at the famous military academy. Around it is built a plausible plot which enables Tom Brown (in person) and his cohorts to act like they meant it. Richard Cromwell, Ben Alexander and H. B. Warner have featured roles.

TWO AGAINST THE WORLD. Warner Brothers. A rather tame story for Connie Bennett, compared to her recent What Price Hollywood? Concerns a rich young lady who sets her cap for a young lawyer, Connie is attractive and things like that, but every once in a while the plot jumps out and scares everybody. Neil Hamilton, Allen Vincent, Gavin Gordon and Hale Hamilton.

THE much discussed "I Cover the Waterfront," which is to be made into a talkie by Reliance Pictures will have as its star, Edmund Lowe, who is wisely being borrowed from Fox. It looks like a real chance for Eddie to strut his stuff.

Work on the new, Al Jolson flicker, "The New Yorker," is about finished and will soon be ready for market. Al has a particularly strong supporting cast, including many popular comics of the screen, such as Harry Langdon, Bert Roach, Chester Conklin, Roland Young, Vince Barnett, Tammany Young, Victor Potel and Heine Conklin. The feminine players include Madge Evans, Dorothea Welbod and Bodit Rosing.

Robert Young and Ruth Hall will supply the love interest in Eddie Cantor's forthcoming "The Kid From Spain." Lyda Roberti and John Miljan, of course, have featured parts. The direction is in the capable hands of Leo McCarey.

M-G-M undoubtedly will have a box-office smash in the releasing of "Red Dust," which co-stars Clark Gable and Jean Harlow. Victor Fleming did the directing and he's been responsible for many an outstanding production. Theatres had better install asbestos screens.

John Barrymore will shortly begin work on "The Public Be Darned" for RKO-Radio. His leading lady, as was generally expected, will be Gwili Andre, who is somewhat of a cross between Garbo and Dietrich, all of which makes it swell for Gwili.

Gloria Swanson's new picture for United Artists will be "Perfect Understanding." It's completed and will be making the rounds shortly. The cast, which is predominantly English, includes Laurence Olivier, Genevieve Tobin, Heather Thatcher, John Halliday, Sir Nigel Playfair, and her own hubby, Michael Farmer. It was thought at first that Michael would have the leading male role, but plans were changed and, considering how little acting experience he's had, it's perhaps all for the better.

His production of "Mr. Robinson Crusoe" safely released, Doug Fairbanks has set sail for the Orient on a big game hunt. He's bringing along a camera, so you never can tell, he's...

The Most Misunderstood Girl on the Air

Unpleasant things have been said about Kate Smith, but you must know her true story to judge her fairly. Read it in the new issue of RADIO STARS.

What's Rudy Vallee doing these days? Is it true that Myrt is actually Marge's mother in real life? What has his new wife done for Paul White? How did Stoopnagle and Budd happen to get launched on their career of nonsense? Are radio salaries really as high as reported?

If you missed the first issue of RADIO STARS last month you simply can’t afford to make the same mistake again! Because this is the kind of a magazine you’ve wanted for a long time—just full of choice morsels of information about the glamorous personalities you hear so often but know so little about. If you want to know what they’re really like you’ll relish.

he realizes he is only a tailor and he presses his suit with the knowledge that Jeanette can never be his. After several adventures at the chateau, the uncle learns Maurice’s humble station, which, in his opinion, is only a local stop. The word gets to the princess, who promptly faints. She comes to, however, just in time to see Maurice trudging down the road to the train. Immediately she gets the idea that being a tailor’s wife isn’t a bad job for a princess, and she catches the train and Maurice just in time, for a minute later the picture ends.

Love Me Tonight, in case you want to know, is one of Maurice’s very best efforts. His supporting cast is especially good, and the entire production is full of those neat little touches—some naughty, some nice—that go to make up delightful entertainment.

is told one of the most beautiful, heart-piercing love stories you’ve ever enjoyed. It’s colorful throughout, never lagging in interest and definitely one of the best pictures of the season.

BLONDIE OF THE FOLLIES

THEY’ve handed Marion Davies a typical Joan Crawford story and it’s one of the smartest moves M-G-M has ever made. Blondie of the Follies is overloaded with appeal and sympathy and the fans should gobble it up.

Besides, Marion never had a better supporting cast, considering that Robert Montgomery is cast as her leading man, Billie Dove as her girl friend, Jimmy Gleason as her father, ZaSu Pitts as her sister and Jimmy Durante as a friend. Edmund Goulding did the megging, which is sufficient to indicate that the direction is flawless.

One of the screamingest bits you’ll ever witness on the screen is when Marion burlesques Greta Garbo with Jimmy Durante posing as her impassioned lover. It’s Grade A hilarity that’ll leave you limp.

Marion and Billie are girl friends who live with their families on the east side of New York. Billie leaves home and eventually pops up in the Follies because of her beauty. Later, when Billie visits the old neighborhood, she picks up Marion and takes her to her gorgeous apartment. It’s there Marion meets Bob, who, is a wealthy playboy and the fellow who foots the bills for Billie.

He soon finds out that Marion is different which is the cue for him to promptly fall in love and give Billie the air. He gets Marion in the Follies and she becomes a hit. But all the while Billie is burning up because she lost Bob. Marion agrees to step aside. She does it quite definitely, too, allowing some rich old oil man to tie her up in a pent house, as our Joan might do.

It takes a lot of footage to straighten things out, but you’ll enjoy the unraveling immensely.

HORSE FEATHERS

T THE Brothers Marx—four of them, by actual count—emerge from their padded cells for their annual fling in the talkie industry, and this time they call their efforts Horse Feathers. Like their other films, the title has nothing at all to do with the plot, and the plot has nothing at all to do with anything. In other words, it’s a typical Marx brothers offering, full of Groucho’s wisecracks and Harpo’s mugging. Or is it Muggo’s harping? Anyway, it doesn’t make a bit of difference, because it’s all fun and everybody’s got a good time.

Most of Horse Feathers occurs on a college campus, except when Harpo is chasing dogs down the main street, or when Groucho is visiting a speakeasy trying to buy football players. You’ll need to know, though, that Groucho becomes president of the college in order to graduate his son (Zepo), who has been there ever since the college widow was a girl. And what a girl, by the way, for she’s Thelma Todd, and has Zeppo between the devil and the deep blue C’s, D’s and Flunks. Chico is the campus bookie who sells the freshest liquor in town, and Harpo is the local dog catcher who snarls unsuspecting hounds with portable lamp-posts.

What there is of the plot starts rolling when Groucho, in trying to purchase a couple of football players, signs up Chico and Harpo by mistake. These boys know no more about football than Garbo does about lumberjacking, and their antics in the crucial game are guaranteed to have you howling. Groucho, in the meantime, is giving most of his spare moments and all his best wisecracks to Thelma. This is swell with Thelma, for there is something about Groucho that she craves. That something is his team’s football signals, and Thelma is trying to sneak them... for the opponents.

First there on the Marxes don’t let the story get in their way. Instead, they throw the script aside and indulge in their mad antics until you’re holding your neighbor’s sides with laughter. And it all rushes to a super-super happy ending where Thelma is united in marriage to Groucho, Harpo and Chico.

Groucho, of course, is the busiest and the dizziest of the quartet. He dashes from one scene to the next, spinning a steady stream of gags and keeping a weary eye open for a well-turned ankle. Harpo, believe it or not, doesn’t pursue a single female in this opus, for this time it’s dogs and nothing else. Thelma Todd is grand as the college widow whose course most of the campus is pursuing, and the rest of the cast is more than okay. So, if you’re in a mood for monkey business, you can’t go wrong on Horse Feathers.

DOCTOR X

If you haven’t had a good case of the creeps lately, here’s exactly what the doctor ordered. It’s a squirmy sort of flier, entirely in Technicolor, with Lionel Atwill in the title role giving a fascinatingly ace-high performance.

Doctor X is a rather mysterious sort of medic who conducts a surgical research laboratory filled with trick and spooky apparatus. His staff is decidedly more sly than he is and when a flock of brutal killings are committed in the vicinity of the lab, the police quickly suspect that one of the doctors has been doing the knitting. The weapon used in all the murders was an extraordinary one, found only in Doctor X’s institution and supposedly used exclusively for surgical purposes.

Rather than allow the police to investigate and thereby cause unfavorable publicity, Doctor X begs that he give your heart a strenuous thumping.

His ties galore to shriek and gasp and he promises to find the murderer in 48 hours through scientific experiments.

In the meantime, Tracy, a newspaper reporter, as Doctor X’s daughter of Dracula, the police quickly suspect that one of the doctors has been doing the knitting. The weapon used in all the murders was an extraordinary one, a super-super happy ending where Thelma is united in marriage to Groucho, Harpo and Chico.

We can't get married until

"We can't get married until I earn more money." Thousands of young men are saying that today. Thousands of girls are giving that as the reason the marriage dates are being put off and off. Sometimes it gets a little embarrassing, too, to have to keep on giving that excuse. "For no girl likes to admit that she's holding out for a fortune!"

It takes money to support a home three days. And you're right to wait. But don't hold up. The years of youth are precious years. They will never return. Thousands of men have faced, prepared themselves for advancement through the home-study courses of the International Correspondence Schools. Hundreds of them report salary increases of $10, $15 and $25 a week. Many are earning $75, $100 and $150 a week. Some are earning $10,000 and $15,000 a year. Others have become owners of businesses of their own.

C. S. S. can help other men to raise their salaries. It can help you. At least find out how. It won't obligate you to ask for it. One simple act may change your entire life. Do it now. Do it for HER!

Native Swimming Star—I wonder what would happen if I offered to teach that pretty long distance swimmer a new stroke?

Gal—You'd have your hands full!

Native Swimming Star—Oh, yes?

Gal—Yes, full of grease!
Just as the fresh delicious juices of the fruit pour at the first touch of the orange "squeezer"...so the delightful juicy flavor of Life Savers Fruit Drops is released the instant they touch the tongue!

Orange...Lemon...Lime...Grape...each in the inimitable Life Saver shape...each with the incomparable Life Saver formula...all perfectly packaged...truly an amazing new taste sensation!
Swift and breathless, those final moments of thrilling play. Too swift and breathless to last. But there's an after-thrill that's even better: The quiet satisfaction of a good cigarette... so fragrant and rich, so mild, so incomparably mellow that it could only be a Camel... And that's your advantage, too.
Every year one picture leaps out of the parade of pictures to startle, amaze and thrill the world! For months Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has secretly prepared for you a dramatic spectacle more ambitious than anything yet undertaken by this producing organization. Previewed in Hollywood as this magazine goes to press it is acclaimed as greater than "Hell Divers." Watch for it!

A METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER PICTURE
"I have REDUCED MY HIPS 9 INCHES"

writes Miss Jean Healy

TOO miraculous to be true? That is what they all say ... until they try it. Then they tell us "I reduced 9 inches"; "I reduced from 43 inches to 34 1/2 inches"; "The fat seemed to have melted away" ... and so on through hundreds of enthusiastic letters.

• You don’t have to take our word for it. We want you to try it. Test it yourself for 10 days absolutely free. Then, if, without diet, drugs or exercise, you have not reduced at least 3 inches around waist and hips, return the girdle and your money will be refunded without question, including the postage!

Reduce Quickly, Easily, and Safely!

• The massage-like action of this famous Perfolastic Reducing Girdle takes the place of months of tiring exercises—with every move the marvelous Perfolastic Girdle with its massage-like action gently eliminates surplus fat, stimulating the body once more into energetic health.

• And it is so comfortable! The perforations ventilate the body, allowing the skin pores to breathe normally. The inner surface of the Perfolastic is a delightfully soft, satinized fabric, especially designed to wear next to the body. It does away with all irritation, chafing and discomfort, keeping the body cool and fresh at all times. There is no sticky, unpleasant feeling. A special adjustable back allows for perfect fit as the inches disappear.

Don’t Postpone Beauty and Happiness—Act Today!

• Act today! Away with the excess fat that makes the smartest, most expensive dress look dowdy! Each day you delay sending for a Perfolastic Reducing Girdle is a day of beauty thrown away. Read what these four women say about Perfolastic—they have found new beauty this marvelous, quick, safe way. What Perfolastic has done for them it will do for you so simply, so quickly, that you will wonder how you ever endured those excess pounds.

MARLENE DIETRICH is going in big for men's attire. Her tailor recently completed six suits for the glamorous German gal. There ought to be a law against hiding Marlene's gorgeous limbs under anything so unromantic as a pair of trousers.

Will Rogers hasn't a telephone in his home. Will likes privacy—and gets it.

Dorothy Wilson, the Cinderella gal of the movies, had no ambition to go on the screen...but someone saw her behind a typewriter and decided she'd look nicer in front of a camera...she likes Somerset Maugham's novels, long trips and thousand-island dressing...hates carrots, painted finger-nails and overshoes...she's five feet two and weighs 103 in her you-know-whatties...prefers buttermilk to gin and likes men who talk about themselves.
Legend tells us that Rome wasn't built in a day, but carpenters for The Sign of the Cross tacked the Holy City together in exactly 23 hours.

James Cagney began his theatrical career as a female impersonator.

There's a cockroach named Wellington in Today We Live, Joann Crawford's new picture. It's not his real name—just an affectionate tag the cast has given him. Incidentally, Gary Cooper is playing opposite Joan in this one.

Clark Gable, who started the turtle-necked sweater fad, now has all the Hollywood lads sporting berets.

And Charlie Ruggles wonders if you've heard the rheumatism song: Now You're In My Arms.

The Marx Brothers insist that pictures of them should be captioned: reading from laugh to riot.

Ricardo Cortez is a New York lad who broke into the movies back in the days when the boom was on for Latin types . . . he's not nearly as Latin as he looks . . . has worked in every studio in Hollywood . . . weighs 175 pounds and is six feet one with his hat off . . . loves horses and polo, but can't stand spinach.

Among sound technicians, George Arliss is known as a "smacker." It's no insult to George; it merely means his kisses are so loud they have to be softened by the sound man before they are transferred to the screen. That's hard to believe of George.

And you'll probably be thrilled to know that the paste jewelry worn by Mae West in She Done Him Wrong would be worth—were it real—two million dollars!

BBE DANIELS has had one of the strangest careers in Hollywood . . . she has starred in pie-throwing slapstick, heavy drama and musical comedy, and has appeared in more productions than any actress you can name . . . her hobbies are remodeling homes and buying shoes . . . is rated as one of Hollywood's wealthiest women . . . has been offered several radio contracts . . . flies her own plane . . . and thinks babies are more fun than anything.

Ivan Lebedeff carries a walking stick with a tiny watch imbedded in the knob.

And Katharine Hepburn's newest trinket is an umbrella which folds up to the size of a fountain pen. It doesn't write, however.

EXQUISITE ILLUSTRATED EDITIONS

(Each Book a $5.00 Value)

These "Illustrated Editions" books are well-known and well-loved classics, each complete, each containing every word the authors set down (nothing expurgated). These works deserve a place beside your deluxe books costing five and ten times as much, for they will not suffer by comparison. Each book is exquisitely illustrated in free and daring mood by a well-known artist. Printed from new plates, clear legible type, richly bound, large library size, each book is a good $5.00 value.

Our Bargain Price, each $1. All 5 books for $4.50 postpaid.

SALOME, by Oscar Wilde.

Illustrated. A modern artistic presentation of the old Bible tale Altered through Wilde's fantastic genius. The "dancer of the seven veils" falls in love with the prophet John. Spurned and denounced, Salome demands his head—on a platter—that she may be vindicated at last. Few more fascinating women in sacred (or profane) history than ravishing Salome. A $5 book value. Our Bargain Price, postpaid, $1.

THAIS, by Anatole France.

Illustrated by Arthur Zaidenberg. Here the supreme courtesan corner a heretical monk out of the desert, intent upon the salvation of her soul. Thais the charmer with all the allure of the woman of the world, the monk starved, famished, an ascetic hermit. What happens? Only Anatole France can tell you properly. Only these specially designed pictures can carry the tale to you. A $5 book value. Our Bargain Price, postpaid, $1.

THE GIRL WITH THE GOLDEN EYES, by Honore de Balzac.

Here is the strangest innocence ever chronicled by man—a tale that would have immobilized Balzac had he written no more. A beautiful creature born on the borderline of the sexes, imprisoned by a woman, hopelessly in love with a man. How the lovers meet and finally achieve their mutual desires, make this amazing story the most exhilarating of its kind. A $5 book value. Our Bargain Price, postpaid, $1.

AGAINST THE GRAIN, by J. K. Huysmans.

Introduction by Havelock Ellis. Illustrated by Arthur Zaidenberg. Here is a strange story of mental illusion—a new never before has been set down on paper. This remarkable work contains the indisputable evidence that the jaded reader of mediocre literature—an organized pan-demonium of sensations, sounds and ideas. Zaidenberg, the artist of this volume has work permanently exhibited at the Metropolitan Museum. A $5 book value. Our Bargain Price, postpaid, $1.

A SENTIMENTAL JOURNEY, by Laurence Sterne.

Illustrated by Mahlon Blaine. A rich literary gift out of the past in which a clergyman chooses to write of love despite the straitness of his calling. The favorite book of scores of the world's scholars, loved for its matchless style which presents all the weaknesses of human nature and the joys of forgettable pleasures with a strength and slyness peculiar to the writer. Blaine the artist is a famous painter of gargoyles. A $5 book value. Our Bargain Price, postpaid, $1.

Many a girl doesn't mind living in a fool's paradise, states Lupe, so long as the fool pays the rent.

First Peeping Tom—I sure wish I had the key to that babe's apartment!
Second Peeping Tom—So you could call on her?
First Peeping Tom—No, so's it wouldn't be in the keyhole all the time!

Hubby (an assistant director)—I lost my job because I did too much yessing.
Wifey—Too much yessing to a director?
Hubby—No, to a friend who was buying me drinks!
"What kind of a chaser would you like, ma'am?" asked the bartender of the old maid. Who, believe Jean or not, replied, "A woman chaser!"

Senior—Then playing around with us boys is the reason you failed in philosophy?

Co-ed—Yes, you made me late for a petting date with the professor.
The struggle for success in Hollywood is heart-breaking, Faith has been told, some girls having to break the hearts of at least three directors before getting a job.

“How did you enjoy the trip to Niagara Falls, handsome?”
“Fine! I couldn’t hear my wife talk all the time we were under them!”
"I was out in my uncle's apple orchard last fall and was very much disappointed in it."
"Why, were the apples too green?"
"No, but the boy with me certainly was!"

"I spent last evening with Willie Playboy and believe me his stock went down a lot."
"Yes, you probably drank at least half of it."
When you asked Producer MacScotto for a free admission to his water sports carnival, did you get a pass, Joe?

"Yes, at my jaw!"

See that girl over there? I took my first misstep with her.

"She must be quite a siren."

"No, quite a dancing teacher."
"The trouble with me, I need a little bothersome corn removed. I'll have to see Doctor Fixem."

"But he's a stomach specialist."

"I know it. It's corn in my stomach I want removed."

"That fellow over there has found husbands for a lot of women."

"Oh, does he run a matrimonial bureau?"

"No, he's a private detective."
Of course you've heard of the night club dancer, reflects Renee, who went through her act without a slip. In fact, she didn't even have on a teddy.

"What is the first thing strikes you men of the jungle after meeting a girl of the civilized world?"
"Her hand!"

"I couldn't begin to count the drinks I took at that party last night."
"Why, you ought to be able to count up to fifty."
"Not when you're as drunk as I was!"
"Is it worthwhile visiting the nudist colony today?"
"No, it's clothed on Sundays."

"Since I've started kissing you, you don't protest any more. What's happened to your objections?"
"They must have been overcome by the heat."
"If I tried to pet you in front of your father, how far would I get?"
"As far as he could kick you."

"Do you think a girl should learn about life before twenty?"
"No, that's too large a crowd."
"I think the boy who tried to kiss you was cracked."
"I'll say he was. My hand still smarts."

"I'm not only a hypnotist, but I can sell you something that'll make your dreams come true."
"Nothing doing! Do you think I want lavender elephants walking all over my bed?"
Conceited Cuss—How about one long, lingering kiss for saving you from drowning?
Girl—Will you be satisfied with just one?
Conceited Cuss—No, but I'm sure you will, girl friend.

“POSED BY WALLACE BERRY AND PLAYERS IN “FLESH.” A METRO-GOLDWIN-MAYER PICTURE.

“This beer is as old as you are.”
“Say! I wasn’t born yesterday!”
"I know dozens of girls who'd bend over backward to please me."

"You certainly hate yourself, don't you?"

"No, I'm dance director for the new Follies."

"Say, what's on your mind, girlie?"

"Nothing. I was just thinking of our new Parisian costumes."
"This revue has reached the limit for nudity."
"Why there's very little nudity in it!"
"That's just it. If there was any less nobody'd pay to see it!"

A homely girl gets on a man's nerve, maintains Merna, but a pretty one gets on his lap.
Mimi comes forth with information of the co-ed who hoped all her professors would take a fancy to her. A passing fancy.

"I know a joke you'll never get, sweetums."
"Well, who said I wanted you, you dope!"

"Every night when I come home late my wife is always waiting up to ask where I've been."
"Does it make her mad when you tell her?"
"I don't know. I never tell her."
"Whoopee! The doctor has given me six months to live!"
"But why so gay, big boy, if you're going to kick off?"
"It isn't that. He's sent my wife to Europe for six months!"

"Gosh, that's a' hot cornet," enthused the dancing debutante. And, forwards Betty, the cornetist quipped back, "Well, if my lips had been pressed to yours as long they'd be hot, too!"

"Cautious Chap (in speak)"
—Tell me, beautiful, what do you consider a perfectly safe drink?
"Beautiful—Any up to my fourth, boyfriend."

Bob—Yeah; especially opera glasses!
"You Peeping Tom! I surprised one of your kind who was peeping in my window last night."

"Did you pull down the shade and scream for help?"

"No, that was what surprised him."

"Sandy—Oh, boy! What a headache I've got this morning after our spree last night.

"Jock—Why, we only had a few drinks!

"Sandy—I know, but I'm figuring up how much we spent for just those few drinks.

"Yes, on the audience's cheeks!"
HATTER of the Month: Marie Dressler's return to the screen remains indefinite, the popular comedienne is still resting to regain her health. "Oliver Twist" is to be re-made as a talkie with Dickie Moore in the title rôle. Jackie Coogan played the part in the silent version. Marlene Dietrich who insists upon wearing men's apparel may be the cause of its becoming a current feminine fad. Let's hope not, eh, boys? Harold Lloyd, back from Europe where he's been vacationing with his family, has started work on his next comedy. Doug Fairbanks, Jr., is writing a novel and on order, at that. Still more retakes were necessary on "Hallelujah, I'm a Bum," the Al Jolson flicker, following a few none-too-enthusiastic pre-view showings on the coast. Nita Naldi, whose vamping was once the screen's choicest, is now bankrupt. Thelma Todd was badly injured in a recent auto smashup. Helen Hayes, considered by many as the screen's best actress, prefers the stage. Wynne Gibson insists she's through playing fallen women parts. Greta Garbo's first picture for M-G-M under her new contract will be "Christina," a political story of 17th century Sweden.
and nonsense

DISAPPOINTMENT
Sailor—Can you imagine a burlesque dancer with hips twice as wide as the rest of her body?
Tattoo Artist—Gosh, no.
Sailor—Well, that's sure a disappointment. I wanted one tattooed on my chest.

CONTINUING the Chatter: Evelyn Laye, British stage and screen favorite, may appear opposite Maurice Chevalier if negotiations go through. . . . Helen Twelvetrees requested Paramount to use her own baby in a sequence in "A Bedtime Story," Helen's forthcoming feature with Maurice. . . . Andy Devine has been signed to a seven-year contract by Universal. . . . He'll be a star yet, his popularity increasing as it does. . . . Edwina Booth, who a few years back went to Africa to appear in "Trader Horn," is still confined to her bed suffering from over-exposure to the jungle climate. . . . Anita Page has been dropped by M-G-M. . . . Sam Taylor, inactive since his direction of Norma Talmadge's "DuBarry," has been signed to direct the next Slim Summerville comedy. . . . Will Rogers, Jr., is considered just about the best polo player on the coast. . . . It has been estimated that film fans in the U. S. spend $1,500,000,000 yearly to see movies. . . . Kent Douglass, who, incidentally, calls himself Douglas Montgomery when appearing on the stage, has had his nose remodeled, believing its length interfered with his career. . . . Clara Bow is returning from Europe to begin work on her second picture for Fox. . . . Tallulah Bankhead, who quit Hollywood, is now appearing in a current Broadway stage play. . . . "Sanctuary" is on again at Paramount with George Raft slated to appear in it if and when it's sufficiently white-washed for approval by the Will Hays organization.

Polly—The trombone player is so crazy about me he can’t keep his mind on his work.

Jimmy—How do you know? Did he drop you a note?

Polly—Yes, a sour note.

"Are you sure this is pre-war stuff?" asked one imbiber of another. And, delivers Marie, he was told, "Yes, there’ll be a heluva battle when my wife smells it on my breath!"

"Rasputin, old boy, Jackie and I want your advice about catching a fugitive from justice. Must we sic bloodhounds on his trail in order to locate him?"

"Yes, Polly; sic and you shall find."

Bob—Chicago people must be brave to attempt a world’s fair in these times.
Bert—Well, none but the brave deserve the fair!

“I’ll never forget the time a beautiful brunette kissed me to the tune of Moonlight and Roses!”
“Yes, and I’ll never forget the time a beautiful blonde kissed me to the tune of ten thousand dollars!”
“Say, you folks wouldn't spy on us newlyweds through the keyhole, would you?”

“Oh, no. We can see much better through the transom!”

“Have you ever had any skeletons in your closet, dearie?”

“No, just some fat butter-and-egg men.”
“Here, let me have my manuscript. I did without a lot of good things while I was writing it.”
“Yes, good English, good ideas and good sense!”

As the boss hired his new stenog, he asked if she’d object to a bit of overtime work now and then.
And her reply, announces Anita, was, “Of course not. I’m no prude!”
“I was out with a very distinguished chap last night. A man of letters.”

“A college professor, eh?”

“No, a sign painter.”

“Was the patient’s condition encouraging all through the day?” inquired the doctor. Whereupon, asserts Mary, the nurse answered, “Oh, yes, doctor. He was encouraging me to kiss him all the time.”

Elevator Boy—Surely you can operate the elevator just this once while I grab a smoke?

Cutie—Indeed not! I couldn’t think of lowering myself that way!
"Even if I do lose this match, there's one thing the crowd will have to admit. I'm certainly a colorful wrestler."

"That's right; you're all black and blue."

"There's only one man who's ever been able to take my measure."

"He must be a great wrestler."

"No, he's my tailor."

"So this is the Athletic Club where you made your first appearance as a wrestler?"

"Yeah, eggs mark the spot."
"It's a very uncertain game, this wrestling. Are you saving anything for a rainy day?"
"Sure, the telephone number of a little stay-at-home blonde."

"No wonder I'm losing. I was so drunk this morning my wife couldn't wake me up."
"Did she shake you?"
"Yeah; I haven't seen her since."

"My brother has a gold medal for running, a watch charm for swimming, a gold watch for boxing and a silver cup for golfing."
"Very athletic, I'd say."
"No, he runs a hock shop."

Taxi Driver—Say! Can't you two find a better place for kissing? Couple—No, the lips are by far the best!
Office Boy—Aw, don’t fire me, boss. Haven’t I been trying?

Boss—That’s just it! You’ve been trying my cigars, cigarettes, Scotch and patience!

"The drug store clerk always brings the color to my cheeks, auntie."

"You mean he gives you your cosmetics?"

"No, he makes me blush to think of the money I owe him for them."
"I'm worried about my wife. She's nuts over a handsome movie actor."
"Well, I wouldn't lose any sleep over that."
"Yes you would if you had to listen to her rave about him every night."
Gal—Weren't you thrilled when the taxi driver drove around the corner on two wheels?
Sandy—You bet. The meter stopped ticking!

“I’ve been misbehaving and my conscience is troubling me.
“I see, and since I’m a psychiatrist you want something to strengthen your will power?”
“No, something to weaken my conscience!”

“My wife is saving strands of hair.”
“For a switch?”
“No, for alimony. She found them on my coat.”
"Another thing, you worm! If that girl across the court takes a bath tonight, you're not to have your nose flattened against the window pane! Understand?"

"Sure, darling. I'll raise the window and lean out!"

Wife—I don't like the color of your mustache!

Husband—Why not? It matches my hair, doesn't it?

Wife—No, you gay deceiver, it matches your secretary's lip rouge!

"So you can't take it, eh?"

"That'll teach 'em to sell me a seat behind a post!"
“You’re going to that party tonight if I have to drag you to it!”

“Fool!”
"Here he is, girls! He's the fellow who told me some thing that made my cheeks flame."
"Why, the brute! What did he say?"
"He said I needed more rouge."

Cab Driver—Cut out the rough stuff! I was only telling your wife my idea of a drape to wear around her hips for her dance at the Gayety.
Burlesque Queen’s Husband—Oh, yeah? Well, what's the big idea?
"It's foolish for us husbands to try to work when we've got such bad colds."
"Why, the little colds you have won't prevent your doing good work."
"No, but the whiskey we're taking for them will."

Manager—if you sing La Traviata you'll need a coat of mail.
Soprano—Why, the idea! Nobody ever wore a coat of mail in La Traviata!
Manager—No, but nobody’s singing was ever as lousy as yours is!

"Hey, listen! You invite me up to your apartment and now you won't even let me put my arms round you. What do you expect, anyway?"
"My husband!"
I once had a date with a general who insisted the reason I wouldn't kiss him was because I didn't know how.

"Did you show him something?"

"Yes, the door."

"I don't feel at all like a parachute jump this morning. I'm too tired. I tossed all night."

"Insomnia?"

"No, dice."

"I have ze Mexican jumping bean diz morning."

"Oh, yeah?"

"Si, senor. Las' night we drink too mush and diz morning my bean iz jumping!"

FROM "42ND STREET" A WARNER BROS. PRODUCTION
CAVALCADE is an astoundingly great picture. Based on war, yet it cannot be classed with war pictures as we know them. It offers much more than England’s war against the Boers or later participation in the World War. Much more. It’s the piercing, heart-pounding effect that these wars have on Jane Marryot, wife and mother, symbolic of all other wives and mothers, that makes CAVALCADE a memorable screen masterpiece.

Noel Coward, its author, unmistakably has contributed much to literature with CAVALCADE. Not only is it a severe condemnation of war and the thoughtless instigators, but also of its radical, ruinous reaction, particularly that which followed the World War. Diana Wynyard is cast as Jane Marryot. Perhaps, you’re unfamiliar with her name. She’s from England, having made but one other screen appearance and that with the Barrymores in RASPUTIN and THE EMPRESS. You will hear much of her in the future. Her performance in CAVALCADE surpasses the majority of noble efforts and equals the remaining nobler minority.

The rest of the huge cast performs distinguisghedly, with Clive Brook, as Diana’s devoted husband, being most outstanding. Every part, no matter how small a bit, is expertly played. Every detail, however insignificant, is accurately pictured. With such exacting care in the selecting of players and adherence to detail, it is small wonder that as vital a story resulted in so masterful a production.

Frank Lloyd, veteran of many successes, directed. It would be unpardonable injustice if, in some way, he were not fittingly honored or rewarded for his inspiringly superior direction of this immortal film.

The story, all of which takes place in England, begins with the welcoming of a new century—the twentieth. At (Continued on page 62)

RASPUTIN and the EMPRESS

ETHEL, John and Lionel Barrymore appearing in the same picture is admittedly extraordinary, but, unfortunately, the same is not true of their picture, one of the dull and long-drawn-out variety.

Too many pageantry scenes of religious and court ceremonies slow up the picture to almost a standstill. The one genuine bit of real, live action is toward the close when John, as Prince Chegodieff, attempts to kill Lionel, who is Rasputin. An exciting tussle it is, with the mad monk seemingly unkillable. Not until you’ve witnessed a thrilling, but gory sequence, is Rasputin finally murdered by the Prince. Call it a battle royal, if you will.

Historically, the picture is supposed to be correct. This will be disputed by many. However, it does seem plausible and acceptable. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, in fact, to insure veracity, assigned Richard Boleslavsky, a Russian, to direct the massive production. It’s a shame he didn’t give it a quicker pace.

Lionel, as Rasputin, gives the best of the three flawless Barrymore performances. His being the most difficult role, it gives greater opportunities for dramatics and Lionel has never been known as one to pass up such opportunities when they present themselves. Ethel, as the Empress and mother of the young Czarevitch over whom Rasputin has cast his devilish spell, has a sympathetic role, as does John as Prince Chegodieff in the service of the Czar.

Ralph Morgan, incidentally, is superbly convincing as the weak-kneed, fanatically religious Czar. And the resemblance couldn’t be better.

Rasputin gained his power when the Czar’s young son, Tad Alexander, given up as lost by the leading physicians of the continent, is restored to apparent health by his hypnotic powers. That gave the mad monk a firm (Continued on page 62)

MUSIC — the Surest Path to Friends

...so easy to learn this short-cut way

No longer need you envy people who play—who are always the center of attraction at parties—who make friends immediately wherever they go. Now this newly perfected, short-cut, home-study method can make YOU an accomplished musician. It can bring you the good times you've always longed for. It will lift you right out of the ranks of the "wallflowers" into the limelight of social popularity.

More than 600,000 men and women—boys and girls before you have successfully learned to play their favorite instrument at home without a teacher the famous U. S. School of Music way.

Easy As A-B-C

This new "print-and-picture" method is literally as easy as A-B-C. The U. S. School simplified instructions, written by expert teachers, first tell you what to do. Then a picture shows you what to do. Then you do it yourself and hear it. No possibility of mistakes because the diagrams are right before you every step of the way.

And you learn so much more quickly by this modern, up-to-date method than was possible in the old-fashioned, tiresome, scale-practicing way. Now you play real tunes almost from the start—by note. Every lesson is a fascinating game and you can actually hear yourself make progress. No teacher to fuss you. No wearying scales to plague you. No interference with business or pleasure because you choose your own time at home.

New Joys For You

Just imagine yourself the center of a jolly, enthusiastic crowd, playing the season's latest song or dance hit. Or turning to the classics and re-creating the masterpieces of the world's greatest composers, making them live again with your own talent. Think of what it means to have the pleasures and the solace of music at your instant command, ready always to bring variation and color into your life.

As a musician, too, there should be many an opportunity to earn good money by your playing. Thousands of our pupils have done this and thus paid for their U. S. School course many times over. Many have organized their own orchestras and entered a profitable, musical career.

Valuable Booklet And Demonstration Lesson Entirely Free

Prove to yourself without cost how easily and quickly you can learn to play. Send today for our booklet, "How You Can Master Music in Your Own Home." With it comes a Free Demonstration Lesson which shows graphically how simple this expert home instruction really is. You'll see how easily you can become an accomplished musician as many thousands of others have. Instruments supplied if desired—cash or credit.

The Casting Contest which closed at midnight, February 1, 1933, proved to be much more difficult than at first suspected. It called for a fairly good knowledge of the casts of current pictures, as well as the ability to recognize a host of unnamed players who appeared in these casts. None too easy a contest and yet it was surprising how many entrants had perfect scores in naming the players who appeared in the list of 40 pictures.

The explanations (in five words or less) of what it is which makes a strong cast varied considerably and helped make matters a little less complicated for the judges in their final decisions.

Nine of the pictures listed had no members of their casts included in the photos of unnamed players. Although contestants were warned of this, countless entries had players cast in these pictures. Also, several of the players who appeared in none of the pictures listed, were, nevertheless, named as having appeared in them.

If you failed to be among the prize winners, don't be disheartened. Remember it was not an easy contest. Try the next FILM FUN contest and see if your luck isn't better. Have the feeling you've just got to win a prize sometime and keep right on trying.

Strangely enough, No. 32, which was Edmund Lowe, was mistaken by many for Maurice Chevalier and, of course, listed as having appeared in Love Me Tonight. There were some contestants who thought Marian Marsh had appeared in Cabin in the Cotton; others believed Lili Damita had appeared in You Said a Mouthful and Bill of Divorcement.

Out of all the entries, the explanations given by these three were by far the most convincing. A number of the contestants forgot to limit their explanation to five words or less, and this, of course, automatically ruled them out. Others clearly spent too little time on this all-important factor in the contest.

Next in line are the winners of the ten first prizes of $50.00 each: Jessie Novick, 5719 Dorchester Ave., Chicago, Ill.; Lavere Abel, Jr., 603 Walnut St., Columbus, Pa.; Clayton M. Lederer, 2705 West 3rd St., Dayton, Ohio; Francis Jung, 715 6th Ave., S., St. Cloud, Minn.; Dee Chapman, 1337 Shatto St., Los Angeles, Calif.; Leroy M. Bradley, Box 62, Sheldonville, Mass.

The remaining prizes went to the twenty-five next best entries. The remaining prizes went to the twenty-five next best entries. The prizes, of $1.00 each, were awarded to the following: Winifred Walsh, 5524 Claremont Ave., Oakland, Calif.; C. M. Inside Stuff and Nonsense

Second Neighbor—Why, your wife baked three loaves of bread yesterday.
First Neighbor—That’s right, but I can’t cut it unless you let me borrow your axe!

Hollywood Love Life: Lovely Lola Lane is said to have received $33,500 from Lew Ayres by a property settlement made before suit for divorce was filed. . . . Monroe Owsley, screen villain, is being sued by Catherine Allen in a $75,000 breach-of-promise suit. . . . John Wayne, cowboy attraction, is soon to wed Josephine Saenz, daughter of the Panama Consul. . . . Norman Kerry and his wife, married but two short months, have separated. . . . Marian Nixon and her hubby, Edward Hillman, Jr., have agreed to divorce. . . . Roscoe Ates and frau, reported on the verge of separation, are appearing together in vaudeville, indications being the report was nothing more than a publicity gag. . . . Ruth Chatterton’s hubby, George Brent, will he her leading man in “Lily Turner.” . . . James Hall and the missus have patched up their differences after a separation of several years. . . . Bobbe Arnst in speaking of her separation from Johnny Weissmuller remarked: “You take a big kid like that and shove him into the community of sharp-shooting women that you’ll find in Hollywood and it’s like sending your country cousin to a pickpockets’ convention!”

Ghost Story
Scared-to-Death-Rastus—Ow-wah! Ow-wah! Dis am Rastus, Mose! Lemme in, quick! Ah’s done seen a ghost eight feet tall!
Mose (opening door)—Go ’long wid you, white man! Yo’ ain’t Rastus.

Hollywood robberies and stick-ups have become a constant threat and fear to all picture players. The police have done much to curb the latest movie colony crime wave, but still it persists. George Raft’s home was recently invaded and robbers stole $1,000 worth of his clothes. Other stars, victims of lootings, are Zeppo Marx, Mae West, Helene Costello, Betty Compson and William Von Brincken. Police believe that in most instances the burglars were tipped off as to the stars’ whereabouts and engagements, since the jobs were so well timed and carefully done. Betty Compson, relieved of $40,000 in jewelry, was fortunate enough to have it mysteriously returned to her. The gems were left at the Southern Pacific Station in Los Angeles and the baggage check sent to Betty by the bandits. Betty claims she made no secret payment for the return of the jewels. Many players have engaged special policemen to watch their homes and some stars have even hired personal bodyguards. It seems evident that the thieves have henchmen employed in the movie studios and their valuable tips on activities of the stars make robberies comparatively easy.

Excuse It Please!
She (in ballroom)—I’m sorry, Mr. Blimp, but I’ll have to decline dancing with you this time on account of my toes.
He—Why, your toes are all right, aren’t they?
She—That’s it. And I want to keep them that way, too!

Vaudeville and the movie houses continue to entice Hollywood’s favorites into personal appearances. Joan Blondell has been a pronounced hit and the reason is undoubtedly because she had much stage experience before going to Hollywood and remembers what an audience likes. Lew Ayres is filling many stage engagements. Pola Negri has proved a big drawing card. However, many of the players are dull disappointments when it comes to Director Sidney Field is threatened with blindness and must take a long rest. Nils Asther, by the way, was temporarily blinded after makeup poisoning set in during the making of "The Bitter Tea of General Yen." George Raft has been getting on Paramount’s nerves lately and has been warned to do as he’s told or else. Art Jarrett, radio singer who appeared opposite Lupe Velez in the stage show, "Hot Cha," has been signed for a series of shorts by Warners. Charles Chaplin has completed his travel book entitled "A Comedian Sees the World." He intends to take a vacation before starting work on his next picture. The script of "Invisible Man," the H. G. Wells story, is still unsatisfactory, despite the fact that Universal has had no less than eleven writers work on it. Marjorie Rambeau is returning to the screen and will be seen in "Strictly Personal."

Youth—Do you allow hunting on your farm?
Farmer—No, I don’t!
Youth—Great! Then if my sweetie’s father comes hunting for me here I’ll be safe!

MORE CHATTER

Will Rogers’ next picture will be a true story revolving around his own life and titled "Arizona to Broadway." Stuart Erwin refused the lead in "Under the Tonto Rim," claiming he was not a leading man. Warners and Rian James, former Broadway columnist, have split. Molly Picon, internationally known Jewish comedienne, is making a full-length feature for an independent producing company. Charles Farrell will not return to Fox. That goes for Joan Bennett, as well, who intends to freelance. Tom Mix’s world tour will consist between two and three years with the cowboy star making personal appearances in practically every country in the world.

SMALL CHANGE

Novelists—Now that you’ve read my latest novel, is there any change you’d care to suggest?
Publisher—Yes, a change of publishers.

DIVORCE rumors may be natural, and Doug Fairbanks, Jr., spend much of their time denying false rumors. With censorship necessarily at its peak, the public has given a great deal of attention to the separation of their favorite Hollywood couples.

YOU BETCHA!

Customer—There must be a lot of money in selling pre-war Scotch.
Bootlegger—There sure is. If there wasn’t, I’d quit making it tomorrow.

CONCLUDING the Chatter:
Norma Shearer was constantly on the screen celebrity watching company. . . . Charles Chaplin may possibly appear in a Broadway play, having so much time on his hands with only two pictures to make a year. . . . Ken Maynard has been signed to replace Tom Mix on Universal’s schedule of westerns. . . . John Huston, Walter’s son, has quit Universal’s writing staff, not liking the stories assigned to him. . . . Ruth Chatterton will assist in the direction of "Lily Turner," her next picture. . . . Dorothy Jordan, let out by M-G-M, may sign with Radio. . . . Herbert Munson, English comedian, has been re-signed by Fox. . . . Mary Pickford finished production of "Secrets" four days ahead of time at a total cost of $450,000. She will not start work on "Shanty Town" until after a European trip with her hubby.

AIR HOSTESS. Columbia. The movies have always had an eagle eye open for new screen subjects, so perhaps it was only natural that they should finally alight on the little lady who serves refreshments to transcontinental sky passengers. Outside of that, we can't think of many reasons why this one should have been made. Evalyn Knapp and James Murray have the leads.

BILL OF DIVORCEMENT. RKO-Radio. An intelligently constructed play, with excellent portrayals by John Barrymore, Katharine Hepburn and Billie Burke. It's the Hepburn lady's first picture, and she's swell. The minute we saw her we took Garbo's phone number off our list.

CALL HER SAVAGE. Fox. Mr. Bow's favorite daughter, Clara, emerges from her hideaway long enough to show everyone she hasn't lost a bit of the old Bow fire and spirit. Mrs. Bell, in fact, does right well by herself, albeit the vehicle isn't as sturdy as it might have been.

CAVALCADE. Fox. The ten best pictures of the year. Reviewed in this issue.

CHILD OF MANHATTAN. Columbia. Smooth-running comedy drama, with Nancy Carroll as a taxi dancer whose hard-boiled antics appeal to a handsome millionaire (who told you it was John Boles?). Nancy takes up her abode with John, and eventually, just to prove that virtue pays, she marries him.

CYNARA. United Artists. Ronald Colman is faithful, in his fashion, to Kay Francis, who happens to be away on a trip while Ronald forgets a few marriage vows with Phyllis Barry. Well worth your attention.

DECEPTION. Columbia. The deception in this one comes when you discover the title has nothing to do with dear old Sex. Instead, it's all about the boys who grapple each other for a living. Nat Pendleton, who wrote... it does. As it stands, it's an example of what happens when people stretch a two-reel comedy into feature length.
I AM A FUGITIVE. Warner Brothers. Here's one you must see. Paul Muni's gripping performance and Mervyn LeRoy's excellent direction combine to make it one of the year's sturdiest dramas. A terrific blow to the vicious chain gang system.
ISLAND OF LOST SOULS. Paramount. Just about the last word in horror pictures. Charles Laughton, Richard Arlen and—shhshshh!—the Panther Woman!Reviewed in this issue.
LAWYER MAN. First National. William Powell as a small-time lawyer who works himself into the big money and back again, all of which is depicted in a series of amusing incidents. It's Bill at his best, with Joan Blondell crowding him for the acting honors.
MADAME BUTTERFLY. Paramount. Sylvia Sidney and Cary Grant in the latest version of this familiar tale. Interesting enough, but its theme is so ancient you find it difficult to get worked up over some of the situations. Charlie Ruggles is good in a comedy role.
NAGANA. Universal. Melyn Douglas, who is in Africa to fight the tsetse fly, finds himself bitten by that other monster, the tsetse fly, finds himself bitten by that other monster, the tsetse fly, finds himself bitten by that other monster, the tsetse fly—just a little wild game just for fun.

CLEAR ALL WIRES, an unusually spectacular newspaper play which clicked profitably well as a stage play, will be the next Lee Tracy offering. His supporting cast consists of several favorites including James Gleason, Una Merkel and C. Henry Gordon, old Mr. Menace, himself. Benita Hume, a foreign beauty of whom you've heard much and seen little, is Lee's leading lass. It's a story just made for energetic Lee.

Production is well under way on Song of Songs which stars Marlene Dietrich, lady of the legs. Josef Von Sternberg is not directing his Marlene in this picture and it will be interesting to see just what results are attained by Rouben Mamoulian who has the choice directorial assignment. Alison Skipworth and Hardie Albright play important roles. Let's hope Rouben gives us a glimpse or two of Marlene's w. k. stems.

With the baseball season not far off, Joe E. Brown is completing his comedy of the diamond, titled Elmer the Great. Mervyn Le Roy is director and King Lardner, famed humorist, is the author. Joe's femme interest is Patricia Ellis and Patricia is certainly loveliness personified. Others appearing in Elmer the Great are, Frank McHugh, Preston Foster, Claire Dodd, Bertie Churchhill, Emma Dunn and Sterling Holloway. Joe would rather play baseball than act, they say.

Katharine Hepburn, quite the sensation in John Barrymore's Bill of Divorceement, makes her second American screen appearance in The Great Desire. Billie Burke, wife of the late Flo Ziegfeld, again appears with Katharine, playing a most prominent part. Colin Clive and Helen Chandler also are featured players. RKO-Radio has a feeling that Katharine will develop into another Garbo.
Gilbert Roland is playing opposite Constance Bennett in her forthcoming feature, Our Betters. Let's hope the picture proves more entertaining than did Rockabye. Charles Starrett, Anita Louise, Phoebe Foster, Grant Mitchell, Minor Watson, Violet Kemble Cooper and Virginia Howell comprise Constance’s support.

Today We Live, an M-G-M special, co-stars Joan Crawford and Gary Cooper, borrowed from Paramount. It’s rumored to be just about the best thing that Joan has done. Franchot Tone, snatched from Broadway, and Robert Young are featured as is Louise Closser Hale and Tad Alexander. A love scene with Joan and Gary alone is worth seeing.

College Humor, which, incidentally, has nothing whatever to do with the magazine of the same name, will show Richard Arlen, Bing Crosby and Frances Dee bouncing about in a good old collegiate atmosphere. They'll be ably assisted in the bouncing by Burns and Allen (certainly you've heard them on the radio!) and Randolph Scott, reformed cowboy star. Wesley Ruggles is the director.

Fans are impatiently awaiting the release of The White Sister, co-starring Helen Hayes and Clark Gable. Director Victor Fleming has finished his work and turned the

"WILL HE BE THE GREATEST SCREEN LOVER?"

ELINOR GLYN says "Yes." And she ought to know! Author of "Three Weeks" and many other famous tales of modern love—originator of the significant term, "It"—who is better qualified to pass judgment on Herbert Marshall, the screen's newest romantic figure?

Of course you're interested in this charming man—a consummate actor and the personification of romance for so many women. So be sure to read Miss Glyn's fascinating interview with him in the current issue of MODERN SCREEN Magazine.

Lots of other absorbing reading in the April issue, including: "Take My Advice," Faith Baldwin's counsel to various movie stars; "Norma Shearer Talks About Joan Crawford"; "George Raft As He Really Is"; "The Inside Story of Hollywood's Prize Romance"

MODERN SCREEN, you know, is the biggest and best of all the cinema magazines—and costs only 10c! It has the largest guaranteed circulation of any screen magazine in the world—which is sure proof that the fans know and admire it. Are you one of those admirers? If not, this is a swell issue to get acquainted. Once you've read a copy of MODERN SCREEN, you'll realize what great magazine value it is!

POSED BY MURIEL EVANS AND CHARLEY CHASE. APPEARING IN HAL ROACH-METRO-GOLDWIN-MAYER-COMEDIES.

"Don't try to make it up to me! I heard you come in between two and three this morning, didn't I?"

"That's right, dear; two fellows were holding up my right side and three were holding up my left."

FILM OVER TO THE CUTTING ROOM. The story has been done before and is known to be absolute box-office. Combined with the tremendous appeal of both Helen and Clark box-office records should be in for their greatest shattering.

John Gilbert is making another picture. It's called Rivets. His last effort, Downstairs, wasn't half bad and indicated that Jack is on the way back to top-notch popularity. Rivets will tell the story. Mae Clarke is his leading lady. Others appearing with Jack are Sterling Holloway, Vince Barnett, Robert Armstrong and Warner Richmond. Good luck, Jack!

GEORGE ARLISS and monolce are next to be seen in The Adopted Father. The title seems to give a pretty good idea of what the picture is about and in George's case titles are seldom misleading. Bette Davis and Hardie Albright, along with J. Farrell MacDonald are outstanding among the featured players. Keep an eye on Bette.

Jack Holt, who hasn't been seen much of late, has finished with the production of Fever and it's now ready for release. Lilian Bond is his leading lady and others of importance in the picture are Barbara Barondeff and Ward Bond. Isn't it a shame the combination of Jack Holt and Ralph Graves had to break up?

Sailor's Luck sounds like a colorful flicker. James Dunn and Sally Eilers, together again, are featured. Sammy Cohen, who used to be a leading comic in silent pictures, returns... to the screen for an important comedy rôle. Lucien Littlefield, Esther Muir and Frank Moran are also in Sailor’s Luck. Raoul Walsh, doing the directing, is just the man for this type of picture. ♦

Vina Delmar’s torrid tale, Pick-Up, is well under way with Sylvia Sidney and George Raft getting top-billing. The story has been toned down considerably, but still packs a lusty punch. ♦

Marian Marsh, who isn’t making as many pictures as she did but should, will soon be seen in The Eleventh Commandment, whatever one that is. Marian will be surrounded by a capable cast of supporting players including Alan Mowbray, Alan Hale, Marie Prevost, Gloria Shea, Lucien Littlefield, William V. Mong and Lee Moran.

George Sidney and Charlie Murray have been re-united for another of the Cohens and Kellys series. This new one is called The Cohens and Kellys in Trouble. Maureen O’Sullivan and Andy Devine are featured. The Abie’s Irish Rose formula will never die.

The Woman Accused, in production at Paramount, will be along the lines of If I Had A Million in that a whole corps of well known writers contributed to the script. Here are some of the contributors: Rupert Hughes, Vicki Baum, Zane Grey, Vina Delmar, Gertrude Atherton, J. P. McEvoy, Ursula Parrott and Sophie Kerr. Some crop of writers!

And here are some of the players to appear in the picture: Nancy Carroll, Cary Grant, John Halliday, Louis Calhern, Irving Pichel, Lola Andre, Frank Sheridan, John Lodge and Gertrude Messinger. ♦

Sari Maritza will have a be-witching part to play in A Lady’s Profession. It’s the type part that Wynne Gibson might have played to the Nth degree had she not threatened to quit if given another such rôle. Besides Sari, A Lady’s Profession boasts of Alison Skipworth, Roland Young, Kent Taylor, Roscoe Karns, Warren Hymer and George Barbier.

Zoo in Budapest is a queer title, isn’t it? That’s what the next Loretta Young picture is called. It’s being made by Fox who borrowed Loretta from the Warner Brothers. Gene Raymond, borrowed from Paramount, plays the leading masculine rôle. Others in the picture are O. P. Heggie, Frances Rich and Murray Kinnell.

Nancy Carroll and Paul Lukas have completed Kiss Before the Mirror for Universal. Frank Morgan is prominently cast, also Gloria Stuart, Jean Dixon, Charles Vine and Walter Pidgeon. Incidentally, if musicals had continued popular, Walter would have been a great star, as he has an excellent singing voice and was well on the road to stardom when the musical comedy type of flicker flopped.

POSED BY GERTRUDE MESSINGER IN “HOLLYWOOD RUNAROUND.” AN EDUCATIONAL VANITY COMEDY.

And when one college prof complained to another that the co-eds in his class weren’t at all pretty, Gertrude confides that the other consoled, “Well, better luck next term.”

the time, England is at war with the Boers and Clive patriotically leaves Diana and their sons for active service. It is here you realize the anguish which is a young wife's when her husband is torn away by the clutches of greedy war. Diana's second great sorrow is the loss of her oldest son, some years later, when the Titanic, with him honeymooning on board, strikes an iceberg and sinks. With the World War, her youngest enlists and Clive, although on in years, returns to the service. The aftermath brings new sorrows. Prices may be advanced for the showing of Cavalcade, but do try to see it. To miss one of the greatest pictures ever produced is inflicting much too much self-punishment.

footing in the royal household and his authority gradually increased. By the time the World War started, he had things so well knit together for himself that Rasputin was far more powerful than even the Czar.

However, aside from the three Barrymores being in it, Rasputin and the Empress has nothing much else to get excited about.

THE ANIMAL KINGDOM

WHAT is a man supposed to do when he learns that his wife really is his mistress and his mistress is actually his wife? That's the problem upon which is based The Animal Kingdom, with Leslie Howard, Ann Harding and Myrna Loy being those chiefly concerned with the singular situation.

It unfolds almost identically the same as did the stage play of the same name which also had Leslie in the leading role. Of course, there are a few changes, mostly in the dialog. His supporting cast is shades stronger than that given him on the stage. The picture is presented in the same subtle, sophisticated style as was the play, but the pleasant naturalness with which Leslie performs makes all possibility of its being sneered at as high hat film fare.

Myrna Loy, sinfully seductive, marries Leslie while Ann is away on a trip. It's a shock when Ann hears the news as she and Leslie for a number of years had been a lot more than just pals. Leslie insists it doesn't mean the end of their seeing each other, but Ann, ladylike, rules otherwise. It isn't long, though, before the rule is somewhat shattered.

Without Leslie in the leading...

 rôle, it’s questionable whether or not the story would ring true. After all, the character he enacts is a selfish sort of chap and if not cleverly played would be an unsympathetic individual which just doesn’t go with movie heroes.

William Gargan, as Leslie’s valet, has the second best part in the picture. He scored heavily in the original stage play and triumphs again in the talkie. He’s got a contagious smile, is handsome and has a fine speaking voice. He played the marine in Joan Crawford’s Rain primarily because of his excellent work in the stage version of The Animal Kingdom.

It’s a well directed picture, carefully cast and although the story is none too strong, as a whole, it’s interesting entertainment.

THE MUMMY

I MAGINE an Egyptian mummy, dead over 3000 years, coming back to life and roaming mysteriously about and you’ve a good idea of what Boris Karloff’s latest horror flicker is about. It won’t give you the chills-and-fever scare that Frankenstein gave, yet it will forcefully remind you of any weird nightmare you might have had after eating a second helping of mince pie. Or was it Welsh rarebit?

Karloff’s amazing facial make-up as The Mummy rivals any the late Lon Chaney ever attempted. It looks exactly like a decayed substance which centuries ago was a human head. As it gradually returns to life with its eyes slowly opening and the dry, dusty lips parting you’ll witness a screen sight such as you’ve never seen before. Certainly nothing more grotesque or hideous in make-up ever has been achieved and your nervous system, if it functions at all, will readily testify.

Much of the picture is given over to the preparations and actual excavation work of the Field Museum. While all this is admittedly interesting, nevertheless, it’s the thrilling, startling and terrifying stuff expected of Karloff as The Mummy that you’re anxious to see and the more the better.

Zita Johann, as a doctor’s daughter connected with the expedition, plays the feminine lead. She’s of Egyptian heritage and is later discovered to be the reincarnation of a princess. A princess, no less, who, centuries ago, was the girlfriend of the living mummy. As she comes under the spell of The Mummy, her life is endangered since he’s still very much in love with her and has in mind some sort of death pact. Particularly recommended for those with low blood pressure.
"SO YOU WANT TO GET MARRIED?"

"Tom, I've decided we're going to get married."

"That's fine! I'm glad to hear it. But you know, Tom, just wanting to get married is not enough to justify an increase in salary.

"You're right. I've studied my work and learned more about it than the other men in our department—and you won't have to come to me for an increase in salary.

"Thank you. And don't you take up a home study course with the International Correspondence Schools? It's been the making of other men around here."

"Employers in every line of business are begging for men who want to get ahead and are willing to prove it by training themselves to do one thing well."

"One hour a day of U. S. study will prepare you for the position you want in the work you like best.

"Why don't you take up a home study course with the International Correspondence Schools? It's for an increase in salary.

"If you want me to justify an increase in salary.

"If you can't justify an increase in salary.

"I'm sorry, honey, but I have to confess that the money I was saving for your new fur coat has been lost."

"I got into a poker game last night."

"But I thought you didn't know how to play poker."

"I don't."

On such an island of horror, he was treated surprisingly well, but simply because the doctor was anxious to see the reactions of his Panther Woman toward an attractive male.

"Island of Lost Souls" is a remarkably interesting thriller.

"The current trend of flickers seems to be to inject a generous assortment of frights so the fans will have a good old horrifying time of it. "Island of Lost Souls," from the story by H. G. Wells, has been unsparkingly injected. But, thanks to Charles Laughton's colorful performance as a brilliant but demented scientist, the implausible tale is quite believable.

Feminine fans will probably find that at times it's much too grotesque and revolting to comfortably watch. There is somewhat of a romance, but there is no such else besides that it's insignificant and of little importance.

The Panther Woman, of whom you must have heard by now, appears in "Island of Lost Souls." She's one of the scientist's prized creations. His foremost, in fact. You're led to believe that at one time she was a panther,

ITS FUN TO BE FOOLED

...IT'S MORE FUN TO KNOW

Here's a trick used in cigarette advertising. It is called "Coolness."

EXPLANATION: Coolness is determined by the speed of burning. Fresh cigarettes, retaining their full moisture, burn more slowly...smoke cooler. Dried-out cigarettes taste hot.

Camels are cooler because they come in the famous air-tight welded Humidor Pack...and because they contain better tobaccos. A cigarette blended from choice, ripe tobaccos tastes cooler than one that is harsh and acrid. For coolness, choose a fresh cigarette, made from costlier tobaccos.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

Smoke Camels...give your taste a chance to sense the difference.

The Blue Eagle, at present more famous than Rex, the Wonder Horse and Rin-Tin-Tin, is doing more for Hollywood than either of the aforementioned artists. Since the National Recovery Administration swung into action, stars' fan mail has increased appreciably. This is taken as a sign of returning prosperity, considering the fact that fan mail fell off 35 per cent during the depression. Now, thanks to General Johnson, Janet Gaynor is getting 1500 letters every day from happy citizens.

"It doesn't take much to turn a man's head," declared one chorine to another. And, says Tommy, the other replied, "No? Who's been looking at you?"
"I hear your jealous wife hired a new secretary for you, darling. Did she hire a blonde or a brunette?"
"He's a brunette."

"The stage manager doesn't know how to control himself."
"Why, he always seems to behave properly."
"Yes, but it's always his wife who controls him."

The nicest way for a girl to lose weight, this beauty has heard, is to shrink from kissing.

POSED BY PLAYERS IN "LAUGHTER IN THE AIR." A UNIVERSAL PICTURE.

Old Man—And you got your first big chance on the stage when a star was taken ill?
Dancer—Yes, she was too sick to make love to the producer so I did instead.
“I’ve done my best to make myself independently wealthy.”

“Yes, your best friends, your best relatives and your best lovers.”

Eddie— I understand your new boyfriend gives imitations.

Chorine— Does he! Every diamond he’s given me so far has been an imitation!
"The boyfriend and I were arrested for staging a scorchy necking party in his car last night. I confessed to the judge it was all my fault."

"Did the judge let you off?"

"No, he decided to hold me."

"Boys, I'm a kissing expert and am thinking of opening a school to teach the latest in kissing."

"Girlie, I'll be right around to see you."

"Do you want to enroll as a student?"

"No, I want to get a job as a teacher."
“This job of modeling certainly makes me sweat.”

“Why, just standing here and posing doesn’t make you sweat, does it?”

“No, but keeping my weight down does.”

“I must see my doctor about getting rid of some inhibitions.”

“Why, we thought he got rid of all your inhibitions some time ago.”

“Yes, but now I want him to get rid of my boyfriend’s.”
“Don’t you think it’s a mistake to marry in haste?”

“Well, it sure was when I married my second husband before I got rid of my first.”

“Are you ever bothered by peepers when you take a bath in your boarding house?”

“No, I’m never bothered by them.”

“You mean to say that none of the fellows in the boarding house ever peeps at you?”

“Oh, yes, they peep, but it doesn’t bother me.”
First Lunatic—A woman who wanted to neck all the time drove me nutty.
Second Lunatic—That’s funny. It was a woman who wouldn’t neck at all who drove me dippy.

It’s all right for a stenog to accept perfume from her boss, concedes Lona, so long as his wife doesn’t get wind of it.

"Do you really believe that story of Rip Van Winkle is true?"
"Absolutely, my dear. I’ve been married to him for twenty years."
"I'd be scared to death of kisses from a wonderful lover," confessed the sweet young thing. And, forwards Pat, the new boyfriend warned, "Then stay away from me, girlie; I don't want to be a murderer."

"Lady, I think you're a little rounder."

“That's all you know about it. I lost four pounds in the last week.”
"There are things in my latest novel that you won't get, my dear."
"Why, am I so dumb?"
"No, but you'll skip all the parts that aren't spicy."

Girls—They say the new leading man is irresistible in pajamas.
Jimmy—Yeah, he's a wolf in sleep's clothing.
"You mean to say you divorced your husband just because of the clothes he bought?"

"Yes, they were all for a blonde who worked in his office."

"What d'ya mean you were just going to give up the life of a chorus girl because of all the temptations?"

"Well, I found I hadn't time for both the work and the temptations."

You mean to say you divorced your husband just because of the clothes he bought?"

"Yes, they were all for a blonde who worked in his office."
"Baby, I stand so well with that blonde across the hall that she leaves her key in the door for me."

"Yeah, so you can't peak through the keyhole."

She—You kiss me that way again and you'll be sorry.

He—Yes? Well, you won't.

When you see a young girl playing around with a sugar daddy, understands Patricia, she isn't doing it just for fun, she's playing for keeps.
"Blondie, what's so hard about your job that keeps you going around in circles all the time?"
"What came up to change your mind?"
"My husband."

The first hermit, maintains Evelyn, was really a Scotch golfer who sliced his ball into the woods.
The worst thing about modern girls, laments Rozalie, is modern men.

“Where have I seen your face before, baby?”

“Listen you mugg! If you fell so hard for the little blonde at the party you must have seen something about her that I didn’t.”
“Yes, I saw the story in the papers about her inheriting a million dollars.”
Bobbie heard of a man who thought it silly the way nudists exercised. They all exercised restraint.

"I'm going to write to my fiance and tell him about all my past mistakes."

"How are you going to send the information, dearie? By express or parcel post?"

He—Let me tell you, young lady, I'm next to nobody when it comes to my kisses.

She—Good heavens, do you kiss yourself?
"The leading lady is thinking of leaving her husband. He has a certain bad habit she simply can't stand."

"She should have discovered all of his bad habits before she married him."

"Yes, but this is his bad habit of snoring!"

"I have a boyfriend who tells me he gets an electric shock every time I kiss him. Would you like to have a date with him some evening?"
"I should say not. I'd electrocute him!"
Kissing a boy goodnight, reflects Ruth, is a custom of long standing.

"As actors you guys are lousy. But I know how we can make some real money. I'll make you all prize fighters and invest five hundred in your first fights."

CHATTER of the Month: George (chest) O'Brien is doing a picture for Fox called "Heir to the Hoorah," and strangely enough, does not play the part of a cowboy . . . James Mattern, round-the-world flier, is anxious to break into pictures . . . Sylvia Sidney and Paramount seem definitely parted, what with Helen Mack getting Sylvia's rôle in "Chrysalis" . . . Diana Wynyard has returned from merrie olde England to appear in M-G-M's "Paradine Case" with John and Lionel Barrymore . . . The Four Marx Brothers may produce their own comedies in the near future . . . M-G-M is about to do another "Broadway Melody" with Irving Thalberg as producer and Joan Crawford, Jimmy Durante and Bing Crosby as stars . . . It'll be called "Broadway Melody of 1934" . . . RKO-Radio has signed Chester Morris, star of "Dangerous to Women," looks on as Maxie Rosenbloom, world's light heavyweight champ, is made up for his part by Betty Boerma and Jane Morris. More powder to you Maxie!
Here's a good line on what the girlies look like in “Dancing Lady,” Joan Crawford's latest offering. They show a lot more than promise and are several steps ahead of the average.

Adele Thomas, called by the late Florenz Ziegfeld “the most perfectly formed woman in America” . . . Ina Claire, the former Mrs. John Gilbert, returns to the screen in Warners' “King of Fashion” with Warren William as her leading man . . . Because of the rush to finish “White Woman” at Paramount, Carole Lombard, who plays the title rôle, did all her sleeping and eating in her dressing room . . .

CONTINUING the Chatter: Howard Hughes dropped several millions as a movie producer and has definitely checked out of the business . . . Margaret Sullavan was all set for the femme lead in “Good Red Bricks” for Universal, but instead rushed to New York to replace the ailing Tallulah Bankhead in “Jezebel,” a stage play . . .

M-G-M will star Myrna Loy this season . . . George White, famed Broadway producer, has been signed by Fox to annually produce a screen “Scandals” for the next five years . . . Will Rogers' daughter, Mary, will join an eastern stock company where she will learn voice and dramatic technique in preparation for a screen career . . . Mrs. Sandy—I’m getting the wallpaper for our new house from a big Chicago mail order company. I’m sending for its catalog tomorrow.

Mr. Sandy—Well, suit yourself, lassie, but it’s sure one tough job to paste those pages on the walls.

“…a girl’s foolish if she marries a man to reform him.”

“Yes, what fun would he be if she took away all his vices?”

“Thanks for saying our knees are cute, Jimmy. It’s been months since anyone has noticed ‘em.”

“Been keeping ‘em covered?”

“No, we’ve been living in a nudist colony.”
"I have a cousin who's an expert at juggling figures."
"Is he an accountant?"
"No, he's an adagio dancer with a troupe of three girls."

"Grace has had a lot of husbands."
"More than you'd suspect."
"No, not me. I'd suspect every blamed one of them."

"You old rascal, you! Why did you aim your bean shooter at the nude girls posing in that tableau?"
"I wanted to see some life in the raw."
"My pal and I witnessed a ceremony in which two girls were initiated into a nudist colony."

"Goodness! Did everything come off as expected?"

"What is it that makes a fellow like you so high strung?"

"I inherit it from my grandfather. He was caught stealing horses."
Second From Left—Today I came across the nicest eyes I ever saw on a girl.

Film fans who thought the Warners couldn't possibly surpass their spectacular Forty-Second Street and Gold Diggers of 1933 will be amazed, but delighted, to know that Footlight Parade is a greater production than both of them combined. It sets a new seemingly unreachable high in musical films. James Cagney outdoes himself, Ruby Keeler was never sweeter, Joan Blondell is swell-plus and Dick Powell, Frank McHugh, Claire Dodd and Guy Kibbee are grander than ever.

The chorus numbers, conceived by Busby Berkeley, top anything that's yet been done in musical films. The water scene formations in an elaborate and dazzling waterfall sequence are absolutely astounding and you simply can't watch them without undo oohing and aahing!

The story of Footlight Parade is a brand new slant on show business, believe it or not, and moves swiftly, with suspense galore, new and sparkling twists and gags of the hearty laugh variety.

Jimmy plays the part of Chester Kent, a dance director who, with the advent of talkies, hits upon the idea of turning out prologs for picture houses and eventually has units out all over the country. It's his job to think up and stage a brilliant idea each week. His ideas are continually thefted by some one in his own organization and given to Gladstone Productions which develops into serious competition. But leave it to Jimmy to biff competition on the nose.

Joan Blondell is his admiring and competent secretary. But Jimmy is too busy with work and Claire Dodd to realize what a nice wife she'd make. That is until entangling things start to happen and it's Joan who untangles them and saves Jimmy from being the proverbial goat.

Dick Powell and Ruby Keeler are the highlights in (Continued on page 58)

Ruby Keeler leading one of the dance numbers in the not-to-be-missed Footlight Parade. She and the girls are supposed to be a bunch of cats, if you look closely. It's a choice number, with the girls being very catty right before your eyes instead of behind your back.
CUTE little June Brewster, RKO-Radio player, camera-caught in the lovely act of brushing up on how to be enticing.

TALKIE SIGNALS on! Dorothy Lee about to pass the pigskin to Quarterback Chic Chandler. In this case the pigskin happens to be a squash. Dorothy believes every girl should know how to buck a "line."

STAN LAUREL and Oliver Hardy gladly get behind the novel idea of making their memorable muggs into false faces.
TIDBITS

Mae West with Wesley Ruggles, who directs her in "I'm No Angel." Notice the tights on Mae? (as if you had to be told!) She wears 'em as a lion tamer and, in playing the rôle, admits having to be pretty cagey with the beasts.

June Knight, being groomed for stardom by Universal, is unquestionably a sensation in the new musical film, "Take a Chance." That garter isn't holding up any stocking, but you can bet it's holding up traffic.

Jimmy Durante turns chiseler with a vengeance. Here he is working on a group of Adonis and his two brothers, Mike and Ike. Some people put their hearts into their work, but Jimmy puts in his nose.
"Believe me, I'll go around the corner on two wheels."

"Why, I thought you'd given up your roadster."

"That's it. The wheels are on a bicycle."

"Wife—Tomorrow you're taking me for a long drive in the new car!

"Husband—Very well, my dear. What direction would you like me to take?

"Wife—Mine, of course!"

FALSTAFF PRESS • 230 FIFTH AVE. • NEW YORK
ACE OF ACES. RKO-Radio. Routine air picture, with Richard Dix as an artistic soul goaded into joining the army by the jibes of his sweetheart, Elizabeth Allen. After his first air conquest he becomes a cold-blooded killer. His antics in the air give the picture most of its thrills.

DOUBLE HARNESS. RKO-Radio. William Powell and Ann Harding co-starred in a pleasant treatment of a modern marriage theme. When Bill decides to divorce Ann she gets down to the serious business of making herself indispensable to him. Lilian Bond and Henry Stephenson head the supporting cast.

ESKIMO. M-G-M. Gripping story of the Arctic acted by a native cast and photographed entirely in the Eskimo country. Story is told in Eskimo language, but W. S. Van Dyke's expert directing keeps it at all times clear and exciting.

FOOTLIGHT PARADE. Warner Brothers. The Warner boys come through with another lavish and entertaining screen musical. Ruby Keeler and Dick Powell are featured as usual, along with Joan Blondell, Jimmy Cagney, Gypsy Rose Lee, Frank McHugh and Claire Dodd. Reviewed in this issue.

GOLDEN HARVEST. Paramount. Life on the farm, with Richard Arlen, Chester Morris, Genevieve Tobin, Julie Hayden and Rosco Ates in the leading roles. If you've ever lived on a farm you'll enjoy this one immensely, and if you haven't—well, you'll enjoy it immensely.

GOODBYE AGAIN. Warner Brothers. An author (Warren William) on a barnstorming lecture tour with his secretary-sweetheart (Joan Blondell) runs into difficulties in Cleveland when an old affair pops up. A fine comedy, with Genevieve Tobin, Helen Chandler, Wallace Ford and Hugh Herbert in supporting roles.

HER FIRST MATE. Universal. Another howler in the Slim Summerville-Zasu Pitts series. In this one Slim is a ship's officer, and Zasu and her pal, Una Merkel, are passengers on a cruise. Plenty of laughs, if you like langhs.

LADIES MUST LOVE. Universal. A gay little comedy concerning the activities of a gang of boudoir pirates. The gold digging ladies are Sally O'Neill, Jane Knight, Mary Carlisle and Dorothy Burgess, and they keep guys like Neil Hamilton pretty much in hot water.

Sure enough, it's your old pal George Bancroft. He marks his return to the screen in Blood Money, with Judith Anderson from the stage.

AGGIE APPLEBY. RKO-Radio. Top-notch cinema fare, with Wynne Gibson transforming Charlie Farrell from a sissy to a tough guy, and doing a vice versa on William Gargan. Eventually, she marries Gargan, but not until yonse guys have been handed plenty of laughs. Zasu Pitts is grand in a featured role.

DINNER AT EIGHT. M-G-M. One of the season's best, with a star-studded cast including John and Lionel Barrymore, Wallace Beery, Marie Dressler, Jean Harlow, Lee Tracy, Edmund Lowe, Billie Burke, May Robson, Jean Hersholt, Madge Evans, Phillips Holmes and Karen Morley. What a meal!

In White Women, Carole Lombard portrays an entertainer in a South Sea Island cafe. She has to contend with guys like Charles Laughton.

Leila Hyams uses her charms on Robert Young in Saturday's Millions, a football yarn. The rumble seat contains Andy Devine and Grant Mitchell.

LADY FOR A DAY. Columbia. Adapted from one of Damon Runyan's classic short stories, this one has to do with Apple Annie and how the big bad wolves of Broadway helped her become a lady just long enough to get her daughter married off to nobility. Cast includes May Robson, Warren William, Guy Kibbee, Ned Sparks, Glenda Farrell, Jane Parker and Walter Connolly.

MAMA LOVES PAPA. Paramount. Our nomination for the funniest comedy of the year. Charlie Ruggles and Mary Boland are hilarious as an average middle-aged couple... try to break into prominence. Lilyan Tashman is swell in a come-hither rôle, and the whole picture is too good to be missed.

MAYOR OF HELL. Warner Brothers. Jimmy Cagney as a racketeer with political connections who is placed in charge of a reform school which harbors Frankie Darro, the toughest kid in town. Loaded with good action stuff, with the kids almost stealing the show from Cagney. Midge Evans has the leading feminine assignment.

MIDSHIPMAN JACK. RKO-Radio. Romance at Annapolis, with the story almost as familiar as the background. This time it’s Bruce Cabot who can’t live up to the rules until a sudden transformation makes him a true navyite and leads him eventually to the altar with none other than the commander’s daughter.

MOONLIGHT AND PRETZELS. Universal. A merry musical worth seeing for its bright and snappy dialog and its smart dance routines, not to mention the hot-chal waltzing of Lillian Miles. Cast includes Leo Carrillo, Mary Brian, Roger Pryor, Herbert Rawlinson and William Frawley.

MORNING GLORY. RKO-Radio. Katharine Hepburn’s brilliant performance as a stage-struck girl proves conclusively that she’s the screen’s most promising young actress. Although the story doesn’t measure up to Miss Hepburn’s performance, she makes it worth seeing. Doug Fairbanks, Jr., and Adolphe Menjou have chief supporting roles.

MY WEAKNESS. Fox. Lilian Harvey makes her American début in a picture that is crammed with entertainment. Supporting cast includes Lew Ayres, Charlie Butterworth, Sid Silvers and Harry Langdon.

NIGHT FLIGHT. M-G-M. Another all-star endeavor, with John and Lionel Barrymore, Helen Hayes, Clark Gable, Robert Montgomery, Myrna Loy and William Gargan. It’s a story of commercial aviation in South America, and it can be recommended for its acting and its beautiful color photography.

NO MARRIAGE TIES. RKO-Radio. Richard Dix as a philandering advertising writer who-bats out slogans between drinks and pursues the ladies between slogans. Eventually, he succumbs to Elizabeth Allen, which seems like a good idea.

STAGE MOTHER. M-G-M. Alice Brady, in the title rôle, raises her daughter (Maureen O’Sullivan) to be a stage star, and poor Maureen leads a pretty sheltered life until—well, just wait and see for yourself. Philip Holmes, Framehot Tone and Ted Healy are featured.

SATURDAY’S MILLIONS. Universal. When this year’s crop of football pictures is weighed and measured, this one will find itself close to the top of the heap. Story of a disillusioned young man who takes his football as a racket and his love the same way. Robert Young, Leila Hyams, Andy Devine and Mary Carlisle are featured.

STRAWBERRY ROAN. Universal. This time it’s Bruce Cabot who can’t live up to the rules until a sudden transformation makes him a true navyite and leads him eventually to the altar with none other than the commander’s daughter.

Clean Out Your Kidneys

They're dressing for dinner in the jungle these days. That's Maureen O'Sullivan, whose evening gown intrigues Johnny Weissmuller in Tarzan and his Mate. This horse opera explains how a strawberry roan is concerned with the romance of Ken and Ruth, and it exhibits, among other things, some amazing action shots.

TAKE A CHANCE. Paramount. A bright and shining musical, adapted from last season's Broadway success. A grand cast is headed by Jimmy Dunn, Cliff Edwards, June Knight, Lilian Bond, Dorothy Lee, Buddy Rogers and Lillian Roth. Jimmy Dunn will surprise you with his comedy, and June Knight's dancing will thrill you.

THE EMPIRE JONES. United Artists. Paul Robeson, in his first screen appearance, makes this flicker version of O'Neill's play one of the most worthwhile offerings of the season.

THE COLD DIGGERS OF 1933. Warner Brothers. When people like Ruby Keeler, Warren William, Dick Powell and Johnnie Ray with Alfonso Bedell, Aline MacMahon and Ginger Rogers get together things are bound to happen. What happens in this case is a lavish and entertaining musical, brightened by good dialog and a few catchy tunes.

THE NARROW CORNER. First National. Douglas Fairbanks, Jnr., Ralph Richardson, Patricia Ellis and Dudley Digges in the somerset Maugham tale of intrigue in the South Seas. Dudley Digges steals the show with his portrayal of the opium-smoking doctor. Young Doug's rôle is an unsympathetic one.

THE BLOWER AND THE GLORY. Fox. Something a bit novel in screen entertainment, with Spencer Tracy and Colleen Moore in the leads, and an offsetting voice describing the action as it progresses. Spencer Tracy is excellent and Colleen, in her first rôle in several years, is unusually good.

THE PRIVATE LIFE OF HENRY VIII. United Artists. A British-made picture, with Charles Laughton playing the part of the dissolute king. This one must go on your list. Reviewed in this issue.

The SONG OF Songs. Paramount. Marlene Dietrich, more glamorous than ever, portraying a German peasant girl who becomes a model and falls in love with a handsome young sculptor (Brian Aherne). Complications set in and Marlene becomes a fallen woman, but she returns to her first love before the fadeout. Rouben Mankouelian's direction is superb.

THE LOVE TO LOVE. Paramount. Maurice Chevalier's latest, and perhaps the weakest picture he's made on these shores. It's a story of a guy in love with a carnivale girl, and it makes use of a number of old two-reel comedy gags to keep its action speeded up. Ann Dvorak and Edward Everett Horton are featured.

THE WOMAN SPY. RKO-Radio. Con¬ nie Bennett in a splendid and thrilling woman spy in Austria during the war. She falls in love with an Austrian officer (Gilbert Roland), and gets herself discovered and arrested. When the armistice arrives she and her officer let love take its course. One of Connie's best efforts.

THIS DAY AND THIS DAY. Cecil B. DeMille's new production, having to do with a ruthless gangster and how he is brought to justice by a crowd of high school students, Charles Bickford plays the tough guy, and the juvenile roles are handled by Richard Cromwell, Judy Allen and Eddie Nugent.

THREE-CORNERED MOON. Paramount. The adventures of the Rimpileg family of Brooklyn, well portrayed by a wealth of able people. It's a pleasant little comedy of the home life of a once-prosperous family left hanging on the market after the market crash. Cast includes Mary Boland, Claudette Colbert, Richard Arlen, Wallace Ford, William Bakewell, Joan Marsh, Tom Brown, Hardie Albright and Lyda Roberti.

TOO MUCH HARMONY. Paramount. Another screen musical, featuring Bing Crosby and a group of his friends. Bing is excellent, as usual, and his friends, including Jack Oakie, Skeets Gallagher, Harry Green and Judy Allen are competent. A couple of good songs and a cute chorus complete the ensemble.

TUGBOAT ANNIE. M-G-M. Marie Dressier and Wallace Beery together again in a sea-going drama that's almost as good as Min and Bill. This time Wally portrays a drunken seaman who leaves Marie most of the work to do around the boat. Grand comedy. Robert Young and Maureen O'Sullivan are featured.

TURN BACK THE CLOCK. M-G-M. The story of this one is similar to that of One Sunday Afternoon, except that Lee Tracy re-lives his past with a complete knowledge of what is going to happen twenty years hence. A good idea cleverly worked out. Peggy Shannon, Otto Kruger and Marcey Walter are in it.

VOLTAIRE. Warner Brothers. George Arliss in another of his historical characterizations. His portrait of the French philosopher is well done, although the scenario makes Voltaire a much gentler gent than the history books say. Doris Kenyon is beautiful and a trifle too nice as Madame Pompadour.

WHEN LADIES MEET. M-G-M. Ann Harding in a comedy, in which no one is either good or bad, and certainly they're both in love with Frank Morgan. The difficulty is that Frank is Ann's husband. Another complication is that Frank is also in love with Myrna Loy. And when Alice Brady unwittingly gets them all together at her country place you can imagine what happens. Good comedy.

WILD BOYS OF THE ROAD. Warner Brothers. Frankie Darro and a pal leave home to find work and finding none they hop freights from town to town, picking up a girl trump. Loaded with action, and telling an impressive story of homeless kids, this picture should have plenty of appeal.

A famous scientist and Kidney Specialist recently said: "60 per cent of men and women past 55, and many far younger, suffer from poorly functioning Kidneys, and this is often the real cause of feeling tired, run-down, nervous, Getting Up Nights, Rheumatic pains and other troubles."

If poor kidney and Bladder functions cause you to suffer from any symptoms such as Loss of Vitality, Getting up to your complete satisfaction or cost nothing.

In case you're interested, Sally Eilers wears a gown in Walls of Gold that weighs forty pounds. It is made entirely of black jet beads — 750,000 of them, according to someone who claims to have counted them.

At a recent Hollywood opening, Lona Andre gave audience conscious, forgot her prepared speech, and said: "I certainly enjoyed the picture and I hope you did too." Which was fine except for the fact that the picture had not yet been shown.

When a director and his crew visited a nudist colony near Hollywood to film a short concerning the place, they were forced to check their clothes at the gate. The only member of the staff not completely nude was the sound mixer, who wore a set of earphones.

And Charles Laughton is sorely disappointed that Jean Harlow wasn't selected to play Alice in Alice in Wonderland. "Alice," he says, "was a very impudent young woman, and Miss Harlow is the only girl in town who could do justice to the part."

Right in the middle of a deluge of pictures with all-star casts comes a message from Jesse Lasky with plans to shadow him. The stunt as an experiment to discover whether people go to a picture to see their favorite stars.

Max BAER, who whipped Max Schmeling not long ago, had considerable difficulty in being convincing in the fight sequences in "Broadway Racket" (formerly "The Prize-fighter and the Lady") in which he plays the male lead. Max left nothing to be desired in licking the German challenger several months back, but in faking a fight before the camera he just didn't look good at all. They rehearsed him and re-hearsed him. Many of the prize fight scenes had to be done over.
eight times. This was unfortunate for Max's opponents. The more a scene was filmed, the angrier and more convincing Max became. No fault, however, has been found with Max's acting. In fact, M-G-M thinks so swell of it that it has lined up two more fight yarns for Max to do.

SYMPATHY

Little Willie—Boo! Hoo! My daddy's gone away...

Kind Old Lady—Don't cry, little boy. He'll come back...

Little Willie—That's just it. He went away after a paddle!

Maurice Chevalier was recently tendered a farewell luncheon by the Paramount publicity department in New York. Maurice said it always had been a pleasure to work with the press boys and the press boys tossed just as many bouquets at Maurice. He's going back to native France for a short vacation and will return to M-G-M to do a talkie version of "The Merry Widow" with Jeanette MacDonald, in all probability, as his leading lady. Ethel Merman, Broadway and radio sensation, now on the Paramount payroll, sang several numbers at the luncheon which proved Paramount has cornered a world-beater for the current flood of musical films. Maurice, in parting, said he would never again sign a long-term movie contract. Much too confining!

More Chatter: Lyle Talbot was to have been in "Female," but wrenched his back during the filming of "College Coach" and had to turn the part over to Johnny Mack Brown... Conway Tearle, making a screen comeback in "Forever Faithful," will be teamed with Alice Brady in a talkie version of "The Vinegar Tree"... Henry Garat is expected to return from Europe to the Fox lot in January... B. I. P. wanted to borrow Gloria Stuart from Universal but Carl Laemmle, Jr., refused permission claiming American actresses belonged in American pictures... Incidentally, RKO agreed to loan Arline Judge to M-G-M for a part in Joan Crawford's "Dancing Lady," but when Arline found out that the part didn't amount to much she refused to be loaned... Jean Harlow and Clark Gable will appear together in "The Road To Rome," which, as a play, was considered pretty gay stuff... Paramount has signed J. P. McEvoy, well known humorist, and his first task is working on the script of "So Often A Bridegroom" for Burns and Allen... During the filming of "Counsellor-at-Law" at Universal, the studio, at John Barrymore's request, had three special guards to keep visitors away from the set where he was working... Mary Nolan, now that she's divorced from Wallace Macrey, intends to return to the screen... William Haines is no longer on the M-G-M payroll... Paramount changed "She Made Her Bed" to "Girl Without A Room," but still the Hay's office objected and now they're trying to dig up another... Sidney Blackmer was replaced by blond-headed Melvyn Douglas in "Counsellor-at-Law" because it was decided there were enough dark-haired players in the cast already with what John Barrymore, Bebe Daniels and Mayo Methot... Rudy Vallee will make two shorts for Columbia...
NO WONDER
"Gosh, I'm sore today. Two blondes, who both wanted me to take 'em home last night, staged a hair-pulling contest over me."
"I should think that would make you feel pretty good."
"Yeah, but it was my hair they were pulling."

CONCLUDING the Chatter:
Charlie Chaplin intends to remake "Woman of Paris" following the completion of the comedy he's now working on... There's a possibility that Paulette Goddard (rumored to be Mrs. Chaplin) will play the title role... M-G-M paid Primo Carnera $35,000 for a week's work in "Broadway Racket," which stars Max Baer and Myrna Loy... Paramount reports that Mae West's "She Done Him Wrong" and "College Hunks" were its two biggest money-makers during the past season... The Marion Davies clinic in Los Angeles treated more than 12,000 children during the last twelve months... Gary Cooper contracted make-up poisoning in the right eye while doing "Design for Living" and production was halted until he recovered... Buster Keaton is now in Audieville... They say that Paul Muni's brother-in-law must approve each script before Paul will use it... Jeanette Loff, who deserted the screen for four years of stage work, is staging a comeback and will be seen in "The Vinegar Tree"... Paramount is anxious to do a talkie version of "Lady Chatterley's Lover"... It was banned as a novel a few years ago... Blossom Seeley, who replaced Peggy Hopkins Joyce in "Broadway Thru a Keyhole" when the latter did a walkout, did so well with the part that Twentieth Century Fox has given her a term contract... Claudette Colbert has recovered from her appendix operation... She will return to work shortly... Laura La Plante is in England making a picture for the Warner Studio over there... Wally Beery and family are expected back in Hollywood soon from their European trip... Ronald Colman is in Spain and has no plans about returning to Hollywood... Paramount is holding up release on its short features with Bing Crosby fearing that they will interfere with his box-office draw in the full-length feature "Too Much Harmony"... Wynne Gibson turned down a part in "Special Investigator" for Universal insisting it was too small, so Universal offered her a three picture proposition if she would reconsider and do the picture... Wynne agreed... The songs Mae West sings in "I'm No Angel" are rumored to be plenty snappy and may prove troublesome!
According to Schedule

ADVANCE information is to the effect that White Woman, starring Carole Lombard and featuring Charles Laughton, positively must not be missed. It has everything a box-office smash should have and Director Stuart Walker claims that Carole never before has given a performance as effective and convincing as her portrayal of White Woman.

Dolores Del Rio is soon to be seen in Flying Down to Rio which Thornton Freeland directed. Dolores will not want for leading men as the supporting cast includes Gene Raymond, Raul Roulien, Fred Astaire and Jimmy Cagney's brother, Bill. Ginger Rogers has an important part which means Dolores will have to be mighty appealing or else have the picture honored stolen away.

Will Rogers and Zasu Pitts! What a happy combination! They're appearing together in There's Always Tomorrow, now in production at Fox. James Cruze is doing the meugging. The cast includes Rochelle Hudson, Florence Desmond, Howard Lally and Harry Green. Let's hope Will injects some of his own personal philosophy into the dialog.

They've finally gone ahead with making a talkie version of the old-time serial favorite, The Perils of Pauline. Evalyn Knapp has the part made famous by Pearl White. Supporting Evalyn are Robert Allen, James Durkin, Pat O'Malley, John Davidson and Sonny Ray. So this is fair warning to get ready for a choice assortment of chills-and-fever thrills.

Franchot Tone, just about the most popular leading man in Hollywood, is playing opposite Constance Bennett in Moulin Rouge. It's under S. N. Howell's direction and the cast includes Tullio Carminati, Andre Tombes, William Kent, Fuzzy Knight and Helen Wesley. It's to be different from the usual type of Connie flicker.

Beautiful, which sounds more like a song title than a movie title, is the tag of Ann Harding's next offering. Robert Young and Nils Asther have the leading masculine roles and Sara Maritza, on loan from Paramount, has a prominent part. Al Santell is director. If the story doesn't tie up with the title, at least Ann will.

Victor McLaglen and Reginald Denny, as well as Boris Karloff, Alan Hale and Wallace Ford have featured parts in The Lost Patrol, now in the making at RKO-Radio. The veteran John Ford is behind the meg and that is guarantee of a first-rate production.

Man of Steel is the title of the next Jack Holt feature. His leading lady is Fay Wray, who, for the time being, has forsaken those weird mystery thrillers. Theodore von Eltz, Walter Connolly and Burton Churchill head the supporting players.

JACK PEARL, radio and musical comedy comedian, has completed his first full-length talkie and they say it's a wow. They've called it Meet The Baron, which is as it should be. Jack's supporting cast is of the all-star calibre and includes Jimmy Durante, Charles Butterworth, Zasu Pitts, Doc Rockwell, Lyda Roberti, Ted Healy and Stoenos, Gloria Hartwick, Jack McGuigg and Dorothy Fields.

It won't be long before you're rolling in the aisles laughing at Eddie Cantor in Roman Scandals. Ruth Etting is in it, too, and so's Gloria Stuart, Alan Mowbray, David Manners, Edward Arnold and also one of the most exciting chariot races you've ever seen!

Girls, Charles Farrell is playing opposite Bette Davis in The Shake-down. That you'll like him as well teamed with Bette as you did with Janet Gaynor is the hope of Warner Brothers. Also in the picture are Ricardo Cortez, Glenda Farrell, Allen Jenkins, Robert O'Connor, Adrian Morris, George Cooper and Harold Huber.

Greta Garbo and John Gilbert have finished work on Queen Christina and many believe it will mean the regaining of John's lost popularity. The picture was directed by Rouben Mamoulian. Others in the cast are Lewis Stone, C. Aubrey Smith, Ian Keith, David Torrence, Elizabeth Young, Lawrence Grant, Reginald Owen, Edward Norris and Barbara Barondess. It's a story Greta has long wanted to do.

Clara Bow is working on another for Fox called Hoopla. You probably saw it as a silent picture when it was known as The Barker. Preston Foster, Richard Cromwell, Minna Gombell, Herbert Mundin and Roger Imhoff head Clara's supporting cast. Hoopla should be one of Clara's most colorful pictures.

Dark Hazard, which may be re-titled, is the picture upon which Edward G. Robinson is now giving his time. Al Green is directing and among the players to be seen are Glenda Farrell, Genevieve Tobin, Gordon Westcott, Emma Dunn, Sidney Toler, Robert Barrat and George Meeker. Dark Hazard has to do with the racetrack.

There should be laughs aplenty in Tillie and Gus which boasts of the hilarious combination of W. C. Fields and Alison Skipworth. Baby Le Roy, who just about copped the picture from Maurice Chevalier in A Bedtime Story, is a featured member of the cast, which also includes Jacqueline Wells, George Barbiere and Clarence Wilson.

Tarzan and His Mate is ready for release with Johnny Weissmuller again playing Tarzan and Maureen O'Sullivan again his mate. It's reported to be more thrilling than Tarzan, the Ape Man and the costumes in which Johnny and Maureen cavort are nothing short of sensational.

If you're wondering what's become of Peggy Shannon, be advised that she's making a picture for Monogram called Devil's Mate. Her leading man is Preston Foster and others appearing in the picture are Bryant Washburn, Barbara Barondess and Paul Porcasi.

FOOTLIGHT PARADE

Jimmy's ace-prologs, but there comes a night when Jimmy, himself, has to step into one of his prologs, and folks does he stop the show with his singing and dancing!

You've never been entertained quite as lavishly as you will be in seeing Footlight Parade. It clearly demonstrates what extraordinary scenes can be staged in musical films which are impossible to do in stage productions.

THE PRIVATE LIFE OF HENRY VIII

PRODUCED in England, The Private Life of Henry VIII brings to these shores a highly dramatic, superbly acted treatise on the intimate doings of Britain's most amorous monarch. And Charles Laughton, in the leading role, gives the finest performance of his brilliant screen career.

The picture opens just as Ann Boleyn, Henry's second wife, is about to be beheaded for infidelity. The first wife is dismissed with a subtle explaining that she was too respectable a lass and therefore uninteresting. Ann, as the history books tell us, was not so good, and she paid for her indiscretions with her head. Ten minutes later Henry takes his third bride, a naive and unsophisticated lass who brings him love, and later, a son. She dies, however, in childbirth, and Henry is persuaded, for political reasons, to marry a neighboring princess. He and the young lady are hardly what you can call compatible—in fact, they despise each other so that they spend their wedding night playing cards.

A quick divorce is granted and Henry is free, for the moment, from women. Again the court diplomats get his ear and convince him that the throne of England needs another heir or two. Henry casts about and selects a comely maiden of the court, who happens to be in love with one of the king’s guards. Ambition conquers love, however, and she becomes England’s queen. Henry is supremely happy, but Katharine eventually tires of him and holds secret rendezvous with her lover. They are finally discovered, however, and are sent to the executioner.

Henry, now an old man, takes as his final bride the palace housekeeper, a hard, practical old girl who rules him with an iron hand. And thus he comes to the end of his reign.

See The Private Life of Henry VIII by all means.

EMPEROR JONES

One of the year’s outstanding screen performances is given by Paul Robeson in the title role of Emperor Jones, the Eugene O’Neill classic. Only an actor of his capabilities could have enacted the horrifying closing sequence as forcibly and so convincingly. He’s seen fleeing through a dense forest from his revolting subjects who seek to kill him. He had risen from Pullman porter to be their Emperor!

He loses his way. The constant thumping of the drums of the enraged natives becomes louder. His fear becomes uncontrollable. He keeps talking and singing to himself.

December issue now on sale—10c

MODERN SCREEN
"My father has a weakness for women."
"And I suppose you're following in his footsteps?"
"No, he's following in mine."

In the burlesque business, understands Helen, what's right is right and what's left has been censored.
One way to feather your nest, suggests Ginger, is to go in for fan dancing.

Mistress—I spent the afternoon looking at apartments.

Housekeeper—Heavens aren’t you satisfied to stay in the one you’re in?

Mistress—Yes, but I was trying to find the one my husband was playing poker in.
Fourth from Left—Did you make any mistakes before you were married to Ted?
Fifth from Left—Oh, no; I didn’t confess anything to him.

POSED BY BING CROSBY AND MIRIAM HOPKINS IN “SHE LOVES ME NOT,” A PARAMOUNT PICTURE.

Husband—Just what do your duties at the office embrace?
Wife—Just the boss.

POSED BY HAZEL FORRES IN “DOWN TO THEIR LAST YACHT,” AN RKO-RADIO PICTURE.

When a young man’s passion is born, intimates Hazel, a girl often gets a birthingmark on her neck.
"The lifeguard's been learning to play the saxophone for the past six months."
"Do the notes bother him?"
"He should worry about neighbors who write complaining letters."

"Is your athletic boyfriend a squash player?"
"Yes, he squashes me every time he starts playing."
"I got a problem all wrong today and stayed after class so the prof could help me."

"Did you find out your mistake?"

"Yes, my mistake was staying after class."

POSED BY MARION SHELTON.

Bicarbonate of soda manufacturers, quips Marion, live on the fed of the land.

"When John's bank business failed, it was the means to his end."

"You mean it was the end to his means."
Pupil—My boyfriend has certainly listened to your advice about not eating when he's tired.

Gym Instructor—Oh? You mean he takes pains to wait a while before eating?

Pupil—No, I mean he never works hard enough to get tired.
POSED BY MARION MARTIN AND PLAYERS IN "HELLO, SAILOR," AN EDUCATIONAL COMEDY.

“We heard of a fellow who gained five pounds the day of his wedding.”
“G’wan, we don’t believe it.”
“Well, it’s true. You’d be surprised how buckshot weighs.”

POSED BY EDWARD EVERETT HORTON AND PLAYERS IN "THE GAY DIVORCEE," AN RKO-RADIO PICTURE.

“My fiancee caught me kissing you backstage last night.”
“Did she treat it in an off-hand manner?”
“No, but she treated my ring that way!”
"Boys, my wife has left me."
"What? You must be joking."
"Of course I am. I'm so happy I've been joking all day."

Another modern version, offers Gigi, is:
If the shoe fits, put it on your husband's charge account.
"The instructor gave me a kiss last night every mile he rode."

"How many times did he kiss you?"

"I don't know. How far is Los Angeles?"

Someone's dry sense of humor, quotes Iris, has saved many a party from being all wet.
"Our cowsh udder sheemsh to be full, my dear."
"Listen, Adam, don’t judge udders by yourself."

"So the doctor advised you to take steps to cure your indigestion?"
"Yes, but I’m going to change doctors."
"Why?"
"He wants me to take 5,000 steps a day."
"He doesn't feel so well.
I made him a club sandwich for lunch."
"Was the club you made it out of hickory or cedar?"

"If you added seventy-six thousand, nine hundred and twenty-three to eighty-one thousand four hundred and twelve, what would you get?"
"A wrong answer."
POSED BY GRADY SUTTON AND CAROL TEVIS IN "OCEAN SWELLS." AN RKO-RADIO COMEDY.

"I hear your business is going under?"
"Yeah, going under autos."

POSED BY DAPHNE POLLARD AND SHEMP HOWARD IN "SMOKED HAMS." A WARNER BROTHERS VITAPHONE COMEDY.

"I'm going to get the sergeant to mix me a drink. I need courage."
"Yes, drinking that stuff he mixes will take all the courage you can muster."

POSED BY PERT KELTON, APPEARING IN RKO-RADIO PICTURES.

Pert tells us of the fellow who stayed home from work because of the illness of his wife. She was too weak to get up and make him go to work.
"I always love to see Saturday nights roll around."

"Oh, are you a Saturday night Romeo?"

"No, I'm a soap manufacturer."

"My balloon dance was a terrific success. They were rolling in the aisles."

"The audience?"

"No, the balloons."

"So you were divorced for wife beating?"

"Yes, for beating my wife every week to my salary check."
A house-to-house salesman asked a woman if she didn’t think it was about time she got rid of her old carpet beater. And, adds Helen, the woman snapped: “When the time comes I’ll see a divorce lawyer!”

“So you went out with a blonde and a brunette last night, eh?”

“Yes, she needs a henna wash badly.”

First—A shoe hit me the day I got married.
Second—I bet your wife’s dad had a hand in it.
Third—G’wan, I bet he had a foot in it.
Julie claims that some apartment house janitors are so lazy that they'd rather sleep than heat.

"My wife knows where I am every second of the day."
"Oh, that's a lot of bull."
"Absolutely. She has to keep three of them on my trail."
When a backward girl falls in love, jests Janet, she has something to look forward to.

Janet tells of the medical student who was studying to be a surgeon and all he did was cut classes, open gin bottles and operate his roadster.
In matrimonial quarrels, presumes Janet, it's the belittle things that count.

One girl who gets money every time she lifts a finger, mentions Janet, is a pretty blonde manicurist.
"You shouldn't divorce your husband. He's the kind that brings home the bacon."

"Yes, but the man who owns the bacon has found out about it."

Iris makes mention of the fellow who'll never forget the words he said to a certain blonde. She recorded them on a dictaphone.
"I just came back from a vacation in the mountains."

"Did you get much tan from the sun?"

"No, my husband had a man shadowing me."

"My husband got rid of a lot of surplus flesh."

"Has he a reducing doctor, too?"

"No, he has a butcher shop."
Restaurant Owner—
Customers get my goat when they order frankfurters.

Girl Friend—Yeah?
It tastes more like your horse to me.

"Don't tell me that brazen creature has any hidden virtues."
"Sure, she has."
"What, for instance?"
"Her clothes."
"I am so wrapped up in myself—my work!"
—Jean Muir.

"You know what I would love? A cute little farm with a darling cottage in England."—Ida Lupino.

"I am making my house bigger. Especially the bathrooms. I love a big bathroom."
—Lupe Velez.

"I was a fat little boy."
—Charles Laughton.

"I don't want to be encumbered by things."
—Bette Davis.

"I would be the kind of a wife who would pick out her husband's secretary."
—Helen Mack.

"I never dreamed I could ever be a picture star."
—Ruby Keeler.

"Can you imagine me trying to do one of those lavender and old lace parts?"
—Spencer Tracy.

"I have a one-track mind, I guess."
—Rochelle Hudson.

"I've never learned how to play."
—Marian Nixon.

"I have played too much at love—on the screen—not to know the real article when it comes along."
—Loretta Young.

"If you have to struggle to hold a man's affection he isn't worth the effort."
—Jean Harlow.
“Blinks is terribly worried about his wife.”
“What’s come over her?”
“A lot of new dresses he didn’t buy for her.”

“While the producer was motoring today he got new costumes for his show.”
“Did he run into an angel?”
“No, an ostrich!”

Gloria wonders if you heard of the ventriloquist who threw his voice in the ash can when he got married?
POSED BY MAUREEN O'SULLIVAN AND ROBERT MONTGOMERY IN "HIDEOUT," A METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER PICTURE.

"Do you know what is meant by a girl's unmentionables?"

"Sure. B.O. and halitosis."

POSED BY WINI SHAW AND EL BRENDEL IN "WHAT, NO MEN?" A WARNER BROTHERS VITAPHONE COMEDY.

Slicker—The other day I asked my canary how I could tell if a girl is bow-legged.

Maid—Your canary? What did it answer?

Slicker—Peep! Peep!

POSED BY MADALINE DUKE IN "DOWN TO THEIR LAST YACHT," AN RKO-RADIO PICTURE.

Speaking of breezy street corners, asserts Madaline, it's an ill wind that blows no goods.
A refreshing study in black and white on the RKO-Radio lot. The gals, part of the glamour in The Gay Divorcee, are giving you a grand double-crossing which you shouldn’t mind at all.

UNFORTUNATE

“Haven’t you any nudist camps or burlesque shows?”

“Sure, but they all pay me to keep my eyes shut.”

CONTINUING the Chatter:— Paramount and Lanny Ross may split ...

Lupe Velez is going to England to make a picture and hubby Johnny Weissmuller will also go along, but just for the trip ... Chester Hale, M-G-M dance director, had to teach dance steps to a horse for “The Night Is Young ...” It took Columbia more than twice the scheduled time to make “The Captain Hates the Sea,” because of illness and temperament among the players ... June Knight has purchased a walnut ranch in San Fernando Valley ... Warners have renewed Mary Astor’s contract for another year ... Charlotte Henry, who played the title role in “Alice in Wonderland,” has not been re-signed by Paramount ... Van Buren Enterprises are trying to get Frank Buck and Joan Lowell to co-star in a super-jungle picture ... M-G-M is apt to star Charles Butterworth before long ... And Buster Keaton has just completed a feature comedy made in France ...

THE GOOD WORD

Minister (interrupting bridge party)—Aren’t you girls forgetting that all this is vanity and you must all return to dust?

First Wife—We don’t have to return to dust. Our husbands will do that when they come home from work.
LOVE in Hollywood:—
Barbara Weeks and Guinn Williams have decided to go through life arm-in-arm . . . Lily Damita will soon become Mrs. Hugo Brasse . . . Frances Dee, Mrs. Joel McCrea, is spending most of her time these days with her infant son . . . Sally Eilers, Mrs. Harry Joe Brown, has decided to call the new arrival Harry Joe Jr. . . . Reconciliation talk concerning Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks seems to have died down, what with Mary now in New York and Doug on the west coast . . . The Glenda Farrell-Bob Riskin romance is all washed up . . . Onslow Stevens and his bride Phyllis Cooper, a banker’s daughter, were pouting at each other ten days after the ceremony . . . Maurice Chevalier and Kay Francis continue to

“Did you hear that the assistant director has found his soul mate?”
“It must be a midget.”
"I hear Alice Malice finally got a part she could get her teeth to."
"Yes, the tender part of the director's ear."

This Indian maiden says you may have heard of a crow that could talk, but have you ever heard of a spelling bee?
"Eat your spinach, dear. Don't you know it puts firm, white teeth in your mouth?"
"Then feed it to grandpa."

"I don't see Charlie half as much as I used to."
"You should have married him when you had the chance."
"I did!"

"Honey, let's go to the band concert in the park tonight."
"Because it's free?"
"Yes, free from your pa, ma and kid brother."
"Just as my girlfriend and I were kissing, her father rushed in with a shot gun."

"Did your flesh creep?"

"I'll say! Every inch of it crept right under the sofa."
"You're always forgetting to fire this furnace and I'm hot under the collar about it!" fumed the tenant. Whereupon, testifies Ginger, the janitor stated: "Aw, go back to your apartment and cool off!"

"So your wife's three sisters left their husbands and went home to their mother?"
"Yes, they're all living at my house."

"I posed in the nude for Phillip last night at his studio apartment."
"Why, you're not a model!"
"Oh, that's all right. Phillip can't draw, either."

"You're always forgetting to fire this furnace and I'm hot under the collar about it!"
Detective—The chief wants to know if you’d like a picture of the noose with which this criminal was hanged?

Reporter—Sure, we’ll publish all the noose that’s fit to print.

The height of nerve, believes Lucille, is trying to erase a debt with a rubber check.

“I can’t begin to describe the way I feel about my husband.”

“Words can’t express it, eh?”

“Yes, they can; but I’m too ladylike to use them.”
POSED BY JACK DURANT AND FRANK MITCHELL IN "SHE LEARNED ABOUT SAILORS." A FOX PICTURE.

"I'm looking for a girl with a fortune."

"Why, I thought you had a fortune."

"I had, but she got it away from me."

POSED BY JIMMIE GLEASON, UNA LOVE AND ROBERT ARMSTRONG.

"So you're a tennis enthusiast, eh? Do you wear shorts when you play, girlie?"

"Oh, goodness, no. It positively wouldn't be allowed."

"Well, well. We suppose you must play at some refined, old-fashioned tennis club?"

"No, I play in a nudist colony."

POSED BY MURIEL EVANS AND FLORINE MCKINNEY, APPEARING IN METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER PICTURES.

"Caviar is something you get from fish, isn't it?"

"Yes, I make some poor fish buy me some every night."

POSED BY JEANETTE LOFF AND EDDIE FAY, JR., IN "BENNY FROM PANAMA." A HAL ROACH-METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER COMEDY.

Wife—King Alcohol reigns over you!

Husband—Well, darling, into each life some reign must fall.
"People take off their hats to my accordion playing."
"Oh, are you quite accomplished?"
"No, all I can play is The Star Spangled Banner."

"Has the principal of your school a large staff to help him with his work?"
"I'll say! It's about three feet long and does he whack you with it!"

"Has your boyfriend no regard for purity?"
"Oh, yes; he demands it in all the whiskey he buys."

"Wife (noticing hubby making exit)—Wait a minute, you insect! You're going to spend a nice quiet evening at home.
"Hubby—Oh, are you and your mother going out?"
POSED BY GIRLS IN "STUDENT TOUR," A METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER PICTURE.

"Wally's eyes make it dangerous for a girl to go driving with him. He always sees spots."

"Black spots?"

"No, secluded spots."

POSED BY GIRLS IN "STUDENT TOUR," A METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER PICTURE.

"Girls, I was riding a very high-spirited horse today."

"We'll bet you felt like a million bucks."

"No, that's the way the horse felt about it."

POSED BY LEON ERROL AND PLAY¬ERS IN "ADAM'S APPLE," A WARNER BROTHERS' VITAPHONE COMEDY.

"Girls, I was riding a very high-spirited horse today."

"We'll bet you felt like a million bucks."

"No, that's the way the horse felt about it."
First Chorine—My boyfriend ran out of gas ten miles from the nearest gas station.
Second Chorine—That’s some tramp.
First Chorine—I’'ll say he is!

Maid—A package just came for you, ma’am. It looks like a bracelet.
Dancer—Don’t be silly. It’s my new stage costume.
POSED BY GLORIA SHEA. APPEARING IN MONOGRAM PICTURES.

Gloria informs us of the rebellious laundress who struck while the iron was hot.

POSED BY CLAUDE RAINS AND MARGO IN "CRIME WITHOUT PASSION." A PARAMOUNT PICTURE.

"Say, big boy, do you mind if I hide in your apartment? An artist friend of mine is drunk and insists he's going to give me his autograph.

"Oh, do you object to autographs from artists?"

"Not ordinarily; but this fellow's a tattoo artist."

POSED BY BUD JAMIESON. BOBBY CLARK AND PAUL McCULLOUGH IN "IN A PIG'S EYE," AN RKO-RADIO COMEDY.

"I hear Sandy MacPherson is ill. How soon do you think he'll reach the crisis?"

"When the doctor presents his bill!"
"I just bought an astronomical telescope."
"For heavens' sake!"
"No, for that little blonde who lives across the street."

"Is your husband the kind who carries letters around for days without mailing them?" asked one Scotch woman of another. To which, forwards this Mascot beauty, the other responded: "Sure. He wants to put off buying the stamps as long as he can."

"When I hand my boss the letters I've typed during the day I always give him a couple of swell kisses."
"You must be an awful girl."
"No, I'm an awful typist!"
“Have you seen my motorcycle?”

“But Mr. Wotley, you told me you were just an amateur magician!”
"Where I come from they put those out behind the house."

"If you can't cook, what good are you?"
"How about a few drinks and a necking party this evening, Emma-Tom?" asked the living skeleton of the Half-Man–Half-Woman. To which, jests Dot, the latter snapped: "Listen, you string bean! If you don't remember that I'm a lady, I'm going to forget that I'm a gentleman!"

"Don't you feel cramped in this apartment?" asked one neighbor of another. And, flips Dot, the other admitted: "Oh, yes; my wife's cooking is giving me cramps all the time."

It was in the chorines' dressing room, explains Dot. "Is Mabel here? One of her childhood girlfriends is outside to see her," said the first cat. And the second cat spoke up and snipped: "Yes, show the old lady in."
"I see you gave this chorine a private room," observed the first surgeon. To which, smiles Dot, the second snickered: "Yes, she was just too cute for wards."

"Have you had any experience with infernal machines?" asked the police captain of a rookie cop. And, offers Dot, the rookie said: "Oh, yes; I bought a second-hand car."

Three grave diggers, declares Dot, were talking. "If there were enough of us, we could play a game of bridge," said one. "Well," continued another, "we can always dig up a fourth."
"The man I marry must have something that Clark Gable's got."

"A swell personality?"

"No, a swell income."

"Dolores is using a goat's feather for that new fan dance of hers."

"But a goat has no feathers."

"I know."

"Won't a few drinks of this make you forget all your troubles?"

HERE'S George Raft, all done up in Oriental makeup, with Anna May Wong in a dramatic scene from Limehouse Nights, which offers you a long-awaited look at the Chinese star, not to mention a new slant on George.

ADVENTURE GIRL. - RKO-Radio.
Joan Lowell, who combines authoring with her adventuring, is shown here among the perils of Guatemala, where she faces numerous hardships and engages in a rough-and-tumble with a native princess in her quest of a precious emerald. Story is sometimes highly incredible, which seems to be a habit with Joan.

AGE OF INNOCENCE. - RKO-Radio.
Irene Dunne and John Boles find themselves still torn between screen love and screen duty. This time, John is in love with Irene, but he nobly bows to the wishes of both their families and marries her cousin, Julie Hayden. Picture has more than its quota of charm, and should appeal especially to the family trade.

A GIRL OF THE LIMBERLOST. - Monogram.
Gene Stratton Porter's widely read novel arrives on the screen just in time to go to the head of the class in the new "clean pictures" drive. Marian Marsh plays the title role, and supporting players are Ralph Morgan, Louise Dresser and Eddie Nugent.

A LOST LADY. - Warner Brothers.
When Barbara Stanwyck sees her fiance (Phillip Reed) shot, she takes to the north woods to forget. Here she meets Frank Morgan, and marries him, although she's not in love. Later a whirlwind courtship by Ricardo Cortez is followed by a return of the lady to her patiently waiting husband. Fair entertainment.

BELLE OF THE NINETIES. - Paramount.
Mae West, with a nice coat of whitewash from the censors, manages to shine through her garb of enforced purity often enough to hand you a breezy and entertaining film. Against a background of the old honky-tonk days, America's New Sweetheart struts her stuff before a group of admiring males which includes Johnny Mack Brown, Roger Pryor and John Miljan.

BLIND DATE. - Columbia.
When a girl repulses advances made to her by a dashing young millionaire, he immediately senses his true love for her, turns a noble back on philandering, and asks her to be his. And when the lowly mechanic, who has been carrying the torch for the young lady, realizes the millionaire's sincerity he steps quietly out of the picture. Sounds almost like a movie, hey? Ann Sothern, Neil Hamilton and Paul Kelly have the leads.

BRITISH AGENT. - Warner Brothers.
More than satisfactory screen fare from every angle is this story of love against a setting of the Russian, revolution. Adapted from H. Bruce Lockhart's best seller of last season, it has Kay Francis and Leslie Howard in the leads, and William Gargan, Phillip Reed and Irving Pichel in supporting roles.

BULLDOG DRUMMOND STRIKES BACK. - 20th Century.
With Ronald Colman portraying the amateur detective in his customary engaging manner, and Charlie Butterworth in a grand comedy role, this second adventure of Bulldog Drummond is as entertaining as the first. Feminine leads are played by Loretta Young and Una Merkel.

CARAVAN. - Fox.
The first Hollywood starring picture for Charles Boyer, the French star. Flicker has a light opera touch, with Charles portraying a leader of a Gypsy band who deserts his dark-eyed lady (Jean Parker) for a countess (Loretta Young). After marriage, he realizes his error and (Continued on page 54)

CHARLIE CHASE advises Irvin S. Cobb, now making comedies for Hal Roach, that his frontal expanse is far too big and he should lose it. But Irvin is very much attached to said frontal expanse and will continue to stand in back of it.

LOVELY June Lang. She's one of the reasons you mustn't miss Caravan. June is one of the gorgeous gypsy girls in the picture, which, by the way, stars Charles Boyer, the French importation. To have a gypsy like June read your palm certainly would be your good fortune, eh?

JOE PENNER gladly supplies the music and Lyda Roberti and Lanny Ross whirl into a dance. Joe's instrument is a cigar, no less. But, adds Joe, it plays hot tunes and no butts about it.
"I guess your brother was pleased when he found himself the father of twin boys."

"Was he! He went around grinning from heir to heir."

"I guess your friends tried to kiss me at your party last night."

"No, I want you to throw another party."
"The whole neighborhood is talking about that artist's little boy."

"But I thought he was a model child."

"That's why they're talking."

"I'm going to find out if that dancer wears anything under all that jewelry."

"But how can you?"

"Don't worry, I'll leave no stone unturned."

"I know a blonde who never pulls down her shade when she undresses at night."

"I suppose that makes quite a hit with you?"

"Not exactly. I'm her husband."
"See here, you runt, aren't you interested in the preservation of bird life?"
"I'll say I am. I'm a hat cleaner."

"And when you sassed your mother's mother your dad took you out into the woodshed?" asked one kid of another. And, remarks Lillian, the other confessed: "Yes, he didn't want her to see him slip me a quarter!"

Kidneys Cause Much Trouble Says Doctor

Successful Prescription Helps Remove Acids—Works in 15 Minutes

Dr. W. R. George, for many years Health Director of Indianapolis, says: "Transitorial kidney symptoms are usually the result of some condition affecting the kidneys themselves. A person should never ignore these symptoms, because they are believed by many to be the forerunners of kidney disease."

Jimmy Dunn tosses a few hard glances in the general direction of Arlen, with whom he co-starred in 365 Nights in Hollywood.
GIFT OF GAB. Universal.
If you love a parade, especially a parade of radio favorites, take a look at this. Phil Baker, Ruth Etting, Ethel Waters, Gene Austin, The Beale Street Boys, Graham McNamee, Alexander Woolcott croon while Phil Baker tickles the ivories on his faithful accordion, and a Damon Runyon yarn known as The Lemon Drop Kid, in which they play the leads.

HERE COMES THE NAVY. Warner Brothers.
Jimmy Cagney joins the navy mainly to have a few sharp words with Pat O'Brien, a petty officer who is not what you'd call one of Jimmy's pals. On the other hand, James is in love with Pat's sister, Gloria Stuart. Plenty of action and laughs here, with Frank McHugh in a supporting role.

KANSAS CITY PRINCESS. Warner Brothers.
Joan Blondell and Glenda Farrell, dissatisfied with their manicurist jobs, step out for big game and bump into adventure and a few complications. A nice comedy with Robert Armstrong, Hugh Herbert and Osgood Perkins.

LOVE TIME. Universal.
The romance of Franz Schubert, with Nils Asther playing the eminent composer and Pat Paterson as the light of his life. Fine performances by the leads and several beautiful Schubert melodies serve to make this one a fairly engaging photoplay.

MILLION DOLLAR RANSOM. Universal.
An ex-gangster goes straight and sacrifices his life to foil a kidnapping plot. Adapted from one of Damon Runyon's stories, it has humor and suspense, and an excellent cast headed by Edward Arnold, Phillips Holmes and Mary Carlisle.

MRS. WIGGS OF THE CABBAGE PATCH. Paramount.
W. C. Fields, Zaou Pitts, Pauline Lord, Evelyn Venable, Kent Taylor and Donald Meek are a few of the people you'll find around Mrs. Wiggs' well-known cabbage patch. It's an adaptation of the story you must have read at least once.

NOW AND FOREVER. Paramount.
Your favorite movie queen, Shirley Temple, with Gary Cooper and Carole Lombard to aid her, turns in another swell performance and succeeds in making Now And Forever something worth seeing. Story concerns the activities of a confidence man and his lady friend.

Lee Tracy and Helen Mack, whom you saw in You Belong to Me, are back together again in a Damon Runyon yarn known as The Lemon Drop Kid. And here is Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire in one of their non-dancing moments from their new musical romance, The Gay Divorcee.

WE WANT YOU TO TEST the Weil Belt at our Expense!
DON'T let a "hay window" make you the 'butt' of locker-room jokes! The Weil Belt will take inches off that paunchy waistline...3 inches in 10 days to be exact...or it won't cost you a red cent.

■ The old adage, "Nobody loves a fat man," may be an exaggeration, but nobody admires his figure. If you want to have that well-set-up appearance get rid of the fat this easy way! No starvation diets or strenuous exercises...just get into a Weil Belt and appear inches smaller at once!

■ Certainly you will feel as though you were rid of a huge load when your sagging abdominal muscles are properly supported. Vitality and pep will come back and you will feel, as well as look, like a new man...

■ These men and many others are so enthusiastic with their new lease on life that they write us about it! And we know you will be just as keen when you see what the Weil Belt will do for you!

■ DON'T WAIT, FAT IS DANGEROUS!

REDUCE YOUR WAIST
3 INCHES IN 10 DAYS...
...or no cost!
TT would take a whale of a lot of nerve to make such an agreement if we weren't sure you would do it! But we know from the experience of hundreds of men that our claims are very conservative. W. T. Anderson writes, "I lost 50 pounds"; W. L. McGinnis says, "My waist is 8 inches smaller"; Fred Wolf, "I certainly feel like a new man".

■ These men and many others are so enthusiastic with their new lease on life that they write us about it! And we know you will be just as keen when you see what the Weil Belt will do for you!

■ DON'T WAIT, FAT IS DANGEROUS!

■ Insurance companies think twice before they insure a fat man...doctors warn against overweight. Even your own feelings will tell you that with surplus fat stored around your abdomen you lose pep and vigor and tire easily.

■ The Weil method is SAFE and SURE. It's the gentle massage-like action as you walk or sit at your desk that does the trick...and you are aware only of a welcome feeling of support. Prove it to yourself with our Free Trial Offer!

According to Schedule

JACKIE COOGAN, absent from the screen for several years, is now quite the grown young man as you'll notice when you see him in Code of the West, soon to be released by Paramount. Randolph Scott however, has the lead, but Jackie's part is an important one. Others in the flicker are Grace Bradley, Fuzzy Knight, Dean Jagger and Addison Richards. It's a Zane Grey yarn with Arthur Jacobson doing the megging. It doesn't seem so long ago when Jackie was the child sensation with Charlie Chaplin in The Kid.

Bachelor of Arts is the tag of a sweet romance in the making at Fox studios with Anita Louise and Tom Brown as the love birds. Arline Judge, Frank Albertson, George Meeker, the veteran Henry B. Walthall, Stepin Fetchit, Frank Melton and John Arledge are among the supporting players. Louis King is director. It's a college story, but not the goofy type.

Katharine Hepburn is progressing nicely with her work in The Little Minister at RKO-Radio. John Beal, of the Broadway stage, is her leading man. Every effort is being made to have this famous Sir James M. Barrie story one of the outstanding screen vehicles of the talkie era. Much of the responsibility, of course, rests with Richard Wallace, its director and he's unfailing.

W. C. Fields should be at his funniest in Back Porch, almost ready for release by Paramount. It's a laughfest by J. P. McEvoy with Norman McLeod as director. Supporting W. C. are Baby LeRoy, Kathleen Howard, Tammany Young, Sam Hardy, Jean Rouverol and Morgan Wallace, along with many others. Start holding your sides now, folks.

Mady Christians, M-G-M's costly foreign importation, is feverishly at work on her first Hollywood production, Wicked Woman. The odds are that the title will be radically changed, lest trouble with the censors arise. Among those appearing with Mady are Jean Parker, Betty Furness, George Billings and Sterling Holloway. Charles Brabin is giving the directions. Mady has been the toast of the Broadway stage, is her leading man. Every effort is being made to have this famous Sir James M. Barrie story one of the outstanding screen vehicles of the talkie era. Much of the responsibility, of course, rests with Richard Wallace, its director and he's unfailing.

Like millions of others she has switched to a laxative that is completely natural—all vegetable Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets). She noticed the difference immediately. The very first little NR Tablet left her feeling better—refreshed, clean, more alive. She soon found herself resting better—she seemed to have new energy, a new outlook on life. Both others bilious spells, headaches, colds were quickly eliminated. She noticed that she never had to increase the dosage of Nature's Remedy—for a very definite reason—NR Tablets contain no miricals or phenol derivatives, only natural laxative elements wisely placed by nature in plants and vegetables. That's why they work gently yet thoroughly the way nature intended. See for yourself. Take an NR tonight. See how thoroughly they are yet so kind to the system. Blonde—I'm going with Mr. Moneybags to an oyster house.

Wiseguy—Well, maybe you'll get some pearls.

Blonde—Oh, yes; before I'm through with him I'll get a whole string of 'em.

SINCLAIR LEWIS' Babbit has been made into a talkie by Warners and you'll soon be enjoying it on the screen in your neighborhood theatre. Good old Guy Kibbee has the title rôle and supporting him are Aline MacMahon, Glen Boles, Maxine Doyle, Minor Watson, Minna Gombell, Claire Dodd, Alan Hale, Burton Churchill, Ann Gray, Arthur Aylesworth, Johnny Arthur, Arthur Hoyt, and Russell Hicks. Certainly a strong cast of players and what with William Keighley doing the directing it easily should be an above-the-average flicker.

MURDER IN THE CLOUDS is an air thriller nearing completion at Warners. Ann Dvorak, Lyle Talbot and Gordon Westcott head the cast of players which also includes Arthur Pierson, George Cooper, Henry O'Neill, Charles Wilson, Wheeler Oakman and Edward McWade. There's a flood of air pictures due as several of the studios have them in production.

Linehouse Nights will be a glamorous talkie with Oriental flavor aplenty when finished at Paramount. George Raft and Jean Parker, borrowed from M-G-M, head the cast. Others in the picture are Anna May Wong, Kent Taylor, Montagu Love, Billy Bevan, Rita Carlisle, Wyndham Standing, Eric Blore and John Rogers. It won't be surprising if Anna May Wong steals the picture with her performance.
Spring 3100 is the trick title of a flicker being filmed at Columbia. It happens to be the telephone number of Police Headquarters in New York City. Nancy Carroll and Donald Cook have leading parts and others prominently cast are George Murphy, Inez Courtney, Arthur Hohl, Arthur Vinton and Clara Blandick. Nancy’s as lovely as ever.

Hell in the Heavens, exciting sky melodrama, is now ready for release by Fox. Warner Baxter heads the cast. Others to be seen are Conchita Montenegro, Russell Hardie, Herbert Mundin, Andy Devine, J. Carroll Naish, Ralph Morgan and Vince Barnett. Director John Blystone is reported to have done a marvelous job.

Myrna Loy, who lately has become one of the screen’s most popular leading ladies, is next to be seen in Evelyn Prentice, now in the cutting room at M-G-M. William Powell has the male lead. Una Merkel, Isabel Jewell, Jack Mulhall, Georgia Cain, Muriel Evans, Cora Sue Collins, Henry Stevens and Edward Brophy all have important assignments. Evelyn Prentice was directed by William K. Howard who invariably turns out splendid pictures.

I Am a Thief is the accusing title of a flicker in which Ricardo Cortez and Mary Astor are appearing for Warners. Dudley Digges, Hobart Cavanaugh, Irving Pichel, John Wray and Ferdinand Gottschalk are among the supporting players. Ricardo was excellent in Hat, Coat and Glove.

Joan Crawford will have two leading men in her new opus. Clark Gable and Robert Montgomery will share stellar honors opposite Joan in Forsaking All Others.

A busy winter is in prospect for Fay Wray. After she’s completed her rôle opposite Fredric March in Call of the Wild, Fay is slated to go into the George Arliss picture, Richelieu.

Come with me!

Around the world...from romantic Venice to the mystery and wonder of old China. Do you want beautiful women? To Gamble? To Trade? Want Money? Want a Good Fight? With wealth, beauty and love...if you win?

Women, glamorous and gay, who welcomed Marco...sharing their hearts and secrets for a brief hour...then, remembering.

The proud princess...whose guarded pagoda was stormed by whispers and sighs...teaching a stranger how to really love.

The cunning and trickery of the East...an adventurer's blundering luck...matching wits for the world's treasures in trade.

The clash of mighty armies...a hero's sword slashing his way...and then, with his beloved safe in his arms, across the bridge that even today in Peiping is called the Marco Polo Bridge.

Samuel Goldwyn creates a mighty cavalcade of splendor and excitement in the world's most romantic adventure.
HOW They Started Department: Tyrone Power, currently appearing in a radio dramatic series for that well-known soap, got his start on the air by reading the Sunday comics to kid listeners in Chicago.

Amateur songwriters from far and wide are flooding M-G-M's Music Department with songs about the late Jean Harlow. So far, about 50 compositions have been returned to the senders unread.

Since word has gone out that Glenn Morris, Olympic champion, and Lou Gehrig, baseball ace, have been signed to appear in Tarzan's Revenge, Producer Sol Lesser's mailbox has been crammed with applications from famous athletes, all eager for a cliff-hanging, limb-swinging rôle. Jesse Owens, Negro sprint star, is among the latest applicants.

Adolphe Menjou and his wife, Verree Teasdale, have legally adopted a 15-month-old boy. They took custody of the child a year ago in Chicago.

Hollywood fame, such as it is: Georgia French, much ballyhooed child star at Universal in 1914, was working as stand-in for Carol Hughes during the filming of Universal's baffler, The Westland Case.

Marlene Dietrich's favorite European hideout is a dairy farm near Salzburg, Austria.

A correspondent in Shanghai reports that the Capitol Theatre, which was practically demolished by bombs and shellfire, bears a sign, "closed until further notice." Charred and torn posters herald two flickers which never opened: Come And Get It and You Only Live Once.

Don't be surprised if the prolific Bob Benchley pops out with an amusing short titled How to Be a Fireman. He has been made an honorary member of the Worcester, Mass., Fire Department.

Frances, 18-year-old daughter of Fannie Brice, is making her professional bow in a bit in M-G-M's Rosalie.

You may be surprised to learn that Gene Autry's fan mail is much greater than that of Bob Taylor and his

Those stupendous, super-colossal Hollywood sets look exactly like this from the rear, but the chorines, particularly these Warner cuties appearing in Broadway Brevities, look magnificent from any angle. At the moment, they are refusing all invitations to step out, and can you blame them?

TOVARICH
The show that gave Paris a new sensation, thrilled London, and captured New York...now in the full glory of the screen's mighty magic.

It's on the way to your favorite theatre now—the grandest love and laughter picture of this or any other year!...A glorious Christmas treat for a hundred million movie-goers.

The runaway lovers take to the roof in one of the amusing and amazing scenes in "Tovarich."

Ready for a gala night in Paris!...with 4 billion francs in the bank and not a sou they could call their own!

"TOVARICH" is full of big moments—and here's one as Charles Boyer comes face to face with that suave villain...Basil Rathbone.

"Yesterday is done! Tomorrow—who knows?...Tonight's our night!"
phonograph records outsell Bing Crosby’s platters three to one. Both Paramount and United Artists are angling for Gene’s Republic contract. They want to make him a front ranking star in adventure, as well as cowboy flickers.

M-G-M’s property men and research experts, who claim to know everything about everything, found themselves cornered when it came to producing a blacksmith. They searched three days before finding a smithy to shoe 84 horses used in Bad Man of Brimstone.

Warners evidently thought that there is better pickings for blondes and brunettes across the English Channel, so they switched the title, The Golddiggers in London to The Golddiggers in Paris.

Tom Keene, cow and pony star, has retired Happy Joe, the horse appearing with him in all of his pictures. Happy Joe is only 11 years old, but that’s considered a lifetime career in flicker circles.

The Culver City firemen were called to a major lot the other day to extinguish a small blaze. When they arrived, the studio employees milled about and offered frantic suggestions, but the fireladdies shoved them aside and went about their job in a calm, unhurried manner. They hooked up to a fire-plug, but nothing happened. What the spectators were trying to tell them was that the plug was a prop on the New York street set.

Director Wesley Ruggles, piloting True Confession at Paramount, decided to give an extra a break when he discovered that the script called for a speaking bit. The first extra promoted from the ranks got so excited she couldn’t speak above a whisper. He tried a second one and the same thing happened. He sent a hurry up call for an experienced bit player and the scene was shot in one take.

They’re about to Shanghai the picture industry, but in name only. RKO-Radio is producing North of Shanghai; Paramount is doing Daughter of Shanghai; Warners is starting West of Shanghai and 20th Century-Fox is toeing the mark with Shanghai Deadline.

Helen Chandler, feminine lead in Mr. Boggs Buys a Barrel, Grand National comedy-drammer, sprained a hip while cavorting in a dance routine. Despite doctor’s orders, Helen went through with the dance and completed the scene. Then, and only then, did she consent to have the hip strapped.

Nature Notes: Comedians Hugh Herbert and William Demarest have purchased 200 acres of land near Canoga Park. The boys plan to spend their evenings and days off as ranchmen. Another flickerite, Carole Lombard, is erecting a spacious house on her San Fernando Valley ranch. Carole plans to reside there permanently when she retires from the screen, which we hope won’t be for a long, long time.

Jearald McDonald, 40-year-old Hollywoodite, waited around for months before getting a break in films, a bit rôle in a prison flicker.

The girl who was born Greta Gustafson in a humble home in Stockholm, who came to Hollywood a poor, shy creature, who feared her own shadow, is gone. At least, outwardly so. In her place is a beautiful and fascinating personality, a woman of the world, cultured, famous, wealthy.

The highlights and depths to her life story have left a suggestion of tragedy about her, a sort of wistfulness that is apparent even when she smiles.

The private life of one of the screen's most glamorous personalities, the complete true life story of Greta Garbo appears in the January issue of

POSED BY THE SEBASTIAN GIRLS IN "SUNDAY NIGHT AT THE TROCADERO," AN M-G-M SHORT.

Bored Blonde—Oh, yes, I've been in lots of triangles.

Spender — Goodness, blondie, do you wreck homes?

Bored Blonde — Certainly not. I pose for a futuristic artist.

POSED BY HELEN MACK AND RICHARD CROMWELL IN "THE WRONG ROAD," A REPUBLIC PICTURE.

He—Aw, gwai! Love is just a side issue with me.

She—Yes, smarty, it brings out your worst side!
He (finishing kiss)—Do you know the difference between plain kisses and snappy ones?

She—Yes, of course. My other boyfriends give me snappy ones.

Scotch Mimic—I'm going to give you an imitation, baby.

Girlfriend—Holy smoke! Another jewelry gift.

Any girl's form will do, enters Eve, in a pinch.
"Gosh! If your husband catches us together, which way shall I run?"
"The fastest way possible, darling."

"Toots, I'm the fastest man on two feet."
"Ah, a tap dancer?"
"Naw, I run a shoe-shine stand."

You can tell when a gigolo is love sick, narrates Natacha; he refuses to take anything for it!
“Repulse me and I’ll show you the real beast I am, fair one.”
“Aw, don’t be an ass!”

“Baby, this buggy has a fool-proof steering device.”
“What? A fool-proof steering device?”
“Sure, it steers automatically while the driver is fooling.”

"I hear you're a three-letter man?"
"You mean I excel in three branches of sports, don’t you?"
“No, you're always giving friends I. O. U.'s.”

ALL POSES BY BETTY GRABLE, LARRY CRABBE AND LEIF ERIKSON IN "THRILL OF A LIFETIME," A PARAMOUNT PICTURE.
"One of my wealthy boyfriends gave me a dozen very expensive lace handkerchiefs."
"Well, for crying out loud!"
"Gracious, no! They're too expensive for crying purposes."

"I'd like to have you see my wife some time. Believe me, baby, she's an eyeful."
"Beautiful, eh?"
"No, fat."

"The radio producer told me that if I was a very good girl on my date tonight he'd give me a job singing."
"Don't be a dope. He means no good."
"He certainly does. My date is with a director."

READY, WILLING AND ERABLE!
Necking in the horse and buggy days wasn't all it's cracked up to be, says Sondra. Very often a fellow had to hold his horses.

Co-ed (in sorority house)—
Oh, you devil! Your kisses will wake up every girl in the house.
Conceited Noisy Kisser—So what! I don't intend to kiss every girl in the house.

Groom—For two cents, my good woman, I'd kiss you to death.
Bride—Hooray, I've got a nickel! I want to commit suicide!
POSED BY A EUROPEAN MUSIC HALL FAVORITE.

“I've got money to burn,” whispered the sleek flirt. The cutie, continues this beaded beauty, replied, “Fine! Let’s steam up.”

POSED BY IMOGENE COCA AND PLAYERS IN “BASHFUL BALLERINA,” AN EDUCATIONAL COMEDY.

*He—What’s this? You say you’re marrying old Gotbucks for love?
She—Sure, I've been nuts about his chauffeur for months and months.*

“Lissen, young lady, I'll have you know that I lend color to any gathering I attend.”

“Of course, you phony! I can see that you have a terribly red nose!”
POSED BY MAMO CLARK AND PLAYERS IN "WALLABY JIM OF THE ISLANDS," A GRAND NATIONAL PICTURE.

The Guys—Woman, you'd better not rub our fur the wrong way!
The Gal—Don't worry. I won't, you skunks!

POSED BY MAMO CLARK AND PLAYERS IN "WALLABY JIM OF THE ISLANDS," A GRAND NATIONAL PICTURE.

The Guys—Woman, you'd better not rub our fur the wrong way!
The Gal—Don't worry. I won't, you skunks!

POSED BY JON HALL AND DOROTHY LAMOUR IN "THE HURRICANE." A UNITED ARTISTS RELEASE.

"I'm itching for some of your petting, sweetheart."
"Say, handsome, who told you I scratch when I pet?"

POSED BY MAMO CLARK AND A PLAYER IN "THE HURRICANE." A UNITED ARTISTS RELEASE.

"A girl in my position has to have a spotless reputation."
"Gosh! What do you do?"
"I sell freckle-remover to the tourists."
“Say, what became of that missionary who had the Ph.D., I.L.D. and B.A.?”

“The cannibals made alphabet soup out of him.”

“And how would you act if I bit you on the ear?”

“Act? Why, I'd act mad, but I never fool anybody with my acting.”
He—I'm giving a party tonight, and the girl with the most daring costume will get a prize.
She—Whoopee! I'll be there with bells on.
He—Then you've as good as lost.

The best way to make a long story short, suggests Florence, is to walk out on a long-winded story teller.

The Gent—I hope to see a lot of you before this evening is over.
The Lady—Really? Well, how are you doing?
The Gent—Pretty good, honey. I see you double already.
"Sweetheart, I'm going to squeeze the very life out of you."
"Oh, that's impossible."
"How so?"
"Why, the more I'm squeezed, the more life I have."

"Tell me, my sugar plum, have you ever entered any endurance dances?"

"Sure thing, the last one with you!"

POSED BY JOHNNY DOWNS, ELEANORE WHITNEY, LARRY CRABBE, BETTY GRABLE, AND LEIF ERIKSON IN "THRILL OF A LIFETIME," A PARAMOUNT PICTURE.

Life Guard—Is that long drink of water your husband?

Beauty—Sir, he's not a long drink of water. He's Scotch!

Wifey—You poor dear, where does liquor bother you the most?

Hubby—In the bottle, my love, in the bottle.
Blonde—Oooh, look! A moth just flew out of Jane's bathing suit. Isn't that frightful?

Guy—Oh, I don't know. He might have carried it away with him.

Mister, I have only one criticism to make in regard to your kisses— they leave too much to be desired."

"Really? In what way?"

"In the way of more kisses, naturally."

"Now, just what do you think of kisses as the language of love?"

"I don't know. Let's talk it over."
Gent In Insurance Office—Well, we-e-ll, glad to hear it!

Beauty—Oh, are you the man who issues the policies?

Gent—No, I'm the examiner!

Nonsense

Jon Hall, husky male lead in Samuel Goldwyn's The Hurricane, takes his shapely co-star, Dorothy Lamour, hurdling at a California beach resort. As in pictures, declares Dorothy, a girl has to get a good start, if she expects to go over in a big way.

Gather around, lads, and learn some expert woman taming technique from United Artists' Nothing Sacred. The flicker's big moment is a hilarious battle between Carole Lombard and Fredric March and here we see Director William Wellman showing Carole how to take a boot the easy way. Yessir, here's a picture with a definite kick in it.
"You know that horse you bet fifty bucks on last week?" remarked the waiter. "Well, they scratched him today." And, jokes Dionese, the bartender grunted, "Huh, I'll bet the lousy nag appreciated it."

"So Tom is being held for observation?" asked the elevator boy. And, adds Fay; the taxi driver replied, "Yeah, he was caught observing through a keyhole."

Betty voices the warning that you can't hold a candle to a good egg in a dark room.
Carolyn overheard one playboy tell another, "I met a beautiful girl last night who was too dumb to say "no." The other ejaculated, "Gosh! You certainly get all the dumb luck."

"What do you usually take when you've had too much to drink?" inquired the drummer. The violinist, continues Heloise, answered, "A blonde!"

The gent walked up to the bar and demanded, "I want a bottle of charged water." According to Gail, the dumb new bartender snapped, "Nothing doing. The boss told me your credit was no good."
"Baby, for two cents I'd marry you."
"Really? Well, you have a dollar ninety-eight."
"Sure, but a marriage license is two dollars!"

"But wait, baby; when it comes to choosing a boyfriend, don't you like the steady type?"
"Not much, big boy; I like one that shakes from passion."
Jailbird—Baby, was it my saxophone that got me here, or my tap dancing?

Lovey Dovey—Your darn tootin’!

Caller—Say, buddy, if you don’t mind the interruption, I’d like some insurance and I want it right away.

Agent—Ah, my fine feathered friend, did my sales talk strike home?

Caller—No, but the lightning sure did!

Debbie—Alack and alas, I haven’t had a peep out of my sweetie for three days.

Maid—Well, why not try undressing with your shades up?
Cute Charmer—All I have to do to my lips to make them irresistible is put a couple of drops of perfume on them.

Catty Charmer—Huh! All I have to do to mine is pucker them up!

“My girl has such funny habits that I’m turning in my car and buying a boat.”
“What? You mean she likes boats and hates cars?”
“No, she likes walking and can’t swim!”

Wifey—I know, I know. You’re going to tell me about the strange animals you see when you’re drunk.
Hubby—Strange! Don’t be silly. I know every milk wagon horse in town.
"The fellows tell me that you're harder to kiss than any girl in town."
"That's right. It takes a real kiss to satisfy me."

"By the way, dearie, are you still going around with your boyfriend, the parachute jumper?"
"Heavens, no. I dropped him!"

"You should hear my hubby criticize the way I dress."
"Oh, you spend too much for clothes?"
"No, I don't spend enough for shades."

Farmer—And another thing, we have a bull on this farm that gets mad as heck when he sees pink.
Cute Visitor—Gee! I thought it was red that made bulls angry.
Farmer—Ha, ha! This bull's a sissy.
The best way to feather your nest, suggests Lupe, is to travel with night owls.

“Nor in mine, either.”
“Swell! Let’s get married.”
“Oh, you liar, you!”

The old-fashioned girl who used dumb-bells to get color in her cheeks, corrects Cooky, now has a dizzy daughter who uses color on her cheeks to get dumb-bells.
“Hey, fella, will you help me to make my husband jealous?”
“Oh, boy, will I!”
“Good! Go kiss your wife when he’s looking.”

It takes a gyp tree surgeon, explains this pensive pretty, to really shake down the nuts.
1. Oddly enough, enters Ellen, some fellows give sugar to horses until they get around a race track, then they give it to the bookies.

2. Once a girl has made a monkey out of a man, continues Ellen, you can't blame him for flitting from limb to limb.

3. You can't depend upon a girl for the right kind of time, concludes Ellen, until she's wound up.
Cute Kicker—I'm in love with a banker and every time he kisses me, he makes me a present of a bond.

Cuter Kicker—In other words, dearie, you're getting your education by lips and bonds.

The girl who burns the candle at both ends, jests Jean, may not last long but she'll have a hot time while she does.

First Chorine—No matter what that fan dancer does, the director loves her still.
Second Chorine—How come, dearie?
First Chorine—Well, when she's still, her fan collapses.
Society Sweetie—Yesh, my good man, I wash married under the influence of liquor.

Lawyer—Drunk, eh?

Society Sweetie—He shertainly wash!

The Guy—Oh, no, I should never have gotten tight and tried to blow that blonde a kiss.

The Gals—Why not, handsome?

The Guy—Her husky hubby got wind of it.
Girl—I'm not like the other actresses on this lot. I don't need a press agent.
Visitor—Ha, you flatter yourself.
Girl—Yes, that's exactly what I mean.

One extra girl asked her blonde chum, "Is it true that Joe spoils everything he touches?" The blonde, claims Lyndell, answered, "Yes, he really does spoil me, the angel!"
"What a perfect night—all the starfish are out!"

"My wife threatened to have me shadowed, dear."
"The airport’s calling—want to know what we’re doing forty miles off our course."

"John! Speak to me!"
Hazel claims that there's nothing like a questionable environment to teach a girl all the answers.

"Can you imagine! I know a Scotchman who takes his girlfriend to the theatre every evening."

"Is that so? What show is she playing in?"
Cute Chorine—Do you prefer marriage to a career?

Cuter Chorine—Well, why it looks like I'll have to take both.

Cute Chorine—What do you mean?

Cuter Chorine—My producer refuses to star me unless I marry him.

"Wait! Your kissing gives me a pain in the neck."

"Why, what's wrong with it?"

"You bend my head back too far, darn it!"
IT WASN'T SO LONG AGO

Here is a rare picture of Clara Bow, the "It" Girl, at the height of her fame, which wasn't so long ago. One of the most colorful characters in Hollywood, Clara suddenly abandoned movie life for the peace and quiet of hubby Rex Bell's ranch. Now she has returned to the flicker city, as proprietor of the popular "It Cafe."

Bess Lee, Cornelia Thaw, Lulu Talma and Georgette Rhoades in one of the more intimate scenes of Paris, the continental night life drama of 1929. Today, none of the names are known to film audiences, which may prove that a girl has a 1,000-1 chance of getting out of the extra ranks.

Do you recall the beautiful blonde who, several years ago, made a spectacular début on the screen and then quickly faded from the Hollywood line-up? She was Mary Nolan, one-time Imogene Wilson, Follies star and Broadway charmer of a decade ago. Mary is making a valiant comeback in supper clubs, and three cheers for her courage.
Chester Conklin has just told Louise Fazenda to go sit on a tack and she becomes very obliging—for publicity purposes, of course. They were appearing in Tillie's Punctured Romance when this picture was snapped, and that was away back in 1928. Both Louise and Chester are still actively engaged in pictures, proving that comics do last.

The much-loved gent in Anita Garvin's arms is Bobby Clark, for many years a top-flight comic in stage, screen and burlesque. Do you remember those hilarious shorts in which Bobby appeared with his partner, the late Paul McCullough? Since Paul's death, Bobby has left films and is again appearing in musical comedies.

Here is a scene from The Bad One, one of the better ones of 1930. And this pair, Dolores Del Rio and Edmund Lowe, still rides high in pictures. Dolores is slated to take the lead in one of the biggest musicals of the coming season, while Eddie has enough leading man assignments to keep him before the cameras for many months.
The fat girl may be kidded a lot, smiles Loretta, but it's the skinny one who has to put up with an awful ribbing.

Sandra admits that money talks. Yes, indeed; long green can talk a blue streak. You can have a barrel of fun, announces Anne, with a pint.
Most people, chants this charmer, don't care about a bird in the hand. What they want is a swallow.

Every day, bets Bette, is a new leaf in the life of a tree surgeon.

Many a man who marries a girl he thinks is the last word, admits Evelyn, often discovers she's really a sentence.
About the only type of girl who has any use for a windy guy, asserts Thelma, is a flat tire.

"Beautiful one, what would you say to a little petting?"
"Not enough, mister, not enough."

Every day is field day, advises Alice, when you're a grass widow.
A BRIDE FOR HENRY. Monogram. (laugher)
A lively little laugh-getter, with Anne Nagel as society bride left at the altar by Henry Mollison. A spite marriage to her attorney, Warren Hull, is supposed to irk our Henry, but instead he finds Claudia Dell. Thus, true love is born, and everybody's happy! It will put you in a gay mood and keep you there.

ALI BABA GOES TO TOWN. 20th Century-Fox. (laugher-tuner)
A super-spectacular hit with Eddie Cantor, hobo and movie extra, taking Bagdad and Sultan Roland Young by storm. He has himself an hilarious time inaugurating New Deal policies in the ancient city. Tony Martin and June Lang are romantics, Louise Hovick fills the eye as Sultana, Alan Dinehart plays the temperamental director, and Virginia Field, nurse, wins the Cantor heart. Music and dancing are superb, gags are knock-outs and the acting excellent. SEE IT!

BARGAIN WITH BULLETS. Million Dollar. (meller)
A bang-bang gangster yarn with a poor story, but enacted by a group of Negroes whose talents are exceptional. A series of murders, cold-blooded and revolting, lead up to a gory climax in which star Dante DiPaolo is the trite jewel thief opus, injecting some little suspense and romance. It all takes place on shipboard, with Jane Darwell, Alan Dinehart and others on deck. It will keep you guessing, but that's not enough.

DOUBLE WEDDING. M-G-M. (laugher)
A hit comedy with double guarantees, namely gypsy artist Bill Powell who takes it upon himself to tame business shrew Myrna Loy. The other half of the wedding is composed of Florence Rice and John Beal. The slightly slapstick story doesn't make sense, but it's a riot of laughs, with the stars blazing, as well as the efficient supporting cast. See it!

EBB-TIDE. Paramount. (drammer)
Robert Louis Stevenson's famous yarn comes to you in all the glory of Technicolor and with a superb cast. Oscar Homolka and Barry Fitzgerald stand out as the sea rogues who carry Ray Milland and Frances Farmer to a desert island, where human turmoil, comedy, tragedy and suspense are omnipresent. An impressive achievement, it ranks with the best films of the year.

52nd STREET. Wanger-United Artists. (tuner)
Biography of a street, from residential days through the speakeasy era to present-day night-clubs, with gayety from each thrown in. The story, with Ian Hunter, Marla Shelton, Pat Paterson, Kenny Baker and Leo Carrillo as the principals, matters little but serves as a frame for the numerous specialties, some of which are bound to please you. Good, but no world-beater.

FIGHT FOR YOUR LADY. RKO-Radio. (laugher)
A giggle-getter that's hard to match, with John Boles acting and singing to the hilt in a romantic rôle that suits him perfectly. His complicated love life involves Ida Lupino and Margot Grahame, while the situation is spiced by the goofy activities of Jack Oakie, Erik Rhodes and Gordon Jones. Acting, story, music and direction make it one of the snappiest of the season.

FIT FOR A KING. RKO-Radio. (laugher)
Joe E. Brown's inimitable brand of comedy goes to town in a mythical kingdom yarn, with our hero enacting a reporter. He's to cover an assassin-pursued archduke, but is scooped at every turn by rival scribe Paul Kelly. Then comes a big break and Helen Mack, queen-elect, plus an hilarious climax right up Brown's alley. Plenty of fun, whether you go for Joe or not.

FORTY-FIVE FATHERS. 20th Century-Fox. (laugher)
Jane Withers, in another of her excellent mischievous imp rôles, is an orphan willed to her father's Gun Club of 45 members. Adopted by elderly Richard Carle, she hastens to confound his household, get into ludicrous messes, and save the nephew, Thomas Beck, from gold-digger Louise Henry. Packed with hearty comedy and wows gags, you'll find it one of the better films.

HEIDI. 20th Century-Fox. (drammer)
A perfect Shirley Temple vehicle which will warm your heart and enthral the children. Heidi is a small girl who goes, unwanted, to live in the Alps with her bitter old grandfather, Jean Hersholt. How she reclaims him through love, helps a crippled child to walk, and survives the
OUR shapely magicians, Elaine and Lyndell, return to these pages for another of their mystifying performances. 1: Elaine is going to show her girlfriend a clever trick, using only a piece of string and a match-book cover. 2: After cutting a neat hole in the cover, 3: she invites Lyndell to slip the string through the hole and hold both ends tightly. 4: A handkerchief is thrown over the match-book cover and there follows some mysterious undercover work. 5: With a triumphant smile, Elaine floursishes the match-book cover with the hole still intact. She has removed it from the string, even while Lyndell held onto each end. How? Turn to page 58 for the solution.
SONGBIRD Frances Langford meets an ambitious fan all dressed up in newspaper notices about the golden-voiced star while on location for Hollywood Hotel. This, smiles Frances, is certainly a well-read girl.

VERSATILE in all lines of outdoor sports is Joy Hodges, femme lead in Universal's Merry-Go-Round of 1938. We see her here at the Lakeside Country Club making her way to the 18th hole. Well, more par to you, Joy!

SHE is Ann Nagel, he is "Bill," both of whom appear in Republic productions. "Bill," the lucky stiff, says that a dog's life in Hollywood is just a pet-time job.
PEAKING of curves, and you generally are, give a look at Carole Lombard, blonde dynamo of Nothing Sacred. She’s winding up for a fast one over the plate, and it all boils down to this: Any girl will play ball when you show her a diamond.

WATCH the birdie! What birdie?” queries June Lang, who poses with the very serious Tony Martin, while Louise Hovick, fellow player in Ali Baba Goes to Town, mans the minnie. That gent laboring under the giant still camera must be convinced by now that as far as modern photography is concerned, it’s the little things that count.

BREAK out a new car ton of adjectives, lad. Here is Barbara Pepper, whose shapely charm has boosted many a Republic flicker. At present, Barbara is philosophizing that a girl always has the jack if it’s in the cards.
Orien asserts that the worst thing about an old-fashioned girl is a man who isn't.

Another reason why people throw shoes at newlyweds, chants this charmer, is to give them practice ducking heels and vamps.

If you want inside information, suggests Lila, ask a Peeping Tom.
Ernette has discovered that a wallflower is a girl who's gone to pot.

A man isn't taken to the cleaners, mentions Maxine, unless he has plenty of spots, and she means ten spots.

Jane doesn't like to criticize courts of any kind, but she's noticed that in most cases, it is the girl who puts up the biggest beef that brings home the bacon.
This smiling Apache reports that the only hog callers she knows are the ones who call in the afternoon and stay for dinner.

New Invention!

No more fumbling at the keys! No more endless practicing for scales! The wonderful “Note Finder” shows you where every note is located. You soon become familiar with the keyboard.

“Note Finder” is your key to success! It’s your window into a whole new world of music. You’ll no longer have to struggle with your instrument. It’s all laid out for you with nothing left to chance.

Now You Can Play Any Instrument by this Amazingly Simple Method

Everything is clear, simple, easy to understand. You can learn to play your favorite instrument by actual notes.

Take the piano, for example. Instead of fumbling at the keys, trying to locate the proper notes, you merely use the “Note Finder,” the wonderful invention that tells you exactly which keys to strike.

And the “Note Finder” is a new short-cut exclusive with the U. S. School that makes it possible to learn in a surprisingly short time. You actually play a real tune almost at the very start! And it is only a matter of weeks before you will surprise your friends—and yourself—with your amazing progress.

Yet this is no "trick" method. There are no "numbers," no "memory stunts." You learn to play by note, just as the best musicians do. And the drudgery has been eliminated. This new method is as agreeable as it is rapid. Strange as it may seem, you’ll really enjoy every minute of it.

Learn to Play Popular Music at Sight

Almost before you realize it, you’re able to pick up the average sheet music and understand it! You’ll learn to read music, popular and classic, and play it from the notes. You’ll acquire a lifelong ability to entertain your friends, amuse yourself, and if you like, make money in one of the most pleasant and best paid of professions. You’ll be popular and admired, showered with invitations to good times, welcomed wherever you go.

Yes, you’ll reap golden rewards from the few minutes a day you spend learning to play. You need no private teacher, no special talent. And the cost is trifling, only a few pennies a day. What’s more, all your sheet music, dozens of pieces, is supplied without extra cost!

What instrument will it be? The piano, violin, saxophone, guitar, piano accordion? Choose your favorite—you’ll be amazed to discover how quickly you can learn it. Every step is made crystal clear in print—and pictures. First you are told how a thing is done, then a picture shows you how. Even a child can learn by this A-B-C method. Yet it is so absolutely right that accomplished musicians find it a revelation.

Here’s Proof!

adversities of fate makes for grand entertainment to be enjoyed by young and old alike.

HERE’S FLASH CASEY.
Grand National. (drammer)
Armed with his little candid camera, Eric Linden lands himself on a newspaper and into a flock of trouble. Blackmailing, racketeering and kidnapping come into the picture, as does Boots Mallory—but our hero gets them all under control with a click of the shutter. It’s a little flicker, but well able to hold its own with action fans.

HOLD ‘EM NAVY. Paramount.
(drammer)
A nice mixture of romance, comedy, football and Navy fanfare, with Lew Ayres and Mary Carlisle as the love birds. Scene, naturally, is laid at Annapolis and, of course, there’s the Army-Navy game. There’s a new football angle, comedy by Elizabeth Patterson and Benny Baker and a rival role enacted by John Howard. A right good flicker you’ll catch at the duals.

HOLLYWOOD ROUND-UP. Columbia.
(meller)
Buck Jones deserts the Westerns, but not completely, for here he plays stand-in to cowboy star Grant Withers. The latter’s attentions to his leading lady, Helen Twelvetrees, lead to Buck’s being fired. Then comes a hold-up, some heroism on the part of Buck and Dickie Jones, some villainy from Withers and some romance from Miss Twelvetrees. Fair.

IDOL OF THE CROWDS. Universal.
(drammer)
John Wayne, long idol of Western fans, takes a new tack as ice hockey player—and comes out nobly. A farm lad who plays hockey for fun, he is signed by a big league team and is beset by gamblers and gangsters, among them Sheila Bromley. Comes the great day, success, money for the farm and love. Fast-moving, it will please action fans.

LANCER SPY. 20th Century-Fox.
(meller)
World War thriller that ranks among the best of the spy dramas. George Sanders plays a dual rôle, that of German officer captured by the British, and English officer sent to Berlin to get information. Dolores Del Rio, Spanish dancer and spy-catcher is at her best. Minor parts are well taken by Peter Lorre, Joseph Schildkraut, Lionel Atwill and Virginia Field. Good.

LIFE BEGINS IN COLLEGE. 20th Century-Fox.
(tuner)
In spite of the Ritz Brothers and a galaxy of talent including Joan Davis, Tony Martin, Gloria Stuart, Nat Pendleton and Fred Stone, this pigskin-musical disappoints. Plot is minor, but tunes and comedy are above average. Nat Pendleton steals the show with his Injun characterization. Too much Ritz Brothers, even if you like ‘em.

Another strange fact, reveals Bobby, is that the apple of a man’s eye is often a hot potato.
LIFE BEGINS WITH LOVE.
Columbia, (laugher)
And love begins in a day nursery. Jean Parker, teacher, unknowingly harbors a rich man's son, Douglass Montgomery, and, putting him to work, makes a man of him. Also, she saves him from a siren fortune-hunter. Edith Fellows, a mischief-maker, turns fixer in the end. A gemial story, with folksy humor and a wealth of clever lines, it is very much okay.

LIVE, LOVE AND LEARN. M-G-M. (laugher)
Robert Montgomery, art-loving painter, lives in a garret. Love and marriage come to him and wealthy Rosalind Russell. And thereafter they learn. Both are swell as a comedy team, while Robert Benchley scores as the alcoholic stooge. Helen Vinson, E. F. Clive and Monty Woolley also rate praise. It's a smart, sprightly comedy with plenty of brand new twists and gags.

MADAME X. M-G-M. (drammer)
Familiar though it is, this mother love drama still weaves an emotional spell. In the title rôle, Gladys George ranks with the best of her predecessors, while John Beal as her son is at his best. Warren William enact the unforgiving husband; Philip Reed the lover; and Reginald Owen the staunch friend. Once again Madame X is a hit, and its star triumphant.

MERRY-GO-ROUND OF 1938. Universal, (tuner)
Anything but a breakdown, in spite of a trivial story that doesn't matter anyway, you'll rejoice in the antics of four ace comedians — Jimmy Savo, Bert Lahr, Billy House and Mischa Auer. Supported by Alice Brady, Louise Fazenda, John King and Joy Hodges, they clown their merry way. Music, with Apollon's band, is swell. The stars make the picture what it is—very good.

NIGHT CLUB SCANDAL. Paramount, (baffler)
Though the plot is vaguely familiar, here is a murder mystery that is entirely logical. John Barrymore plays a doctor whose wife is murdered; Harvey Stephens enacts her lover; and Lynne Overman the slightly alcoholic crime reporter who solves the whole business. The experienced cast contributes greatly to the smoothness of the film.

NON-STOP NEW YORK. G-B. (farce-meller)
Pic kids itself and heavy melodrama in lively style, and with amusing results. Principals are Anna Lee, English chorine; John Loder, Scotland Yard inspector; Francis L. Sullivan, gangster chief. There's a murder and a thrilling climax in a trans-Atlantic plane, with the situation being satisfactorily cleared up. Better than average.

OVER THE GOAL. Warners, (drammer)
It's the same old story with new trimmings. Two rival colleges get hot for the big game, only this time a fortune may be won or lost, besides the girl. William Hopper, hero, naturally saves the day, getting both the girl, June Travis, and the inheritance for alma (Continued on page 54)
TALKIE TIPS

mater. Suspense is completely minus, and the net result only fair.

RENREFW OF THE ROYAL MOUNT.
ED. Grand National. (meller)
A so-so thriller with newcomer James
Newill as the riding, singing Renfrew.
It's his job to round up a gang of counterfeiters who print hot money in the Canadian wilds and smuggle it into the U. S. A. His reward for service and bravery is the comely Carol Hughes.
Lightning, the dog, is an asset to the film. Kids and action-minded fans will go for it.

SHE LOVED A FIREMAN. Warners.
(meller)
The "she" is Ann Sheridan, and the "fireman" Dick Foran. Wiseguy, ex-bookie and lady-killer, Dick joins the force to revenge himself on the captain,
Robert Armstrong. His ego is delightfully deflated to his eventual betterment and amatory success. No world-beater, still the action is fast and the thrills plentiful.

STAND-IN. Wanger-United Artists.
(laugh)
You'll stand up and cheer
the work of Leslie Howard,
Joan Blondell, Humphrey
Bogart and Alan Mowbray in this rollicking Hollywood farce. A mathematics-minded New York banker, Howard goes West to put the studio right. Joan Blondell, stand-in, puts him right and all is well.
Maria Shelton plays a bonte-headed star effectively. Laughs are plentiful and smart. See it.

STARS OVER ARIZONA. Monogram
(cowboy)
Jack Randall, the new warbling cowboy, sings and shoots his way through a better than average Western, with able assistance from Warner Richmond, villain, and the rest of the cast. Privately commissioned by Arizona's governor to track down and clean out a band of desperadoes, he does the job effectively, satisfactorily and with zest. A break for sagebrush fans.

TEXAS TRAIL. Paramount, (cowboy)
A fine Western of the Hopalong Cassidy group, with Bill Boyd still the daring hero. This time he rounds up herds of wild horses for the army in the Spanish-American War, gives a band of rustlers what's coming to them, and all is well.
Romantic rivals are mountaineer Fran-chot Tone and wealthy Robert Young.
Billie Burke and Reginald Owen provide comedy. It is an effective production that rates a "good."

THE BRIDE WORE RED. M-G-M.
(drammer)
Crawford fans will rave with glee over Joan's newest effort. To others it may be disappointing. In a Cinderella yarn, she is transposed from a waterfront cabaret to high society, with all the trimmings.
Romantic rivals are mountaineer Fran-chot Tone and wealthy Robert Young.
Billie Burke and Reginald Owen provide comedy. It is an effective production that rates a "good."

THE GAME THAT KILLS. Columbia.
(meller)
The murderous sport on which the plot is built is ice hockey, and the action is just as fast as the game. Per usual, however, crookedness steps in to hold it to the well-worn groove. Charles Quigley, clean-cut and righteous, wields a mean stick, and Rita Hayworth is personable as the spirited gal. It's minor stuff, but sports fans will go for it.

THE LADY FIGHTS BACK.
Universal. (drammer)
The belligerent femme is Irene Hervey, manager of a fishing club whose property is about to be ruined by dam-builder Kent Taylor. As you may have guessed, the plot is based on the Bonneville Dam project and its threat to the salmon industry. With a strong story idea properly developed, this could have been powerful drama. As it is, it falls into mediocrity.

THE GREAT GARRICK. Warners.

(actor of two centuries ago, and gifted Shakespearean drama. As it is, it falls into mediocrity. Developed, this could have been powerful industry. With a strong story idea properly

THE PERFECT SPECIMEN. Warners.

(laugh) Errol Flynn, heir, may be perfect in May Robson's eyes but he's a perfect bore to the world. That is, until he rebels at marrying Beverly Roberts and gets into Joan Blondell's hands. A pack of laughs from start to finish, a swell story and a grand cast, including Hugh Herbert, E. E. Horton, Dick Foran and Allen Jenkins. It's delightful and sure-fire stuff.

THERE GOES THE GROOM. Republic.

(drammer) A couple of kids with the wrong idea, Richard Cromwell and Helen Mack rob a bank, hide the money, confess and go to prison. They plan to serve their terms, recover the cash and marry. The catch, however, is Lionel Atwill, bank detective who paroles them. His efforts to set them straight and get the money are exciting and dramatic. A good little flicker.

THUNDER TRAIL. Paramount.

(cowboy) More than a stock Western, here's a treat for action fans. Based on Zane Gray's Arizona Ames, it tells of two brothers, Gilbert Roland and James Craig, separated in boyhood and reunited in manhood through the villainy of Charles Bickford. J. Carroll Naish is fine as a prospector, Marsha Hunt able as the heroine and the two heroes satisfactory.

VICTORIA THE GREAT. Imperial-RKO. (drammer) An absorbing account of the life of England's beloved ruler, with Anna Neagle triumphant in the title rôle. Story opens with her ascension to the throne, covers the high points of her reign and happy marriage to Prince Albert (superbly played by Anton Walbrook), and closes with her 60th jubilee, exquisitely in Technicolor. It is an impressively fine production. See it.

WALLABY JIM OF THE ISLANDS. Grand National. (meller) Action in the South Seas, with vocal trimmings rendered pleasingly by George Houston. Skipper of a trading schooner, with Ruth Coleman as an unexpected passenger, he has his chases, gun and fist fights with a wily band of pearl thieves. It's really a Western plot laid on the watery plain, but it will please excitement-loving fans.

WITHOUT WARNING. Warners. (baffler) Murliner in an army post, with suspicion generously cast on everyone, and a plenitude of laughs. Boris Karloff, in a menacing rôle, is snowed under by circumstantial evidence, while pert Marie Wilson with her daffy chatter is responsible for the solution of the mystery. As such mellers go, this is far better than average.

THE WESTLAND CASE. Universal. (baffler) A first class whodunit that moves swiftly, logically and with laughs and thrills. It's up to detective Preston Foster to solve a murder hastily to save the life of the innocent suspect. With Frank Jenks as his comic stooge, he shrewdly gets his man. Carol Hughes, Barbara Pepper and Astrid Allwyn are the gals. Foster's performance is sterling.

THE WRONG ROAD. Republic. (drammer) A couple of kids with the wrong idea, Richard Cromwell and Helen Mack rob a bank, hide the money, confess and go to prison. They plan to serve their terms, recover the cash and marry. The catch, however, is Lionel Atwill, bank detective who parades them. His efforts to set them straight and get the money are exciting and dramatic. A good little flicker.
Three weeks after the picture was released, the player was arrested on charges of bigamy. One of his spouses spotted him in his one and only scene.

While waiting for the starting date on The Four Marys, Director Richard Thorpe took the script to his mountain retreat for final checking. He made a couple of calls to the studio over the phone and the next morning a dozen starry-eyed country damsels were at his door pleading for screen tests. It is being bawled about that Mr. Thorpe will forego party lines in the future.

After Director Thorpe had returned to Hollywood and the picture was under way, he dropped in at M-G-M’s barber shop for a shave. A few minutes later, the fire wagons roared past. "Hmm. Must be a fire some place," remarked the director. "Yassuh," replied the bootblack, "it’s your set burning up." The harried Thorpe dashed to the scene to discover that fire had damaged the expensive set to such an extent that the troupe had to move to another stage. Myrna Loy and Walter Pidgeon, the principals, were lunching when it all happened.

Grand National will have plenty on the ball for its production of The Snow-Covered Wagon, a dramatic epic of the historic Donner party which perished en route to California in the gold rush days. The exteriors will be shot on the exact spot where the wagon train met its tragic end in the winter of ’49.

Richard Halliburton, whose stirring tomes on vagabondia boosted him to world-wide popularity, is being screen-tested for Warner Brothers. The tall, dark ‘n’ handsome globe-trotter should make excellent cinematic material.

Eleanor Holm, beauteous swimming champ, recently starred at the Cleveland Exposition, has arrived in Hollywood for a rôle in Tarzan’s Revenge.

Joe E. Brown, the cut-up, recently presented his thespian pal, Paul Kelly, with a pair of goats tagged Romeo and Godiva.

Jessie Matthews, pride and joy of the British films, is most anxious to join the Hollywood colony, but she is asking too much coin even for the affluent American producers. Jessie wants $150,000 for one picture, plus a share of the profits. She also asks that her hubby, Sonnie Hale, be included in the deal as a supervisor at $2,500 weekly salary. So far, no takers.

Spencer Tracy has been having the time of his life driving a tractor on a grading job at his San Fernando Valley ranch. Spencer is laying out a polo field for those Sunday afternoons, Hollywood's favorite visiting day.

Guys, is your girlfriend twenty-one years old? Is she five feet and a half inches tall? Does she weigh in at 112 pounds? Does she have ash blonde hair and hazel eyes? Yes? Well, then she would make an ideal Hollywood chorus girl, but better not tell her so—she may get ideas. The above specifications are for the ideal film choricine, according to information from top flight dance directors.

The most important coin ever paid to a flicker artist will be the $40,000 weekly check which 20th Century-Fox will hand William Powell for each of the five weeks he works in the current New York season ... the latter makes him the highest paid writer in America ... the latter makes him the highest paid writer in America.

Love Like That, then was switched to 20th Century-Fox will hand William Powell for each of the five weeks he works in the current New York season ... the latter makes him the highest paid writer in America ... the latter makes him the highest paid writer in America.

For the current Barbara Stanwyck-Herbert Marshall starrer, RKO-Radio discarded two grand titles for the final tag, Breakfast For Two. The picture started as A Love Like That, then was switched to Here Comes the Groom.

The doubles appearing in Major Pictures' Every Day's a Holiday have all been tagged according to the names of the stars and featured players. Mae West's double answers to the name of East, Edmund Lowe's to Blondell ... Wendy Barrie went around shaking paws with her left hand after having sprained her wrist on the tennis court ... as the result of her first screen warbling in The Bride Wore Red, Joan Crawford has been spotted to sing not one but two numbers in Minnequin ... Claudette Colbert is one of the few picture actresses who is permitted to select her own gowns for film work.

ANIMAL LOVERS

Did you know that Betty Compson, a star in silents, has been placed under contract by the Brothers Warner? And that Ben Bernie, now working in Love and Hisses, is actually taking a correspondence course in acting? Or that the total costs on In Old Chicago will hit two million dollars? Are you aware that Wally Beery and his brother Noah are appearing together for the first time in many years in M-G-M's Bad Man of Brimstone? And that Ted Healy, believe it or not, runs a flower shop? Or that the latest trick of the Hollywood fans is requesting Charlie McCarthy's autograph from Edgar Bergen? Did you know that Republic's newest hope is John Russell, four-year-old actor, recently contracted? Or that 20th Century-Fox is reissuing four Will Rogers flickers. Handy Andy, Judge Priest, County Chairman and Li'l Abner? And that Bob Murphy, actor and restaurant owner, goes into the cast of Mae West's Every Day's a Holiday playing the rôle of an eatery impresario? Or that J. TO THE POINT
Chairman—Congratulations, my boy, congratulations on your typical married man's speech!

Timid Speaker—But I said only a couple of words.

Chairman—Precisely!

CONCLUDING The Chatter—After holding out for 13 years, Jascha Helfetz finally came around to Sam Goldwyn's way of thinking, and has signed a contract to appear in The Great Musical Festival . . . They found the following billing on a Hollywood marquee: Topper, Between Two Women . . . All the major studios have closed the iron door to candle camera shooters, whether they are visitors or studio employees . . . When Bob Taylor's pictures are shown in Beatrice, Nebraska, Bob's home town, the theatre marquees carry the billing, Arlington Brugh, his real monniker . . . June Marie Kelly, 5, sister of Tommy Kelly, portraying the title rôle in The Adventures of Tom Sawyer, has been added to the cast . . . Doris Dudley has filed a voluntary petition of bankruptcy in federal court . . . Grant Mitchell has returned to the flicker city after a year's absence to go into M-G-M's The Last Gangster, the dusty cops and robbers yarn starring your favorite film gangster, Eddie Robinson . . . Look at this: The top cost for any one film production is estimated to be Garbo's Conquest, made to the tune of $3,800,000 . . .
EXPLOSIONS don't bother me. I've been married three times.
—John Barrymore.

“A stand-in is a girl you hire if you feel too inspired to perspire!”
—Joan Blondell.

“Love that lasts is a miracle. Like any miracle, it cannot happen often.”
—Francis Lederer.

“Men don't want competition—they want love.”
—Marlene Dietrich.

“After three and a half years at Yale I decided to work in a coal mine.”
—George Murphy.

“I have a good temper—I know I can lose it.”
—Sigrid Gurie.

“The directors want a full face for their money. They're tired of using two profiles stuck together.”
—Jack Oakie.

“Think of all the people you see in your travels on boats or at resorts. They are, for the most part, divided into two groups—the newlyweds and the half dead.”
—Bette Davis.

“There's only one way to relax in Hollywood—and that's not to be in Hollywood.”
—James Stewart.

“I didn't get really discouraged until I was a star.”
—Irene Dunne.

“You've no idea how joyful I am that I don't have to plug at looking delightful.”
—Spencer Tracy.

“I've played Cops and Robbers so much that every time a car backfires I rush for my make-up kit.”
—Rochelle Hudson.

“I'm in favor of color. It makes even the 'heavy' look more human!”
—Lloyd Nolan.

“It's when you both want to sit home that you know it's love.”
—Mary Brian.

“When you talk to actors who are too refined, don't you believe ‘em—they've got something to hide.”
—Charles Winninger.

“I had a system which was guaranteed not to lose, but the horses didn't know about it.”
—Patsy Kelly.

“I've already seen enough of Hollywood to know that you're just as good as your last picture.”
—Fred Waring.

“I can't make professional love, polite or impolite.”
—Dick Foran.

“I had about as much personality as six grains of sand, guess which!”
—Joel McCrea.

When a gigolo plants kisses, warns Lilli, he expects orchids.
ONE picture a year for a star of Walter Huston's caliber is far from enough, but when he does start emoting for the screen, that's news. Last year it was Dodsworth, this year it's M-G-M's Benefits Forgot, story of Civil War days. The supporting cast, now before the cameras, includes James Stewart, Beulah Bondi, Ted Healy, Guy Kibbee and Ann Rutherford.

Bob Burns takes a leave of absence from Paramount to join in RKO's Radio City Revels. A musicomedy with an airline background, it will have radio stars Milton Berle, Victor Moore and Helen Broderick in support of the lad from Arkansas. Ann Miller has the femme lead.

That enterprising gal, Glenda (Torchy Blane) Farrell is up to her old tricks of outwitting Barton MacLane again. The newest of this popular series is to be called Blondes at Work, and we'll vouch for (Continued on page 62)

POSED BY LINA BASQUETTE IN “EBB-TIDE.” A PARAMOUNT PICTURE.

To get a man going, explains Lina, a girl has to be up and coming.
Glenda’s doing a thorough job of whatever she has to do.

Recalling Dodsworth to mind naturally leads to the question, “What’s Ruth Chatterton doing?” Her fans will be pleased to learn that she’s in England at the moment working with Anton Walbrook and Rene Ray in The Rat.

And while we’re on the subject of England, it’s time to mention that Maurice Chevalier is making another stab at the cinema there in Break the News. Jack Buchanan has the lead and another person you may have lost track of, June Knight, is the heroine.

The report that those famous funsters, Laurel and Hardy, have been reunited is true. They’ll combine their respective comic talents for Hal Roach in a musical extravaganza with the enlightening title, Swiss Cheese.

Gladys Swarthout has been giving her vocal chords some exercise in Paramount’s The Yellow Nightingale. She plays a singing student who goes to Budapest to look up operatic star John Boles and his manager, John Barrymore. Claire Dodd plays a countess.

A hill-billy musical is on the 20th Century-Fox griddle and sizzling merrily. Thus far assigned to roles are Tony Martin, Jack Haley, Joan Davis, Slim Summerville, Bill Robinson, Leah Ray, Dixie Dunbar and Jane Darwell. And the title is Kentucky Moonshine.

When Everybody Sing reaches your local cinema haunt, you’ll be amazed to see the name of Florence Rice as co-author of the screenplay. Aside from that, it will be an important musical because of the people in it. M-G-M is giving Allan Jones the top spot, with Judy Garland, Fannie Brice, Billie Burke and Reginald Owen as glittering satellites.

Though plans have been in the making for some time at Warners, the start of A Slight Case of Murder is slated for any day now. It’s a Damon Runyon story which will star Edward G. Robinson and give that excellent little actress, Jane Bryan, a chance to do a lot more than she has to date.

Since Hal Roach had such tremendous success with Topper, he couldn’t wait to get Merrily We Live before the lenses. With the same director, Norman McLeod, and the same femme lead, Constance Bennett, plus Brian Aherne, it should be a honey of a honey. In fact, this guy Roach seems to have hit on the perfect formula for comedy—hope he keeps it up.

Hollywood has given us Small Town Boy and Small Town Girl and now, for a change, 20th Century-Fox has dug up Big Town Girl. Almost complete, it has Claire Trevor in the lead with Alan Dinehart and Donald Woods supporting her.

Big doings started at Major Pictures when Badge of Policeman O’Roon went into rehearsal. Good reasons for same are the film’s stars—Bing Crosby, Beatrice Lillic, Mary Carlisle and Andy Devine, a rare and promising quartet. Here’s hoping Bea likes herself in the flicker, for her unique comic talents would be a definite asset to Hollywood if retained there permanently.
More Moto! In other words, Peter Lorre has donned his Jap make-up for the third of that series, Thank You, Mr. Moto. Who knows! The day may come when 20th Century-Fox will see fit to co-star its two Oriental detectives, Messrs. Chan and Moto, in a super-sleuth meller to end all such.

As though the American Legion's descent upon New York wasn't quite enough, and their planned invasion of Los Angeles next year something to wonder about, Columbia has taken it upon itself to produce a little flicker titled American Legion. We can't vouch for the story, but Mary Russell, Don Terry, Marc Lawrence and Robert Warwick have been laboring hard in it.

In A Matter of Pride, Metro's Frank Morgan will take on a different type of rôle, that of a down-and-out who gets noble for the sake of two romantic youngsters, John Beal and Florence Rice. With him also are Janet Beecher, Cora Witherspoon, Erik Rhodes, Reginald Denny, E. E. Clive and Herman Bing. It's a foreign story with plenty of intrigue.

Paramount's Ensenada, which is scheduled to get under way in January, will have a flock of big-name stars to boost it on its way. Don Ameche, loaned by Fox, will romanticize opposite Dorothy Lamour; Bob Burns and Martha Raye will carry on their respective brands of comedy; and Charles Bickford, Charles Butterworth, Charles Bickford and Anthony Quinn will act accordingly.

Those who oh-ed and ah-ed over Doug Fairbanks' daring and gallantry in The Mark of Zorro and Don Q., Son of Zorro, way back when, will have the privilege of repeating the process when Republic's Zorro Rides Again reaches the screen. Duncan Renaldo (remember him?) will have the lead, with John Carroll and Elsa Christian assisting.

We've waited a long, long time—and none too patiently—for the frequently promised Marie Antoinette which Norma Shearer has planned to do for M-G-M. The great day is drawing somewhat nigher with the news that Sir Cedric Hardwicke will soon be on his way here from foggy England to play opposite her as Louis XVI.
INTERESTING LINES FROM LETTERS RECEIVED

"THAT chap who wanted you to drop Continental Favorites is all wet. Of course, we do have the most beautiful girls in the world, he is right there, but a few outsiders add a bit of spice. Even a few Orientals would be a welcome addition . . ."

"Your October issue has broken all previous records! A minimum of retouched pix (I counted four), and plenty of umph and spice. Keep it up! . . ."

". . . why, all of a sudden, does Hollywood flood us with pictures 'we can't afford to miss?' For months at a time we look in vain for something worth seeing, then comes such a deluge of smash hits, we practically go broke trying to cover them all. 'Tain't right!"

"All your models are good, but we like Barbara Beck and Sherry Mack best of all. They make a wonderful combination. We consider Film Fun the best book of its kind, by far . . ."

". . . if Captains Courageous doesn't receive the Academy Award for the best picture of 1937, and Spencer Tracy the Award for the best acting of the year, there's certainly no justice in the world . . ."

"A Day at the Beach in October's Film Fun was a honey! The girls are cute, their under-pinnings neat and the pictures themselves full of pep and humor. If these are posed candid, please give us more of 'em . . ."

". . . there seems to be a definite trend toward slapstick in the good comedy flickers of late. Take Easy Living. The plot was swell, dialogue good and acting superior, but an amazing amount of supplementary hi-jinx left me aghast. Why is it? The show would have been better without it . . ."

"Keep the small pictures out of the show girl section. Some of us like to cut out photos of our favorites, but they are often spoiled by small pictures overlapping and crowding them . . ."

". . . it was a tremendous relief to see Barbara Stanwyck in a picture which does her talents justice. I mean Stella Dallas. More roles like this will put her back on top, where she belongs . . ."

"I have no time for Mr. Minsky, his strip-tease and his burlesque, which are only unadulterated vulgarity, but I consider that any female figure, pose or costume approved by Mr. Murray Korman can safely be accepted without the application of the censor's indelible disfigurement . . ."

". . . why Dorothy Lamour has created such a stir in cinema circles, I'll never know. She's good to look at—and that's about all. Certainly her acting leaves much to be desired, and the less said about her singing, the better . . ."

"Just one sweet kiss, me proud beauty.

"Beast! I'm not your proud beauty.

"Ah, but you will be after my kiss.

"Murray Korman does a swell job with his New York show-girls. Why can't there be something like his work coming out of Hollywood? . . ."

". . . though it may be the pixy in me, I wish that Walt Disney would hurry along that full-length feature cartoon he's been making. The shorts he turns out are always full of good guffaws, so ninety minutes of the same thing should be downright hilarious . . ."

"I always look forward so much to Film Fun, and this month I want to congratulate you. You see, I think the cuties are really fine, but I have one grouse—they leave so little to the imagination . . ."

". . . if Hollywood is going to continue as the style center of the world, it had better come down to earth—and fast. Some of the so-called gown creations and fancy hair-dos are utterly ridiculous, even on a Dietrich . . ."

"As an Army man, I would like to thank heartily the persons responsible for the splendid movie fare tendered to "us boys" at the various posts throughout the country. The fact that we get the new films, as well as the best ones, is indeed a great boon . . ."

". . . I noticed one fan asking for male pictures. I say, let her have them, and cut out the pictures of the Continental girls. I have not seen a decent one yet . . ."

Eve Arden
Eve explains that the cutie who wears her heart on her sleeve usually gets a sweetheart whose love-making is on the cuff.

When a girl and her sweetie are both as fit as fiddles that, suggests Eve, is the time for them to play.
All the encouragement some men need is a spark of love, contends Chris, and they’ll burn their bridges behind them.

Cowgirl—The idea! Taking your horse to Hollywood. How do you expect to make a living with him?

Cowboy—Listen, dope. He’s going to play bit parts.

And you say that your husband makes good money?

“Sure, he has to, or he couldn’t stay in business.”

“That’s interesting. What business is he in?”

“Shh! He’s a counterfeiter.”
The reason girls' faces shine when they're in love, believes Betty, is because all the powder has been kissed off.

"Shh! Her husband scratches his head all day long."
"You don't say! I'll bet he has dandruff."
"No, no! He's an information clerk."

First Beauty—I hear that every fireman in town rushed to Sally's house when it caught fire.
Second Beauty—Heavens! I didn't realize the fire was that bad.
First Beauty—Oh, but it wasn't. But Sally's reputation was.
It's a funny thing, ventures this veiled vision, but a seedy guy seldom gets a chance to plant any kisses.

First From Right—Helen claims that her husband always wants the final word.
Second From Right—Ho, ho, she should be the last one to talk!
First From Right—Yes, she should, but her hubby won't let her.
His friend tried to soothe the rejected lover with, "Come, come, women are just like street cars." The lover, claims this heart interest, sighed, "Yeah, they'll all take you for a ride."

Missionary Miss—So your cute girlfriend is too hot to handle?
Native Boy—Yes, I've got to wait until she gets over her sunburn.

Dancer—This is a new dance costume.
Eddie—Ha, ha, that's neither here nor there!
Dancer—Well, that's the style, big boy!
"Have you ever had any platonic love affairs?" queried the brunette. The blonde, reveals this revelation, shook her head and replied, "Nope, all my sweeties have been very handsome."

“Hmm, hard to say. That's a tough wrap to beat.”

The spinster boldly asked the portly gent, “How can you be satisfied with being a bachelor all your life?” And, according to this hide-and-seek sweetie, the bachelor grinned, “Why not? What was good enough for my father is good enough for me.”
Because a girl is lovesick, contends Conchitta, is no sign that she'll take any old pill that comes along.

1: Julienne interrupts Florence’s quiet evening at home to display a new pair of slippers. “Ah, very ducky indeed,” nods Florence. “Why not put them on?”
2: It’s a good suggestion, but easier said than done, for our heroine discovers that her well-trained tootsies are misbehaving.
3: Florence comes to bat and shows her chum how Prince Charming captured Cinderella. Of course, P. C. had a glass slipper and could see what he was doing.
4: “Oooh! Shoe salesmen were never like this,” groans Julienne, “but you’ll do in a pinch.”
5: And then in the twinkling of two pretty eyes, Julienne discovers that not one, but both feet are securely encased in her new trim slippers. In other words, gals, if the shoe fits, don’t wear it.

Health authorities tell us that we would be in better health if our modern living conditions did not exclude practically all sunlight from our bodies. Most of our skin is covered with clothing and when the sunlight finally reaches the few exposed portions, it has lost much of its health-giving energy in the soot and dust of the atmosphere.

Now Health Ray has perfected an inexpensive sun lamp that will give you the same amount of beneficial ultra-violet rays in 15 minutes that you could get from one hour of clear sunshine in the middle of a summer day. You know what a glorious tan you skin would acquire if you could spend an hour every noon sun-bathing... doctors tell you how much physical benefit you would derive. NOW, with the Health Ray Lamp you can get the same healthy tan, build up the same vitality and health in a few minutes morning or evening in your own home.

Fully Guaranteed! Make This FREE Test!

Test this lamp at our expense NOW! Compact, easy to use, tested and approved... it is your for 7 days' FREE trial! This genuine carbon-arc lamp is fully guaranteed. Send for booklet or lamp at once!

FREE TRIAL We want you to test the Health Ray Sun Lamp at our expense. If, after using it for 7 days you are not completely satisfied, it won't cost you a cent! Included FREE with every Health Ray Lamp are a pair of eye protectors and a descriptive booklet. Those who pay the full price with order or on delivery also receive a box of 10 Super-Tan Carbons and a bottle of Tan Tan Oil to hasten the tanning process.

Improves Your Appearance 100%

- It's the first impression that counts! Get that healthy, vital appearance that opens the door to success! Many a man has lost his chance because his appearance didn't "click." Social as well as business success depends on your looks... and the pale, weak, past-looking chap won't get to first base. Now a daily "sun bath" in the privacy of your own home, will keep you looking like a million dollars and feeling as physically fit as you look!

Look Successful—Be Successful!

- A good, healthy coat of tan has a surprising effect on your appearance. You look healthy and virile and instantly command attention. Your prosperous appearance makes people want to do business with you. Salesmen find their sales actually increase after they have acquired a real bronze tan! And you will find yourself more popular, for both men and women are attracted by that healthy outdoor look!

Improves Health As Well As Appearance!

- The appearance of health is based on actual fact—for frequent exposure to the ultra-violet rays of the sun tones up the entire system, stimulates the body into energy and vitality, increases gland activity, builds up resistance to colds... and aids in clearing up many skin diseases.

- Health authorities tell us that we would be in better health if our modern living conditions did not exclude practically all sunlight from our bodies. Most of our skin is covered with clothing and when the sunlight finally reaches the few exposed portions, it has lost much of its health-giving energy in the soot and dust of the atmosphere.

4 Times As Powerful As Summer Sun!

- Now Health Ray has perfected an inexpensive sun lamp that will give you the same amount of beneficial ultra-violet rays in 15 minutes that you could get from one hour of clear sunshine in the middle of a summer day. You know what a glorious tan you skin would acquire if you could spend an hour every noon sun-bathing... doctors tell you how much physical benefit you would derive. THOUSANDS NOW PLAY WHO NEVER THOUGHT THEY COULD

Read this typical letter from one of our students

Yes, just like thousands of others who thought music was hard, this man got the surprise of his life when he tried this easy way to learn music at home. And no wonder! Instead of months of tedious study and practice, he found himself actually playing real tunes in the very first few weeks! He didn't believe it was possible—and his friends could hardly believe their ears when they heard him.

But read this unsolicited letter for yourself. He writes:

"I ordered your piano course just to have something to do to pass the time evenings when I was home. I didn't even dream that I could actually learn to play without a teacher, because I had always heard that it couldn't be done. I couldn't afford a teacher, so I didn't think it would do me any harm to take your course.

"When I received the lessons I took the instantaneous note finder and struck the notes right off. I considered this just killing time, but you can imagine my surprise when after three or four weeks I found that I could actually play real tunes, something I would never have believed possible without previous knowledge of music.

"Now, when I play for people they will hardly believe that I learned to play so well with just a correspondence course in so short a time.

"I am getting now to the point where even the hardest music holds no terrors for me. Any person who takes your piano course and studies it cannot help but learn to play, because it covers everything they could ever want to know on the subject."

ABE LINCOLN IN ILLINOIS. RKO.
(Drammer)
Raymond Massey plays the title role and makes a great Lincoln. The story covers Lincoln's years as a store keeper, a legislator and as a lawyer. The fade-out shows Abe, the President-elect, saying farewell to friends and neighbors in Springfield as he starts on his journey to the White House. The scenes showing the populace and Lincoln waiting for the election returns and the Lincoln-Douglas debate are very well done. It is Americanism at its best.

A CHILD IS BORN. Warner Bros.
(Meller)
Impending motherhood brings this grand hotel of the maternity ward to the screen resulting in one being made fully aware of the emotional impact involved when a child is brought into the world. The expectant fathers run true to form and have more difficulty with the long-legged bird than their wives do. It's not a name cast-Geraldine Fitzgerald, Jeffrey Lynn, Gladys George and Gale Page—but the acting and direction are very good.

ADVENTURE IN DIAMONDS. Paramount. (Meller)
The jewel of romance—the diamond—how it is mined and the methods of preventing thefts while it is undergoing that process make up this interesting story. John Lodge is a diamond snatcher and Isla Bannerman is his accomplice. George Brent is a govt. flyer who falls in love with Isla and unwittingly assists in smuggling the diamonds out of the mines.

BROTHER RAT AND A BABY. Warner Bros. (Laugher)
Three V.M.I. (Virginia Military Institute) grads, Wayne Morris, the son of a wealthy publisher whose romantic inclination is Priscilla Lane, Ronald Reagan, a serious young illustrator, his romance department being filled by Jane Wyman, and Eddie Albert, athletic coach at a small town high-school, is married to Jane Bryan and it is their baby "Commencement" who causes all the excitement in the beginning. There is a freshness in the performers and in the delivery of lines which helps to make it all merry, mad and amusing.

GREEN HELL. Universal. (Meller)
Douglas Fairbanks Jr. leads an all-male expedition into the interior of the South American jungle in search of Inca treasure. Comes the arrival in the camp of a fetching widow, Joan Bennett, and Doug's heart does nip-ups as do the men's minds. Fairbanks decides to send her home even though he's fallen for her, but the savages attack the camp and in a gang-up fight, real cops and robbers style ensues. Miss Bennett as usual caresses the optics.

INVISIBLE STRIPES. Warner Bros.
(Meller)
Guns-a-poppin again in this story of a released convict (George Raft) determined to go straight even though his criminal record keeps him out of work. There's dramatic suspense with a bang-bang chase thrown in for good measure, Humphrey Bogart for menace and Jane Bryan for romance.

OF MICE AND MEN. Hal Roach U. A. (Drammer)
First a book, then a play, and now a corking picture. All the action takes place on a barley ranch. The strange friendship between George (Burgess Meredith) and Lennie (Ben Chaney Jr.), the half-wit possessed of herculean strength, is beautifully portrayed. Meredith is first class and Chaney Jr. gives a standout performance.

OVER THE MOON. Alexander Korda U. A. (Laugher)
In this sophisticated, drawing room comedy a beautifully written and directed—a plot that could have been ordinary but isn't because of the aforementioned—and it has plenty of laughs garnished neatly with sentiment. It all adds up to swell entertainment.

SIDEWALKS OF LONDON. Paramount. (Laugher)
A broker (London street entertainer) Charles Laughton, takes an interest in a theifing street gangster Vivien Leigh, coaches her, puts her in his act and is pushed aside when she becomes a music hall star. Laughton's characterisation is top-notch and Vivien Leigh is provocative displaying fine acting ability.

SLIGHTLY HONORABLE. Walter Wanger U. A. (Whodunit)
There's a murder which political boss Edward Arnold tries to pin on Pat O'Brien. O'Brien proceeds to entangle himself and ask every girl he meets "Are you over 18?" Ruth Terry is the night club singer laking in a square but not in appeal and she's a cute enough dish for any movie menu. It's boisterous and romping.

THE EARL OF CHICAGO. M-G-M.
(Meller)
Robert Montgomery again attempts the unusual as a former Chicago bootlegger gone straight who winds up as heir to the Earldom of Gorley. He goes to England to collect his estate, taking with him one Doc Ramsey, a supposedly honest lawyer. While Montgomery has succumbed to the traditions of his new position he discovers Doc has double-crossed him. Being allergic to such things Bob goes berserk, kills him and is tried for murder in the House of Lords. Montgomery offers another intriguing character portrayal.

THE FIGHTING 69TH. Warner Bros.
(Meller)
No women are in this picturization of the 69th New York Regiment during the World War. War and life in the trenches are shown through the medium of James Cagney as Jerry Plunkett, Pat O'Brien as Father Duffy, the famed priest, George Brent as Wild Bill Donovan and George Brent as Joyce Kilmer. An excellent, stirring patriotic plea.

Oh, what those prospective fathers, Johnny Downs and Jeffrey Lynn, go through in "A Child Is Born."

"Abe Lincoln in Illinois" (Raymond Massey) discusses politics with Joshua Speed (Minor Watson).
POISED BY GLORIA DICKSON, WARNER BROTHERS STARLET.

Eskimo girls, jokes Gloria, are so cold they have Arctic Circles under their eyes.
In winter sports, says Marie, the ski's the limit.

Money talks, says Jane, but all it talks about is the high taxes.

Margaret mentions that the summer lover is just a fall guy in October.
Anita says that a brilliant conversationalist is a girl who never opens her mouth unless she has nothing to say.

GULLIBLE'S TRIFLES

PHOTOGRAPHED BY ANDRE LA TERZA.
Born in Indiana, Ann Christy came to Hollywood having had no stage experience—played in Christie Comedies and was Harold Lloyd's leading lady in "Speedy" in 1928.

The girl from Dallas, Texas (Bebe Daniels), and the man from Bisbee, Arizona (Lloyd Hughes), appeared in "Love Comes Along" in 1930.
1929 brought such pictures as “Disraeli,” “Rio Rita,” “Madame X” and “Red Hot Rhythm” in which this duo of fair damsels appeared.

The slant-eyed siren is none other than titian-haired Myrna Loy. Born in Helena, Montana, Myrna made her movie debut in 1925. She is pictured in costume for the 1929 “Desert Song.”
Ambrose Icky stumbles into the chorus dressing room, where Tillie Hitchkwick receives him informally. Ambrose knows all the answers. “Come home with me and see my etchings,” he smirks. That’s familiar ground to Tillie, so she grins. “Why not?”

So he decides he’ll have no more to do with chorines, since he could hardly have had less... But then he spies a simple country lass. Ambrose thinks this femme will be a cinch to make, using the Big Build Up. “Ah there, my little beauty,” he snorts, “what is a dainty rose like you doing in this pasture? Let me take you out of all this. I’ll hang you with diamonds... fly with me.”

But somebody changed the script. The gal plops in the chair, lights a reefer and says, “Run along, Romeo, you bore me.” Since he’s interested in flying she gives him a bird for good measure.
"Jeepers," Tillie gurgles, "the guy's got a etching!" "Perty, ain't it," Ambrose says proudly, wondering what he does next. Tillie goes to see some etchings, but it's the first one she's cast an eye on. "D-do you etch?" she whimpers. "Yeah—but it's my winter underwear," he confesses.

The shock is too much for Tillie's nerves, and she collapses with a low moan in B flat. "Speak to me!" Ambrose begs. "Nuts," says Tillie. So he runs for the doctor, who had a broken leg and couldn't run himself. When he gets back he's out of breath and fresh outa Tillie, who has gone for a stiff drink.

Thumbing through his instruction book, Ambrose decides to try out the Simple Soul System, on Selina Swank. A rustic approach ought to bowl over this hot-house flower, tired of the ways of the city. So our wacky Icky takes the Jolson stance and gabbles about the wide open spaces he loves.

But Ambrose had it wrong. Selina lived on a farm until two years ago, when a kind broker took an interest in her. And she's allergic to horse-feathers. "Scram, you rural booby," she howls, kicking him carefully out the back door so the neighbors won't notice. Ambrose is hurt to the quick—so he rubs it ruefully.
The only trouble with this system is Minnie has a hollow leg, and only gets slightly Duddled, while Ambrose is completely Fuddled. "Gimme the bottle," she shays . . . gee, it's got me too! "Le's have another." Ambrose only says "Burp!"

By this time Ambrose is convinced that the thing to do is wait for a tipoff from the gal before going into action. He drops in on a hot number, Minnie the Model, and gallantly suggests doing something. "I'd love to," says Minnie, "but I haven't a thing to wear. I could go for a bite, though."

"That's all I'm waiting for," Ambrose exults, and tries to take the bite. Howard takes that for a natural . . . he thinks he's got his sign, but he doesn't know it's the Indian sign. So he starts in with the Quick Burnup.

Just as he's going down for a long count the second reaction sets in; the "So That's It" period. Minnie scowls at him. "So—you're tryin' to get me drunk, eh?" she snarls. "Tryin' to take advantage of me, huh? Well, I'll fix you!"

And she does.
The next thing he's aware of, he's tied in a knot shouting, "Uncle!" Minnie reminds him that she was jiu-jitsu champ back at school... reform school. Then Ambrose remembers why he hasn't called her all these years. But he won't give up. The thing to do, he decides, is to try the Fuddle-Duddle system.

This consists of feeding the femme Scotch, Rye or Gin until she is completely Fuddle-Duddled. Then Ambrose figures he'll wreak his will. So he pours stiff double ones, and waits.

"My hero," the gal gurgles, and Ambrose is elated. At last he's guessed right about a femme. But he hasn't about his strength, which gives out after two blocks. The poor lass tries her best, but Ambrose weighs too much and she goes for a tramp in the woods... a tramp named Looie. And Ambrose drowns himself in disgust and the gutter. Moral: Confucius says: he who pick up dame must be able to carry load.

Generally, jests with Judith, a heavy date lasts until it's light.

Money isn't tight, mentions Maris, but people are.
Perched on a ladder Margaret Lindsay is monarch of all she surveys. If a girl can't make headway in Hollywood she should try the legway.

With the aid of makeup pencils and a looking-glass these two lassies get set for the camera. A girl must be up to the minute to step out with the man of the hour.
Rosemary Lane, Warner Bros. star, finds her suspension in mid-air very laughable. Don’t worry, Rosemary, things aren’t as bad as they are painted—in a surrealist picture.

Joan Blondell swings lightly with son Norman outside her beach house. Heard of the fellow who didn’t have a lapse of memory but a memory of laps?

Ida Lupino was a cigarette girl at the French-British War Relief Fund dinner.

CLIPS FROM THE CUTTING ROOM

Twenty dollars for a pack of cigarettes establishes some sort of record even in Hollywood! But this time it was in a good cause. Occasion was the French-British War Relief Fund dinner dance given by French and British film stars at the Cocoanut Grove. Invitations to the affair were $10.00 apiece. Claudette Colbert, Myrna Loy, Merle Oberon, Frances Robinson, Ida Lupino, and Maureen O'Hara, decked out in swanky costumes, turned cigarette girls for the night, sold smokes in tricky cardboard cases decorated with the French and British flags, designed by Movietown's party expert, Beulah Kuh. What's more they autographed the packs. Pack costing $20.00 was autographed by Myrna Loy's lipstick kiss. Purchaser of that one is rumored to have claimed the original in the proper place. No, it wasn't on his cigarette container!

TICKER LOANED: When Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Edison, the Man" is released, movie-goers will see the original stock market ticker invented by Thomas A. Edison. Ticker has been loaned to Clarence Brown by Owner Henry Ford for use in the picture.

OUT OF THE MOUTHS OF MAIDS: When Clark Gable signed his new seven-year contract with M-G-M, which will make his record seventeen years on the same lot when it's up, a former maid of Mrs. Rhea Gable put in her oar when she heard the deal discussed. Said the dusky ex-employee, "When I used to work for Miz Rhea, I was always havin' to break in and train new husbands; and I sho was mighty pleased when Miz Rhea settled down with this heah Mr. Gable, cuz it looked almost steady to me." But the maud was just in for another let-down. Seems that Mr. Gable's steadiness is all with M-G-M.

HOLLYWOOD CINDERELLA: For six years Yvonne Yonde has been retouching still pictures of the stars, prettying them up at Warner Brothers. Now Warners have tested Yvonne for a role in "The Sehawk." "Warren William has turned inventor, patented a garden vacuum cleaner for picking up leaves. One Hollywood wag complimented Warren on his inventive genius, then added brightly: "If you could patent a gadget for whisking up blondes when the wife comes home unexpectedly from a trip, I could find you a good market."

STUNT: To promote Paramount's "Seventeen", dramatization of Booth Tarkington's story, seventeen girls, all seventeen years of age, from seventeen different cities will be guests of Jackie Cooper, star of the show. And seventeen of Jackie's pals will escort the girls around. But that isn't all! There will be seventeen chaperones, with probably seven times seventeen attempts to duck them!

Seems that Errol Flynn is having a bad time these days. First place he and Miriam Hopkins didn't get on so well when they were teamed in "Virginia City." When the picture was completed, Errol decided he needed a rest, and boarded a plane for New York. But he should have checked the passenger list. For in the same plane was Miss Hopkins, also flying East for a rest. Next bump came when he returned to Hollywood, and was cast as a doctor who soothes shattered nerves of female patients, in "Jupiter Laughs," as Errol is much more accustomed to soothing nerves than soothing them. Now he says that as soon as his present assignment is finished he is off for a six-weeks South American cruise—alone! Wife Lili Damita will be parked in Hollywood, and Errol won't have any handicaps in catching the eyes of Southern Republic belles. Happy hunting, Errol!

Geraldine Fitzgerald has been coming in for her share of buzz-buzz in Hollywood lately, because she's being seen driven around town by a WOMAN chauffeur. Geraldine's excuse for the oddity is that she believes women drivers are more careful than men. But the real reason is that the lady is expecting the stork soon, and the woman chauffeur is a nurse as well. Nothing like preparedness for a blessed event.

Fashion Notes: Dorothy Lamour, as a compliment to America's First Lady, wore an "Eleanor Blue" gown to the President's ball in Washington. . . . Peter Lorre starts tail-less shirt vogue at 20th Century-Fox.

Don't worry if your wife turns cold toward you says Jane. The cooling may only last until the end of the honeymoon, but the billing will go on forever.

To be a success in Hollywood, says Sigrid, a girl must watch her peeves and cues.

A conceited girl, claims Barbara, never cries her "I's" out.

A toast, mentions Maras, is no sooner said than down.
When a girl has a heavy date, hails Helen, the only thing she doesn't want is light.

Give a chiropodist an inch, says Marion, and he'll want a foot.

POSED BY OLGA GOREY.
The modern girl, says Olga, carries an eyebrow pencil just to draw a man's attention.

POSED BY GINGER JOHNSON.
Ginger knows a young married couple who call their twin beds boycott and girlcott.

ALL POSES BY BEAUTIES APPEARING IN GEORGE WHITNER'S SCANDALS. FOTOS BY MURRAY KORMAN.
TO THE SCANDALS

POSED BY BARBARA SEATON.

Barbara bets that the only exercise some chaps get is chinning at the bar.

POSED BY FRANCES NEAL.

The girl whose face would stop a clock, says Frances, often has a figure that would stop traffic.

POSED BY MARIE KELLY.

A fellow went backstage, says Marie, to see his girl between the acts—between the acts of holding hands with the producer and kissing the manager.
Most people aren't a bit superstitious, laughs Gloria.
They walk right under the ladder of success.

A conceited man, continues Gloria, is always getting himself esteemed up.

BE A BEAU-GETTER

Specially posed by Gloria Griffith, New York model.

Night owls, adds Gloria, just don't seem to give a hoot.
She was only a tar's sweetheart, forwards Gloria, but she tarred and feathered her nest.
When a girl loves to kiss, asks Jane, could you say that her heart was in her mouth?

When a guy reads a girl like a book, offers Olivia, he's merely poring over her lines.

"Don't kiss me like that again. I wilt."
"Ah, wilt thou? Success at last!"
"Hmm, do you know enough about typing to be a private secretary?"
"You bet! I know a little about typing."

Stop Worrying About BALDNESS

The VITEX HAIR INSTITUTE, Inc.
Offers You a System To Help KEEP YOUR HAIR GROWING

We will send you explanatory charts and expert instructions prepared by a registered physician which show you how to lift your scalp, thereby increasing blood circulation in the growing areas... how to massage in a professional manner so as to induce stimulation and feed nature's nourishment to the hair roots... attacking live but dormant hair roots so they wake up and function... this result-getting program is yours if you order VIDEX. You really need VIDEX because it cleans the scalp of foreign, harmful substances that clog the pores and clears the way for your hair to grow. Hundreds of unsolicited and enthusiastic letters received from users prove that VIDEX is good... order today and start to correct your hair troubles right away.

GUARANTEE
You must be satisfied or your money refunded after ten days trial.

RUSH COUPON FOR SPECIAL OFFER
Send today for an eight treatment bottle of VIDEX'S Triple Action Treatment for only $1.00 and the instructions, charts will be included without extra cost. If you want to save money, order this special $3 combination. 3.10 oz. size of VIDEX'S Triple Action Treatment (4 times the quantity) is regularly $3. Order this and we include a 1 oz. jar of VIDEX'S CORRECTIVE POMADE, saving you $2. You really should have the Pomade because it is used daily and helps speed up results.

VIDEX'S Treatment Helps Three Important Benefits
1. Stimulates growth areas. After applying VIDEX you will note a pleasant tingling or "drawing" sensation. Evidence of how effectively your scalp is being stimulated in the areas where blood must nourish the hair roots.
2. Helps dispel excessive dandruff, stops itching. Effective in dissolving accumulated matter, that "strangles" the hair, in the same manner as you would wash up the face with soap and water.
3. Purifies as it cleanses. After you have allowed VIDEX to "work" it saponifies easily with water and rinses completely clear, leaving your scalp healthfully clean and your hair naturally brilliant.

RIDDLE OF THE THREE SINNERS

Scandal, gossip, rumor... It rode the winds in the small Wisconsin town. For Earl Lester, people said, was seeing a lot of that plump, blond waitress. He was carrying on in a shocking way—and right under his wife's nose, too.

But fiery Letha Lester was not deceived. And when she returned home from a visit, to find another woman's underthings in her husband's room, she decided to act. She resolved to set a trap for her husband and his secret sweetheart.

The bloody violence that followed rocked the entire state of Wisconsin. Read the whole sensational story in the April issue of INSIDE DETECTIVE, now on sale everywhere. Told by the sheriff who solved the case, it's the official story of an amazing real-life crime enigma!

POSED BY BARBARA BROOKS.
A cat, explains Barbara, is a dame who thinks men are naughty but nice.
The baby at Joan Crawford's house is still coming in for its share of Ohs and Ahhs. Joan's so crazy about the youngster that every time she goes shopping for a new outfit for herself, she has an exact duplicate made for the baby. Sounds like big-hearted Joan, doesn't it?

When Jane Wyman and Ronald Reagan, Warner Brothers players, said their "I dos" at the Wee Kirk of the Heather on January 26, some of the reporters present remarked on Ronnie's grand sun-tan. They didn't realize that it was just an excellent make-up, put on because the groom was suffering from an attack of the Flu; but insisted on being married on the date set for the wedding, so the Hollywood tongue-waggers wouldn't start putting the jinx on his and Jane's romance.

According to latest reports, Doug Fairbanks, Jr. will take over his father's interest in United Artists. If he does, young Doug and his former stepmother, Mary Pickford, will be production partners.

If you think that the professional jealousy bug can't bite two girls in the same family, just read this. Of course if they weren't on the same movie lot, maybe the icles wouldn't be so noticeable. But with Joan Fontaine, cast as the star of Selznick's "Rebecca," and Sister Olivia de Havilland having just completed a leading supporting role in "Gone With the Wind," from the same lot, it's definitely reached zero between the two girls.

QUERy: What movie actor started his career as a collar-ad boy, and later blossomed out as a tough guy on the screen? ANSWer: Brian Donlevy.

OOMPH IN ECLIPSE: Visible only at the Perrever Mall Party, when Ann Sheridan caught her frock on a wicker chair, and had to disappear while a maid repaired damages. Always the gallant, Cesar Romero was right on hand to console the "oomph girl."

THEN AND NOW: Among the crowd of 200 extras on Deanna Durbin's "It's a Date," was eighty-year-old Charles French, first director in Hollywood. He meggd "Davie Crockett" produced by the New York Motion Picture Company in 1909. But here's the pay-off—the entire production cost $172. Compared to the present-day sums spent on a single scene of a movie, that can be rated colossal in reverse!

There are two kinds of drinkers, gabs Gale, those whose nose turns up after a few drinks and those whose toes turn up after a few drinks.

When a husband comes home late and hands his wife a lot of bull, says Susan, she naturally has to beef about it.
Garbo didn't take the trouble to meet Ingrid Bergman, a fellow citizen from Stockholm, when she made "Intermezzo" at Selznick's. But when Ingrid, who has just recently returned to this country from Sweden, is considered as star material because of her work in "Intermezzo," Garbo is seen entering the Four Star Theatre alone to observe Miss Bergman's work. Ho, Hum! You figure it!

DISREGARD THIS ONE: Because Alice Faye appeared on the 20th Century-Fox lot with red-rimmed eyes for two successive days, the meouw-meouws started the rumor that Alice and Husband Tony Martin were having a lot of trouble. But the real reason for the weepy look was due to the fact that Alice is playing the title role in "Lillian Russell," a chronic boo-hoo-er, if ever there was one. So—it was just a case of make-up—not break-up!

THIS MONTH'S HEADLINES: "The Man Who 'Shot' Lincoln invites you to dinner." Sounds screwy, doesn't it? But that was the way James Wong Howe, the cameraman, who photographed "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," announced the opening of his new Hollywood eatery, Ching How, on February 3. . . . Divorces local: Jean Parker from her newspaperman husband, W. C. MacDonald. Long Distance: Laurence Olivier from Jill Esmond of London; Vivien Leigh from Leigh Holman of London. . . . That leaves Miss Leigh and Mr. Olivier free to begin a ball-and-chain act together, which they plan to do. . . . Jimmie Stewart gets second billing to Seabiscuit at a Hollywood suburban theatre. . . . Tyrone Power denies report that he and Wife Anna are preparing a nursery in their home. . . . Rumor has it that one of William Powell's wedding gifts was a high chair for his bride. . . . Nature stages her own "A" and "B" features in the best Hollywood manner when she breaks out with two rainbows in the midst of a downpour. . . . Ethel Barrymore Colt, daughter of Ethel, first member of the Royal Family to be featured in a hot spot, makes her debut in a song and chatter act. . . . Paulette Goddard seen at the Beverly Hills Hotel trying to teach the diminutive A. C. Blumenthal the rhumba. . . . Gary Grant's new heart interest lovely Fay Wray.

A CALL TO THE COLORS
Thousands of Men NOW Appear Feel Look
SLIMMER BETTER YOUNGER with Commander
The Amazing NEW Abdominal Supporter

Yes, instantly you, too, can begin to feel ALIVE . . . ON TOP OF THE WORLD by joining the Parade of Men who are marching up the highway of better living with the COMMANDER, the amazing new Men's abdominal supporter.

GET "IN SHAPE" INSTANTLY AND ENJOY A HAPPY STREAMLINED COMMANDER APPEARANCE

The COMMANDER with the exclusively designed "INTERLOCKING HANDS" principle for extra double support where you need it most really flattens the burdensome sagging "corporation" and restores to the body the restful invigorating feeling that comes with firm, sure "bay window" control. Order this new belt today and begin enjoying the pleasure of feeling "in shape" at once.

BREATHE EASIER—TAKE THE WEIGHT OFF TIRED FEET

The helpful uplifting EXTRA SUPPORTING power of the COMMANDER firmly supports the heavily drooping abdominal sag. The instant you pull on the belt a weight is lifted from you. . . . You breathe easier . . . your wind is longer, you feel good all over.

YOUR BACK IS BRACED—YOUR CLOTHES FIT BETTER—YOU APPEAR TALLER

The COMMANDER automatically braces your figure, your posture becomes erect . . . you look and feel slimmer . . . your clothes fit you better. Your friends will notice the improvement immediately.

COMMANDER IS NEW AND MODERN

The absence of gouging steel ribs, dangling buckles and bothersome laces will prove a joy. COMMANDER has a real man's jock type pouch, completely detachable. IT GIVES GENUINE MALE PROTECTION. Try this amazing new belt with full confidence . . . and at our risk. SEND FOR IT NOW!

* THE SECRET OF THE "INTERLOCKING HANDS"

Only COMMANDER contains this NEW principle. THERE IS NOTHING LIKE IT. Here is the secret: A special non-stretch material is built into the two-way stretch body of the COMMANDER . . . STRETCHES 10 to 14 INCHES HIGH . . . in the outline of two interlocking hands for EXTRA DOUBLE SUPPORT where you need it most. The "interlocking hands" firmly flattens that abdominal sag . . . you look down and that dragging down "corporation" is no more.

Commander Wearers all over America Say—

"I am sure you will be pleased to know that it is for the best and most practical supporter I have ever had. I have been pleased to show it to several of my friends and they are likewise impressed with it. You shall probably hear from some of them in the future."

Dr. A. M. S.

THE ANIMALCULE OF SIMON DEPEW

Simon Depew was a man for the brew
He was wedded to whiskey and wine,
He was known as a sport for an hourly snort
(And a snort in between would be fine).
Each morning at 2 he was joined by a zoo
Stocked with quadrupeds purple and pink—
There were polka-dot mules
And striped animalcules
Who sat silently watching him drink.
The convention of fauna would vanish at dawn, a Vacation to take for the day,
But each night they'd be back in a colorful pack
When the liquor made Simon feel gay.
Depew was no dorker—
His future got blacker—
He captured the bull by the horn;
His weakening jibed with the stuff he imbibed,
His menagerie viewed him with scorn.
One creature grew bolder and
Strayed from the fold
When the party dispersed for the night,
As Depew went to bed, this madcap instead
Slithered under the sheets at his right.
In the late afternoon, Simon broke from his swoon
And discovered, with cries of dismay,
That a polka-dot devil
(Who answered to "Neville")
Was stealing his blankets away.
Now Simon Depew was a man for the brew
But this problem brought worries galore;
He wasn't the sort for an hourly snort
Being followed from doorway to door.
Simon's friends become few
He was labelled taboo
He was third when a three was a crowd,
Each morning at 2, posters came into view
Grimly worded:
NO NEVILLES ALLOWED.
All the animalcules and the polka-dot mules
Rummaged vainly and wept in despair,
For Simon and Neville (that bothersome devil)
Just hadn't been seen anywhere,
They searched a great search—
Being left in the lurch—
With detectives and sleuths at great cost.
It was all a fiasco
From Glendale to Glasgow
The pair were assuredly lost.
The finis is tragic (some say it was magic)
But that was the end of Depew.
They offer a toast to the polka-dot ghost
Each morning
At just about 2.

Being a wall-flower can be convenient at times.
Protection is the mother of convention, and this bright lass devised a natty system of protective coloration to ward off parlor blitzkrieg.

There ain't nobody here but us fancy striped curtains.

Don't mind me—I'm just an old birdcage (and a cagy bird, too).
"So you think time tells on a woman?"
"You bet it does. Especially a good time."

"How dare you, sir! The little lady steal your wallet? My good man, you have insulted womanhood!" This was considered a daring scene. Yeah?

To the pioneer movie directors, subtle was but a strange word in the dictionary. Lovemaking had to be raw, wild and to the point.

"Early American"

This early flicker morsel features the mad antics of the Hallroom Maids and the title probably ran something like this: "Much too-doo until the Doc comes."
"My boy friend is as comfortable as an old shoe."
"Oh, well, for myself I prefer a tight squeeze."

"No, Foul Sir, I'm saving my kisses for another."
"So am I, Bubbles. Let's start exchanging."

"No, thank Gawd, there ain't no more at home like us." This was hotsy-totsy stuff back in the old Biograph days, when casting was done on corners.

"Pouring Daughter Into Bed" or "What's the Younger Generation Coming To?" When we say Early American we mean it! This is a 1908 oldie.
Three of a kind, and you take the Jack-pot! Here's a trio of neophytes from Paramount's starlet college.

So you believe that two heads are better than one?

Yer darn tootin', pal; I'm a barber.

YOURS FOR THE BASKING
When Kiss The Boys Goodbye hits your theatre, you'll meet the singing secretaries, all twelve of them. Here's a sample....

... They are Ella Neal, Barbara Britton and Katherine Booth, three little dears who give the office a new routine.

All good things come in threes, people say, and who are we to disprove a golden rule? Below are some sparkling examples.

One guy who's always ducking his customers is the swimming instructor.
Over on the British Isles, the tops in beauty are "Mr. Cochran's Young Ladies," equivalent to our Ziegfeld girls. This one is Olive Hammerton.

Danielle Darrieux learned to speak English in six months; when she came to Hollywood she would not hire any servants who spoke French.
France’s prolific Jean Gabin is shown in one of his current flickers, _Le Jour Se Leve_; that’s _Daybreak_ to you guys. The babe is Jaqueline Laurent.

6. John Bunyan

"Yowseh, the landlord, the lease and the couple upstairs."

"Sweet man, does ma single remind you ob anything?"

It's hard, but Doria's two fingers make an excellent clue. A city in one of our Western desert states.

No, this is not an advertising display. It's Joan closing today's class with the name of a 17th Century author.

It's Joan again, with a sympathetic pal. Here's a clue to the answer: An early American statesman who lived from 1757 to 1804.
Peggy Whight, one of the featured attractions of "Ice-Capades," sits out a scene for our Hollywood staff photographer.

Everyone in Hollywood seems to be sun-tan conscious these days and Lillian Cornell, Paramount player, makes certain of getting her share of the rays. The newest gag going about the movie lots these days, offers Lillian, is this: When a girl burns the candle at both ends, it's her mother who flares up.

"Say, girlie, if it won't bother you, I'd like to give you a kiss."

"If it won't bother me, I don't want it."
QUIZZICAL CULTURE

Turn the page quickly, Jeeves. Here's that Quizzical Culture again. Too late. Some folks are gluttons for punishment. Anyway, you have to admit that Quizzical Culture keeps the mind alert, wakes up lazy muscles and puts the reader back to sleep. This month's set of questions is terrific. Not even the author knows the answers. Well, read on. You'll find the solutions on page 47.

IX

WHO AM I?

Can you follow the clues below and guess who I am? Wouldn't it be easier if I just told you? Oh, well, let's see how smart you are.

I was born in Independence, Mo., in 1911, but my first introduction to the theater was in Dallas, Tex., in 1925 when I won a Charleston contest. How are you doing so far? The contest prize was a stage contract which eventually landed me in vaudeville. In 1928, I married another vaudeville player in New Orleans but the knot was cut in 1931.

I reached Broadway in a show called "Top Speed" and later appeared in "Girl Crazy." Those shows put me in line for Hollywood and I made my first important appearance in a picture that had something to do with going down to South America in an airplane. In 1934, I tried matrimony again, this time with a well known movie actor, but that's all over, too.

Are those enough clues? If not, I might add that I'm 5 feet, 5½ inches tall and weigh 115 pounds. I've been in lots of dancing pictures. Come on—WHO AM I?

X

What's a good song for Burgess Meredith?

XI

Can you name five stars who were born in Texas? Can you name three who were born in Siberia?

XII

How about a song for Marjorie Rambeau? Or are these getting monotonous?

TITLE GAME

Here's the Title Game again. Do we hear groans? Hidden in the lines below are the titles of current or recent pictures. For example, if we said "Expensive Offspring," the title might be "Million Dollar Baby." So go ahead. Now you're on your own.

(1) Not quite good enough for wings.
(2) A barber from India.
(3) A sweet doughboy.
(4) Try to keep it from getting daylight.
(5) One guy can tell you about it.
(6) Behave yourself, sister.
(7) Mrs. Pinkhammer.
This is the story of Charity, the new maid at the wealthy Astorbilt mansion on Park Avenue. It's only her first day but Charity has gotten onto the ropes already with a gander at Mrs. Astorbilt's diary, which looks pretty hot to an innocent French maid.
2. The telephone rings and Charity answers it. It's Mrs. Astorbilt saying she won't be home for dinner. And will Charity give Mr. Astorbilt his supper and stay around in case he needs anything? "But what could he need?" thinks Charity.

3. She starts wondering what a man would want besides his supper and after reading a few more pages in the diary she gets a pretty good idea. A little of Mrs. Astorbilt's fifty-dollar-an-ounce perfume puts a few more thoughts into her head.

4. She slips up on the correct etiquette of taking Mr. Percy Astorbilt's coat and hat, leaving him a little puzzled about what other slips she's going to make. But since Charity isn't wearing one everything ought to be easier.
5. She brings Percy his dinner, completely sanitary—no germs, no vitamins. But that doesn't bother Mr. Astorbilt: he's been on a liquid diet since he was a baby. Percy wonders what's coming for dessert—as if he didn't know.

6. Well, whatever is in that supper is strong enough to knock you for a loop, especially Charity, who isn't used to it. But Percy is no longer puzzled, and after bandying some words about he prepares to bandy something else about.

7. And here it comes! Charity is beginning at home all right, and Percy Astorbilt knows that the Lord helps those who help themselves. "What's next?" worries Charity, trying to remember the advice about handling such a putsch.

8. Oh, oh, here's something that the diary didn't explain at all. Or maybe Charity didn't read far enough.

9. "This is no way to settle the war debt!" she shouts at her husband. "Get out, you French pirate!" Charity grits. "I hope I can have more faith and less charity in the next diary," she says. "I could have learned more from Film Fun."

"Oh, he cheats?"

"No, he pinches."

Pity the poor divorce lawyer who runs around in circles, looking for triangles.

LUCKY DAY

"My boyfriend lost all his money the day after I met him."

"How terrible. Did it have effect on your relations?"

"I'll say! I bought Dad a new car and Mother got a fur coat from me."

1st Co-ed—Boo hoo, the professor just kicked me out of his class.

2nd Co-ed—There must be some mistake.

1st Co-ed—There is, but it wasn't the one he wanted me to make.

OH, PROMISE ME!

SHE—IF YOU DARE KISS ME, I'LL FORGET I'M A LADY.

Art—No, for peeps!

The producer insists upon we wearing nothing but a smile—and—I blush so easily.

Soldier—"Don't worry, sister, the audience won't notice your blushes."

She—I persuaded my boss to buy me an expensive bathing suit.

He—Didn't he try to talk you out of it?

She—No, but he will, when we go swimming.

THE ONLY WAY

ARTIST—HONEY, ISN'T THERE ANYTHING I CAN DO TO PERSUADE YOU TO POSE IN THE NUDE FOR ME?

MODEL—SURE, PAINT—JUST PAINT!

"BYE, PAL"

"So your pal ran away with your wife, eh?"

"Yeah!"

"Do you miss her?"

"No—I miss him—we were just like brothers."

Chorus Girl—"The producer insists upon we wearing nothing but a smile—and—I blush so easily."

RIGHT

SHE—FRESH, DON'T YOU KNOW THE TEN COMMANDMENTS?

HE—AW, BEHAVE YOURSELF!

SHE—CORRECT!

It's funny but a hot number always seems to be interested in cold...
This ain't hay, fellows; it's hey-hey! These charming numbers show just how simple it is to learn the hula at home. The pretty one on the right wears a showgirl's hula skirt, while her pal steps out in one of those nifty new swim suits of Hawaiian design.
Three of Hollywood's beauteous starlets received plenty of attention from the doughboys at Fort Hunter Liggett, when they visited this California post to take part in a huge defense entertainment program. The girls, Kay Aldridge, Peggy Diggins and Margaret Chapman are pictured in the arms of proud Proud Privates John Self, Russy Pery and George Buttgen.

Shapely songstress, Dinah Shore, relaxes in one of the new midriff bathing suits of the patriotic red, white and blue colors during the 12th Annual Bathing Suit Prevue on Atlantic City's Steel Pier. If you're thinking of getting one for the girl friend, ask for white latex with colored polka dots.

Here's a pretty good example of British morale. The girls are chorines at London's famous Windmill Theatre and although somewhat flimsily attired, they are well protected for a gas attack. The theatre has an ironclad ruling that the girls wear their own masks for fifteen minutes daily.
MORE FEUD FOR THOUGHT: Every time a star or a promising comer steps out and marries a personable young man in Hollywood, there's enough frustrated tsk, tsking by Flickertown dowagers (both male and female) to be heard round the world. "It will ruin her career," they cluck in chorus and solo. And why? After all, the whole darned industry is built on the premise that boy meets girl. And, according to Emily Post and the story books, the idea usually climaxes with benefit of clergy, or at least a Yuma Justice of the Peace. (If it doesn't, the Hays office refuses an okay.) But, even so, about the way any young Lochinvar could win the approval of the village pickle-pusses would be to ride a Derby winner when he takes a bride. Which reminds us, it's simply amazing what marriage has done for one village glamour girl. She used to consume a fifth of Scotch daily to "soothe" her nerves. There's a director in Hollywood who's so jealous of the gal he's going to marry shortly that he solicited the aid of the studio police force to keep other men from talking—or making passes at her.

FROm THE CUTTING ROOM

FROM CARROTS TO CAROCAS: A real band was used when Garbo took dancing lessons for rhumba routine in her next picture. But the boys who made the music were required to face the wall, so they couldn't see the lady's Number Eights twinkle. Dame Rumor has it that the Garbolt is so enthusiastic about the idea of dancing that she's fired Dr. Hauser with it, too; and he may desert the diet route to romance for a time, and take a dance-lesson detour.

REVISION: Brian Donlevy, a man of few words, cuts three from the old saw about work and dull boy Jack. He says—"All work and no play makes Jack." He adds—"Money talks, but it never gives itself away."

OUTM ODED: Since the beauties from the Earl Carroll Theatre Restaurant have been dining with the boys at army camps, Hollywood has revised Sherman's idea that "War is Hell!"

SHORT SHORT: "Stumpy" Simms was a 70-year-old negro groom, who'd served a great Western movie star faithfully for 27 years. When his master was killed in a motor accident, "Stumpy" didn't know what to do, or where to go. He felt pretty low as he hung around the ranch where his old master's property was being sold at auction. The wife of another famous Western star spied him at the sale, saw the heartbreak in his fading eyes, and phoned her husband. Now "Stumpy," who cared for Tom Mix's horse Tony, is happy in his new home Hacienda de Charro (the ranch of Buck Jones) looking after his new master's famous horse Silver.

QUERY as to what a new girl, just signed by a major studio, was like, brought this answer: "Well, with a new hair-do, she might get away with being called repulsive."

In discussing a recent marriage in Movietown, one glamour girl said to her pal, "Golly, they've been married a week, and everyone said it wouldn't last!"

With so many boys Caught in the Draft, Hollywood gals are shouting that "Manhunt" is a heap more than a movie title in their lives.

There's a director in Hollywood who's so jealous of the gal he's going to marry shortly that he solicited the aid of the studio police force to keep other men from talking—or making passes at her.

NO BUSMAN'S HOLIDAY: An actor finished his role, and hied himself away from Movietown in his car for rest and relaxation. When he reached the desert, and found a spot of utter solitude, leagues and leagues from the studio, he stopped, raised his voice and shouted defiantly—"NO, Mr. DeMille!"

CONTRAST: Warren William caught a 250-pound tuna off the coast of Catalina Island, then came home and lunched on a can of sardines.

When Comedian Bert Lahr was congratulated on becoming a father, he got a tremendous hand at Ciro's, still Hollywood's most popular niter. Star Joe Lewis said: "Lahr is a great entertainer, every inch a gentleman. He's a nice husband, too—day in and night out." (Continued on page 45)

PORTRAIT OF THE MONTH
ONE FOR THE SHOW

A NIGHT AT CAMP HOT SPOT

Past the crowded boardwalk and over-laden beaches at Brooklyn's Coney Island are a million and one side-shows and glitter palaces which make Surf Avenue the gaudiest, noisiest street in the world. Some of the big spots are permanent, like Steeplechase and Luna Park, but most are transient; tent shows that vanish with the seasons. One of these is Camp Hot Spot, and its star is Pat Paree.
The dressing-room at Camp Hot Spot isn’t very fancy, but it serves its purpose. And then a girl like Pat Paree can brighten the atmosphere of any theatrical boudoir. A few finishing touches to the costume (left) then—WOW!
Intramural sports are a sight to see at Alabama University. Here's Mildred Alford grabbing a neat single; catcher is Dotty Cottle.

Atlanta University welcomes pert Katherine Roberts, freshman majorette. Katherine is an acrobat, musician, and incidentally a knockout.
Star of the Varsity show at Brooklyn College was this shape¬

This proves California beauty is no myth: Meet myth Marilyn Lennon, undergraduate at the University of California.

"Flo bleached her hair, but the original color is back again."
"Yes, it seems to be a case of the light that failed."

"Ah," said the customs officer, finding a bottle of White Horse.
"I thought you said there were only old clothes in that trunk."
"Yeah, that's my nightcap."

"I mixed up a letter to home With a Vassar-bound passionate poem: I addressed Pop as "Honey" And asked her for money— From the dog-house no more will I roam."

OFF-BEATS FOR THE SWEET

Take it, Audrey, make me know it!
Up to the band-stand during an off session at Earl Carroll's, crept these hep chorines, with rhythm in their hearts and mischief in their eyes. The music they made was solid and groovy, but the boss said "nix on the licks!"—and the cats were fired!
Tease For Two

A human vampire who will drive her audience batty is strip teaser Naomi Dusk
Since that friend of yours has been in show business, she's gotten some pretty swell parts."

"Yes, I've been noticing them myself."

That rowdy offspring of the legitimate theatre, the burlesque show, has refined one of the most ancient and basic of all forms of entertainment, the houri dance of the Egyptians, the kootch dance of the circus, into what is now known as the strip tease. Here are two of its foremost exponents, Naomi Dusk and Paris Knight, who lend a fresh dignity, a further vitesse and éclat to the noisy robustness of "Take it off, sister!"

"Can you tell me one of the uses of cowhide?"

"Yes, it keeps the cow together."

Paris Knight ties up a shoe lace before unwrapping herself for an appreciative public.

We want you to use our preparations and method and system and prove to yourself that your hair is thinner, that your hair is coming out excessively, that your hair is lifeless and brittle and you may be balding in less than a year. Your hair may look worse because it is thicker than usual and may even come into its own, or may actually become thinner under the influence of VIDEX.
Our Amazing Offer

Don't suffer embarrassment and discomfort caused by loose dental plates. Apply CROWN RELINER. In a jiffy your plate fits like new and stays that way up to 4 months. No old fashioned heating to burn your mouth. Just squeeze CROWN from tube and put your teeth back in. They'll fit as snugly as ever. Inventor is a recognized authority in dental field. A patent has been applied for CROWN RELINER to protect you from imitators. After you reline your plate with CROWN, take your false teeth out for cleaning without affecting the CROWN RELINER. CROWN RELINER is guaranteed harmless. NOT A POWDER OR PASTE! If not satisfied, even after 4 months, return partly used tube for full refund.

J. Clements of Algonac writes: "My plates were so bad they rattled when I talked. Now I can eat steaks or corn on the cob.

Insomnia, they say, is caused by poor relations, that six-buck radio next door and anything left over in the ice box. The cures are long walks in the corridor, counting sheep, or a book you can't put down. Our femme lead tries the latter and, by golly, it works! She started reading "Ten Great Lovers" and got as far as Chap. 6, then decided to dream out the rest.

P. S. The cat? Why, he's the advance man for "Puss in Boots."
SOFTEST and HOTTEST job in Hollywood this past summer went to Charles Laughton. He spent five weeks in a feather bed for his role in the Deanna Durbin picture "Almost an Angel.

One of the Earl Carroll beauties who has just rented the home of a famous movie star (don't ask us how, maybe she knows a banker) makes pin money by renting out the star's bed to her girl friends at fifty cents a night.

Jean Ames, who sold lingerie before Warner Brothers gave her a movie contract, gets a part in "The Male Animal." She will play the role of "Hot Garters" in the piece.

Movie cartoon-makers are coming up with some apt parodies on popular picture titles. To wit: "Out of the Frog"; "The Bird Came C.O.D."; and "All This and Rabbit Stew."

TEST: "Going Hollywood" is a phrase that's been tossed about the village for yars and yars, but the true test as to whether one has—or has not—depends upon his pronunciation of Cahuenga (name of a street a few blocks off Vine), Chihuahua (a breed of animal that's classified by some as belonging to the dog family)—and how one says YES!

TWO IN ONE: Doug Fairbanks, Jr., comes up with a fine answer to a much cursed and discussed question in Movietown: In his next picture, "The Corsican," he plays two brothers, and has two villains on his trail at the same time—in other words, two double features all wrapped up in one package.

Hitler's move on Russia elicited this cryptic comment from a Hollywood observer on World affairs—"It's the first time that Adolf's done any shooting without a script."

Envy of every star in Hollywood is Charlie McCarthy, the lucky devil! He has a stooge to sign all his autographs.

Mary Martin, who's taking time out for a date with Dr. Stork, is keeping in touch with movie fans by mailing them free kisses with the aid of a lipstick—and, oh yes, her Uncle Sam's postmen.

I COULD fill this whole magazine with enthusiastic reports from OTHERS. But what you want to know is—"What can Atlas do for ME?"

WHY WEAR DIAMONDS

Many, many moons ago, according to legend and the better press agents, the Indians sold Manhattan Island for twenty-four bucks worth of trinkets. Well, the old Island has changed quite a bit since then, but recently an Indian maid came back to pitch her teepee and toss a torso on the ancestral stamping grounds. Maria Lu Cellia, born in Durango, Colo., the daughter of an Indian mother and a Spanish father, is the shapely redskin, and she's thrilling the fashionables at the Hotel Pierre with a primitive dance that raises eyebrows, if it doesn't raise scalps. It's primitive all right—in that it goes way back to the days before jitterbugs got around to chanting. "Beat it out, sister!"

Even aluminum crusades for National Defense are glamorous affairs in Hollywood, what with Anne Shirley and Lucille Ball leading the parade.

Comic team Bud Abbott and Lou Costello, who'd never met a horse Cowboy," had to eat off the pantry outside a zoo or a parade before saddle. shelf at Universal's commissary in Hollywood by none other than Jack their first day's work in the parade.

Diogenes has been eclipsed in Hollywood by none other than Jack Oakie who came back from a fishing trip—without a fish!

FILM FUN baseball fan readers will be interested to know that the life of the late Lou Gehrig is coming to the screen via the Goldwyn route. And we might add, there'll be a lotta means if Gary Cooper doesn't play the role.

The devil seemed to be getting the upper hand in Hollywood titles, and something had to be done about it—so RKO's "The Devil and Daniel Webster" became "Here is a Man." Too bad! With a YMCA-highball title like that, a good many folks are going to be misled, and pass up a swell picture.

Star Gene Tierney's marriage to Count Cassini is still causing more tremors in Hollywood than old Mother Nature stirs up at her best!

Bette Davis wears a gown in "The Little Foxes" made from a single uncut piece of rare Battenberg lace, valued at $6,000. Tidy sum!

Two hundred pounds of man becomes a few ounces of mouse when Edward Brophy, movie comedian noted for his humorous gangster roles, does the speaking part of Timothy Mouse in Disney's forthcoming "Dumbo."

Hollywood calls John Wayne its most inverete tourist. Really under contract to Republic Studios, he works at every other plant BUT Republic.

HOLLYWOOD HEADLINE: "Jeffrey Lynn Gets Widow." But don't be alarmed, girls, it just means that Jeff will star in a picture titled "The Black Widow."
"Some drunk," remarked the hotel clerk as the elderly man staggered across the lobby. "He's sure got a load on."

The man did appear drunk. He reeled uncertainly, grabbing a chair to steady himself. The clerk walked over to help him.

"Shick," the man muttered thickly, "Ter'ble shick... wanna —wanna doctor... ." The clerk sniffed. He smelled no alcohol. He saw the ghastly pallor on the man's face—the flecks of foam at his lips. And suddenly the clerk shouted: "Call a doctor! This man is dying on his feet!"

Thus California police were plunged into one of their most amazing cases—a mystery of deadly drugs, strange deaths, signed-over wills and testaments! It took smashing detective work to get the goods on the criminal genius behind the plot! Don't miss this fascinating real-life detective thriller—but one of many in the big—

I jumped from $18 a week to $50—a free book started me toward this good pay job in radio.

Here's how it happened.

By S. E. NAME AND ADDRESS
SENT UPON REQUEST

I had an $18 a week job in a shoe factory, but desired to make more money and continue my education. I read about Radio opportunities and enrolled with the National Radio Institute.

The instruction I received was so practical I was able to earn $5 to $10 a week in spare time fixing radios. This paid for the N.R.I. Course and led to a service station job at $30 a week. That was twice my shoe factory wages.

The Gdk Pay Job in Radio

There's a promising low-pay shoe factory paying me more than twice my shoe factory wage.

Low-pay shoe factory pay enabled me to attend school and work. Later the N.R.I. took me on as Station VVXK Engineer.

Extra Pay in Army, Navy, Too

SIMPLE AS A-B-C

Yet it's from "Kiss the Boys Goodbye"

You, too, can learn to play your favorite instrument—quickly, easily—right in your own home!

YOU SAY you'd love to learn music but can't afford it? That you haven't the money it takes for a private teacher, and all the necessary extras? Then listen to this . . . You can now learn to play your favorite instrument—just as thousands of others have—for AS LITTLE AS SEVEN CENTS A DAY! And that small sum covers everything—including sheet music! It doesn't take long, either. You can learn to play quicker than you ever dreamed possible!

Learn to play by playing Real Tunes

Yes, that's exactly what you do. From the very beginning you actually play familiar little melodies. As you master one tune, you go on to another, and another. You’re more than delighted with the rapid progress you make.

How is it possible, you ask. Well, you learn by a new modern method that does away with humdrum scales and exercises. You spend your practice time playing interesting pieces from real notes. It's really FUN learning to play this modern way—it makes practicing a pastime and a pleasure instead of a bore.

What's more, this method is not a trick one—not an experiment. You learn to play from notes. More than 700,000 pupils from all over the world have enrolled for this amazing course.

A Sound, Practical Method

The secret of this method that has taught thousands to play in their spare time, right at home, is simple. It's based on the fact that the lessons not only tell you what to do in the printed instructions. They actually show you—with large, clear pictures—exactly what positions to take—every move to make. You read how to play a certain tune—you see how to play it—then you play it and hear how it goes. A teacher at your side couldn't make it more clear. You just can't go wrong!

Unc Sam's beyond recall,
But movie gals can beat your best—
They're at your beck and fall!
MOVIE MEMORIES
"THE BLONDES GENTLEMEN USED TO PREFER"

Here's that all American girl Gloria Stuart at the time she was being chased around in "The Old Dark House" by Boris Karloff

One of the leading hotsy totsy mammas of the early thirties was exciting June Knight, now in a graceful retirement.

The birth of sound brought beautiful Marlene Dietrich to Hollywood because of her "delightful voice," as well as for her pints.

This is Anna Sten, the glamorous girl nobody knows today. She took a nose dive into bit parts after a million-dollar build-up laid proficient egg.

Twelve years ago Virginia Bruce was still a chorus girl of the fairer flowers to be plucked in "The Lillies of the Field"

"Aren't you afraid of going home drunk as an owl?"

"No, my wife doesn't give a hoot."
She was flitting across the ice... as he sailed rapidly backwards...

HOW THE ICE WAS BROKEN

—and so they met with quite an impact.

"Well, haven't we met before?"
Dorothy Lewis and Robin Lee, two of America’s most noted skating figures, act out a short skit for Film Fun lensman Bob Boerman. Dottie is currently featured in Republic’s “Ice Capades” which is about—you guessed it—skating. Before her picture career, she passed three seasons in New York’s famed Iridium Room.

“Oh, I remember you, your name is—uh—Herbie.”

—And that’s how the ice was broken.
Lucia Carroll and Ann Edmond pull a Halloween stunt on the neighbors.
"The nicest fur coats don't come from foxes, pal, they come from wolves!"

"Yes indeed. I know a doctor that would be perfect if he had one."

"So you believe practice makes perfect?"

"Swiping a gate furnishes these starlets with another good gag."

Ingenue Gloria Dickson smashes the old tradition about witches.

"These two pumpkins would make any old spook happy."

Here are two pretty belles about to push an ugly ball."
NEW SPEEDRAY CAMERA
MAKES ACTION DO TRICKS

On these pages is a set of tricky photos you'd never get with that Brownie of yours. Some genius, name unknown to us, has developed a fancy split-second action camera called the "Speedray," able to snap movement in any form; clear, crystalline, and unblurred—from the graceful topsy-turvy shots of dancers and skaters to little Willie throwing a pie at mean old Aunt Susie.
A "Pal Joey" specialty act is caught high in the air.

Stripper Pat Joyce lifts up her gams for the Speedray.

"To what do you attribute your great age?"

"To the fact that I was born so long ago."

"Hold everything!"

"What do you think I am, an octopus?"

Adele Inge, head over heels in the show, "Ice Terrace."
"When a co-ed starts tackling her collection of plat, she's just living off the fruit of the land."

Here's a Warner's peach ducking for apples at a Halloween party.

An ardent Polynesian gives Lamour a little l'amour and the double-O.

Take a gander at a lucky man and a neat set of gams with him in "Gambling Daughters."
Red hot and spicy is Betty Bryson, the Pepper Queen and new movie starlet, as she reads about herself in the dailies.

"Hey, Percy, do you know the difference between a good girl and a naughty one?"

"I give up."

"So does the naughty one."

Republic's skating ingenue Vera Hruby passes a slippery one to that old master, ace footballer Sammy Baugh.
QUIZZICAL CULTURE

Good morning, children. The educational part of the Film Fun program is here again. So sharpen your pencils and your wits, hold the magazine in both hands and toss it firmly into the waste basket. This month's set is easier than last month's, and last month's didn't make sense either. Answers are on Page 47. Here we go.

WHO AM I?
I was born in Pittsburgh which soots me if it soots you. I didn't get shot for pulling puns like that while attending Culver Military Academy, but I might have been shot if a bullet had hit me while with the A.E.F. in the First World War. I came back from Europe and tried to crash the movies in New York with very little luck. Then I went to Hollywood and bounced around until Charles Chaplin gave me a top role in "A Woman of Paris." Well, sir, that started me off and I've been doing all right ever since. They say I'm nuts about well tailored clothes. I like pool and bowling, too. And as for my wife, I love her Verree much. That ought to give me away. Who Am I?

No help for Hubby

THE DOLEFUL STORY OF HERBIE, WHO FOUND THAT HOME IS A VERY DANGEROUS PLACE

Well there I am, sittin' in the kitchen, doin' my housework like I always do, washin' the dishes and the pots and pans after I have whipped up a little eggs benedictine to go with the snails and frappe moule that the missus and I always have for breakfast before she goes off to her job on one of them there movie magazines. The little lady is on her way and I give a wipe on her pan and another wipe on the dish pan at the same time, showin' I'm a man of efficiency. So the better half is out fightin' the subway rush in her effort to bring home the bacon and the doorbell rings. I go answer it and it turns out to be, of all things, a travelin' salesman—
No help for hubby.

Herbie, I tell myself, lend an ear to this amazon’s spiel and maybe she’ll lend you a lot of big time information. It’s certainly beginnin’ to look that way, and she shows me a fancy new bendin’ exercise, which suits me fine.

Surprised ya, eh? Well, this travelin’ salesman is muscin’ in on what used to be strictly a man’s racket, the development of the Herculean body beautiful.
First this female Charles Atlas demonstrates her muscle (not the only one she’s got, I naturally assume) and I start tellin’ myself there’s a muscle I’m goin’ to develop so I can be a fancy athlete. Then she does the bicycle pump exercise for me and I decide that maybe I oughta take up ridin’ a bike, or at least try doin’ some sort of ersatz exercise along with this free wheeler.

Oh, oh, it’s Madame Dynamite returnin’ to report there’s a strike on and the office is closed so she’s come home to find some dirty work cookin’ behind her back. Nellie gives the lady Hercules the old one-two. And that’s all there is to it. I’m behind in my housework; I got the little woman sore at me, I’ll never see the muscle dame again, and my eye needs a steak. What a mess!

SHET MA MOUTH!

Franklin Mouth galloped down the platform of Grand Central's lower level. The five-fifteen for Chicago picked up speed, but so did Frank. Just as he was about to leap, he realized that somebody was running behind him.

"Oh, wait—wait, please—" the somebody else squealed.

Frank peeped around as he ran and saw a very pretty girl with her skirt pulled up so she could run. He slackened his pace and grabbed her around the waist and swooped her to the train's steps. Then he swung aboard, too.

"Thank you," she gasped.

"Don't mention it," puffed Frank, aware that the things his heart were doing weren't entirely due to his sprint. "Always glad to pick up a beautiful young lady."

"So your wife says," she panted, thrusting a folded paper at his pocket. Automatically he reached for the paper as the girl dodged into the train. Then his eyes saw the big black letters printed on the first page: SUMMONS.

"I suppose you heard about the tough luck that happened to Herman the Human Fly."

"Did he fail in his screen test?"

"Worse than that. His wife swatted him."

She—Do you know, darling, I'm kissing against my doctor's orders.

He—Heavens, are you sick?

She—No, but you'll be—the doctor's my hubby.

Sometime we'll tell you about the Hollywood star who had to stop work on her biography because of "I" strain.

"With all that lipstick on his face, Jerry looks like a great lover."

"Yes, he's a marked success."

"Have you ever found excessive drinking dangerous?"

"Yes, once when I couldn't pay the check."

No matter if a fellow can make a kiss last an hour or more, there's always some guy who can beat his time.

He—Your kisses put me in heaven.

She—Well, yours don't. Come down to earth!

"Heavens! Joe looks as though he slept in the gutter."

"You're right. He's the laziest street cleaner in town."

He—Ten thousand women saw my etchings yesterday, Toots.

She—My gosh, do you live in a museum?

He—Nope. I'm the Tattooed Man in the circus.

About the only way some men can hold their liquor is after it's in a pretty girl.

Rounder—You know, honey, I have the cutest little apartment.

Sweetie—Well, let's not go into that.

"Is your father the kind of man who lets little things annoy him?"

"No, not pop, he uses kerosene."

The blonde rushed into the dentist's office and screamed, "Oh, Doctor, look at my ear."

"But, my dear," soothed the dentist, "I'm a dentist, not a doctor."

"I know it," quipped the blonde. "Just look at my ear. There's a tooth in it."

"You had better put on your glasses, sir, the plaster cast is over there!"
Golf may be a Scotch game, but lots of people play it with rye and gin.

She—I'll bet you didn't know what real happiness was until you got married.

He—Yes, and then it was too late.

Sally—A man followed me all the way home last night.

Betty—Weren't you frightened?

Sally—Yes, I was scared he might turn down a side street.

"I'm going to see the double-header this afternoon at Coney Island."

There's no baseball field at Coney Island."

"Who said there was? I'm going to a freak show."

"Say, how did you make out in that pie-eating contest?"

"Oh, Bert came in first and I came in sickened."

He—That prize fight last night certainly had me all excited.

She—Did they have a big gate?

He—You bet! I couldn't get over it.

A girl may not be able to thread a needle, but she can tie a bow.

"My wife went to Europe to take up opera."

"I hear she went over big."

"Yes, but she's coming back slim."

"They say that in China you can buy a wife for five dollars."

"Why, that's frightful!"

"Oh, I don't know, a good wife may be worth it."

"Hello, girlie, I'm a coin collector."

"Well, well, let's get together tonight and talk over old times."

Marital conversation is generally an open and "Shut Up!" proposition.

She knows her etchings,

She knows her onions,

If a man is wealthy

She ignores his bunions.

Suburbanite (at railway station)—Pick up a stone and see for yourself if I don't live a stone's throw from the station.

Guest—I believe you.

Suburbanite—Well, throw a stone anyway. I'm building a rock garden.

Speaking of marriage: Where ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wives.

"Well, well, I see my best pal gave you a bad beating."

"Say, you never saw the fellow who gave me this beating."

"No, but he's my best pal now!"

Hubby—Ha, ha, I'll bet I drive you nearly wild talking in my sleep.

Wifey—Darling, it isn't the talking, it's your mumbling.

"They say Harry drinks to forget."

"Yes, and he always forgets to stop drinking."

"I know they float, but you're crazy eating all that Ivory soap!"
Steffi Duna looks like a tropical menace, but she's actually from Budapest.

Hemisphere solidarity and a little more is shown by Latin Conchita Montenegro.

"Do you and your husband enjoy the same things?"

"We will, when we can afford them."

It's no brush-off for French he-man Jean Gabin as Viviane Romance vamps.
And the best material for a dress is hubby's story when he sneaks in at 4 A.M."

"It's funny, but the last place a cute dish likes to be is in the kitchen."

"Every master's aim, bub, is to crush some sweet dream gal."

A new twist to an old angle is given by Isa Miranda of Italy.

"Do you mean to tell me you felt like welcoming your mother-in-law with open arms?"

"Yes, when I heard she was going to visit us I had an impulse to slash my wrists."

foreign film favorites
Who will be the next Hedy Lamarr? Or the next Judy Garland? Or the next Betty Boop?

Nobody knows. Yet you—YOU—may be the lucky person who “discovers” the next big star. For all you know, you may have a Joan Crawford within your grasp right now. And for all we know, you may be making time with the next Minnie Mouse!

In other words, all you need do to become a talent scout is to grit your teeth and look around your own home. Your cook may be another Zazu Pitts. Your hired man may be funnier than Abbott and Costello (our hired man is much funnier). And your aunt Eunice, with a little make-up and a Colossal Reducing Harness, can surely play one of the horses in the next version of Ben Hur.

But if you don’t find what you want under your own roof, don’t hesitate to look elsewhere. Look into your neighbor’s rain-barrel. Peek into your estranged wife’s cookie jar; (if you don’t find a potential star there, take a cookie, anyway). And don’t overlook your mistress’s moth-proof hamper; for remember—moths and movie stars often have much in common.

Leave No Stone Unturned!

You know the old saying: “A worm in the hand,” etc. Hence you should be on the watch for talent everywhere you go. From morning til night, you should keep your eyes peeled. The ferry boats are full of Fred Astaires—no doubt. Every business office has at least a dozen Lana Turners, a score of Rita Hayworths and enough Myrna Loy and William Powells to build another Thin Man. Moreover, by dropping a nickel in the right slot in the Automat, you can get a complete set of the Marx Brothers—on whole wheat toast.

So you see being a talent scout is quite simple. All you have to do is separate the sheep from the goats, the cream from the milk, and the Marx Brothers from the whole wheat toast. Others have tried to do this—why not you?

Talent Is the Name for Stuff!

There is no age limit to talent. Your great-grandmother is just as good a prospect for stardom as your great-granddaughter. Your goldfish, your pet turtle, or even the unhatched eggs which your hen has been setting on, the past two weeks may all turn out to be famous film stars. In the case of the eggs, however, you—or the hen—had better finish the hatching process before the eggs are shipped to Hollywood, where an egg is at the mercy of hundreds of hungry actors.

So if you happen to discover a star in your own home or hencoop, guard the secret with your life! Tell no one—especially us. Just remember that talent will out, and that you can’t keep a good egg down.

A Star Is Born—Every Minute!

One very good place to find movie talent is in the movies themselves. This is where most professional scouts look for talent. Of course, the professional scouts don’t actually go to the movies; they stay at home and read the reviews. Then, when a critic suddenly hails some stand-in as a coming star, the professional scouts all rush around to the various producers and say, “Look, Sam! I gotta real find for you! Olga Foltch! She’s another Simone Simon!” And the producers say, “Olga Foltch? So who is Olga Foltch ar-ready?” And the scouts say, “Olga Foltch! She’ll be a box-office wow! Another Shirley Temple!” And the producers say, “But Olga Foltch—what was she in yet?” And the scouts, who aren’t any too sure, say “Well—she was a stand-in for Elsa Snartt in ‘Caught in the Draught’. But mark my woids, Sam, she’ll be a box-office wow some day, another Bette Davis!” So the producers say, “Haw-Kay. Sign her up and change her name to Veronica Ipswich!”

Thus, a star is born.

Just drop us a post card and we will ship you, prepaid, another Ann Corio; and if she doesn’t bite you the first week, you’ll know she isn’t likely to become another Garbo. But don’t delay! Off 5th Avenue on swanky 58th Street is The Queen Mary, meetin' and eatin' spot of New York's upper crust. Come on down and take in the midnight show with us.
Glad to see ya, glad to see ya! We're just in time for the late show. Just leave your hat with the little lady on your right, and step down to FILM FUN'S ringside table (drinks all around, waiter.) Recognize the mistress of ceremonies? She's Jerry Blanchard, "Queen of the Nite-clubs," and a top-flight favorite all through the Broadway circuit. . . . Nifty chorus, eh? Frank Shephard does a fine job on the dance routines. We like that blonde up front. Don't you? She's Phyliss Wayne . . . Phyliss says The Queen Mary is one of the happiest clubs she's worked in; nice atmosphere, good bosses, classy customers . . . But Phyliss could get along anywhere. Terry Carroll is the girl behind the flashy tap specialty and Chiquita Venezia is that tawny strip-tease lovely . . . She used to be in Texas Guinan's troupe. Soft lights now for Kimi Toy. You ask what she's doing in a place called The Queen Mary? Well, it used to be Swedish, but now it's got Chinese-American cooking. And Kimi sure knows what's cookin' . . . Between shows, Babe Salter fills in with fine boogie-blues on the piano . . . Look around yourself: don't waste time reading all this stuff.

Terry Carroll's dressing room is no ritzy suite, but everything's in order . . . Even the smile, eh?

A quick flip of the zipper, and Terry climbs into her self-designed costume for the finale.

MIDNIGHT SHOW AT THE QUEEN MARY
LEILA GAYNES does a happy-go-lucky routine that really makes the customers happy. She sings, dances, and dishes a whacky double-talk to top off the act.

Kimi Toy has hips that do dippy things when the music gets hot. Here’s Chiquita Venezia at the start of her famous fan dance. Phyliss Wayne has something that makes the folks look twice.
Phyliss Wayne is all reel with a fast movement from Stephens College to a New York niterie singing spot.

With a razz-ma-tazz and a hold-that-tiger we go to UCLA to discover what constitutes a higher education there.

You've heard of all-around athletes and now here's an all-around queen: Jane Ostrander regent of the 1941 Junior Prom at Purdue and queen of the Big Ten Track Championships.
Susie gets out in the middle of the most likely military objective—an open field—to watch for the enemy.

She sees something in the sky. Must be one of those Nazi bombers so she aims at it with her bow and arrow.
Tough job pulling that bow. Maybe this way is better. Takes a lot of skill to shoot down an airplane.

There's been a lot of talk about how the Germans are going to bomb Horsefeather Junction, so Susie elects herself the local anti-aircraft defense.

Oh, hell! Some language from a lady. Nothing but a duck and a dead one at that. Sister, you might as well quit.

"Is this your package? The name is obliterated."

"That can't be right, my name is O'Rourke."

She hit it! And it's falling! That Nazi bomber is going to crash right on her head if she doesn't watch out.
The neat trick in buckskin is chorine Linda Griffith, of the current Broadway hit musical, Panama Hattie.

Why are you so blue?

I'm a grass widow from Kentucky.

I couldn't win that race in a walk under different conditions.

Yes it it had been a walking race.

When Akron police found the body of lovely Harriet Deger still in death, her lifeblood freezing on the sidewalk, they knew they were on the trail of a killer driven mad by hate.

Huts—over what? Detectives probed into the victim’s private life to find out . . . And what they discovered staggered them.

For this girl, though married, had scammed her wedding vows and lived by a code of morals all her own. Headless of convention, eager for pleasure is a glibly and endless whist, she had spent days and nights in a "love nest" household set up for her by her secret lover. Never had the stopped to realize that she was travelling the road that leads inexorably to tragedy.

She had shaned without apologies—and for her the wages of sin was death.

Who had taken vengeance? Which of the men in her life, crazed by her faithlessness, had sped the fatal bullets?

For the solution to this real-life detective mystery are the final police work that sent the killer to the chair, look for "Ohio’s Love Nest Lady" in tonight’s thrilling November issue of INSIDE DETECTIVE! It’s only one of the fascinating true cases in America’s most interesting fact-detective magazine!

Tramp—Buddy, could you give me ten cents for a bed?
Gent—Sure, where's the bed.

Old Maid—That kiss was so wonderful I must have been dreaming it. Pinch me quick!

Gigolo—Just as you say, madam. But the pinch will cost you five dollars extra.

THE RIGHT PLACE

Husband (at party)—Darling! I've been looking all over for you. Wife—Skunk! Did you think I was hiding behind that blonde's knee?

Give the little city gal a great big farm-hand, boys!

CHORIZINE—Well, we're all going to get tight on champagne tonight. Old Playboy—Gosh, what are you girls coming to?

CHORIZINE—A big party you didn't know you were giving.

Women are poor losers— they have to fight to lose a pound.

She poses prettily in her garden.
Traveling has always been one of her joys. She has a fancy car, knows how to drive.
Up in a tree, but not for long, is that new apostle of red hot zazz, the pingy Miss Russell. Eleanor Bailey, Charlotte Hunter, and Jolanne Reynolds, Hal Roach starlets, take it easy.

The gal who's slightly unraveled is seldom snubbed and often dined.

Umphous Carolyn Crumley, an Earl Carroll girl, strikes one of those oh-so sultry poses.
Amazing New Sickness And Accident Policy Costs Only 3¢ a Day

BIG PROTECTION VALUE OFFERED BY ONE OF BEST KNOWN COMPANIES IN AMERICA

What would it mean to you to get up to $100.00 a month if you are sick or are hurt in an accident—or to receive up to $150.00 a month when confined to a hospital, expenses piling up at such a time mean trouble, embarrassment and worry. Why take the chance when only 3¢ a day will prevent it? You may feel perfectly well today, but tomorrow—the next day—or next week—who knows? Every minute—somehow—somewhere is a victim of unexpected sickness or accident. Automobile accidents or falls while at work or around the house, and other everyday accidents exact a deadly loss of life, limb and income.

BE PREPARED FOR THESE EMERGENCIES!

Don't let your loved ones suffer at such a time. Protect yourself and them from money worries and embarrassment if you are laid up. What peace of mind you will have when you know that you'll receive up to $150.00 a month WHEN YOU NEED IT MOST.

PAY BENEFITS FROM VERY FIRST DAY OF DISABILITY

This policy covers and pays graded benefits for all sicknesses common to both men and women, whether house confined or not, and all accidents; both big and small, that happen every day in every way. Benefits payable from FIRST DAY OF DISABILITY, as provided. It does not skip the first 7 or 14 days as many policies do. It also pays generous benefits for loss of limbs or sight—PROTECTION FOR YOUR LOVED ONES in case of accidental death—and many other liberal benefits as you will see when you examine your policy.

INSURE WITH CONFIDENCE

The Amazing NEW Abdominal Supporter

Yes, instantly you, too, can begin to feel ALIVE... ON TOP OF THE WORLD by joining the Parade of Men who are marching up the highway of happier living with the COMMANDER, the amazing new Men's abdominal supporter.

GET "IN SHAPE" INSTANTLY AND ENJOY A HAPPY STREAMLINED APPEARANCE

The COMMANDER presents the exclusively designed "INTERLOCKING HANDS" principle for extra double support where you need it most. It flattens the burdensome sagging "corporation" and restores to the body the zestful invigorating feeling that comes with firm, sure "bay window" control. Order this new belt today and begin enjoying the pleasure of feeling "in shape" at once.

BREATHE EASIER—TAKE WEIGHT OFF TIRED FEET

The helpful uplifting EXTRA SUPPORTING power of the COMMANDER firmly supports abdominal sag. The instant you pull on the belt you breathe easier... your wind is longer... you feel better!

YOUR BACK IS BRACED—YOUR CLOTHES FIT BETTER—YOU APPEAR TALLER

The COMMANDER braces your figure, your posture becomes erect... you look and feel slimmer... your clothes fit you better. Your friends will notice the improvement immediately.

COMMANDER IS NEW AND MODERN!

The absence of gouging steel ribs, dangling buckles and bothersome laces will prove a joy. COMMANDER has a real man's jock type pouch, completely detachable. IT GIVES GENUINE MALE PROTECTION. Try this amazing new belt with full confidence and at our risk SEND FOR IT NOW!

* THE SECRET OF THE "INTERLOCKING HANDS"

Only COMMANDER contains this NEW principle. A special non-stretch material is built into the two-way stretch body of the COMMANDER. STRETCHES 10 to 14 INCHES HIGH... in the outline of two interlocking hands for EXTRA DOUBLE SUPPORT where you need it most.

Commander Wearers all over America Say—

"I am sure you will be pleased to know that it is by far the best and most practical supporter I have ever had. I have been pleased to show it to several of my friends and they are likewise impressed with it. You shall probably hear from some of them in the future."

Dr. A. M. S.
Standish, Mich.

"I ordered from order for another belt. I would not be without this supporter for ten times what it costs."

D. C. B.
St. Charles, Ill.

"Received the Commander about a week ago. To say that I am well pleased with it would be putting it mildly-I can see that it fills a long felt want, giving the needed support and a most comfortable feeling. I never miss putting it on the first thing in the morning. Enclosed is my check for another."

J. C. J.
St. Paul, Minn.

"I recommend the Commander for what it is made for. It has been a great help to me. I want to thank you for what it has done, I might add it has helped me more than anything I have ever tried."

Few femmes fatale, vintage 1920, can boast of Loretta Young's long popularity, or of her size 9 figure. But then Loretta was practically wheeled on the set the first time, she was so young. Retiring at the ripe old age of six, she was able to stage a successful comeback seven years later. Since then she has run the traditional Hollywood gamut of roles, from Super Siren to Frothy Sophisticate, and has been known as everything from a frolicking beach cutie to a dignified matron who refuses to pose for leg art.

Have you lost the stopper of your favorite bottle? If so, that's when Quizzical Culture comes in handly. Just tear out this page and stuff it into the bottle, because this month's questions are corkers. If you think that's a bad gag, just wait until you see the rest of them. If you are interested in the answers, turn to page 49.

I. Pick the Right Answer

One of the answers to the statement below is correct; at least, we hope so. Your job is to pick the right one. After you have selected your answer, toss it gently, but firmly, out the window.

Clark Gable and Tyrone Power have something in common. Maybe it's because

(a) Neither of them can ride a bicycle.
(b) Both were born in Ohio.
(c) They both got kicked out of West Point.
(d) Both were born in Baltimore.
(e) They go to the same barber.

II. Who Am I?

From these clues, guess who I am:

I am an actress. I was born in Europe. I am five feet seven inches tall. I've never gone snipe hunting in Bolivia. I have been married twice. I came to Hollywood in 1937. My date of birth was Nov. 9, 1915. My eyes are blue-gray. My hair is black. I don't think parachute jumping is proper diversion at a wedding reception. My first picture over here was with Charles Boyer. I never was engaged to John Barrymore.

Have you guessed yet?

III. Title Game

Again we come to the intellectual part of our program. If you haven't played this fascinating game before, you're lucky. The idea is to identify the titles of past and present pictures through the statements of phrases below. For example, if we said, "A barber from India," it would be another way of mentioning "Bombay Clipper." So test your skill. See if we care.

1. Anger's offspring.
2. Kate.
3. My bride has wings.
4. Soldiers don't like it.
5. Do I smell something on the stove?
6. Hobo, hobo, hobo.
7. Ducks make noises.

IV. Memory Test

How's your memory? Four of the players listed below appeared in "Song of the Islands." Can you pick them?

B. Here's another memory test: The actress who won the Academy Award this year was one of these: Joan Davis, Claudette Colbert, Joan Fontaine, Patsy Kelly, Minnie Mouse, Joan Crawford, Martha Raye, Bette Davis.

V. Pertinent Questions

1. Which company has for its trade mark

(a) A torch-carrying lady?
(b) A snow-capped volcano?
(c) A triangle with a streak of lightning?
(d) A lion?

2. Can you tell us another reason why they died with their boots on, from the picture of the same name?

3. Who is Louis Francis Cristillo?
4. Who is Algernon K. Blutz?
5. Which company is celebrating its 30th anniversary?
6. Have you bought any defense bonds?
7. Leslie Stainer was born in London in 1893. Who is he?

VI. Scrambled Eggs

Are you ready to scramble around and unscramble these names?

Well, unscramble this egg and get an actress who surely is a Hardy soul:

ALICE I CK KR A R E

Now unscramble this egg and get another actress:

B G A R E L T Y E B T

And here is a he-man guy to unscramble:

H R P A L N O D T O C S T

I KNEW nothing whatever of sex when I was three years old. When someone told me about the birds and the bees, I didn't want to marry a bird or a bee either, so that didn't do me any good.

So I started off to high school in ignorance and red ear-muffs. The red ear-muffs were a present from my Aunt Lacey who made them herself holding the knitting needles between her toes. She was very versatile. She was so versatile that they have now put her to work peeling in the rip in the seat of my trousers. "You just put your lips to mine and press," Betty said.

"Sounds silly," I said. "Besides I want to be a soldier when I grow up." "Kiss me and grow up quickly," she said. I didn't get it.

"I'll race you to hot dog stand, last one there stinks!" I offered.

"Kissing is the most wonderful thing almost in the world," Betty said. "Me," I said. "I like sticking pins in my baby sister."

"That's cruel," Betty said. "I know," I said, "but she's too young to realize it."

"Didn't anyone ever tell you about sex?" Betty asked. I could see she had indigestion or something as she was panting and her face was red. "Sure," I said.

"What did they tell you?"

"Oh, I know all about it. My Sunday School teacher told me."

"I don't believe it," Betty said. "Sure. A bee flies around in the garden all summer and gets his feet covered with honey or something, then he goes to sleep in a tulip and a stork eats the tulips and the cat has kittens. Simple stuff."

"Somebody's been kidding you," Betty said.

"You'll have to show me!" I said. Just then who should spring out of a clump of stumps but Miss Crunch our biology teacher!

"The top of the afternoon to ye," she said, "run along home Betty. I take over from here."

"You're very mean," Betty said, and she left.

That afternoon Miss Crunch showed me all there was to know about sex. Frankly I still don't see anything in it and I still wear my red ear-muffs.

What's all the excitement about anyhow? Miss Crunch is forty-five years old and if she can't make the subject interesting, who can?

Varsity Snaps

Pretty Betty Joan Bailey, 16, is elected Miss Florida down Miami way.

At Pasadena Jr. College they've got a sure way to hit the bull's eye.
YERHOODI Kai Maga, exalted half cousin of Scorpio, answers the following people who have been kind enough to mail in their tea leaves for analysis.

Dear Miss Twamit of Scarsdale:

There is every indication that you will live to celebrate your 147th birthday. Love will come to you on a Tuesday night between 7 and 10:15 Eastern Standard Time. You will receive many hockable benefits from amorous old gentlemen. Beware of obstacles the night of July 17th—His name will be Herbert and the place will be Roy’s Bar and Grill. You will come under influences affecting your equilibrium. Reject all love interests advanced. Certain planetary influences will make the last two weeks in February your best opportunity for making love, marriage, employment or sweeping beneath the carpets.

Dear Mr. Caffenduck of Jersey City:

Your tea leaf reveals you have an even temper and like your comforts. Instead of asking your boss for a raise July 10th, it would be better if you remained home in bed. Avoid sitting on thumb tacks and sticking your finger in mouse traps. Love interests may be advanced on Saturdays between 7 P.M. and midnight. Avoid women who drink, smoke, and pet with other men while they’re out with you.

Dear Mrs. O’Flare of Iowa:

Your tea leaf shows trouble directly ahead. While your husband may pretend to be pious and beyond temptation, he is in reality a woman chaser. He will make a business trip to Atlantic City soon accompanied by a tall gorgeous blonde. While he is away you will devote much of your time to collecting rare firearms. You will be a widow shortly.

Dear Mr. Sleek of Manhattan:

I see a life paved with blondes, brunettes and redheads. You seem bored with romance but women keep forcing themselves on you. Refrain from using the phrase “What have you got to lose?” on the nights of June 5th and 10th. A wealthy widow will offer to send you through Yale. An ex-follies girl will establish you in a pent-house apartment but there will be an argument on who shall do the cooking and take the pekingese for a walk. You walk out on her in a huff. Pleasant surprizes and unexpected financial benefits will be received during the year.

The following month will be good for putting money in the bank and advancing love interests to blonde waitresses. Young men who look like Clark Gable and Robert Taylor will be especially sought after. Women looking like Rita Hayworth and Lana Turner will have little difficulty in getting their traffic violation tickets torn up. Love interests will be advanced to redheads during the last three weeks. A good month for pretzel benders and clock winders. Wear your rubbers on rainy days and stop putting your finger in pay-phone slots for loose nickels.

Notice: In mailing your old tea leaves to Yerhoodi Kai Maga, make sure they are removed from the tea cups.

"He looked at me as if he knew me, and I looked at him as if I knew him—then I realized it was my husband."
A CO-ED'S Nightmare

Bobbie Barton was a hardworking, earnest co-ed, who concentrated on her studies and how to avoid them. She spent four years cooped up in a dingy twenty-room sorority house with only her books and the varsity football team for recreation. Then came graduation week, with final exams! Bobbie studied until 8:30 one evening and fell asleep in nervous exhaustion. Then came the dream: Graduation morning! And late again! Massiful sakes!
Hurry up the hose, honey! Graduation exercises have begun and TIME'S A-WASTIN'! What a morning to sleep overtime. Aren't you forgetting something? The coat goes over the gown! Bobbie has no time for such unimportant details.

FROTHY FABLES NO. 2

Off comes the overcoat. Bobbie. BOBBIE! Remember what we were telling you about the graduation gown? W-e-e-l-l?

No, no! You ain't gonna make a speech too? We're speechless! Wait 'til the Dean gets a gander at this get-up.

Now you understand. Too late, honey, the damage is done. What a scandal for Smallsley Seminary. Oh, the shame!
"Good morning, dear Dean Kildersneeze, so happy I could make it!" Yes, Deanie, this will be a thrilling day!

"Goodness," babbles Bobbie, "isn't it getting warm here.

Get set for the payoff, gentle reader. Watch the coat.

CO-ED'S NIGHTMARE

She wakes up screaming: "What have I done! How can I ever explain this to my family and my varsity football team!" Relax, kid, relax. Look where you really are . . .

See? It was only a dream. Relieved, ain't ya, Bobbie? Back in your own little bed, and all's well with the world. We're just a little sorry you woke up so soon.

Chorus FACTORY

So you think it's easy to be a chorus girl. Ha, ha, you say, nothin' to it—just stand in line and kick. Sure, but you gotta know how to stand, and then kick a lot higher than you ever kicked before. Take these shots of the gals at the Mil-ray school. They spent hours learning balance, posture, and precision, so that they won't tumble the whole works over the footlights some night. They work hard to crack a tough racket, and they know that the big time is a long stretch from the first nite club spot they land.

In limb lingo, this is the salad march; you know, the chorus swingin' into action.

If a girl looks young, she is old, if she looks old, she is young. If she looks back, follow her.

ANSWERS ON PAGE 49
That is all. And when you know what place you want to reach in life! Bestow也可 that can take you right to the high intelligence, the earnestness, and the jumping HERE AND THERE. Yet you also know that you have WITHIN YOU right NOW you are merely
THAN A FEW MINUTES surely cannot be depended upon to get you anywhere
THAT WHY it is true. A BRAIN THAT BALKS know that this is TRUE. And you know
HANG ON to the jobs that are smallest-
EASIEST thing first, puts it down when salaried, longest-houred, least interest¬ steadily, positively, and di-jumping, and poorest-futured!
YOU know this man as well as you know YOURSELF. His mind nibbles at EVERYTHING and masters NOTh-
In the evening he tunes in the radio—gets tired of it—then glances through a MAGAZINE—can't get interested. Finally, unable to CONCENtrate on anything, he either goes to the MOVIES or FALLS ASLEEP in his chair.
At the office he always takes up the EASIEST thing first, puts it down when it gets HARD, and starts something else. JUMPS from ONE THING TO ANother all the time!
There are thousands of these PEOPLE
WITH GRASSHOPPER MINDS. In fact they are the very people who do the world's MOST TIRESOME TASKS—and get but a PITTANCE for their work.
They do the world's CLERICAL
WORK, and routine drudgery. Day after day, week after week, month after month, year after year—ENDLESSLY—they HANG ON to the jobs that are smallest-salaried, longest-monthed, least interesting, and poorest-futured!
If you have a "grasshopper mind" you know that this is TRUE. And you know
WHY it is true. A BRAIN THAT BALKS at sticking to ONE THING FOR MORE
THAN A FEW MINUTES surely cannot be depended upon to get you anywhere in your YEARS of life!
The TRAGEDY of it all is this: you know that RIGHT NOW you are merely jumping HERE AND THERE. Yet you also know that you have WITHIN YOU the intelligence, the earnestness, and the ability that can take you right to the high place you want to reach in life!
What is WRONG? WHAT'S holding you back?
Just one fact—one SCIENTIFIC fact.
That is all. And when you know what it IS, then you can easily learn how to apply it; make it help to carry you
STEADILY, POSITIVELY, AND DI-
RECTLY to prosperity and independence.
The fact is one which has been PROVED and stated by the world's foremost scientists and psychologists. You are only a fraction as successful as you COULD be! WHY? BECAUSE, as Science says, you are using only a fraction of your real BRAINPOWER!
A fraction of his brain is all the AVER-AGE person uses. He is paid for a fraction of what he really possesses because that is all he actually USES. The remainder lies dormant. The longer it is unused, the harder it becomes to use it. For the mind is like a muscle. It grows in power through exercise and use. It weakens and deteriorates with idleness.
What can you DO about it? That is the question you are asking yourself. The answer is—PELMANISM!
PELMANISM will teach you the secret of self-confidence, of a strong will, of a powerful memory, of unflagging concentration. It tells you how to acquire directive powers, how to train your imagination (the greatest force in the world), how to make quick, accurate decisions, how to reason logically—in short, how to make your brain an instrument of all-around POWER. It tells you how to banish the negative qualities like forgetfulness, brain fog, inertia, indecision, self-consciousness, lack of ideas, mind wandering, lack of system, procrastination, timidity.
Men like author Edgar Wallace, Sir Harry Lauder, Prince Charles of Sweden, Jerome
K. Jerome, the famous novelist, Major General Sir Frederic Maurice, Admiral Lord
Beresford; Frank P. Walsh, Chairman of the National War Labor Board, and hundreds of others equally famous, have praised this simple method of increasing your brain power. OVER 750,000 OTHERS PRAISE IT.

My favorite blonde, huh? I'll take chocolate, mutters Hope.

It's a frame up. Say, pick on some one your own size.

Block that kick, yells Hope as the cops take them away.

Green Eyes: It must be nice to own a chain of stores.
Blue Eyes: Yes, you can spend all of your time on the links.
"There I sat with four aces in my hand."
"How come you didn't win the pot?"
"Two more aces fell out of my sleeve."

"Is it true that a beautiful woman caused a separation in your family?"
"Yes, she separated a hundred dollars from my wallet."

Cop—I just put your husband in jail for speeding. He was going around curves on two wheels.

Wife—Is that all he was doing? I'm surprised that he wasn't going around some curvy with his two hands.

"My health is a military secret."
"Heavens, are you under the weather?"

"I have sixteen girl friends."
"Hoarder!"

"Marriage is good for single men."
"Yeah, but how about married men?"

"My Dad took me to the Zoo when I was a kid."
"How did you escape?"

When a girl gets a boy in hot water, she parboils him.

"I was up before Judge Riley yesterday."
"Goodness. What for?"
"Oh, I like to get up early."

Give a lady driver enough rope and she'll tie up traffic.

A little peroxide makes a blonde—but a quart of gin is more efficacious.

First Wife—I'm certainly proud of my husband's success. He started of my husband's success. He started Second Wife—What has he got now?

First Wife—Me!

Girl (on hotel telephone)—There's a man been trying to get in my room for the last hour.

House Detective—I'll be right up. Shall I bring my gun?

Girl—No, bring a key. I lost mine, and can't let him in!

"You say your husband is doing his part to help the rubber shortage?"
"Yes, he's stopped writing rubber checks."

SMASHING CHICAGO'S SEX DECOY RACKET

The man had plenty of money, and was in town for a good time. It was no wonder that the lovely blonde—who looked like a Hollywood actress or a glamorous debutante—was a welcome sight to his eyes. Just what he wanted!

And he was just what she wanted. For she was no actress, no society girl. Not at all. She was an alluring decoy for a pair of slick crooks, and she played her victim with skill.

How could Chicago police break this vicious racket? How could they bag the criminals and their victims? The police knew that the lovely blonde—who looked like a Hollywood actress or a glamorous debutante—was a welcome sight to his eyes. Just what he wanted!
WHAT do people say when they see you on the beach? Then you show what you REALLY are—a HE-MAN or a weakling! Do girls’ eyes give you the silent “ha-ha”? Or can you FEEL their admiring glances?

And don’t think clothes can cover a flat chest, skinny arms, pipestem legs, EITHER! People KNOW when a man’s got a puny build like Caspar Milquetoast—or when his personality glows with smashing strength, rippling muscles, tireless energy! A fellow like that is BOUND to be the life of the party! Do YOU want to be that kind of a man? Then listen to THIS—

In Just 15 Minutes a Day I’ll Prove I Can Make YOU a New Man Too!—Charles Atlas

That’s what I said—15 minutes a day! That’s all I need to PROVE—regardless of how old or young you are, or how ashamed you may be of your present physique—that I can give you a body men envy and women admire. Biceps that can dish it out, and a muscle-ridged stomach that can take it. A full, deep barrel-chest. Legs that never tire. A tough, sinewy back. An all-around physique that can laugh at ANY kind of rough going.

We’re ALL in the Army today! The heavy war-time demands on strength and endurance are no longer limited to front-line trenches. It’s only a matter of time until EVERY citizen is called to shoulder his full share of the load. ALREADY the Army has enlisted men from 18 to 64. And whether you do your part in Uncle Sam’s Services or as a home-front civilian, you’ve GOT to be in 100% SHAPE. Every man, young or old, owes it to himself to get a body with the bulldog staying power that double shifts of working call for. HOW DO YOU STACK UP?

Would You Believe I Was Once a 97-lb. Weakling?

Yes, I was—a miserable 97-pound bag of skin and bones! But you’d never believe it to look at me now, would you? Through my discovery of “Dynamic Tension” I changed myself into “The World’s Most Perfectly Developed Man.” I’m LIVING PROOF of the miracles “Dynamic Tension” can perform—right in the privacy of your own home!

NOW—will you give my method 15 minutes a day to get the kind of HE-MAN build you have always longed to have?

Here’s PROOF Right Here!

“Results come so fast through your method that it seems just as if some magician put on the pounds of solid muscle just where you want them!” —W. L., Missouri

“Feel like a million dollars; now have a 41” chest.” —L. A. S., Illinois

“My muscles are bulging out and I feel like a new man. My chest measures 38 in.” —G. N., Ohio “114 in. gain on biceps and 1 in. MORE on chest.” —J. F., Penna.

CHARLES ATLAS, DEPT. 205V, 115 East 23rd Street, New York, N. Y.

I want the proof that your system of “Dynamic Tension” will help make a New Man of me—give me a healthy, husky body and big muscular development. Send me your free book “Everlasting Health and Strength.”

FREE BOOK “Everlasting Health and Strength”

Just a postage stamp will bring you your copy of my famous book, “Everlasting Health and Strength,” absolutely free. No wonder nearly 2,000,000 men have sent for this big 48-page story of “Dynamic Tension”—illustrated with action photos of myself and some of my pupils. You’ll not only read about my secret of “Dynamic Tension”—but you SEE PROOF of it! CHARLES ATLAS, Dept. 205V, 115 E. 23rd St., New York, N. Y.
Here’s Whimsy—with a Whamsy!

Here is a book of books, guaranteed to make old men young, and young men melt; to soften the hearts of maidens whose imagination has hardened.

It is a guide to the perplexed, a handbook to urbanity, an invitation to life.

It makes Mrs. Marie Stopes' little book, read by comparison, like a first edition of Little Women; it makes the unexpurgated Satyricon of Lucius Petronius, arbiter of the unmentionable elegancies, seem like a pale version of "My Day". It is a wise, witty, rollicking, rumbullionous rapier, cutting boredom into little pieces—to be served with cherries, if not green Chartreuse.

Take off your dark glasses, mine hosts. Here is life for the living, and death to dull care. For The Bedroom Companion is more than a companion; and its subtle magic is not confined alone to cold nights. Diverting, subversive and riproaring, it will make even a marble Venus sing "Hosanna". It is a pulse-quicken¬ing, verve-making cornucopia of wisdom and pleasure—219 pages of je ne sais quoi pas, wonder-working and suave.

Because of the tempo of this learned tome, combining as it does the hidden secrets of the East and the streamlined efficiency of the West, we suggest that you handle it discreetly. Still, this is a free country, and, as the Shakers put it, "Women and Indians are citizens".

Act quickly, gentlemen. Rip off the coupon, mail it in now, and enjoy the sparkling, succulent, spanking pleasures of the higher learning.

What's Your Game, Sister?

It's three to get ready for the Earl Carroll girls in a game of hide and seek.

Undercover gal Judy Woodbury's never hard to spot. Hey, Jerry, you're leaving your flanks wide open.

Three fingers you're it. So Carrollasses Jerry Dean 'n' Joan Woodbury are going to hide from Jane Allison. Why, fancy meeting you here—looking for something?

Told you so—but it's nothing to worry about.
Here she comes, and anyone around her base is a lucky devil—or is that another game?

Daughter: Mother, do you think the men here in Hollywood are as trustworthy as those in New York?
Mother: Yes—keep away from them!

What's a pink elephant got, that I haven't got, asks Jane, as she gives the barflies a run for their money.

Shoot the fizzle to me, drizzle. We're taking ours straight, so you can say when if you've had enough.

Jerry's a little wet behind the ears, but just try to keep a good Carroll girl down. It can't be done.
Somebody tell the little lady how you tack the clips on behind. Tack-tfully, now, bub.

Oh look! It's an exercise! We thought you wanted to take up the slack in the slacks.

Wrong again. But the mirror's a good idea; Now you can see what is behind all this. Up and over, honey; there's really nothing to it at all. Brace yo'self now; ahhhhh!

Brace

Modern suspenders have novel twists in the hands of a clever collegian:

Who ever heard of using braces for garter belts, exercises or what have you? Well, what have you?

"Virtue may be its own reward, but to most girls it's an investment that doesn't draw much interest."
Here's a new one on us: Suspenders for garter belts. What will them dames think of next?

"What happened to that plump chorus girl?"
"She fell by the weight side."

Mixed up again, honey? You had better give up the idea of keeping up your slacks . . .

... and go back to exercises. From here it's much more becoming. Yes, indeed!
Oops, sorry. Hate to bother you, but time to get up.

No one has claimed that the life of a Carroll girl is easy, but it's beans compared to that of Beryl Wallace, who makes westerns all day for Republic (she's just completed Sunset on the Desert), and then hurries back to Earl Carroll's theatre-restaurant to give the customers a fleeting glimpse at the other side of her dual personality.

Time out to blink a peeper before the show starts. A gal who works day and night has got to drop anchor some time.
Quick change artist Beryl abandons her six-shooter for the famous Carroll portals and their new motto.

The prairie was never like this, muses Beryl, as she piles out of her working duds, and into the spangles.

Heave on the harness, sister. Did we hear something snap? Well, a stitch in time, we always say.

Moving in for closer inspection. Everything's OK, so gather up the other Carrollusters and on with the show.
What CAN the matter be?

Dames in distress bring out all the manhood, but what is this damsel bringing out? Guess it's the guesser in us. What's her act? Is she a spy? Maybe she's just trying to light her cigarettes in an off-shore breeze. What's a guess without a struggle! So if she doesn't break our necks watching her—we'll find out!
Why, she's hiding something—her face.

SHORT frail Albert Creak, commuter, stepped down onto the wooden depot platform of Maysville at exactly 5:57 P.M. Twenty-seven and a half minutes later, Creak was rounding the corner of Ash and Main streets, as was his nightly custom, jerkily tugging at the leash of Fatso the family bullterrier.

The thumping sound of a juke box murdering Rose O'Day wafted out of Al Goin's Bar and Grill entrance slapping Mr. Creak's gentle cheeks like a sudden blast of hot air. The accompanying tang of stale beer and sawdust caused his nostrils to twitch painfully. Yet, as though the winking neon beer sign held some strange hypnotic power, Mr. Creak found himself pulling up the dog's leash sharply and peering past the waist-high swinging doors.

Sensing an unfamiliar pause in the nightly routine, bullterrier Fatso picked up an interesting scent and immediately bolted beneath the swinging doors, dragging his protesting master halfway through the smoke-filled barroom.

"What'll you have bub?" a voice roared out from behind the bar. Creak found himself in a room crowded with what first appeared to be work horses dressed in overalls. A second hurried look convinced Creak that they were workmen from a nearby steel foundry.

"Whatever's handy!" Creak's voice wavered in panic. The bartender, he noticed, possessed a physique slightly smaller than a two-car garage.

Creak laid a dollar on the bar and gulped his drink as though it were a morning cup of orange juice.

Except for a slight rigor mortis of the back muscles and the sensation of an incendiary bomb burning within his stomach, Mr. Creak felt no reaction to the drink.

"I thought I'd catch up with you someday you retreaded run-down heel!" A rough cackling female voice bellowed suddenly, close to Creak.

Turning around sharply he winced violently at the sight of a large lantern-jawed female hiding beneath a red dress and two inches of lipstick. Without waiting for Creak to answer, the blonde grabbed him by the ankle, hoisted him up in the air and spanked him like a new-born child.

"'Nix Margy!" The bartender strolled out slowly from behind the bar and broke up the orgy, setting Creak on his feet once more. "No bopping boy-friends in my joint—unnerstan'?"

Al Goin poured a double pony of whisky and forced Creak to drink it down just to prove there were no hard feelings.

Commuter Creak's interior had reached the stage of a first-class forest fire.

"I'm afraid there's been a mistake—" he said, addressing the unhappy looking blonde now perching herself unsteadily on a nearby bar stool. "We've never met before—to my knowledge!"

"Oh yez?" the blonde snapped, her eyes glaring accusingly at Creak. "How about the time you ran out on me and the starving kids down in Scranton—and me waiting seven years for you to get out of the jug! Yah—how about that, you lop-eared weasel?"

Obviously his accuser was ripely in her cups. But a quick glance at the glowering faces turned in his direction, convinced Creak that he was among strangers and that the gallery was rooting for the blonde all the way down to the goal line. Creak thought fast.

"I've been thinking things over, Margy." Creak found himself saying, "I'd like to square matters with you—how about having a drink with me?"

The bartender hastily poured a drink for the hefty blonde in red. Margy continued to glare at Creak bitterly.

Reaching for his pocketbook, he extracted a twenty and handed it to the surprised blonde. It scored a home run with the gallery.

"Okay darling!" the blonde barked, deeply moved by the sight of government currency, "If you're going to act this way about it—why maybe I ain't so mad at yez as I thought I was!"

An additional five plunked down on the bar and Creak had the room salted safely.

"Everyone's going to have a drink to the squarest-shootin' female this side of the Klondike," Creak shouted, motioning to the bartender to fill them up all around, "And that's to Margy, so help me!"

Toasts to Margy were continued for an additional four rounds. The chemistry of mounting drinks caused Mr. Creak to boast inventively of past escapades with the big blonde.

"Tell them about that time we threw the hotel dick down the laundry chute!" Creak commanded lustily.

"And about the time we cleaned out that state troopers barracks just because they wouldn't lend us a tire iron!"

Creak braced himself against the bar for the accompanying female shriek of delight and the blonde's affectionate hand-whack squarely between his shoulder blades.

No help to Broadway’s “dim-out” is this glittering array of dancing damsels. Decked in silks and satins, the Let’s Face It! chorus is a dazzling sight to the balcony roof.

FILM FUN ON BROADWAY

RIGHT OFF BROADWAY on 45th street you'll find the Imperial Theatre. The giant posters outside are nicely weatherbeaten after 30-odd weeks of display, but the riotous musical comedy on the inside is brighter than ever. It's Vinton Freedley's current box-office smash Let's Face It! starring New York's favorite sophisticomic, Danny Kaye. Kaye spent ten years touring China, Japan, India and England in comparative obscurity; jumped to the headlines as the tongue-twisting zany in Lady In The Dark. Featured with Danny in this whacky soldier farce are Eve Arden, Red Skelton's nemesis in Whistling In The Dark, Benny Baker, Mary Jane Walsh, Edith Meiser and Vivian Vance, with pleasant support by Jack Williams, Nanette Fabray and bubbling Sunnie O'Day. The plot revolves around three jaded and dejected wives who decide to make their respective hubbies jealous by courting three army boys from a nearby camp. Kaye plays Private Walker, a very bewildered young man. The show is studded with songs like "Everything I Love," "I Hate You, Darling" and "Ace In The Hole", Cole Porter's latest contributions to the hit parade. What say. Let's Face It at 8:40!

Photo identification: 1: Singing star Mary Jane Walsh with her pet pooch, "Elsa Maxwell." 2: Stage Manager Harry Howell keeps the little ladies in dancing trim. 3: Billie Dee strikes while the iron is hot. 4: Sandra Barrett laces chorine Sally Bond. 5: Pat Likely, Jeanne Trybon and a bit of horse-play. 6: Singers Frances Williams, Helene Bliss, Lisa Rutherford. 7,8: "Alfalfa" Baker and amorous admirers.
Skillfully subtle in a brilliant style of his own, Danny Kaye was polished and poised on the long trek to Broadway from Brooklyn via Bombay and points West.

Hubbub at curtain time is a fotog's heaven.

Let's make up with Sandra Barrett. Just time for a Croton cooee.
Scene one; two to go.

Edith Meiser and the three little lambs: Kaye, Benny Baker and Jack Williams.

Jealous wife Eve Arden finds her buck private has mastered the Old Army Game.
"May I take you home? I like to take experienced girls home."
"But I'm not experienced."
"No, Baby, and you ain't home yet either."

Home is where everything gets shoved in the closet and then falls out again.

Putting two and two together doesn't mean you can make both ends meet.

There's something about a puzzle that you can't quite put your finger on.

What could be more fitting?

Cheer up, if that doesn't fit, there are still 300 more pieces that might.

See, things are looking up, and that's just the one you've been wanting.

It's shaping up fast now, in fact, quite a picture if we say so ourselves.

City Dames: What have you bought now—a silk nightie?

Farmer's Daughter: No city slicker is going to pull the wool over my eyes.
Now you're getting down to business. There's nothing like a lot of clothes to cramp one's style.

But what the heck, there's no percentage in it. Some one's sure to come and tear it all apart again.
I'LL ALWAYS REMEMBER

Of course I'll wait—it won't be long—
Perhaps a year or two;

To vanish with the dew.
I'll wait for you and write to you
To say I'm still the same.
I'll write real soon; where is your camp,
And, dear—what was your name?

The HEART THROBS Of THELMA

DEAR MA:

Well, Ma, your little girl Thelma is in Hollywood. When I won that contest to be Miss Anthracite from the coal fields I thought it was a dream come true. So far it's only been a nightmare and I wish I had insomnia. So far I'm 99 44/100 per cent pure, but another night like last night and I'll be only 44/100 per cent.

I got here yesterday morning. You remember I was supposed to have all expenses paid except incidentals. So far the incidentals have cost more than the trip and unless I crash the movies or land a good waitress job your little girl ain't going to be high class—just a hick lass. That's a pun, Ma. Everybody out here is full of puns or full of something else.

When the train came into the station there was a big crowd on the platform. When I saw all of them people I smiled and said, "I'm overcome." And some jerk says, "Well, if you're going to faint, do it over in the corner. Victor Varnish, the movie star, is coming in on the next train." And I says, "Is that what the crowd's here for?" And the jerk says, "Yeah, did you think they was for you?" And I says, "Yes, I'm Thelma Thumbnail." And he says, "So what? My name's Pete."

Well, Ma, this guy sees tears dripping through my mascara and he takes pity on me and says, "What's the matter?" And I tell him about winning a contest and nobody there to meet me. He says, "If nobody meets you, I will later. Where you going to stop?" I tell him the hotel I'm supposed to go to and he gives me his card and then he gets back in the crowd. I start to leave the depot trying to get somebody to recognize me. As I was going out a guy rushes up to me and says, "Are you—?" And before he could finish I says, "Yes." So he hands me a summons and beats it. The summons ain't for me at all but for some jane named Gloria Gasbomb.

So I take a taxi to the hotel and go to my room and just wait for something to happen which don't. I take another look at my contest award and I near bust a brassiere when I read that I come out to Hollywood a month too soon. I ain't supposed to be here at all yet. I'm having a good cry for myself when a knock comes to the door and it's Pete, the depot drip. He tells me he works for Miracle Pictures in the publicity department. He likes his job and says if it's a good picture it's a Miracle. He says he always likes to help girls in distress. Personally, Ma, I think girls must be more in distress after he helps them because this guy is such a wolf he walks on all fours. But he's kinda nice and says, "Come on, I'll show you the town. I have a station wagon downstairs." And I says, "What do we have to go in a police patrol for?" Pete laughs and says it ain't that kind of a station wagon.

We take a ride and he shows me a few studios. I didn't see no movie stars but I did see Gene Autry's horse and a dog that lives next door to Ronald Colman. Very thrilling. We end up at a cafe for dinner and Pete suggests we have a cocktail and he orders two Sledge Hammers which he says is a nice mild drink. If that's mild, then the corn we get back home should be (Continued on page 47)

"Why do you say you have never had an accident and yet you admit a bull tossed you over a fence last year?"
"The durn bull did it on purpose."

"Gentlemen of the jury, have you agreed upon a verdict?" the Judge demanded in the murder trial.
A tall mountaineer arose and drawled: "We don't think he done it, for we 'low he warn't there, but we think he'd done it ef he'd had the chanst."

"'I just saw old man Doolittle slip in that pretty girl's apartment. Do you suppose he's keeping her in it?"
"Certainly, he doesn't want any of the younger boys to get a look at her."

Wife—Buy me a sweater.
Hubby—I'm flat.
Wife—Well, I'm not!

"What's the quickest way to extinguish a fire?"
"Marry her."

"What'dya mean, she's a drug addict?"
"Usually under the influence of some dope."

Sailor—Hey! You call this stuff hash?
Waiter—Naw! We call it et cetera!

Sergeant Smoosick was taking voice lessons for the first time from the professor in town. "Just what kind of a voice would you call mine?" he asked the teacher.
"I wouldn't call it at all," said the teacher. "I'd just let it lay."

Costello: Hey, Abbott, I hope I don't have to go to England, 'cause I don't know the difference between shillings and pence.
Abbott—that's easy, you can walk on the street without shillings, but—

"Stop, or I'll blow your brains out!"

TOO OLD TO LEARN MUSIC?

Not by a long shot!

Look at the thousands of people between 30 and 50 who have enrolled with the U. S. School of Music!

If they could learn to play their favorite instrument quickly and easily, isn't it proof that you can, too!

- When it comes to learning music you can now forget your age. For here is a method that has made it easy as A, B, C for all ages . . . slashed the cost of learning . . . and done away with the need of a private teacher.

- If hundreds of children can learn to play musical instruments by this quick, easy modern method . . . if people of forty and fifty can learn the same way . . . certainly you can, too. Remember, many of the 700,000 pupils of our school didn't know one note from another. Yet they quickly learned to play . . . and had a lot of fun doing it.

You Learn Fast This Easy Way
For with this crystal clear, "Print and Picture" method, you learn to play real tunes by note right from the start. Soon, almost before you realize it, you are playing your favorite pieces. And you can study any instrument this easy, pleasant way for less than $1 a day, everything included.

If you really want to learn music . . . if you want to get more fun out of life . . . mail the coupon below asking for our Free Booklet and "Print and Picture" Sample. These will show you how you can learn quickly and easily, at home, in spare time. Instruments supplied when needed, cash or credit.

U. S. SCHOOL OF MUSIC, 57 Brunswick Bldg., N. Y. C.
I am interested in music study, particularly in the instrument checked below. Please send me your free illustrated booklet, "How to Learn Music at Home," your illustrated "Print and Picture" Sample. (Do you have instrument?)

A story is told that President Lincoln once wrote to General McClellan, when the general was in command of the army. General McClellan, conducting a “waiting” campaign, was very careful not to make any mistakes that he made little headway. The President is said to have written this note: “My Dear McClellan: If you don’t want to use the army, I should like to borrow it for awhile.”

Inquiring City Woman—And how much does your cow give a day?
Farm Lad— “Bout eight quarts, lady.
Woman—And how much of that do you sell?
Farm Lad— “Bout twelve quarts, lady.

“What’s the quickest way to extinguish a fire?”
“Marry her.”

“Whaddya mean, she’s a drug addict?”
“Usually under the influence of some dope.”

“Have you and Corporal Jimpson anything in common?”
“Yeah! We’re both mad at Sergeant Boyle!”

Aunt Jane was leaving for home in another state after a long visit with little Marie’s mother. “Well, goodbye, Marie!” said Aunt Jane.

“Goodbye, Aunt Jane!” said Marie. “I hope I’ll be a great big girl when you come to visit us again!”

Ticket Agent—This ticket costs you $100 and allows you a three-day hangover in Chicago.
Thrifty Miss—What will it cost if I don’t get drunk in Chicago?

“Why do you say you have never had an accident and yet you admit a bull tossed you over a fence last year?”
“The durn bull did it on purpose.”

“Gentlemen of the jury, have you agreed upon a verdict?” the Judge demanded in the murder trial.

back was still hunched expectantly when a large lumpy individual known as Muscles Mike strode into the room and spun Margy around on her stool.

"You dames is all alike!—which eye d'yez want blacked out this time?"

Creak drew himself up to his full five feet two inches and looked menacingly at Muscles Mike from behind a pair of shell-rimmed glasses.

"Sir! You happen to be speaking to a good friend of mine."

The blonde had found her tongue and was pleading desperately with Muscles Mike.

"Honest Mike! I never seen this sawed off jerk in my life—he ain't no boyfriend of mine!"

Muscles clipped his ladyfriend with a right cross to the jaw knocking her to the floor for the count of three.

"Dat twenty sawbuck note yez got"

Creak answered sternly, "The trouble in Fatso's mouth. Perhaps you could serve dem out as souveneers nowadays?"

Kicking her fiancé smartly in the middle of the stomach, she said reproachfully,

"You're jealous—Dat's what's the matter with you!"

Mr. Creak and Fatso eased out of Al'Go'in's Bar and Grill just as a mighty cheer arose from the gallery hanging around the bar.

Safely ensconced in the living room of his quiet peaceful home later that evening, Creak mused secretly over the wild turn of events since he took Fatso for his evening stroll.

Mrs. Creak entered the living-room, an object gripped tightly in each fist. One a blunt weapon looking strangely like a flatiron, the other, an ordinary beer soaked pretzel.

"You fiend!—I just found this pretzel in Fatso's mouth. Perhaps you could tell me how it got there?"

"Maybe you'd better ask Fatso!" Creak answered sternly, "The trouble with you woman—is that you're jealous!" ● good for infants. One swallow and I'm off to Capistrano.

While we're sitting there a man sitting across the room keeps staring at me. Pete says the mug is Game-lick Gastonpool, the big producer.

Well, a few minutes later Pete has to use the telephone or something and as soon as he goes Gastonpool comes to my table and says, "Didn't we meet on the Riviera four years ago?" And I says, "Maybe but I usually go to the Bijou when I'm home." He laughs and says the Riviera is in Europe and then he says, "You look photogenic." And I says, "Yeah, well you look kinda anemic yourself."

I guess I don't talk this Hollywood language yet, Ma. But anyway, Gastonpool says I ought to be in the movies, which can be took any way you want, Ma. Then he invites me out to a party he's having at his house. So when Pete comes back I tell him about it and Pete says let's go. So we drive out and you never did see such a jeropt. The house is so big that when it's daylight in the east wing it's still night in the west wing.

Anyway, later Gastonpool gets me on a bench and says where have I been all his life. And I tell him about the contest and nobody meeting me and stuff. He says, "A little bird like you needs a nest." And I says all right but I don't want an egg like him in it. He laughs and puts his arms around me. He must have been a football player on account of the forward passes he made. When he gets too fresh, I jump up and run into the house with Gastonpool after me. I knock over a few guests who was propped up against the wall and run upstairs. Before Gastonpool could get to the house, five other guys started chasing me, too. I got into a bedroom and locked the door. They pounded on the door and Gastonpool kept yelling, "Don't you want to be a star?" I took a pistol out of a drawer and says, "Yes—a shooting star," and start making swiss cheese out of the door panel. Then I open a window, slide down a drain pipe and hail a cab.

Well, Ma, I got back to the hotel and in a few minutes Pete called and wanted to know why I ran out. I told him I escaped out a window and he yawned and said, "Yeah, I guess it was kind of a dull party. I don't blame you for ducking out." Now I ask you, Ma, what kind of an answer can you give to that?

But don't worry about me. Will write more later.

love,

Thelma

FILM FUN’S nine o’clock mail

A FRANK PLATITUDE
Dear Sir:
Having read FILM FUN a long time, want to say it’s a good “Set Up”. Easy on the eyes, good reading, and not hard to understand. A lot of good luck and best wishes.
Yours,
Frank Platte
TAKE IT OFF DEPT.

Dear Sir:
Congratulations on your March edition of FILM FUN. I have been a reader of FILM FUN for three years, but liked your Burlesque issue best of all. I am a burlesque fan also, and enjoyed your picture stories of Hart, Corio, etc., because I have seen them, and know they have what it takes. But I would like to see more burlesque stars like Hinda Wassau (maybe she retired), Marion Miller, and before I forget, a favorite Detroiter, Ann Maxwell. Miss Maxwell is the possessor of the most beautiful figure I have ever laid eyes on. But she is held down by the local show. Miss Maxwell is a steady performer at the Avenue so she never gets top billing. She is forced to keep a lot more on than the featured performers because she outclasses them so much. If they ever let her go as far as the star, the boys will tear the place down. As it is, they just go “Ah” as she displays those long shapely legs. Please, if you happen to be in Detroit in the near future drop in at the Avenue and take a look for yourself. In the meantime try to run a few pictures of her so you can wake up the Avenue, they have a “Gypsy Rose Lee” and don’t know it. If this is a plug for her (I don’t know her personally) she deserves it, but it is a break for us local fans, she is here permanently even though they won’t let her take off her undies. Yes, right now I am one of the thousands of local burlesque fans who rate her in a class with the best of all time. Well I must close now, but I want to congratulate you again for your splendid work in publishing FILM FUN; here’s to a bigger and (can’t be much better) FILM FUN.

Sincerely yours,
371-09-5543

Gentlemen:
I wish you would continue the burlesque page in your future issues of FILM FUN. Have all different strip tease queens posing.

A Regular Reader
Gentlemen:

How about more hips and less black ink! In your Frothy Fables let’s have some old fashioned spankings on the rosy posterior. I know that shows, musicals and burlesque featuring the human form divine at the proper angles still pack them in. "Ecstasy" ran for years to packed houses so you see what the public wants. If you don’t want to cater to the public there is always Good Housekeeping.

Sincerely,
Dick Winthrop

Dear Sirs:

Glad to see more sex appeal in your magazine. High light in March issue in my opinion was photo of Normajeanne’s rear end. Would like to obtain copy of same. Where.

All the best,
Jack Kirvolta

HE WANTS THE BIRD

Dear Mr. Editor:

How about some more close-up shots of that girl with the beautiful figure; Eve Del Lantis doing her Ostrich dance? Don’t be so tight with them. It does a fellow good to see a beautiful girl these days.

Hopefully,
Charles Schmidt

PUDDLE DEPT.

Dear Sirs:

I want to add my request for some pictures of street dressed girls who fall in a mud puddle as requested by the Fall City Bachelors Club. Of course there could be many variations such as having them caught in a sudden rain storm or falling in a lake. We are getting tired of those posed bathing suit girls and would welcome this kind of pictures for a change.

Yours truly,
F.E.B.
"The 7 Keys to Power alleges to teach," the author says, "All the Mysteries of Life from the Cradle to the Grave—and Beyond. It tells you the particular day and hour to do anything you desire, whether it be in the light of the moon, sun, or in total darkness."

He claims, "The power to get what you want revealed at last, for the first time since the dawn of creation. The very same power which the ancient Chaldeans, Cuthic Priests, Egyptians, Babylonians, and Sumerians used is at our disposal today."

He says, "Follow the simple directions, and you can do anything you desire. No one can tell how these Master Forces are used without knowing about this book, but with it you can mold anyone to your will."

From this book, he says, "You can learn the arts of an old Science as practiced by the Ancient Priestly Orders. Their marvels were almost beyond belief. You, too, can learn to do all with the instructions written in this Book," Lewis de Claremont claims. "It would be a shame if these things could all be yours and you failed to grasp them."

He claims, "It is every man's birthright to have these things of life: MONEY! GOOD HEALTH! HAPPINESS! If you lack any of these, there exists a spiritual power which is abundantly able to bring you whatever things you need."

ARE YOU CROSS aN ANY WAY?
The Seven Keys to Power, Lewis de Claremont says, shows you how to remove and cast back

THE BOOK PURPORTS TO TELL YOU HOW TO—

Gain the love of the opposite sex.
Unite people for marriage.
Obtain property.
Make people do your bidding.
Make any person love you.
Make people bring back stolen goods.
Make anyone lucky in any games.
Cure any kind of sickness without medicine.
Get any job you want.
Cast a spell on anyone, no matter where they are.
Get people out of law suits, courts or prison.
Banish all misery.
Gain the mastery of all things.
Regain your youth and vigor.
Choose words according to ancient holy methods.

THE ONLY TRUE BOOK OF SUPREME MASTERSHIP!
This is the Power. He says, from which the old masters gained their knowledge and from which they sold limitless portions to certain favored Kings, Priests, and others at high prices, but never to be revealed under a vow, the violation of which entailed severe punishment.

THE VOW HAS NOW BEEN BROKEN
This book, he says, shows you the secrets of old which when properly applied makes you able to control the will of all without their knowing it. If you have a problem and you wish to solve, He says, don’t hesitate.

Advertisements cannot describe nor do this wonderful book justice. You must read it and digest its meaning to really appreciate its worth.

Here's Whimsy—with a Whamsy!

Here is a book of books, guaranteed to make old men young, and young men melt; to soften the hearts of maidens whose imagination has hardened.

It is a guide to the perplexed, a handbook to urbanity, an invitation to life.

It makes all contemporary Boccaccios read, by comparison, like the first edition of Little Women; it makes the unexpurgated Satyricon of Lucius Petronius, archet of the unmentionable elegancies, seem like a pale version of "Godey's Lady's Book."

It is wise, witty, rollicking, rumbullionous rapier, cutting boredom into little pieces—to be served with cherries, if not green Chartreuse.

Take off your dark glasses, mine hosts. Here is life for the living, and death to dull care. For The Bedroom Companion is more than a companion; and its subtle magic is not confined alone to cold nights. Diverting, subversive and riproaring, it will make even a marble Venus sing "Hosanna". It is a pulse-quenching, verve-making cornucopia of wisdom and pleasure—219 pages of je ne sais quoi, wonder-working and suave.

Because of the tempo of this learned tome, combining as it does the hidden secrets of the East and the streamlined efficiency of the West, we suggest that you handle it discreetly. Still, this is a free country, and, as the Shakers put it, "Women and Indians are citizens".
